Claudia Zeber-Martell began as a painter, and surface decoration is therefore a dominant element in her work, with images balanced between internal visualization and external stimuli. Her focus often combines forms, colors and dimensions found in nature, from the organic and geometric to the whimsical with a concentration on developing positive images that enrich the environment and create harmony.

Michael Martell's pottery has evolved over the past two decades from traditional salt-glazed and wood-fired stoneware to expressive graceful pieces with more contemporary form. "Form is so much a part of our everyday lives, and I've been fortunate to be able to explore it through clay; the slightest movement of the hands creates subtle changes in the shape of the pot. That is constantly amazing to me."

Collaboration can be an enriching process for this husband-wife team of artists, and by challenging each other, a balance is achieved, and the contribution of each person's particular skills has here resulted in a product that surpasses what each could achieve alone.

Douglas Becker — Bethel, MN:

Douglas Becker has over twenty years of glass-blowing experience. His designs focus on capturing the fluid movement of the molten glass and convey this into his finished pieces by creating softly distorted shapes and softening the surface of the pieces with etching and acid polishing.

With permanent exhibits on display at the Corning Museum in New York and the Bergstrom Mahler Museum in Wisconsin, Douglas Becker is indeed an accredited artist. He has also won numerous awards such as the Award of Excellence at the Boardwalk Arts Festival in Pensacola, Florida and First Place at the Old Capitol Art Fair in Springfield, Illinois.

The first full-time, female patrol officer for the City of Charlevoix, had her first day on the job last Monday, May 29.

Sarah Cooper, 22, was selected out of a pool of 84 applicants by a panel of city and law enforcement representatives, to fill the open patrol officer's position.

Cooper said while the community may have to adjust to her being a female officer, it won't thwart her mission to succeed.

"I think that's awesome (being the first full time, female patrol officer.) I'm sure there will be some adjustment to having a female officer. But nothing that will stop me from doing my job. I won't let it stop me," she said.

On April 26, Charlevoix city police chief Gerard Doan joined Mackinaw City police chief Patrick Wyman, Charlevoix fire chief Paul Ivan and Charlevoix city manager Mike Wiesner to interview nine candidates for the position.

"She was the top pick. She's very smart — graduated top of her class and she came highly recommended from other departments she was involved with," Doan said of Cooper.

Cooper, the daughter of Dinell and Phillip Cooper, grew up in Buckley and is a 2001 graduate of Buckley High School. In 2005, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Ferris State University.

She worked for the Bloomfield Police Department from September 2005 up until taking the job in Charlevoix. There, she said she responded to armed robberies, bank robberies and raids.

While her time in Charlevoix will likely mean fewer exciting criminal encounters, Cooper said she's ready for the change.

"I wanted to be closer to home.

I'm not a big city person and I've always liked Charlevoix," she said.

The move also brought her closer to her boyfriend and fellow police officer, Jeremy Metdepennigen, of the Traverse City Police Department.

Her ultimate goal is to be police chief of a small town and she hopes Charlevoix will provide the experience needed to reach it.

According to Doan, Cooper will fulfill the same duties as the department's other five patrolmen, which include answering complaints, policing accidents, investigating criminal and civil complaints, providing general assistance to citizens and making traffic stops.

Stupak announces page opportunity and academy application acceptance

By BENJAMIN GOHS
 Staff writer

Young men and women from the Charlevoix area can apply for the position of House page in Washington D.C. through the U.S. House of Representatives' Democratic Page Program.

According to U.S. Congressman, Bart Stupak (D-Menominee), one person will be selected to work for the House of Representatives while studying at the nation's capital.

"This is a truly exceptional opportunity for a young person interested in politics and government to see how Congress works," Stupak said. "Pages deliver messages to members of Congress, deliver packages, and answer telephones in the 'cloak room,' a room off the House floor where representatives go when they are not voting."

He added, "Pages in the program rotate duties so that all participants have a chance to experience different posts."

Stupak said a number of pages have gone on to a range of prominent careers. "Several House members were pages," Congressman Paul Kanjorski of Pennsylvania was a page. Senator Mark Pryor credits his page experience with inspiring him to get involved in politics," he said. "(And) locally, WTCM radio host Ron Jolly was a Senate page when he was young." Applicants must be in their junior year of high school, at least 16 years old, have a 3.0 grade point average or higher in core subjects and live in the First Congressional District.

Applications and information can be downloaded from www.house.gov/stupak.

Applications, which should be faxed to Stupak's office at (202) 225-4744 by June 14, should include three letters of recommendation from teachers, clergy, local officials, coaches or other officials.

"The House page program allows a young person interested in how Congress works to observe the House of Representatives up close. I am always impressed with the caliber of young people we have in northern Michigan," Stupak said. "Our applicants are judged largely on their academic credentials."

He added, "In particular, I look for a young person who is involved in their community, a hard worker and someone with strong personal character and integrity."

The lucky student selected will spend a semester in Washington D.C. and receive a stipend for their work.

Stupak is also accepting applications for a Congressional nomination to the U.S. Air Force Academy, the U.S. Naval Academy, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and the Merchant Marine Academy.

According to Stupak, academy applicants must be a legal resident of Michigan's 1st Congressional District, at least 17 years old and have not past his or her 23rd birthday by July 1 of the year of academic entry, unmarried with no dependents, a United States citizen of "high moral character" and be able to meet high leadership, academic, physical and medical standards.

Applications and supplemental paperwork must be completed by Oct. 31.

For more information, call (906) 875-3751 or visit the Web at www.house.gov/stupak/academies.shtml.

HUD allocates over $63,000 to the Charlevoix Housing Commission

Of the over $4 million being allocated by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to public housing agencies throughout Michigan's 1st Congressional District, over $63,000 will come to Charlevoix.

Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) announced the funding and said it comes as part of HUD's Capital Fund grants for fiscal year 2006.

"Public housing is vital for some of our most vulnerable citizens," Stupak said. "This funding will allow public housing agencies throughout northern Michigan to maintain and upgrade their facilities."

Dixie Anderson, executive director of the Schoolcraft County Housing Commission, underscored the importance of capital funds to public housing authorities.

"HUD's capital funds are used for everything from improving the aesthetics of the living environment, to making units energy efficient, to upgrading security in buildings," Anderson said. "The majority of our residents are either disabled or elderly and would suffer greatly without the existence of safe and high quality affordable housing."

The Charlevoix Housing Commission will be allocated $63,919.

Charlevoix High School Class of 2006

For the 118th time, the careers of Charlevoix High School seniors came to an end at a graduation ceremony that took place at 2 p.m. on June 4 in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium. Charlevoix in 2056: A space age perspective

ANNALIESE VOCI
Time capsule essay winner

My name is Anna Voci and I'm here to tell you what I think the year 2056 will be like. I hope you enjoy the show.

Here in Charlevoix, my friends and I usually just slip on a t-shirt and jeans. I think in 2056 we will have super suits. For example, you would go to the back of your closet and enter a password in a keypad. The super suits will have gadgets like rocket power roller skates and invisible pockets. All you would have to do is press one of the buttons and the suit will change color.

In 2006, we just grab a pencil and start writing. In 2056, we'll just find our glow-in-the-dark pen

Looking back at life in 2006 from the future

By SHELBY ROBINSON
Time capsule essay winner

I'm Shelby Robinson, the year is 2056, and I'm 59. As I think about it, Charlevoix sure has changed since I was a kid.

We had a place called Mt. McSaubia. I would go there with my friends in the winter. We used skis and went on the tow rope to get up the hill. Sometimes we had races down the hill, went over jumps and just goofed off. Now the hill isn't there. You use these gadgets. They fly at least 10 feet in the air. You can do upside down flips and curves. It's a huge commotion when the darn kids get out there. They scream and push. It's not very pretty at all.

Now let me tell you about education. When I was young we had school. In school you had to study hard in reading, writing, math assignments and more assignments.

But today you put on a helmet for five seconds. We had school for nine-and-a-half months. The helmet downloads everything you need to know for the next year. No school, no studying, just a five second helmet. Then play, play and more play.

Houses, oh boy, let me tell you more. Back in the day one family per house was on a cement foundation. Now there are floating houses. Floating, can you believe that?

Oh yeah and it's not just one family per house. It's one person per house. The houses look like castles. There are no stairs, just elevators and lifting machines.

or color-change pen. If you don't want to do the report that's due tomorrow, grab your report-doing pen. Tell the pen what to do, and it will have two or three paragraphs done before you can say, "lickity split." If your teacher gives you math homework, just grab your homework-doing pen, tell it what to do and sit back and relax.

In 2006, classrooms are boring. For six hours straight you just sit and read and write except for lunch and recess. I'll bet 50 years from now classrooms will have floating desks and armchairs. The desks will have selection buttons to pick snacks, and the desk will give the snack to you.

Houses in 2006 are bland. In 2056 houses will be floating, and they'll have enormous rooms for everyone. Each room will have one bathroom, one kitchen, a 100-square-inch television and enormous beds. When you go to bed you can either read or watch TV. When you want to read, you press a button and on your TV book lists will appear. You use your remote and scroll through them and pick the book you want to read. The book you picked will shoot out of a hole in the ceiling and land softly on your bed without a peep.

As you can see, Charlevoix in 2006 is OK, but life in 2056 will be radical. Looking into the future, 2056 will be a fabulous time. With their super suits, floating houses, writing materials and awesome classrooms, they'll have everything.

Editor's note: The following essays about what life will be like in Charlevoix in 2056 are written by fourth-grade students from St. Mary's School and Charlevoix Elementary School. Each essay will be included in a time capsule to be buried June 13 at the site of the new Charlevoix Public Library.

Summer reading clubs and fun activities at the library

Tuesdays from June 20 through July 25 at the Charlevoix Public Library will sizzle with fun.

Registration for the library's Summer Reading and Read-to-Me clubs runs from June 1 through July 18. Brochures about these programs are available at the library, located at 109 Clinton St. in downtown Charlevoix.

The early teen club for ages 11-14 meets from 3 to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays. Club activities include performances and events. Early teen club members pick up reading logs at the library and record the time they read in 30 minute blocks. Once a week they bring their log to the library and get it stamped. They will receive an entry for the end of summer grand prize for every hour read, event attended or volunteer time. Teens are encouraged to volunteer to help with children's events.

Elementary students ages 6-10 have their own club. They record each book read in their log and bring them to the library weekly to be stamped and receive a small prize. Meeting dates for performers and events are from 7 to 7:45 p.m. Tuesdays.

Even the smallest pre-readers can be part of the action by being registered in the Read-to-Me Club. Parents or older siblings may read to these youngsters, ages birth to 5, and record the books read in reading logs.

Books read count for both the listener and the reader. Little listeners can be brought to the library weekly to have their reading log stamped and attend a special story time at 10:10 a.m. on Thursdays. They may also join the family at the evening events scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays.

For more information about these clubs, contact library youth services coordinator, Chris Hauke at (231) 547-2651.

Gadgets galore and floating houses characterize life in 2056

Things like chairs lift you up to your room or anywhere else. The machines automatically know where you want to go. A couple of things I really like. You get a spa room as big as a normal house in 2056, and you get servants, servants and more servants.

In 2006, you had to pick up phones, dial certain numbers, and talk into them. Not everyone had a phone. You couldn't see the person. But now you have huttons with people's names on them. You just press one, and the person appears holographically, no phone. It's like the person is there with you. You can play with them and do whatever you want.

As you can see my life has changed a lot in 50 years.

2056 will bring wealth, flying cars and high tech classrooms

By EMILY CHAPDELAINE

Emily Chapdelaine

In 2056 in Charlevoix almost everyone will be rich.

People's houses will have two stories or more. The bedrooms will be upstairs in the houses. Downstairs, there will be the kitchen, dining room, living room and a laundry room or something different.

The cars will be flying around in the air. They will have a keypad, and you can type in where you want to go, and then you will get there in about five minutes or less.

At the schools, there will be automatic white boards. You will just type in the problem, and it will appear on the board. When you want to write something you just go to the board and write it. The desks will have three parts — one for books, one for pencils and markers, and another for extra things and when you hit a button, it will go down. The store will have a machine where you type in what you want, and it will come to you on a rack, if it's in stock. At the grocery store, there will be a machine that adds up the total for you when you put it in the cart.

When you go to a restaurant and you are really hungry, you will type in your order on a screen, and it will come to you in about five minutes. The poor people will all have jobs unless they don't want them. They will live in a nice place like Boulder Park and will each have a nice little place to live.

I think my job will be a librarian or a cashier. My friends and I will start a club, and we will go around trying to save animals that are endangered. We will travel all around the world. It will be fun. When we come back to Charlevoix we will tell our story of how we tried to save some endangered animals.

That's what I think Charlevoix will be like in 2056.

Rayder softball team misses qualification for district play

By KENT LUDWIG
Sports writer

The Charlevoix varsity girls' softball team ended their season on a bittersweet note as they claimed their final two regular season games only to fall short in their pre-district game.

Charlevoix swept Bellaire in their last home game of the season on Tuesday, May 26, winning the first game 9-8 and the second 17-2.

Couch Tony Zimmerman said he was pleased to see his team continue to develop their fielding skills while capitalizing on Bellaire's defensive miscues.

"We played well defensively and that gave us the opportunity to score some key hits," he said.

In the final at bat of first game, lady Rayder Sally Haselschwardt hit a game winning single to bring Leah Kelly in for the score.

Amber Hoffman led the Rayders from the mound with four strikeouts and one walk.

Leading Charlevoix at the plate were Genevieve Kochanny (2-4), Kelly (3-4) and Desi Faust (2-3).

In that evening's nightcap, Faust was able to pitch four strikeouts and no walks before the game was called in the fourth in compliance with the league's mercy rule.

The lady Rayders ended their season in East Jordan in a pre-district contest after losing 12-0 against Kalkaska.

Despite committing only three errors the Rayders were unable to overcome Kalkaska's aggressive offense.

Due to an uneven number of teams in the conference, the loss resulted in the Rayders elimination from district play.

"We played well defensively, but we came out very flat and our pitchers had trouble locating pitches and that resulted in the end of our season," Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman said he remains proud of his team's effort, growth, and enthusiasm throughout the season.

"We started the season with a young squad, they gave me all that they had and in the end, we learned a lot from each other," he said.

Zimmerman added, "All in all it was a very good year and the girls should be proud."

The Charlevoix girls tallied a 12-12 overall record and an 8-6 record in the Lake Michigan Conference.

Lady Rayder soccer team falls to Rams at districts

The Rams put the Rayders season to a sudden end at Ottawa Stadium on Friday night, June 2 claiming the district title with a 2-1 victory.

In a classic battle between two arch rivals with two totally different styles of play, Harbor Springs, playing on strong emotion, beat Charlevoix to the ball throughout the match and physically defended Charlevoix's key players to prevent the Rayders from getting any rhythm in their passing oriented game.

Charlevoix opened up the scoring in the first half when junior, Lori Zimmerman, headed the ball past the Harbor keeper on a chip pass from sophomore Becca Madison. Harbor tied the score a few minutes later on a similar goal, a header over Charlevoix keeper, Laura Nitchman, in a confused situation in the box. The goal turned up Harbor's intensity as the Rams drew Charlevoix into their air oriented, long ball game. The Rams center back and midfielders continued to win every 50/50 ball sent up the middle by the Charlevoix backs.

A few minutes into the second half, Harbor scored again on a breakaway goal caused by a defensive mistake at midfield. Nitchman was forced to come out of goal and came up empty on a good physical effort by the Rams attacker. Charlevoix kept up the pressure for the next 25 minutes and had several good opportunities to score but couldn't find the back of the net on 18 shots.

The Rayders played the last 10 minutes without their two leading scorers, senior, Madison Ramsey and Becca Madison who were taken out by injury.

"To say this is a disappointing loss is an understatement but Harbor earned the win with their unrelenting physical play. It's more important to recognize the achievements of the four seniors we will be losing, Laura Nitchman, the best keeper in Charlevoix soccer history; Stevie Murray, a four year starter and defensive anchor; Lisa Kuebler, Murray's steady left defensive back; and Madison Ramsey, a tough minded player who will end her career in the top five scoring," coach Carol Madison said. "They will be missed for their personalities and attitude as well as their skills on the field."

The Rayder 7-0 shutout over Boyne City June 1 was little consolation for the district loss.

At that game, senior forward Madison Ramsey led the way with two goals. Her younger sister Ariel put one in the net. Charlevoix's other scores came from Kaleigh Blanchard, Becca Madison, KC McCary and Meredith Rich. Zimmerman provided two assists on the night. Rich and freshman Katie Withrow also sent in assists.

Charlevoix ends the year 15-3-1 and 12-0 as Lake Michigan Conference champs.

Ardeth Wieland retirement event to take place June 12

has announced her retirement.

A reception with cake and refreshments will immediately follow Wieland's last board meeting on June 12 in the Charlevoix High School Commons Area. The estimated time of the event is 7:45 p.m.

"The education that our children receive determines not only their future, but the future of everyone else in our community and our country."

Wieland said she will miss working with the dedicated people over the years. "There was a close working relationship that made us a school family," she said. "The fact that is that there was a close working relationship among the teachers, support staff and administration. That's what has made our school system a leader."

City wins $230,000 suit with insurer

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

The City of Charlevoix tallied a major financial victory on June 2 in Charlevoix County Circuit Court reclaiming over $230,000 it lost in a check writing mishap with a contractor.

That day, circuit court judge, Richard Pajtas, ruled in the city's favor, requiring its insurance carrier, Michigan Municipal League Liability and Property Pool, to cover not only the $222,978.36 cost of the check mix-up, but also $8,566.94 in interest that money would have earned had it sat in the city's coffers. Pajtas also awarded the city $4,616.80 for attorney fees incurred while defending a related lawsuit filed by United Fire and Casualty.

"It was a complete victory for the city," said city attorney, Jim Young. "After oral arguments, judge Pajtas found that although it was a close case, the facts should really be characterized as an error which is covered by the insurance. Not payment for a breach of contract, which is not covered by insurance."

The legal battle started in October 2005, when the city served Michigan Municipal League Liability and Property Pool, with a lawsuit.

The suit claims the city's insurer should have compensated it for losses and defended it in a lawsuit filed by United Fire and Casualty.

The lawsuit the city feels should have been covered, stemmed from a check that was written on April 2, 2004 to CCMS and Associates, a contractor out of Sault Ste. Marie hired by the city in 2001 to work on roads and sidewalks.

However, the check was supposed to be written to CCMS insurer, United Fire and Casualty. United was then to pay subcontractors hired by CCMS for those projects.

"The insurance company said when the city issued the check that check stemmed from a contract for improvements and insurance isn't intended to cover a breach of contract," Young explained. "The city's position was it was an honest mistake in issuance of the check made payable to CCMS only."

Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandi claims he was not aware United Fire was supposed to be paid instead of CCMS. United Fire claims they sent a letter to Brandi with check writing instructions, but Brandi says he never received it.

Brandi's stamped signature as well as that of deputy city clerk Stephanie Brown, appeared on the check. At that time, Brown was sitting in for former clerk Liz Gooch, who had resigned.

When Brandi realized the check was issued in error, he called the city's bank and tried to stop payment but it was too late. CCMS owner William Montgomery had cashed the check.

"CCMS never turned over any portion of that money to the bond company (United Fire and Casualty)," Young said.

This mistake resulted in United Fire and Casualty suing the city in June

Seelye resigns following e-mail use suspension

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

One of three Charlevoix Public School staff members suspended without pay two weeks ago over frivolous use of e-mail at the middle school has resigned effective June 30.

"Please accept this letter as my resignation of employment with the Charlevoix Public Schools effective June 30, 2006," states fifth-grade teacher, Stephen Seelye in his resignation letter. "I am resigning for personal reasons and to pursue other employment."

He further states, "I have greatly appreciated the opportunity to teach in this district and to serve the community and students of the Charlevoix school system. I will miss all of the many people that I have had the privilege of working with over the past seven years."

Seelye, eighth-grade teacher, Jane Garver and secretary, Kim Drost were suspended from May 30 through June 6, and it was suggested they undergo counseling after they violated the district's acceptable use policy by excessively and frivolously using their Internet privileges during class time. During the June 12 Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education meeting, several concerned parents spoke on the situation.

"I am here because I am unhappy with the way my daughter's teacher, Mr. Steve Seelye, was removed from her life without communication to me as a parent or her as a student in his class," said Nichole Zawisza. "My daughter went a week not knowing why her teacher would not be returning."

According to Zawisza, by the Friday June 2, rumors reached both her and her daughter.

"And hoy did we get a whopper of a story," she said. "If all he (Seelye) truly did was spend too much time on the Internet, as (middle school principal Keith Haske) told me, then why was him (Seelye) saying good-bye to his class not allowed?"

She added, "I am now left with a child who is emotional and unhappy about everything. The parents of Mr. Seelye's class are left to mop up the tears."

Zawisza said her child received all the help she needed in class and is sad so many don't know Seelye as a teacher and want to destroy him.

She asked the board to consider a

One injured in two car crash June 10 in Hayes Township

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office investigated a one-vehicle crash which occurred at 8:43 a.m. on Saturday, June 10 in Hayes Township.

Anne Kantola, 44, of Charlevoix was driving westbound on C-56 near Susan Lake in a 1994 Chrysler when she crossed the centerline on a curve in front of Elizabeth Egler, a 49-year-old Charlevoix resident, traveling eastbound in a 1994 Geo Metro.

Egler avoided the oncoming Kantola vehicle but then crashed into an embankment on the opposite side of the road. Egler was transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital by the Charlevoix City Ambulance where she was treated for a back injury.

Kantola told the investigating deputy she had glanced down while looking for an object in her vehicle and was into the other lane before she realized it.

The sheriff's office was assisted with traffic control by a trooper from the Michigan State Police Petoskey Post.

Parents chastise board for information handling regarding e-mail suspensions SEELYE policy to alert parents if teachers are to be suspended or otherwise removed from school and why.

Tom Barnes, father of two girls heading into fifth and eighth grades, voiced concerns over the lack of information given him by the board of education.

"It seemed as if it was very difficult to get any accurate information," he said. "It makes it very difficult on a parent to make a decision on how concerned you should or shouldn't be."

Barnes asked if a statement made by superintendent of schools, Dr. John Sturock, that use of the computers was not distasteful would stand. And admitting uncertainty about what he'd heard, Barnes asked if more severe punishment was avoided because the board was fearful of possible litigation.

"This is one of those issues that you darn well better have enough money in the budget so that, if you need to, you can carry things through and have an employee terminated that does do something inappropriate," he said. "In the end, if you don't follow through on an issue where people are breaking the rules and acting inappropriately, then it harms our integrity and our reputation."

His last night as school board president, Dennis Halverson commented on the e-mail related suspensions and $10,000 in damage at the high school.

"We've had more things go on in a week or 10 days than maybe we would see in a period of years," he said. "I think this board wrestled on numerous occasions over these two situations to do the best we could with the information we had. To be honest, I think we could have handled a few things different in both scenarios. We stumbled a little bit on both of those, but through no fault or ours."

He added, "This is an opportunity for us to come out of two not so good situations and be better for that."

Jarema seeks venue to prosecute CCMS case CCMS

2004. In December 2004 the city agreed to end the suit by paying United Fire the over $220,000 it already paid CCMS.

Bob DeLong, an attorney with Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, PLC, out of Grand Rapids, represented the city in its claim against the Michigan Municipal League.

Judge Pajtas' decision may be appealed.

Tom Daniels of Pear, Sperling, Eggen and Daniels PC of Ypsilanti, who represented the Michigan Municipal League Liability and Property Pool in this case, said no decision has been made as to whether his client will appeal.

"It may happen and it certainly may not happen," he said.

The incident may also lead to criminal charges against Montgomery.

Because the check was cashed in St. Ignace detective sergeant Robin Sexton with the Michigan State Police post there has investigated the matter.

Sexton issued a request for charges with Mackinaw County Prosecuting Attorney Clayton Graham.

According to Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney John Jarema, Graham opted not to take the case.

Jarema said he requested an opinion from the state attorney general's office as to whether he could try the case in Charlevoix. "The initial response was, 'Probably not.'"

He is now seeking approval from Graham to act as a prosecutor in Mackinaw County to allow him to travel and try the case there.

Writer attends 10-year high school reunion

Julie Witthoef
'Just a thought'

"Ten years is significant," Tina Borlaza, a classmate of mine said at our 10-year high school reunion on June 10.

The last time I had seen Borlaza and the majority of my graduating class from Ann Arbor Greenhills was a sunny day in June 1996 when we slapped on forest green polyester gowns and matching caps at graduation.

As vice-president of the senior class I spoke to my classmates that day from the podium about our past and our future. We were handed diplomas and the Dr. Seuss classic, "Oh the places you'll go." And we went in 55 different directions.

As I planned the trip back to my old stomping grounds, plans to reunite with classmates were met with mixed reactions from those I talked to.

Many said, "The day I left high school was the last day I would ever step foot in that place."

Well, I didn't leave with any bad blood and my journalistic curiosity had me wondering what this blast from the past would be like.

At the afternoon picnic, I walked into the school through a corridor stretching between two gymnasiums hand-in-hand with my 3-year-old daughter. I soaked in the same school smell that had always been there. It wasn't dirty socks and sweaty teens, it was Greenhills.

As we peered at shiny trophies I was reminded of the district win our softball team secured my senior year when I stood guard at second base. Just above it hung a poster size black and white picture of the team.

"You guys look pretty tough," Eric Gajar, the athletic director from my era and current associate director of admission, said.

We had hiked under our eyes and wore shorts and tall socks, leaving just enough room for mean raspberries on our legs when we would slide.

Toward the end of the tour we came to the senior art court where shapes covered in green and blue carpeting dotted the landscape. As seniors we would lounge, talk and study there. I felt all 10 years flash by as I watched my daughter tumble around on the shapes within a few feet of my old locker.

That night, I left the lot with grandma and attended a two-hour reception where I hoped to see a few more familiar faces.

There were about 10 alumni from our class, mostly girls. While what was most familiar to the group were those long lost high school days, discussion was all about where we are now.

I found I was the only one from my class attending who had a child. Some were married but thoughts of children were put on the back burner while women and men pursued their graduate degrees.

This is a trend I've seen with college and now, high school friends. Many women are waiting until around 30 to get married and 32 to have children.

The place was packed with doctors, professors, lawyers, students and even a fellow journalist. Most had enough information on those who didn't attend, including run-ins with the law and other juicy details, to satisfy my inquisitive mind.

After two hours of talk, the group retired to Dominic's, an Ann Arbor seasonal hot spot where I spent plenty of time sipping sangria while attending the University of Michigan. I opted instead to retire to my hotel room to share the gossip with my mom and snuggle up with my toddler over a bag of pretzels and our zillionth viewing of Toy Story 2.

As I laid in bed watching Buzz Lightyear rescue Woody, I thought about what Borlaza had said. In 10 years, my classmates and I have attended college, gone on to pursue professional careers and bought our first homes. Some have lost a parent, some have married and some have had children. These are life-defining milestones — but that district win, my senior prom and accepting my high school diploma are the moments that ushered in the big 10 and were worth revisiting.

Naming successful angler requires more statistics

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

By the time you read these words the 22nd Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament will have ended and we will all know who the best fishermen or fisherwomen are. They are the ones pictured with the largest fish or the most fish. It seems the only fair way, but there are potential problems associated with that particular determination of "best fisher" — it's not very scientific.

I come to this problem with some credentials. A career as a scientist, some experience as an angler myself, and a set of in-laws from several generations help me speak to the problem of determining the best fisher.

My wife's grandfather was Sam Halverson, who was born and fished in Norway before turning his attention to the Great Lakes, where he fished, built boats, and captained for the rest of his life. One of Sam's sons, Martin, was widely known as "Fish" Halverson in honor of his prowess on the water. The family oral archives abound with tales of Sam or Martin. One reports that Martin "Fish" Halverson would often be fishing on one side of a small boat with a hand line, pulling in fish after fish, while his less fortunate companion on the other side wouldn't catch anything. I'm sure all such stories are true. What they must mean is that Martin was a really good fisherman by the usual standards of catching more or larger fish than others caught. Or does it?

What we really need if we are to identify best fishers is a more scientific and statistical measure of success. I would suggest Fish Per Hour. Both Martin and Sam fished more hours than most, which could possibly explain why they caught so many fish. For sport fishing we might modify the standard to Legal Fish Per Hour. Even more comprehensive would be Legal Fish Per Hour Invested, which would include all the various periods spent on the water without any visible catch, and all the time spent fishing and learning the water, even back to youthful years. Two fishers, one who had fished for 1,000 hours and caught 500 fish, and one who had fished for two hours and caught one fish would have the same Legal Fish Per Hour Invested score.

My suspicion is that measured as Legal Fish Per Hour Invested, everyone would have nearly the same score. Differences in Legal Fish Per Hour Invested would likely be minute or even insignificant. What this leaves is what we might call luck, which I suspect has something to do with who catches fish. All I need now is a grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to measure success in a completely scientific way. We could separate luck from fishing skill and be able to confidently name a best fisher. I would certainly be willing to act as a subject for such research, putting in as many hours as possible, and carefully recalling all the hours previously spent learning. And I suspect that many others would be equally willing, provided that the grant covered all incidental costs like gasoline, tackle and bait.

We could crown a Trout Tournament champion as the person with the highest Legal Fish Per Hour Invested, and maybe even have a State of Michigan Legal Fish Per Hour Invested champion. What fishing needs as a sport is more statistics. It certainly enhances interest in other sports like baseball or football. Tournaments and competition are all well and good, but the real need is for more statistics.

Blood drive success

Editor:
 I have so many people to thank for the wonderful success of the American Red Cross blood drive on May 18 in Charlevoix.

The first group I need to show tremendous appreciation for is the donors who demonstrated their patience and amazing good humor.

The Red Cross collected 111 pints of life-saving blood. Up to four products can be made from each pint, therefore affecting as many as 400 patients.

I am grateful to the Community Reformed Church staff and congregation for allowing us the use of their fellowship hall.

All of my volunteers and hikers deserve a standing ovation for a job very well done. Thank you.

The American Red Cross will be back in Charlevoix for a community blood drive from noon to 5:45 p.m. on July 20 at the Community Reformed Church. Please plan to donate for the sick and injured.

Vandals shouldn't walk

Editor:
 After reading many articles about the vandalism at the Charlevoix High School, I became more and more dismayed on how the vandalism is being portrayed by the school administration as a prank. Since when does criminal behavior equate to a mere prank? It's a felony. How are young people going to learn about consequences if their criminal behavior is being dismissed as a childish prank?

I strongly feel that allowing those that were involved to participate in a graduation ceremony sends the wrong message. Even if you haven't identified all the guilty parties, allowing those that finally fessed up to participate in graduation is wrong.

I do not want one dime of my tax dollars to pay for the vandalism and key replacements. The cost of the investigation should not be the responsibility of the taxpayers either. The guilty should pay.

Letter response

Editor:
 In response to Gretchen Tambellini's complaint (Clean up political signs, page 5, June 7 edition of the Charlevoix Courier) about the Park Avenue-Bridge Street storefront, I wonder if she would rather have yet another empty retail spot downtown.

I'm also surprised at Tambellini's lack of appreciation for freedom of speech. I may not like someone's storefront décor, but the last thing I would consider is open criticism of their decorating taste.

Fortunately, we've had many complaints on our position and display. In addition, we have an understanding with the landlord that, if a business opportunity that that storefront presents itself, we will move our headquarters to another location.

Does Tambellini have a viable business to situate in that spot in place of the smiling "shopkeeper" who now resides there?

Seelye support

Editor:
 I was very disturbed by the article in your paper regarding the suspended (Charlevoix) middle school teachers (Middle school teachers suspended, page 1 June 7 edition of the Charlevoix Courier). My son had Steve Seelye this year. Steve was his seminar teacher which meant his day started and ended in Steve's class. I was in that classroom at least once a week all school year. Steve Seelye was a wonderful teacher. A genuine "good guy," he has a gentle way about him that makes him a great teacher for boys and girls alike.

My son has his struggles with school, particularly math class. Math class consists of instruction time followed by the class working on what they just learned independently. Mr. Seelye would always stop what he was doing if my son needed extra help. What happened was unfortunate. Good people sometimes make poor choices. The school board and Mr. (Dr. John) Sturock handled this in an appropriate manner. Everyone makes mistakes. What disturbs me is the fact that maybe Charlevoix cannot forgive these three people. What kind of a message does this send to our children?

I have taught my son that if you make a mistake, no matter how big, you tell the truth, take your punishment, you're forgiven and we move on. You learn from your mistakes so you don't make them again.

My son is having a very hard time understanding why some people in Charlevoix can't forgive. How do I explain attitudes such as that of Mrs. (Barb) Sheets? How do you explain a lunch mob mentality to an 11-year-old?

Mrs. Sheets has every right to request her child not have Mr. Seelye, just as I asked that my child have him. I felt he was the right teacher for my child and he did not disappoint me. I had my child in private school through second-grade. He has had good teachers and had, I have never regretted putting him into the public school system. Charlevoix schools are great and so are the teachers. Steve Seelye helped my son make that scary transition to middle school a good experience. My son is sad that he never got to say good-bye and thank you to one of his favorite teachers. I hope this does not cause Steve to leave teaching. That would be a loss to many children.

Please Charlevoix, deal with the faults of others as gently as you deal with your own.

Urban benefit

Editor:

We want to thank everyone who helped make the benefit dinner for Tom Urban's family such a great success. Last Friday night at the First Congregational Church 26 people came and offered to help served 152 spaghetti dinners.

The band played, we all had dinner, and we raised $1,700 for Cyndee Urban, and daughters Colleen and Stacy. An anonymous donation of $5,000 also went into the memorial fund that has been set up for Tom Urban. What great things we can accomplish when the Charlevoix community works together.

Black Cat Concerts kick off with Rhythm Billies

By JULIE WITTHOEF Editor

The Rhythm Billies, a four piece band specializing in concert and square dance tunes, will kick off a family-friendly summer music series called Black Cat Concerts, organized by Charlevoix residents Carl and Cornelia Dhaseleer.

The show starts at 7 p.m. on June 18 in the Dhaseleer Taxidermy and Gallery barn at 15794 Paddock Road, three miles south of Charlevoix off Barnard Road.

"It will basically be a fun night out," Carl, who is also a taxidermist, said.

The two have spent the past 10 years revamping the concert venue, an 1880s barn situated on their three generation, 20-acre country estate. The huge undertaking included installing a gym floor from Harbor Springs Public Schools which now serves as a shiny dance floor, removal of storage, installation of a bathroom in the old granary and creation of pottery and taxidermy workshops.

"With each section we cleaned up, we realized the potential of it," Cornelia, who also is a potter, said.

Since securing the dance floor two years ago, the project has taken shape and the Dhaseleers, who are parents to three girls, have ventured out to scout bands.

Concert attendees are asked to bring a chair, their beverage of choice and a dish to pass in order to participate in the intermission potluck. Water, coffee and place settings will be provided.

Tickets for the Rhythm Billies show are $10 per person and will be available at the door. Kids 12 and under are admitted free of charge. To order advance tickets call (231) 547-6945.

The Dhaseleers will host a grand opening to include two free nights of music on June 23 when local country singer Chris Dominic will perform and on June 24 when Scott Stillings takes the stage.

City council approves $1 chamber lease

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Charlevoix City Council unanimously approved a contract to lease the old post office building located off Mason Street to the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce for $1 a year for 10 years with an automatic five-year renewal.

"Council's decision was wonderful. We originally went over the lease in 2004. At that time the park plan was waiting to be done. Now, it's time to move — we aren't going to have a building, 408 Bridge St. will no longer exist," said Jacqueline Merta, president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

The city has scheduled demolition of the chamber building and bandshell to take place on Nov. 5 in conjunction with the marina and East Park overhaul. During the East Park and marina renovation planning process, community members made it clear that there was no place in the park for buildings like the chamber office, not directly related to supporting the park and marina.

Merta, who has been chamber president for 25 years, said the pros of the new location are its increased size and updated accommodations. The major con she pointed to is its location which will reduce the office's visibility and access to the public.

"There are a lot of people that walk in this chamber office," she said. "Because we have such a great, visible spot and are so accommodating, we get a lot of inquiries. I don't know that we'll get as many when we are on the side street."

She is hoping directional signs will help route people to the new location. The move will require a $75,000 renovation at the new site, Merta explained that the setup left by the police and fire departments who operated at the building during the renovation at city hall, including a barrier in the entryway and interrogation rooms off the entry, won't work for the chamber.

Fuller-Nichols Architects of Harbor Springs, the same group that handled the renovation at city hall, is handling planning for the chamber's new building.

Merta said the $75,000 needed was not included in the 2006-2007 chamber budget and fund-raisers will take place this summer to help fund the project.

Services at the new site may be augmented to include member use of meeting space and extended areas to review literature. Staff levels are not expected to increase. The chamber currently provides two full-time positions year-round and one full-time position in the summer. A part-time position and volunteer hours are also logged.

Staffing is the chamber's greatest budget expense with $126,000 of the group's $300,000 budget going to staff salaries and benefits.

"We pride ourselves on giving a personal touch answering the phones and doing the best job we can do for the business community and the entire community. You have to have people to do that," Merta said.

Under the agreement drawn up by city attorney Jim Young, the chamber will be responsible for all maintenance and utilities related to the building with the city covering insurance which will cost about $500 a year.

Maintenance and utility costs are a new expense for the chamber. Under the current arrangement the group pays the city $100 a month to rent its Bridge Street location, above the harbor master's office, where it has been since 1944, and the city covers utilities and maintenance.

Merta said all new revenue sources have not been determined. However, the chamber has increased the number of tickets sold for the annual car raffle which was budgeted to bring in $18,000.

Council's June 5 decision was initially tabled to allow city staff time to establish what the fair market value of the building would be should the city rent it to another commercial entity. Third ward council member Shirley Gibson also requested further budget information from Merta.

Under the miscellaneous business part of the council meeting, chamber board chairman, Jim Berlage, approached council with a two page overview of the budget.

After further discussion, the motion to approve the lease was unanimously supported.

Gibson said that while she supported the motion she feels city council's decision was made too quickly.

"I was totally put on the spot. The lease portion of it is not over. The chamber needs to be self sufficient. They've been put on public assistance for too many years and that's what it is, welfare. It will be brought back up. The lease is too long to be locked into it," Gibson said.

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority bought the post office in 1986 for $70,000. An insurance appraisal done in 1998 found the building's value to be $208,927. This figure does not include the $40,000 in renovations the city did to the building in 2003 to prep it for use as a temporary city hall and police and fire stations while renovations were done next-door.

Bike 4 Breast Cancer to benefit Circle of Strength

This year's annual Bike 4 Breast Cancer Pink Ribbon Ride, in memory of Kathy McDonald returns on Saturday, June 17 to Veterans Park in Boyne City.

Cyclists of all ages and abilities will once again participate in the event that raises funds for local programs in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The Circle of Strength Cancer Resources Program at Charlevoix Area Hospital and the Breast Health Fund at Northern Michigan Hospital, have utilized these funds to provide cancer education and free diagnostic tests and services to both patients and their support teams, as needed. To date, this Bike4BreastCancer chapter has donated over $34,000 to assist in these northern Michigan communities.

The event is the legacy of Kathleen McDonald of Boyne City, founder of the Charlevoix/Emmet Counties Bike4BreastCancer Chapter, who herself succumbed to the disease shortly before the inaugural event in 2003. Her goal, and that of the many volunteers who participate each year, was to bring hope and valuable resources to breast cancer patients and their families, and to educate women on the importance of early detection. Nationally, one in eight women will be diagnosed with breast cancer in her lifetime.

The Pink Ribbon Ride itself has grown annually. This year's event will include routes of 65, 42, 20 and 7 miles, a true challenge for any cycling enthusiast. Those who do not ride are still encouraged to attend the event in beautiful downtown Boyne City, and enjoy a leisurely stroll along the banks of scenic Lake Charlevoix. Registered participants will be treated to a picnic lunch and other activities, including a bike raffle, prizes for individual fund-raising efforts, and fun for the whole family.

For those unable to attend, donations may be sent to Bike4BreastCancer, P.O. Box 242, East Jordan, MI 49727-0242.

Advanced $25 discounted registration can be made online by logging onto the Bike4BreastCancer Web site at www.bike4breastcancer.org. On-site registration is $30 per individual, $50 per family and will begin at 7 a.m. in the park. Riders are free to begin their courses once they are checked in.

T-shirts, cycling socks, Bullfrog candles and other materials commemorating the event can also be purchased online, or the day of the event.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting event chair Sue Morris at (231) 536-7066 or by e-mail at penhryn@charter.net.

Statewide wind turbine legislation proposed

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Two bills introduced into the Michigan House of Representatives which would have annulled local zoning as it pertains to wind turbines will be altered to allow for township and county oversight if passed.

Authored by more than 15 representatives, including Rep. Howard Walker, on April 21, 2005, House Bills 4648 and 4649 continue to create controversy.

"Basically the concern is over the loss of local control over the wind turbine generators and the siting of them," said Charlevoix County planner, Larry Sullivan. "Part of those bills, from my understanding, would remove all ability of (local) zoning to control the location of wind turbine generators."

The language in the original house bills states, "System shall be built at a distance from all property lines not leased or owned by the owner of the system that is not less than the height of the system tower including the top of the blade in its vertical position; minimum vertical clearance from the blade tip to the ground shall not be less than 20 feet; and sound created by the system shall not exceed 60 decibels at the closest property line of property not served by the system."

The bills further state, "The owner of a system shall not be found to be a public or private nuisance if the system complies with the requirements notwithstanding: a change in ownership; temporary cessation or interruption in producing electricity; and, new technology."

The proposed amendment to the bills includes a change in setback to 1.5 times the height of the generator including the tip of the blade at its vertical most position, the sound created could not exceed 55 decibels and local jurisdictions could designate up to 10 percent of land which could not be used for the turbines.

The changes also include allowing local jurisdictions to require a, "bond or security to cover the costs reasonably associated with the installation, maintenance or removal of a wind energy system."

Sullivan said the Charlevoix County Planning Commission is not in any way opposed to the generators.

"Again, the concern is the loss of control," he said. "If people would like to see local control retained over this issue, they should contact their legislators and urge them not to support it and take measures not to override local authority."

He added, "And, if they are in favor of wind turbine generators, then they should urge their local government to provide language in their zoning to provide for them."

If adopted, the bills would be consolidated and referred to as House Bill 4649.

"We're trying to give locals some control without the ability to set the standards themselves," said Rep. Walker's legislative director, Eric Dean.

The changes to the proposed bills have come about due to concerns expressed by citizens throughout the state, Dean said.

Concerns range from flickering marker lights and the noise created during operation, to heights sometimes into the hundreds of feet.

Local resident and owner of one of the few wind turbine generators in the area,

Michael Buttigieg, supports the implementation of windmills, but doesn't like the government's attempt to remove local zoning control from counties and townships.

"There are some guidelines that they're talking about that I don't agree with and yet there are some others that I do agree with," Buttigieg said. "Some townships are so restrictive in their zoning that you can't put one (turbine) up, so there's pros and cons on the whole statewide zoning."

And, he said, "They (house bills) don't show a difference between residential and commercial (turbines), they're two different things."

Buttigieg lives "off the grid," which means he draws no power from municipal sources. He instead uses his wind turbine generator and solar panels.

There have been claims by some the blades of wind turbines gather ice which can then be thrown, possibly harming property and people.

"A lot of people get so emotional about this issue they become like horses with blinders on," he said. "As far as the ice flinging, I would like to see some documentation where that has occurred."

He added, "I've never had any issues like that. Wind turbines are designed to be aerodynamic and when they build up ice, they don't spin like usual and they slow way down. I think emotions on a lot of this stuff has gone way out of control."

Some of the information wind turbine opponents use, Buttigieg said, is outdated and deals with old commercial turbines.

"There were some cases where towers fell and blades came off, but the new ones are different and better. It's like night and day," he said. "They're making them so big now, like the ones in Traverse City and the ones in Mackinaw (City), that they need less of them."

He added, "I saw a picture of one where they landed a helicopter on it."

Buttigieg said the really big wind turbines are designed to be built offshore. "The technology is so different now that it's allowing them to go bigger and bigger with them. The theory is, the bigger they get, the less you need," he said.

"I'm a firm believer in wind power. I believe you have to do something because fossil fuel and nuclear power aren't going to make it for us anymore. We can't eliminate them now, but we have to work on it."

Buttigieg said if you use electricity from municipal sources, you don't really have much to say about how the electric-

22nd Annual Lake Charlevoix Trout Tournament winners

Over 440 people registered for the 22nd Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament which took place June 9, 10 and 11 in Charlevoix. The event is hosted by the Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament Association. Participants fished for brown trout, steelhead, lake trout and salmon on both Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. According to anglers, windy weather made for difficult fishing conditions forcing many to stay on Lake Charlevoix where few trout were caught. Pictured at left are winners in each category. They are: Brown trout winner Joe Powell with his 9-pound fish, lake trout division winner Chris Mikulski with his 13-pound fish, steelhead division winner Bill Mathers of Petoskey with his 14-pound fish and Matthew Mikulski, the salmon division winner with his 23-pound salmon. The brown trout is the only division winning fish caught on Lake Charlevoix.

Officials: Wind turbine bills threaten local control ity is produced.

"Would you rather have a coal powered plant with burning and fumes?" he said.

Buttigieg wouldn't want to live next-door to an industrial size wind turbine due to the flickering and noise, but he said there are some reasonable setbacks to prevent the generators from being too close to residential areas.

"There are a lot of good things proposed, but it still needs some tweaking," he said.

Convincing people a change is needed, Buttigieg added, will be one of the most difficult tasks in changing perceptions on energy use and production.

"Yes, they do stick out in the middle of the woods like a sore thumb, but there is a purpose for them," Buttigieg said. "And I don't care what people say, I think they're beautiful and I think they're graceful."

He added, "I would rather see the countryside covered with turbines than one coal burning plant."

Buttigieg is a board member on the Charlevoix County Planning Commission.

With sufficient wind, a 10-kilowatt turbine can generate enough energy to power one household annually, while a 5-megawatt turbine can power approximately 1,400 homes.

According to the American Wind Energy Association's Web site, some wind power generators are comparable in cost per kilowatt hour to new coal-fired and gas-fired power plants, while utility-scale wind power plants are the lowest cost of all renewable energy sources.

Challenger celebrates 100 years of service

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Charlevoix has its own little piece of history — if you consider a 551-foot cement carrier to be little.

Norm O'Neill

The St. Marys Challenger has been sailing the Great Lakes for more than 100 years.

And since she has been docking locally for nearly 40 years, Charlevoix is an important part of the Challenger's history.

To commemorate her 100th year of active service, on June 6 the Charlevoix Historical Society presented a "History of Cement Carrier Challenger" program.

A crowd of more than 50 gathered at the historical society's Train Depot to hear stories about the Challenger's life since her construction as Hull #17 and her launch as the William P. Snyder in 1906.

The program was presented by Norm O'Neill, manager of vessel services for St. Marys Cement Company.

"She's a good boat because of her strength," O'Neill said.

The ship was originally built as an oil carrier by the Great Lakes Engineering Works for the Shenango Furnace Company.

In 1950, ownership changes brought about a change in her engine. She was outfitted with a Skinner Marine Uniflow four-cylinder reciprocating steam engine.

To commemorate the Challenger's (pictured above) 100th year of active service, on June 6 the Charlevoix Historical Society presented a "History of Cement Carrier Challenger" program.

two remaining vessels still in active service on the Great Lakes with this type of engine.

"Even today, she's more efficient than any other cement handling vessel in the world," O'Neill said.

Then in 1967, Medusa Cement Company converted the ship to a cement carrier, and she was thus christened the Medusa Challenger.

The Challenger's trade routes included Charlevoix, Detroit, Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee and Manitowoc, Wis., Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio and the City of Owen Sound in Ontario Canada.

For the next 32 years, the Challenger was operated under Medusa's name.

Since then, she has been known by the name of each successive plant owner and is currently the St. Marys Challenger.

The Challenger is also a unique part of local history in that three captains of the ship, Edwin McCain, Jack Bradley and Bud Left, have lived or live in Charlevoix.

Nayfe Jabara was among those who attended O'Neill's presentation.

In the mid 1990s, Jabara won four tickets aboard the Challenger in a City of Charlevoix auction.

"It was interesting," Jabara said of the trip from Charlevoix to Owen Sound.

Jabara, a North Palm Beach,

Fla., resident and condo owner in Petoskey, took his wife and friends John and Linda Fryman.

"I think it's fascinating," he said. "How many ships on the Great Lakes can even compare? And to be steam operated at that."

Despite the ship's legendary past, O'Neill is unsure how much longer the Challenger will be in service.

The cost to keep the engine supplied with heavy oil is one problem on the Challenger's horizon.

Even though heavy oil is cheaper, the four-cylinder engine still consumes between 300 and 360 gallons an hour. The cheaper oil doesn't offset the increase in usage compared to a diesel engine, O'Neill said.

He is also concerned with the cost involved with keeping the Challenger manned. With a 26-person crew, the expenses add up.

"I would say the next few years, she'll keep going," O'Neill said. "But in the long term, I really don't know."

The historical society videotaped O'Neill's speech. Anyone who could not attend the event or wishes to watch the program again can visit the Harsha House Museum, located at 103 State St. in downtown Charlevoix for more details.

Marlatt family celebrates life this Father's Day

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

While many fathers expect to receive breakfast in bed, homemade crafts and new tools this Sunday, local dad, Brent Marlatt, is just thankful to be alive and walking.

When the husband and father of two girls traveled home on Nov. 6, 2005, he had no idea his existence would soon undergo a drastic change.

"I was over in Atlanta, Michigan visiting relatives and working at the hunting camp," he said. "I was heading back to Charlevoix when my life was put on hold for awhile. Somebody tried to pass two vehicles in a no passing zone and I was the unlucky person on the receiving end."

Traveling at about 35 mph, Marlatt took a pounding from an SUV traveling at more than twice that speed.

"I was cruising along enjoying the moment and the next thing you know, I was wondering about the future," he said. "I suffered 13 broken bones, a number of contusions, it knocked out six of my teeth — the list of physical conditions was about seven pages long. It was pretty wild."

In spite of chronic pain and limited mobility, Marlatt is thankful and hopeful about his situation.

"I used to be a very active person, but (the accident) has limited me to a lot of things. It's tough, but I'm making the best of it," he said. "Even though I have a lot of healing to take place, I'm lucky not to have worse injuries like paralysis or closed head wounds. I'm about 60 percent based on what I used to be able to do. I did meet a number of people down in Ann Arbor who did have those injuries though, my injuries were large in number but they weren't as severe."

He added, "I'm glad to be able to do at least 60 percent of things by myself."

Father's Day for the Marlatt family of Charlevoix is a time to celebrate life. Brent (far right) is still recovering after an automobile accident he was involved in on Nov. 6, 2005 which left him unable to walk until the middle of this winter. He is pictured above with friend of the family, Nick Gotshall, his daughter, Courtney Chamberlain and his wife, Erica Marlatt.

Marlatt was finally able to walk again by the middle of last winter and he can now move unaided by a cane or walker.

"Running is out of the question, but I would just like to be as active as I used to be with hiking and backpacking, my love of the outdoors in general," he said. "I just want to be more physical in general, like being able to do stairs again one day easily instead of one thing at a time. It's amazing all the little things you look at in life when your abilities are diminished that they are quite big."

While many people claim a renewed sense of what life is worth after a life altering experience, Marlatt said his attitude is the same as before the accident.

"I've never been one to take for granted the little things in life, but one thing for sure, if (people) have plans to do something, whether it's travel or spending time with kids, do it, because you never know when a vehicle will show up at the top of your hill. Life is uncertain. Live for the future, but also live for the present," he said.

It was his family — wife, Erica and daughters, 14-year-old Bailey and 16-year-old Courtney, who inspired him to get better.

"It was very, very frustrating for me not to be able to contribute to the household. They took care of a lot of business and took care of me," Marlatt said. "My wife and daughters deserve a lot of credit. They did a wonderful job."

Marlatt returned to work this May at Camp Daggett where he is the adventure education director.

"I'm not doing as much physical activity as I would like, but hopefully I will be able to do that," he said. "Before in my job, I would rarely sit down, but now it's more clerical and office work than I would like."

One of the difficulties Marlatt faced due to the accident was the loss of a beloved hunting dog.

"She didn't make it, but luckily there wasn't another person with me," he said.

Now, seven months later, Marlatt must undergo physical therapy three times a week, while the driver of the other vehicle sustained only a broken leg.

"It was a poor decision. Unfortunately there were some pretty severe repercussions because of that decision," he said.

But, Marlatt refuses to focus on the negative.

"About the moment you think, 'This hurts and that hurts,' I remember how lucky I am to be here. There's a higher power that thinks I have a better purpose," he said.

Marlatt will spend this Father's Day undergoing surgery for issues related to the accident. But, he said, there are worse things he could be doing.

"There was a time when I didn't know if I would see my family again," he said. "Our holidays have kind of taken the back seat this year. Unfortunately we had other things to tend to. It was different, but we made the most of it."

"We're heading in the right direction," he added.

Troppman resigns from St. Mary School

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

After 27 years in Charlevoix and six years as principal of St. Mary School, Janet Troppman is leaving.

Troppman has accepted a position at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton in Traverse City where she will teach approximately 240 sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

"This is an advancement and promotion and a great opportunity for my career in a larger school system," she said.

Though the reasons for her leaving are personal, Troppman said, "My husband and I have always felt that we wanted our children to have a Catholic education all the way up through high school. The religious component is important. We are very faith-based in our home and we wanted that to continue at school."

The former principal, who is originally from the Detroit area, has two masters degrees, from Grand Valley State University in educational leadership and one from Lake Superior State University in business. She also has two bachelor's degrees, one from Ferris State University and one from Michigan Tech.

Before entering the realm of religious schools, Troppman taught at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

But it wasn't college students which prompted the educator to get into the primary education game.

"Our first two children are adopted, and the unconditional love you can give a child that is biological is something I never had."

Hospice grief

program

Hospice of Little Traverse Bay will sponsor a six-week support group for those coping with loss.

A group will meet from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursdays beginning on June 22 at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St.

These programs will be facilitated by hospice family counselors. Other services include: Individual and family counseling for adults and children, educational in-services, a pregnancy and infant loss support program, a Survivors of Suicide group and caregiver support. All services are free-of-charge thanks to local community contributions.

As principal, Troppman was the spiritual leader of the staff and students at St. Mary School.

"That (was) obviously the most important thing to me since I led them in morning prayer and I have also taught fifth and sixth-grade religion," she said. "That has been very enjoyable because, at that age, they understand the message of the Bible and what we're trying to convey."

She added, "I loved every bit of it. It was a very hard decision to leave this wonderful community."

Troppman said St. Mary School is a very positive place which will continue to grow and inspire students academically, creatively and spiritually.

"My family and I have been blessed to be part of the faith family, and part of the Charlevoix community for 27 years," she said. "And it is with sadness that we'll be saying good-bye to Charlevoix the Beautiful."

She added, "I'm appreciative for the community support I've gotten and the support from the pastors here at the school, both Father Tom Neis and Father Jerry Hunko."

Staff at St. Mary School are currently looking for Troppman's replacement.

Troppman's official start date with Grand Traverse Area Catholic Schools is Aug. 14.

Atchison named county public defender

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

As the consortium of four public defense attorneys in Charlevoix says good-bye to Robert Banner, they say welcome attorney Michael Atchison.

While Banner enjoyed the work he did helping defend those who could not afford an attorney, his private practice needs more attention.

"I'm just too busy to continue doing that work," Banner said. "Working as one of the four members on the consortium is very time consuming. It wasn't unusual to pick up three to four cases a week and they had to be addressed immediately."

He added, "I had to make a choice, either reduce the size of my private practice or give up being a member on the defense consortium."

In Banner's 15-plus years of practicing law, his practice, Robert Banner PC in Boyne City, has continued to grow.

"I've been spending so much time on public defender work that I've been neglecting my private stuff," he said. "It's just the right move for me at the right time."

Michael Atchison

Most of the work Banner has done with the consortium has been worthwhile and rewarding.

"It's a community service, which I get paid for, but by and large, the compensation falls short of the service that's provided," he said. "You really have to make a choice — you either have to like doing it or don't do it, because you cannot make a living at it."

He added, "People fail to realize the service that those four people provide to the (Charlevoix) county. In my opinion, those four people managing that workload keep the courts functioning. I very much enjoyed working with the other members of the consortium, they are all dedicated to what they do."

Atchison, whose official start date was June 1, joins Chris Turkelson, Kraag Lieberman and Kerry Zahner on the consortium.

Born and raised in Petoskey, Atchison, who received his law degree from Wayne State University in 1999, is an active member of the Criminal Defense Attorneys of Michigan. He said he can't wait to get to work with the consortium.

"I'm excited about it. I enjoy helping people who are experiencing serious problems in their life," Atchison said. "The work is interesting and I enjoy being in the courtroom."

He added, "I also believe that our constitutional protections and liberties have been seriously eroded over the last 30 years, and that the pendulum will only begin to swing the other way through effective representation of the accused on a case-by-case basis."

The interesting work and ability to be self-employed lured Atchison into the law profession and he said he will continue to practice privately in addition to his consortium duties.

Over the barrister's seven years in practice, he has seen the law profession from both sides.

"I enjoyed serving the good people of Charlevoix County as an assistant prosecutor, and will enjoy serving them again in this role," Atchison said. "The consortium system is a good way to ensure quality representation for everyone who is accused of a crime, whether they can afford to hire an attorney or not."

He added, "(And,) the other three attorneys on the consortium are all excellent."

Atchison is married to Catherine and has two children, 3-year-old Ava and 2-year-old Van.

Charlevoix native named MSU track director

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Walt Drenth

Charlevoix native Walt Drenth was named director of men's and women's cross country and track and field on June 2 at Michigan State University.

The news comes shortly after Michigan State University athletic director Ron Mason announced Drenth as the new head men's track and field coach as of May 11.

As part of his new promotion to director, Drenth oversees the hiring of coaches, deals with policy issues, coordinates schedules for both men's and women's teams, and helps decide where scholarship dollars go.

"My primary responsibility is to change the culture," he said.

By changing the culture, Drenth has plans to increase pride, give the entire program a sense of purpose and raise expectations of the athletes both athletically and behaviorally.

"I'm looking forward to seeing how this evolves," he said.

With previous coaching jobs at Central Michigan University, William and Mary and Arizona State University, Drenth is no stranger to the field of coaching.

His credentials, acquired from more than 20 years of collegiate coaching experience, speak for themselves.

Drenth helped Central Michigan University win three consecutive Central Collegiate Conference titles from 1987-1989.

He led the William and Mary cross country team to the District 11 championship in 1998.

And in 1999 and 2000, Drenth was named Pac-10 Women's Cross Country Coach of the Year for his work at Arizona State University.

He attributes some of his success to the great mentors he's had in his life.

At the top of his list of influences are his parents, Bob and Maxine Drenth.

Drenth also learned a considerable amount from his assistant coaching position helping out Hal Evans and Pete Spieles at Charlevoix High School.

"I think my experience as an athlete and as a coach (at Charlevoix High School) helped me get to where I am today," he said. "You don't do it by yourself, that's for sure."

On Wednesday, August 10th, the Petoskey News-Review and the Charlevoix Courier, will partner with local historical societies to publish "Yesteryears." This tab-sized publication will be filled with historic photos of people and places in the Charlevoix County area.

Girls on the Run promotes fitness and life skills

"They didn't know if they could do it. But they did and they were so excited to accomplish something. It was wonderful," Volovsek said. "It's a symbol that you can accomplish anything you want."

A fall program will be offered if a coach is secured. A new coach is needed to assist Wittmers with the program. Volovsek's husband, Tim Volovsek, the current chemistry teacher at Charlevoix High School, has accepted the assistant principal's position at Onsted High School and the family plans to move.

For more information about the position or registering a child for the program, call Debbie Esposito at (231) 526-8751.

History of Big Rock Point exhibit at train depot

The Charlevoix Historical Society, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project, and the Consumers Energy Foundation will sponsor an exhibit on the history of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant at the train depot on Depot Beach beginning at 1 p.m. on Friday, June 30.

The history will be told through photographs, documents, plaques, hands-on displays, a cutaway model of the plant, and videos, one of which features Ronald Reagan.

The exhibit will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday through Labor Day weekend, and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays from early September through Oct. 14.

Big Rock Point was the fifth commercial nuclear plant constructed in the United States, and the first operational nuclear plant in Michigan. During the 35 years it was in operation, it set both national and world records. Big Rock Point made a significant economic impact on northern lower Michigan. Today, Consumers Energy is returning the land on which the plant once stood to as close to its natural state as possible.

For more information about the exhibit, call (231) 547-0373 or visit www.chxhistory.com.

The reactor vessel of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant (pictured above) was installed on Feb. 9, 1962. Designed to withstand temperatures up to 650 degrees, it was 30-feet long, 9-feet wide with steel walls over 5 inches thick, and weighed 120 tons. The reactor was in service from late September 1962 to late August 1997 when the plant was shut down and decommissioned.

Sturock top pick at Allen Park

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Dr. John Sturock

Superintendent of Charlevoix Schools, Dr. John Sturock, was recently selected as the top candidate to fill the superintendent slot at Allen Park Public Schools to be vacated by retiring superintendent, Douglas Pretty on July 31.

Sturock, who has worked in Charlevoix for eight years, is originally from Allen Park where he graduated from high school, taught industrial arts and was even the head football coach.

Sturock said, "So, when this job came open I realized that it's an opportunity that I'd never get to do again."

"There's a lot of things I'm personally involved in and number one is that Allen Park is where I grew up and worked and I know a lot of people that live down that way."

Sturock's mother and children live in and around the Allen Park area. "I mean, Charlevoix is a great place and it would certainly take a lot to get me to leave. This is probably the only job in the state that I would have applied for at this stage of the game," he said.

Sturock was selected 7-0 over Cheryl Wojas, the assistant superintendent of Port Huron Schools because of his experience.

If he accepts, Sturock will go from overseeing 1,374 students in Charlevoix to 3,700 in Allen Park.

"Now it's just a matter of working out the details," he said. "I'm assuming we'll be able to work that out in the next week, and as soon as we work out the details, we can start setting time frames of when transition would take place."

This is the second time Sturock, who currently makes $105,794, has applied for a position as superintendent of another school system.

In May 2003, Sturock withdrew from a five-person candidate pool for a superintendent's position in St. Clair Shores while in the first round of interviews because he said the position wasn't right for him.

Wage law increases city's marina renovation costs

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Concerns from City of Charlevoix administrators about rising steel costs impacting the upcoming overhaul of Charlevoix's Municipal Marina were recently reduced to mere troubles when the reality of Michigan's Prevailing Wage Law sank in.

In an interview early this month with city manager Mike Wiesner he said the only looming unknown that could impact the cost of the marina project, is the price and availability of steel to be installed along the 900-foot sea wall which is scheduled to be replaced.

But on June 12, Charlevoix City Council learned an oversight in the contract with the Michigan Waterways Commission, the state body funding 75 percent of the project, could mean big money. About two weeks ago, Wiesner learned that the wage law has the potential to tack on as much as 20 percent to the $12 million park and marina project.

According to Waterways Commission chairman, Todd Wyett, this is the first year Waterways' standard contract language includes Michigan's Prevailing Wage Law requirements.

The law covers construction workers employed on state financed or sponsored construction projects. Rates range from a deck equipment operator who would be paid $23.28 an hour to a crane or backhoe operator, mechanic or welder who under the law must be paid $43.28 per hour.

Todd Wyett

On June 12, city council approved the $8.2 million grant agreement with Waterways. This is about $800,000 or 10 percent higher than was initially budgeted. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will fund most of the $4.7 million East Park project. In a memo to city council Wiesner states that United Design Consultants, the company handling the marina design, are not concerned with the wage rate requirement as it applies to the docks and sea wall replacement.

"The piling contractor is likely to pay the state rates already. The docks are being constructed off-site so the state wage rates are not required. The work effort on site to assemble the docks would be affected by the requirement to pay higher wage rates. The project costs though would not be dramatically affected," he states.

The marina project will include replacement of the sea wall, removal

Clarification

In an article entitled, "Statewide wind turbine legislation proposed," which appeared on page 20 of the June 14 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, it was stated that Charlevoix resident Michael Buttigieg would not want to live next-door to an industrial size wind turbine due to flickering and noise. Buttigieg said under the proposed legislation, he would not want to live next-door to an industrial size wind turbine because he feels the proposed setbacks are not great enough.

Planned Parenthood offers free HIV testing

Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan will offer free HIV counseling and testing on Friday, June 23 for National HIV Testing Day.

Tests will be available, subject to availability, at Planned Parenthood's health center located at 1003 Spring St. in Petoskey. Appointments are recommended, but walk-ins will be accommodated if possible. Testing will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"HIV antibody counseling and testing is a critical step in one's decision to take control and responsibility over one's health," said Shelley Paulsen, Petoskey Health Center nurse practitioner.

Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan offers confidential or anonymous testing. It is done orally, which means there are no needles involved.

Paulsen said while infection rates for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, are relatively low in northern Michigan, anyone having unprotected sex or sharing needles is at risk.

City considers new funding sources for marina project

of the existing 17 docks which at the furthest point extend 75-feet into Round Lake and replacement of those docks with a 67-slip floating dock system that extends 220-feet into Round Lake at the furthest point.

However, projects in East Park that support the marina, like the harbor master's building and other marina related infrastructure improvements, will take a major hit.

In an e-mail to Wiesner, Brian Barrick, the East Park project manager for Pollack Design and Associates of Ann Arbor, states that the city's share of the project may increase by about $310,000 while the state share could go up by an estimated $540,000.

In terms of funding for the project, city treasurer Rick Brandt said it could be a big problem.

The bond request the city approved for $5.5 million gives the city $4.9 million after costs for bonding, to spend on the project.

"It's a problem. We went as far as we could go (with the bond). We upped it a bit so we would have a contingency. Now, we're hoping bids come in below. If not, we'll have to look at alternative financing sources," he said.

One possible source is called Act 99, a lease purchase arrangement the city used for Bridge Park when construction costs there exceeded the budgeted amount and for the airport terminal building. The city owes $800,431 on Bridge Park and $146,000 for the airport terminal. The city can finance a total of $1.8 million through Act 99 which is 1.25 percent of the city's taxable value.

"We have a cushion there but hopefully the bids will come in under what our bonding ability is," Brandt said.

While Act 99 may be used to cover the cost, Wyatt said the city may also return to Waterways for assistance.

"We will look at and evaluate it. If they present it properly I don't think they would be out of line asking for an increase. They have plenty of supporters on the Waterways Commission and I'm one of them," he said.

According to the preliminary project schedule, construction will begin with sea wall replacement preparation starting on July 23. Project bids are expected to be released soon.

Reward offered for information related to larceny from church a recent incident of grand larceny.

According to sheriff George Lasater, the reward stems from an incident that is believed to have occurred the morning of June 11. At that time, thieves broke into Bible Baptist Church, located off M-66 in Marion Township, and stole an undetermined amount of cash and checks from a safe box.

"The money that was taken, was given to God. Our people are very disturbed that anything like this could happen in Charlevoix, as well as in a church," said James Green, pastor at Bible Baptist Church.

Lasater said details from the incident, including the amount of money taken, are not being released in an effort to secure leads.

Green said a stranger had been apprehended and escorted out of the church a week prior to the incident.

"Of course we can't speculate as to the intruder at this time, but we do know the all-seeing eyes of God know and the intruder will some day stand before him," Pastor Green added.

Those with information about the larceny are asked to contact Lasater, deputy sheriff, Jim Pettis, or deputy corporal, Chuck Vondra at (231) 547-4461.

Fudgie II: Top 10 reasons to visit Charlevoix

Despite the miniature heat waves in recent weeks, today is the official beginning of summer.

And with this sunny, money season comes a wave of tourists also known as those lovable fudgies.

Now, before I go any further, I'd like to clarify that this isn't an attack on fudgies — I can't take another truckload of hate mail.

Those of you familiar with last year's column, "Fudgie not a four letter word," should know this is merely a follow-up to those noble creatures.

When the editor said I should revisit the premise, I flinched. It's the middle of June and I don't have the energy for angry letters and threatening calls.

After a few scowls and angry snorts from her side of the office I was convinced it was a great idea — because I didn't have a choice in the matter.

As I schemed on ways to get back at my editor, I struggled over what to say about the geographically-challenged; they like fudge, that's a given. They're fond of khaki, straw hats and t-shirts which read, "I'm with stupid," or "My parents were abducted by aliens and all I got was this lousy t-shirt."

And, their differences don't stop there. While northern Michiganders may have bumper stickers which read, "Git er done," and "Summer's just three months of had sledding," the hillboards on the fudgies' gargantuan, moveable living quarters read, "I break for festivals," or "My Greyhound bus is in the shop."

Just look for vanity plates like "SLEEPS50," "CAMPZILA," and "SMORES#1" attached to vehicles speeding down the northbound lane of some highway.

But these leisure seeking migrants, flush with cash on arrival, don't stay long. By August's end you'll see them on street corners, pockets inside out, pan-handling for Petoskey stones and autographed photos of the city manager. And then, like the swallows of Capistrano, they're gone until next year.

Ever in search of answers to the great mysteries in life, I compiled a list of why people flock to northern Michigan, Charlevoix in particular, each summer.

10. Fudge. I'd put it higher on the list, but c'mon, nobody travels hundreds of miles just for fudge, even the fudgies know that.

9. Clean beaches. Heck, it beats spending the dog days cheek-deep in a kiddie pool near downtown Saginaw.

8. The world's second largest cherry pie pan. Though some people become irate when they discover the pastry was gone years ago.

7. To get on my uncle's nerves. Just ask him, he'll tell you.

6. Charlevoix is a haunt for famous people like actor Brian Dennehy and writer Ernest Hemingway. My Editor swears she once spotted Dennehy at Village Inn Pizza and Hemingway got the license for his first marriage here.

5. We're the only city, quite possibly in the world, with a mayor named "Boogie."

4. The City of Charlevoix is located on an isthmus between Lake Michigan and Round Lake, and who doesn't like saying "isthmus?" Isthmus, ladies and gentleman, isthmus. But don't say it with a mouthful of fudge, it's messy and just plain rude.

3. Petunias. Even in midsummer, when our population swells to 30,000 or so, the petunia to people ratio is like 4:1, which makes this one of the best smelling cities in Michigan. Ironically, unlike Rose City, which is overpopulated by dairy farms and smells nothing like roses.

2. Venetian. What other time of the year can you walk around town holding deep-fried bread and spun sugar without drawing dirty looks?

Staff writer Benjamin Gohs goes undercover for this column to discover what makes a Charlevoix tourist tick.

1. And the number one reason people flock here each summer, as told to me by an old Irish train engineer — (no, this isn't the beginning of a joke) we have the largest natural air conditioner known to man — Lake Michigan. And the town is clean, quiet and beautiful.

I couldn't have said it better myself.

Here's to you Charlevoix. May this be your best summer yet.

P.S. Last one in the water is a rotten egg.

Soaking in the sights and sounds of summer

Gayle Gennett
'A look at life'

June 21 marks the beginning of summer but I already knew that without looking at the calendar.

I've already earned one parking ticket, waited 20 minutes in line for an oil change and paid my $3 dues to cross the Ironton Ferry. Yep, summer is here and with it come bugs, baby strollers and hikers as well as tickets, tolls and tremendous traffic. I'm really not complaining even though it may sound like it. It just takes me a little more time getting used to it when it's so quiet the remaining nine months of the year.

I need to remind myself as I side-step someone taking in the sights as I patiently walk across the bridge that I visit other small resort towns too and I'm certain they feel a bit put out by my presence in their otherwise serene surroundings.

Money spent by tourists and summer residents have a positive impact on Charlevoix the Beautiful and once in awhile I need to step back and remind myself of just that.

Without the financial support from some of our summer residents we wouldn't have the classy Charlevoix Public Library which will soon open its doors this fall. With its beautiful windows and architecture reminiscent of times past, it's a facility large enough to house enough research books that would be the envy of any Ivy League institution.

We also wouldn't have a top notch medical facility such as Charlevoix Area Hospital. I was amazed at the new additions made available with large donations from locals but many summer residents as well. The Sleep Center attracts patients from miles away and is as comfy as a four star hotel. While caring for my father the staff in physical therapy went out of their way to provide me with items needed to keep my dad comfortable during his extended stay. I am grateful there are generous donors supporting both of these entities even though they may only live here during the summer months.

When I walk downtown, the stores both old and new seem to be attracting visitors and locals alike. Hopefully, this will be a booming summer to keep Charlevoix merchants out of the red. The addition of the deck at the Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant has brought in flocks of individuals looking for excellent dining with a view. The recent remodeling and adding space to the downstairs area will make it especially appealing for weddings and large gatherings. I hope this thought process continues.

As I walk the shores of Lake Michigan and dip my hand in to test the water temperature, I am always in awe at how clean it is and how beautiful the shoreline appears next to the texture of pine trees and bright blue sky. I again remind myself that I am lucky to live in such a pristine area and have such excellent facilities so close at hand.

So I'll try not complaining when I have to wait a little longer to cross the bridge, pay for groceries, or stand in line at the Post Office. After all, it's summer and this is what it's all about. I had to chuckle this morning as Linda Wertz was taking her morning stroll and passed our home. She paused for a brief moment and took in her surroundings — a beautiful blue, clear northern Michigan sky and grass as green as turf. She turned to me and said, "I can't believe I live here," which she then followed up with, "I say the same thing in the winter but the inflection it quite a bit different." We agreed and we went on with our day but the thought didn't leave me right away. She's right, and I knew exactly what she meant.

Letters to the editor

'Thank you' school staff
Editor:

This is an open letter to thank the teachers, administrators, staff, support staff and everyone involved in the Charlevoix Public School system. My three sons have been raised and educated in this special Charlevoix community. With my youngest graduating this week, I have been reflecting on the past 20 years of collaboration with you on their education.

I have been blessed with bright and healthy kids. We have gone through the many trials of adolescence with exhilarating ups, and excruciating downs. Joys and sorrows are the constant companions of any parent. Raising kids is not for the timid.

The point is that I have felt consistently welcome whenever I have come to you for help. Your reassurance, partnership, understanding and flexibility regarding my boys helped present a caring, united effort in their lives. Many of you have gone far out of your way to lend a hand during especially difficult times. I appreciate your support and advice more than you can ever know.

I know from my brief opportunities observing, volunteering or working in the schools what an enormous job you do and how little appreciation you receive. If all you had to do was educate, by that I mean the actual reading, writing and arithmetic information, I think that is great enough challenge in itself. Of course, more and more is expected as each year goes by. The state, parents, the community, business leaders and others all have their own agendas. You are also expected to teach self-respect, respect for others, self-discipline, basic manners and hygiene, appropriate social interaction, nutrition, physical health, responsibility, consistency. Need I go on? The amazing thing to me is that so many of you are willing to stand in as mentors, sometimes even surrogate parents, to a great many kids who are in need.

Was all that in your job description?

I am so very proud of my young men and how they have matured. You have played an important part in their development and I thank you for that. I really just want to tell you that what you do is appreciated, that your efforts are noticed, and that your dedication is truly inspiring.

'Thank you' hospice supporters
Editor:

On June 2 Hospice of Northwest Michigan (formerly Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.) sponsored another successful benefit auction using the theme, "An Evening In Camelot with Hospice of Northwest Michigan." A sincere thank you to all the artists, crafters and businesses in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties who donated to the auction. I want to thank all of the volunteers, especially those of Hospice of Northwest Michigan and its board of directors.

This is our major fund-raising event for the year and many others should be thanked personally for their generosity. Thank you to all who attended and made generous bids. Your support allows us to continue to provide volunteer and grief and bereavement services to those in our communities. Hospice of Northwest Michigan, in partnership with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, provides a comprehensive hospice program to those with a life-limiting illness. We are very grateful to all of the people who supported us, in any way, that evening.

Cost of prosecuting vandals
Editor:

I believe the coverage of the current legal difficulties encountered by the Charlevoix High School students, needs to be expanded. As Paul Harvey would say, "The other part of the story," I, like most other area individuals, was appalled that graduating students would show their appreciation to their town and school by committing vandalism. I had read initially that the graduates involved would not be allowed to walk at the graduation. Then, I heard a rumor that "Because of who they are" they would be walking at graduation. Then I read about the arrests.

Since restitution was offered and rejected by the school system, it appears to me that this is a vindictive effort to persecute these particular young people in a misguided effort to prevent future graduation pranks. These students went into the school to move furniture around. My understanding is there is very little actual damage and most of the cost is in rekeying the locks.

Should these young people be punished? You bet. Should they have to do community service to pay back the damage? You bet. Should their parents have to pay for any and all damages? You bet. Do we the taxpayers really want to pay the cost for 14 or more separate prosecutions to send our recent graduates into the world as criminals? I don't think so.

Fond farewell to Troppmans
Editor:

It was with genuine regret that we learned of Janet and Dale Troppman's plans to leave Charlevoix for Traverse City.

A Charlevoix Courier article drew an inspiring portrait of Janet, retiring principal of St. Mary School, and her encompassing love for children.

Praise should also be heaped on Dale for his role in the completion of the community indoor pool. At a point in the early 1990s with the pool project temporarily stalled for lack of a contractor, Dale came to the rescue by volunteering his engineering skills to supervise construction.

He gave uncounted hours to this project which has become such a boon to the community. Children, especially the mentally and physically handicapped, are the greatest beneficiaries of his dedication.

Along with many others in Charlevoix, we are grateful to Janet and Dale and join in saying a heartfelt "thank you." Truly, they will be missed.

Wind energy

Editor:

I had the good fortune this week to listen to a technical paper by professor Angus Rockett of the University of Illinois on "Photovoltaic technologies options and implementation." Although his major thrust was solar energy conversion, he had a very credible assessment of most of the other energy sources including: biomass, wind, coal, gas and nuclear. I'll touch here only on the renewable sources of biomass, wind and solar. He showed maps of how much land area would be required by each of these to provide all of the U.S. energy needs. In the case of biomass, he showed that it would require half the world. For wind generation, he showed that an area about the size of North and South Dakota was needed. For solar energy, it needed only the area of Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada. I was encouraged by the prospect of being able to cover all of our energy needs with these renewable sources, and to not be dependent on any foreign sources of energy.

With respect to wind turbines, in crossing Germany last September, I was impressed with the fact that large turbines, of the type we have in Mackinaw City, were all over the countryside, and the locals are happy with that. I was told this week that they love them in the Netherlands. I said, "Well, that's logical, it is part of their tradition." But I was told that they like them because they see energy being harvested without needing oil. A gentleman from Denmark said they put most of their turbines off shore, over the water.

We have heard a lot of arguments against wind turbines as being unsightly and hazardous because they are tall. However, I have not heard those kind of arguments against cell phone towers which already pave our countryside and have the same characteristics.

Engagement

Gibbard — Waterman

Cassie Gibbard and Greg Waterman of Ellsworth are announcing their engagement and plans for an Aug. 5 wedding at the Lighthouse Missionary Church in East Jordan.

Cassie is the daughter of Gale Thorman of Kalamazoo. She is employed by Bill Gengle Insurance Agency in Charlevoix.

Greg is the son of Charles and Peg Waterman of Kalkaska and Linda and Lou Rogalmer of Eastlake, Ohio.

Andy Tuck to perform at free chamber orchestra concert June 25

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra will perform a free summer concert at 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 25 at Castle Farms, located off M-66 just outside of Charlevoix.

According to Dale Hull, executive director of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra, "Castle Farms is one of the more elegant and historically significant concert venues in northern Michigan. We are privileged to be invited by the Mueller's of Castle Farms to perform this free concert."

The performance will feature works by Grieg, Vivaldi, Rosau, as well as a Concerto for Two Violas and Orchestra by Wranitsky. The solo elements in the viola concerto will be performed by Charlevoix's own Andy Tuck, the young virtuoso who began his short but exciting career on the viola with the Crooked Tree Arts Center's Beginning Strings program just six years ago.

Tuck is about to enter his second full year at Interlochen Arts Academy where he studies under David Holland who will play the other viola in the Concerto for Two Violas.

Fortunately, he has again been awarded a scholarship for another academic year. Members of the community are collecting the $14,000 necessary to cover the difference between the cost of a year at Interlochen and the scholarship.

Contributions may be made by sending a check to Crooked Tree Arts Center, 461 East Mitchell Street, Petoskey, MI 49770, making a note on the memo line that it is for Andy Tuck.

Ian Sullivan will perform the Marimba Concerto by Rosau. Sullivan is 17 years old. He graduated from the Interlochen Arts Academy in May 2006, winning the Fine Arts Award in Percussion and also honored as a Concerto Contest Award Winner for 2005-2006. This year, Sullivan was also awarded the Arts Merit Award in Percussion by the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts.

The performance of Vivaldi's Concerto for Piccolo and Orchestra will feature Nancy Stagnitta, the virtuoso flute and piccolo performer who teaches at Interlochen Arts Academy.

"With the help of our generous sponsors, William and Karen Schuiling of Charlevoix and Great Lakes Energy People Fund of Boyne City, this concert is a gift to both the art form and the people of Charlevoix County," Hull said.

For more information, call Hull at (231) 347-2731.

Car accident claims the life of John Gaskin

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Editor

Charlevoix resident John Gaskin spent the morning of June 15 with his wife Pat performing the couple's summer ritual, preparing a flat of strawberries for freezing.

As he set out that afternoon to buy his favorite edibles from Cross Fisheries he had no idea it would be his final tour around town.

"The circumstances were so sudden. He just deserved better than that, we all did. He's going to be sorely missed all over town," said Dave Miles, Gaskin's close friend and co-director of the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum.

Gaskin, 91, died June 15 at Charlevoix Area Hospital from internal injuries he sustained in a traffic accident he was involved in at around 3:45 p.m. that day.

As Pat arrived at her husband's bedside, just before he succumbed to his injuries, she whispered, "I'm here."

He responded, "I knew you would be."

"I couldn't have asked for any more of an opportunity to be with him at a time of need and ending," she said.

Gaskin was driving his 1995 Buick Park Avenue and turned left onto M-66 from the Charlevoix Estates driveway into the path of Claudia Libbey, 57, of East Jordan, who was traveling south on M-66 in a 2001 Ford Taurus.

Libbey wasn't injured. But the crash resulted in full impact to the driver's side of Gaskin's vehicle and his death.

The next morning, at 6:30 a.m. Pat, who usually isn't an early riser woke and peered out the back window of the Gaskin home. A bright, red sun broke through the clouds at that moment.

"It was triumphant. I could hear John, 'I'm here,'" she said. "The material circumstances don't matter. It was his time. He'll always be with us — the inspiration he gave us, his zest for life, his determination to keep doing — I know we'll go on with a lot of grace. He always said, 'I have no regrets about my life.' I can say that with him and for him."

Gaskin was born on Sept. 1, 1914 in Charlevoix to James and Constance (Iddings) Gaskin. His grandfather, Harvey Lee Iddings, was the first mayor of the City of Charlevoix. Iddings was in office from 1905-1907.

His full life included service with the United States Coast Guard during World War II and a successful professional career as owner and operator of Arrow Saw and Tree in the greater Detroit area. He marched during the 2006 Memorial Day parade and stood at attention during the lengthy decommissioning ceremony of the Coast Guard cutter Acacia early this month.

While he spent many years in the Detroit area, since returning to Charlevoix in 1981, Gaskin has made immeasurable community contributions.

Friends say goodbye to ardent historical society supporter

Many knew him well for his involvement with the Charlevoix Historical Society where he was a life member and a past president. Over the past four years, he went door-to-door selling calendars packed with historic photos to help fund society projects.

"He was one of the best and most staunch supporters we've (the society) ever had," Miles said. "For a man his age he was phenomenal. His mind was sharp, he was enthusiastic and he loved people. You don't really know how much you are going to miss someone until they're gone."

In August 2005 Gaskin donated a framed picture of Iddings kicking off the mayoral gallery to be hung in council chambers at Charlevoix City Hall.

With his nine decades of knowledge about Charlevoix and a unique ability to restore artifacts, he also contributed to the wealth of information available to the community.

Gaskin restored the railroad express cart at the Depot Museum and in November 2005 steered a project to display the historic significance of the bridge over the Pine River Channel.

Due in part to his efforts, Hoffman Park, located just half a block from downtown off of Park Avenue, now commemorates the rich history of the bridge by displaying some pieces of its past.

Gaskin's contribution is a bridge key comprised of a 16-foot oak handle and a four-and-a-half foot steel shaft. It was used for bridge number three, the first swing bridge, built in 1879 and operated until 1899. It took two people to turn the key and bridge number three took eight minutes to open and close.

Gaskin was also a key player in the revitalization of the Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission. Other organizations in which he was a member include the Christian Science Church; the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom; the "Crunkun T's" - Model T Ford Club International; the Michigan Antique Arms and Ohio Gun Collectors; the Charlevoix Lions Club; the Charlevoix Yacht Club; Three Fires Muzzle Loaders; and Friends of Greenfield Village.

A Christian Science memorial service in his honor took place on Sunday, June 18, at the Greensky Hill United Methodist Church.

Pat said when winter comes she may consider following through with the couple's plan to move to Virginia. But for now, she said she feels blessed to be in Charlevoix, where the community has reached out to her in a number of cherished ways in the wake of her husband's death.

Farewell Ardeth

Waltonen pleads to drug and prostitution charges

Criminal sexual conduct charges could still be handed down

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Lloyd Waltonen

Arrested in February, 42-year-old, Lloyd Waltonen of Charlevoix pled to five charges on Thursday, June 15.

According to chief assistant Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Shaynee Fanara, Waltonen pled to five charges in all.

"He pled to two counts of delivery of oxycontin, which are 20-year felonies, he also pled to attempted maintaining a drug house, which is a one year, attempted eavesdropping, installing a device, which is a one year for video taping (the alleged victims) and prostitution, which is a 90-day misdemeanor," she said. "The reason that we offered a plea this close to trial was to eliminate the victims and witnesses having to testify twice."

Fanara added, "I didn't want the victims or witnesses to have to go through that. It's hard enough to go through it once, but to have to do it twice is definitely not fair."

Waltonen was originally charged with four felony counts of delivery of drugs, each of which carry possible 20-year prison terms, four felony counts of maintaining a drug house, each of which carry two-year possible prison sentences, four misdemeanor counts of prostitution and one felony count of eavesdropping with a video, which carries a possible five-year prison sentence.

According to summaries of testimony by two women in an affidavit of probable cause given by to Charlevoix County Sheriff's detective corporal Chuck Vondra,

"The reason that we offered a plea this close to trial was to eliminate the victims and witnesses having to testify twice."

Shaynee Fanara,
Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor

Waltonen forced oral and vaginal sex in exchange for oxycontin and methadone.

A search warrant executed at Waltonen's residence on Feb. 9 resulted in seizure of pill bottles labeled Lloyd Waltonen containing methadone, oxycodone, amphetamines and Adderall XR pills.

Waltonen is scheduled to be sentenced on June 30.

While Waltonen received a plea deal on the former charges, Fanara said this will in no way limit the prosecutor's office from going forward with possible criminal sexual conduct charges if the court of appeals finds in their favor.

Circuit Court Judge, Richard Pajtas originally quashed four, first-degree criminal sexual conduct charges which were appealed by Fanara on April 13 when she filed an objection and a motion to reconsider.

Pajtas then issued an April 19 order denying the chief assistant's motion for reconsideration.

"The issue presented to the court in the defendant's motion to quash is whether or not criminal sexual conduct can be charged where a person engages in consensual sexual intercourse in exchange for illegal drugs," Pajtas stated in the order. "The answer is obvious. There can be no criminal sexual conduct where the sexual conduct is between two consenting adults."

Pajtas, in his order, further stated,

"This court has reviewed the entire preliminary examination transcript. The complainant's testimony was unequivocal that while she didn't desire to have sex, she voluntarily did so to obtain illegal drugs. While there may be probable cause to charge the supplier of the drugs with prostitution, he or she does not commit CSC first degree," he states in the order denying reconsideration. Waltonen is being held in Charlevoix County Jail with bond set at $50,000.

He was charged as a habitual offender for two prior felony convictions from the early 1990s when he was convicted of assault with a dangerous weapon and a felony firearm violation. This means if found guilty of these charges he could face twice the maximum sentence prescribed.

Fanara awaits a decision from the court of appeals on the alleged criminal sexual conduct aspect of the case.

Legality of commission meeting questioned

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Unofficial watchdog of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, Boh Taylor, scrutinizes, aids and forewarns them to avoid potential violations.

During the May 10 meeting of the board, Taylor, a concerned Bay Township resident, cautioned the board on properly posted and upheld meeting times — 12 days later, an incorrect meeting time of 7 p.m. was published in the Petoskey News-Review for the June 14 meeting which actually took place at 3 p.m.

"I told them the requirements during the (May 10) meeting," Taylor said.

During the June 14 meeting, Taylor identified an incorrect time posted on the county building and challenged the legality of that day's meeting.

Sixth District Commissioner, Shirley Roloff and chairman of the board, Vic Patrick, followed Taylor to witness the notice which stated, "Their next meeting will be held on Wednesday, June 14 at 7 p.m."

"(First District Commissioner) Connie Saltonstall is my representative for district one in Bay Township and I was hopeful that she would pursue this issue in order to get the postings proper," Taylor said. "I would have felt better if she would've at least gone out and checked the posting and shown more interest."

Taylor added, "(County Clerk) Jane Brannon has ignored this information and so has the county commission, and I believe there is intent here because they were notified at the same time what had to be done to properly post the meeting information."

According to Brannon, a correct committee meeting roster is located in a locked case in a conspicuous place in the county building.

"It's on the county's Web site and it's published, normally, in five newspapers," she said. "It's not like they're (board) trying to hold secret meetings."

Brannon, who wasn't aware of the incorrect time posted in the Petoskey News-Review, said she isn't too worried about the outcome of this event.

"It's not like it wasn't posted at all," she said. "But Mr. Taylor, of course, is ever studious on the law and ever sure about it, I'm sure he will find something."

When you're dealing with the volume of notices her office does, it's not out of the ordinary to make mistakes once in awhile, Brannon said. "When you type over things it can happen. Sometimes a date is wrong. Sometimes a time is wrong. But it's not done on purpose," she said.

Saltonstall, who said she did respond to Taylor during the meeting, alerted Patrick and the clerk's office as soon as she realized the time was incorrect.

"On June 7, we took that notice down to the clerk's office and nobody took responsibility for how that notice got up and why it was wrong. We assumed the clerk's office would correct it," Saltonstall said. "There was no malice involved. We weren't trying to, as the News-Review said, (pull) 'Shenanigans.'"

She added, "(There were) important issues that went on at our meeting and for the newspaper to only cover 'the mistake' is unfair to the commissioners and the public. I think the (Thursday, June 15 News-Review) headline 'Illegal Meeting?' was unfair."

Saltonstall, who said she will do anything she can to maintain proper meetings, said, in context, this isn't as big of a deal as some are making it out to be.

"I was told that, because it (incorrect time) wasn't deliberate, the meeting did not have to be redone," she said. "If you'll notice, everyone seemed to be at the meeting, so somehow he (Taylor) found out the meeting was at three o'clock."

Taylor said he hopes to see Saltonstall and the other commissioners work toward correcting this issue for the benefit of the public.

"They've had meetings in the past that were canceled at the last minute because they were not properly posted," Taylor said. "I let them know how they should be posted and no action was taken by the county board of commissioners."

He added, "I've talked to the prosecuting attorney's office on this issue as well as others and he is waiting for me to file a letter with him on what we need to do to correct these issues."

Matthew Novotny

The Lions in attendance applauded when Charlevoix High School principal Gary Grundman recounted the near perfect classroom records of each of the five honorees.

Charlevoix Junior Golf League executive director, Dean Davenport described the impressive golfing career of Parker over his eight years in the youth golf program.

Then, Haselschwardt, Novotny and Parker gave short presentations on their future plans and answered club-member questions about the activities that lead to their selection.

Benefit dinner planned for Harmon children

By JULIE WITTHOEFT

Charlevoix residents Reva Scott and Robert Harmon are facing the greatest challenge parents can endure, a 1-year-old daughter suffering from multiple ailments and a 3-year-old son diagnosed with lymphoma.

Scott fought back tears as she spoke June 16 from a rest stop on her way home from the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

"It sears you to death. It's your children and there's nothing you can do to help them," the 23-year-old mother of two said. "We've done a lot of crying and a lot of praying."

Her daughter, Meghan Harmon was born with spina bifida and hydrocephalus, an abnormal accumulation of cerebrospinal fluid within cavities of the brain.

"She's really happy. She goes to physical and occupational therapy each week. Her life's different but socially she's doing great. Doctors are hopeful some day she'll learn to walk," Scott said.

Now, 14 months after Meghan's birth, as the couple has become accustomed to caring for her, they've been met with Troy's diagnosis of lymphoma.

After Scott began noticing the lymph nodes in her son's body were all abnormally swollen, testing confirmed her greatest fear, her son has cancer. Troy underwent surgery to remove two lymph nodes in his neck on May 25 at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

"The doctors are hopeful so that's reassuring. They (doctors) think it's (the prognosis) pretty good. He's so young and active and it's not to his spleen yet and from there it spreads rapidly. The surgery could be all it takes," she said.

However, more testing is needed and the trips to and from Ann Arbor continue to produce medical and travel bills beyond the family's means.

Scott, is a certified nurse's aid at Boulder Park Terrace. The children are covered by her Priority Health medical insurance plan. The children's father, Robert, is a maintenance worker at Charlevoix McDonalds.

A group of supporters, including Charlevoix business owner Mary Faculak and Boulder Park Terrace admission coordinator, Danielle Clark, have organized a spaghetti dinner benefit for the family.

Faculak, whose mother is a Boulder Park Terrace resident, said this of Scott. "She's an inspiration to all of us. With all she has on her plate, when she's at work, her compassion and care for her patients is phenomenal. She's an example for everyone she comes in contact with."

The event will take place from 4 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 29 at the Charlevoix Senior Center, located off Norwood Road. The menu will include salad, bread, spaghetti and dessert. Donations will be accepted at the door.

Scott is touched by the efforts of her friends and co-workers.

"Here, the community pulls together when people have problems. The atmosphere is beautiful and the people are really caring. It's nice to know there are still some people out there that care about other people," she said.

A benefit dinner is being planned for the children of Reva Scott (center). Her daughter, Meghan Harmon (right) was born 14 months ago afflicted with spina bifida and hydrocephalus. Her son, 3-year-old Troy Harmon (left), was recently diagnosed with lymphoma.

Those that cannot attend but would like to offer the family support can do so by sending donations payable to Reva Scott Children's Benefit Fund, Charlevoix State Bank, 111 State St. Charlevoix, MI 49720.

An estimated 2,000 people packed East Park on Saturday, July 17 for the 3rd Annual Taste of Charlevoix in spite of temperatures climbing to over 90 degrees. The event included Charlevoix restaurants and beverage vendors as well as Leelanau and Old Mission Peninsula wineries and area breweries. The 4th Annual Taste of Charlevoix will take place on June 16, 2007.

Send-off planned for final departure of Acacia

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, June 21, 2006 - PAGE 17

Who: The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia and crew
What: Final departure and community send-off
When: 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 25
Where: Pier along the Pine River Channel and Round Lake

June 25 marks the end of an era. At 4 p.m. that day, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia leaves Charlevoix for a new home in Chicago, Ill. never to return.

The Acacia was the last of her sister ships to be decommissioned on June 7. Acacia will depart her home port, Charlevoix, under the direction of Commander Keith Bills, the last captain of a 180-foot class buoy tender.

According to president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, Jacqueline Merta, Bills and the crew of Acacia have been an important part of the Charlevoix community.

"They have volunteered their time in so many areas of the community, including projects and activities at the schools, parks, and the chamber of commerce. Each year, children and adults had spooky fun as they toured the 'ghost ship' that was created by the Acacia crew. Luckily, for Charlevoix, many Coast Guard personnel have made Charlevoix their retirement community," she said.

"Charlevoixians need to bid farewell with the same enthusiasm in which they welcomed the Acacia when she arrived in 1990."

Boaters are requested to be part of the good-bye fleet which will meet on Round Lake at 3:30 p.m. to line the right-of-way to the bridge. Boaters are asked to monitor VHF Channel 71 for instructions on how to signal their good-bye. Organizers, which include the chamber of commerce, want as many boats as possible on Round Lake for this event.

Everyone is invited to be part of the good-bye ground force by lining Pine River Channel before 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 25 to wish the crew well and say farewell to the Acacia. Those in attendance are asked to bring an American and/or Coast Guard flag to wave.

For more information, call (231) 547-2101.

A send-off for the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia and her crew will take place at 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 25. The Acacia has been stationed in Charlevoix since 1990. Whether Charlevoix will receive a replacement vessel has not been confirmed.

Businesses adjust to meet high gas prices

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

With every trip to the pump, it seems gas prices keep rising. And with no relief in sight, local businesses are keeping a watchful eye on how it will affect the economy.

Way Transportation is one Charlevoix company that would seem to be affected drastically by the increase in fuel costs, but the company's controller, DJ Way, said he has things under control.

"Trucks have to move and fuel is a huge part of our business," Way said.

So every Monday morning, he receives an e-mail from the U.S. Department of Energy that lists the national average for a gallon of fuel.

Then he determines what Way Transportation should charge in what is known as a fuel surcharge based on that national average.

By tacking on the extra surcharge, which currently sits at around 20 percent, Way Transportation isn't seeing a huge dent in their pocket from fuel costs.

"The fuel surcharge will make or break you," Way said. "Anybody who's not charging a fuel surcharge, frankly, is going to have a hard time staying afloat."

"Most guys realize fuel is money. It used to be the saying, 'Time is money.'"

DJ Way,
Controller for Way Transportation

But charging more is only half the battle. Way Transportation is taking huge steps to increase fuel economy in all of their 41 trucks.

They have installed a computerized system that automatically inflates tires if they fall below 100 pounds per square inch and have put a cap on the speed of the trucks. Now the maximum speed is 65 mph.

"Most guys realize fuel is money," Way said. "It used to be the saying 'Time is money.'"

By ordering trucks made of aluminum and buying wider tires, Way Transportation is increasing fuel economy.

They have also implemented a 30-second rule. If the truck is going to be idle for more than 30 seconds, the driver must turn the engine off.

"Everyone's working harder, and everyone's getting smarter," Way said.

But even with cutting back, Way Transportation can only do so much.

"Companies are not having to swallow the cost of fuel, it's the end user unfortunately," he said. "And that's in every industry."

The lodging industry is also making the best of the gas price situation.

"We haven't seen too much of an affect as of yet," said Chris Kowal, general manager of the Edgewater Inn.

Kowal did consider offering a gas voucher to customers, but decided business was not being affected as much as originally thought.

"We determined it's probably not worth our while," Kowal said. "It could possibly have a negative effect by bringing people's attention to the higher gas prices."

Even without offering a gas voucher, the Edgewater Inn has seen an increase in business overall compared to last year.

As far as other industries are concerned, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce president Jacqueline Merta is positive this summer's business won't be affected by gasoline prices.

"I think we're going to have a wonderful summer season even though gas prices are higher," she said.

DJ Way, controller for Way Transportation of Charlevoix, stands by one of the many trucks in the Way fleet. The company has made several adjustments to account for rising fuel costs. Businesses in the hospitality industry haven't seen an impact from gas on the tourist season.

Michelle Witthoeft joins Synergy Investments

Synergy Investment Group is pleased to announce the addition of Michelle Witthoeft to their staff.

Witthoeft will be working as a financial planner along with Dan Koffman, president of the northern Michigan group, and Colby Mahan, vice-president and registered options principal. Witthoeft will be specializing in family and personal financial planning with a primary focus on insured annuities and life insurance.

"Many people feel they need to have money set aside to invest in order to work with a financial advisor, but that just isn't true," Witthoeft said. "We offer free, no-obligation consultations that help you determine whether you are on the right path to meet your financial goals, and the best part is there's no guilt involved. Even if you have done nothing up until this point, the fact that you are ready to work with someone who can help you look at the big picture is all you need to do to get started. That's the whole reason why I decided to get into this business. A lot of people could really use the peace of mind you get from knowing that you are taking care of both your immediate and long-term financial needs."

Witthoeft will be filling the position of life settlement advisor.

"Synergy has had a tremendous response to our recent addition of life settlements to our product line and Witthoeft will be spearheading the marketing and client education for this line of business. Life settlements offer customers the opportunity to sell their unwanted or expiring life insurance policies for cash. We have seen worthwhile term policies sell for significant cash using life settlements, and cash value policy holders are receiving huge multiples above their current surrender value," Koffman said.

"Teaching people to avoid the common pitfalls in financial planning is tremendously rewarding," added Witthoeft. "Most people just don't know these opportunities exist. Selling an expiring term policy for cash or reducing someone's premiums by as much as 85 percent can provide the otherwise unknown means to a more comfortable retirement."

Witthoeft brings to Synergy a broad background in sales and service. She received a master's of business administration from Northern Michigan University and has worked at LexaLife International Corporation as administrative services manager and most recently for Sprox, Inc.

"Synergy Investment Group strives to be a total financial services solution under one roof," Koffman said. "Our services include direct investments with stocks, bonds, mutual funds, options, IRA's, tax-free investments, FDIC insured CD's, tax deferred annuities, domestic and foreign securities, and estate and business planning. We also offer extremely competitive insurance rates for life, disability and long-term care insurance. As a non-captive agency, we can search dozens of carriers to best meet your needs."

The Synergy office is located at 6677 U.S. 31 South, Suite C in Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 237-9280 or visit www.synergyinvestments.com.

Charlevoix Yacht Club race results

The Charlevoix Yacht Club's June 17 Pine Lake Regatta night race was sailed in heavy winds shifting to moderate by the end of the evening.

Five boats participated in the race, which consisted of a course from Charlevoix to Boyne City and back in one evening. Because of the steady winds, all boats were able to finish in three to four hours.

Race results provided by Keith Attee, co-committee chair.

Single Class — Spinnaker Fleet: 1 — Hoi Polloi (Attee); 2 — Northern Light (Orlow); 3 — Windswept (Smolensky); 4 — Windrunner (Pirie); 5 — Artemis (Bowerman).

The Charlevoix Yacht Club race results for June 14 are:

The fifth race of the spring series was sailed in dying winds. A shift in wind direction called for a change of course, which made the race into a triangle and three windward-leeward legs. As a result of the light winds, P-26 and Spinnaker A fleets did not finish within the required time limit and were not scored. Next week's race results will determine the final standings for the series.

Jib and Main fleet: 1 — Sail La Vie (Williamson); 2 — Flash (Gordon); 3 — Booma (Gosling/Tyra); 4 — Exitus (Pung).

Spinnaker B fleet: 1 — Gotcha! (Dow/Mueller); 2 — Moxie (Jensen); 3 — Affinity (Strawbridge); 4 — Windrunner (Pirie); 5 — Northern Light (Orlow); 6 — Padawan 2 (Lamb); 7 — Hoi Polloi (Attee).

Belvedere Golf Club to host Hickory Open

Charlevoix's own classic golf course, the Belvedere Golf Club, will host The Hickory Open, an antique golf tournament, June 30 through July 1.

"The Hickory Open is a great gathering of 'like-minded' souls who appreciate the game for all of the good things about it," said Fred Muller, founder of the Hickory Open.

Contestants in the event's low-gross division must use authentic, pre-1935 golf clubs with wooden shafts and leather-wrapped grips. Golfers in the low-net division may use approved reproductions, often shipped in from England.

Muller is head golf professional at the esteemed Crystal Downs Country Club in Frankfurt.

"We started the event at the Kingsley Club and then endeavored to move the event around to really good golf courses while keeping the Kingsley Club in the rotation," Muller explained.

The Kingsley Club is a traditional-style golf course, located in Glen Arbor.

"We are honored to host the Hickory Open," said Tom Conlan, general manager at Belvedere Golf Club. "Our top-rated, classic course is a natural fit for The Hickory. The players will enjoy a round of golf surrounded by history and serene beauty — the way the game was meant to be played."

The Belvedere Golf Club was designed by Scotsman Willie Watson and constructed by 150 men with five teams of horses in 1927. It is a 6,715-yard, par-72 course Tom Watson, almost every summer.

Participation in the two-round, two-day tournament is limited to 36 players. A $240 entry fee includes one practice round. Those interested in playing should contact Ralph Livingston at Ralph@hickorygolf.com or visit www.Hickorygolf.com

Bible Baptist Church to host weekend revival

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Those looking for refreshment of the spirit may enjoy the Bible Baptist Church of Charlevoix's old time revival themed, "Something Real."

Pastor James Green

At 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sunday, June 25 and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday June 26 to June 30, the Charlevoix Middle School grounds behind the American Legion building will be the scene for a 250-person tent packed with

Friske Orchards' Strawberry Social is June 24

Friske Orchard's Farm Market showcases the start of another fresh fruit season at their annual Strawberry Social, to take place from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 24.

The day begins with a strawberry pancake breakfast at the Orchard Cafe and u-pick strawberries at the farm off Doctor Road.

Besides strawberries, the highlight of the event is the gathering of northern Michigan Early American Handcrafters. Handcrafts which will be demonstrated include quilting, weaving, chair caning, basket making, crocheting, hand stitching, soap making and more.

Other activities will include wagon rides, feeding the barnyard animals, completing the rope maze and enjoying live music both in the cafe and outdoors. Miss Strawberry will greet you and even give "strawberry tattoos" to all the young and young at heart.

Strawberry recipes and lots of strawberry sampling will be available. Homemade treats like strawberry shortcake and strawberry-rhubarb pie will be served all day long.

Friske's Farm Market is located 10 miles south of Charlevoix off U.S. 31 at Atwood. For more information, call (231) 599-2604.

singing, music and old time evangelizing.

"A revival is a series of meetings to renew spiritual interest," said Baptist pastor, Jim Green. "We have a lot of gospel music with various groups performing."

Green and evangelist Jason Kendrick from Pensacola, Fla. are the featured speakers for the week.

"The main difference between a revival and a regular church service is, a revival is typically more upbeat and of an evangelistic spirit," Green said. "And the neat thing about an open air tent revival is that it's on neutral ground and people feel more like it's open to the public than if it were on church grounds."

Pastor Jason Kendrick

The event is hosted by the Bible Baptist Church of Charlevoix. There is no cost for admission.

"This is an area wide meeting that invites all public to attend, regardless of faith," Green said.

This revival will be similar to the annual events held by other congregations in Boyne City, Wolverine and Gaylord.

Green's father has put on revivals for nearly 50 years and Green, who has been with the Charlevoix church for 19 years, said it just comes natural.

"I come from a long line of preachers, I'm a fourth generation preacher," he said. "It's something that's a tradition in our family."

Green said his church decided they needed to bring a spiritual renewal to the people of Charlevoix via this revival.

"I would like to see people find real peace," he said. "The theme of the whole week is something real — we want people to find something real in their spiritual walk in life."

He added, "Any faith is welcome. We would like for people to come and enjoy some good old-fashioned music and some good old-fashioned preaching."

Big Rock Point exhibit opens on June 30

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

While it may have taken 14 months to complete an exhibit on Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, its history, from groundbreaking to deconstruction, was more than 45 years in the making.

Grand opening of the exhibit is at 1 p.m. on June 30 at the Depot at Depot Beach in Charlevoix. The exhibit will last all summer long from 1 to 4 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays until Saturday, Sept. 2. It resumes Friday, Sept. 8 through Oct. 14 on Fridays and Saturdays only.

"We began working on the exhibit in April of 2005," said Harsha House Museum co-director, Dave Miles. "We think this is the biggest thing we've ever done and we think this is going to be one of the best things we've ever done."

He added, "It's going to be enormously informative and that's what we want...to tell people the life and times and impact Big Rock has had on northern lower Michigan."

The exhibit will offer photos, models, representations of parts used in the plant and even some genuine pieces from Big Rock.

The seven-and-a-half by four-and-a-half foot, near scale model of the plant from the old Big Rock Point visitor center will be on display.

"This was always out there and I think we'll have three or four phones that we'll have the original taped message that people could listen to telling them how the plant operated," Miles said.

In chronological order, the Depot will feature every aspect of the plant, from dedication and construction to an explanation of the fuel pellets and how they were transferred to and from the reactor.

The 200 photos in the exhibit range from the turbine, the dedication speech on May 21, 1963 by then Michigan Governor, George Romney and even the first computer at the plant.

"The first computer that went in had nothing to do with plant operations, it was only used for fuel analysis," Miles said. "The memory drive weighed 800 pounds and was driven by a one-horsepower motor. It had a memory of 300,000 bytes."

Karen Lewis, exhibit chair for the Harsha House Museum and the Depot, said her husband was the man who programmed it.

"He punched holes into a paper tape, and he didn't do it byte by byte, he did it hit by bit," Miles said.

The history will range from 1968 to 1997.

"It set national and world records for longevity and production for a plant of its size and type," Miles said.

"And, from 1963 to 1985 the strategic air command (SAC) used it for a test bombing site. Now, not real bombs, electronic ones. If you talk around town you'll have a lot of people remembering that in Bay Shore there was a radar station. That they would score the success of their dropping bombs down the emission stacks by radar and a camera in the bomb bay would score the accuracy."

He added, "While flying over, however, in January 1971, a B-52 blew up in Little Traverse Bay heading for the plant. They still don't really know why. Five lives were lost. It was only 11 seconds away from the plant."

In 22 years there were 10,000 flights over Big Rock.

"When they would take off again, they would break the sound barrier and all of Charlevoix would shake," said Lewis. "In fact, some of the store windows in Charlevoix broke."

Miles said, he too, remembers the sonic booms created by the bombers.

"I was living in Florence, Italy and my mother would write to me once a week," he said. "One time I got a letter and the pen point went right off the paper. Sure enough, one of the planes had

Ventilation issues at county jail

System repairs to cost the county at least $200,000

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Charlevoix County may be facing at least $200,000 in repairs to the heating and cooling system at the county jail.

According to Rhodes Engineering of Traverse City, which recently studied the jail's air quality, various elements of the heating, air conditioning and ventilation system at the jail need to be fixed, replaced or removed.

"Before we get to that step (paying for repairs) is there something to look at through perhaps insurance through the contract that was awarded initially to do the build-ings," questioned Second District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Randy Frykberg. "Has that even been considered or thought about before we go out and spend $200,000?"

Members of the Charlevoix County Building and Grounds committee then asked John Jarema, the county board of commissioners' civil counsel, to review all the information which deals with the case and determine what, if any, action can be taken on the matter.

"What I would propose to the board is to look at the insurance or contract aspect of it and prioritize," Jarema said. "We need to do something soon, and if you're going to just authorize the whole ball of wax, then have at it, but I think you need to prioritize it."

Fifth District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Dennis Jason, said he wants Jarema's office to look into possible retribution from the contractor, engineer or architect.

"We're not out to spend $200,000," Jason said.

Sixth District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Shirley Roloff, said this has been going on for more than two years.

"The report is very clear," said First District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Connie Saltonstall. "It has the recommendation of what needs to be done and it's also very clear that the work was not done to specification."

She added, "The statute of limitations is six years. I don't know what the contract says, but I think we definitely need to try this. The work needs to be done and I think we should attempt to have this

Charlevoix bids teary adieu to Acacia

On Sunday, June 25, the "Ace of the Lakes," Coast Guard Cutter Acacia left Charlevoix for the last time as hundreds of people waved, shouted their good-byes and even cried. Decommissioned on June 7, the World War II era icebreaker headed off for Chicago, Ill. where it will become a floating museum. On Tuesday, June 27, the House of Representatives voted unanimously on a bill, which if approved by the Senate, would require the Coast Guard to maintain ice breaking assets in northern Michigan with an understanding that the asset would go to Charlevoix. A complete story will follow in the July 5 Courier.

Rhodes engineering will do none of the repairs, they only gave recommendations for areas which the air quality was assessed.

"It doesn't include the whole building, so I think that number is going to be considerably higher," said Charlevoix County Jail Administrator, Babette Meggison. "And truly, there is almost nowhere in that building where it (air quality) isn't a problem."

Jarema, who advised the board to begin gathering bids on the project, met with the renovation committee at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, June 22, at which time he was given all contracts, correspondence and other materials related to the case.

"I think the plan of attack is to try and immediately address the problem with the air quality in the jail and to try and remedy this situation," Jarema said. "The second part of the attack is to try and figure out how we got in this position in the first place."

Roloff added, "We can't wait any longer or it's just going to be another year."

Parades, fireworks and more planned for July 4

Legion Women's Auxiliary, the Charlevoix City Band, veterans and community groups.

The annual Horton Bay Parade, orchestrated under the direction of "parade czar," John Rohe, will make its way down Boyne City-Charlevoix Road at 1 p.m.

This wacky procession of individual and float entries will begin at the intersection of Horton Bay and Boyne City-Charlevoix roads and will proceed toward Boyne City, ending near the town limits.

Rohe was excited to announce that early this week, two entries had already officially registered. He is expecting about 30 to make the final count.

"The distinguishing feature of the Horton Bay Parade is there are no commercial entries allowed. It is a tribute to the resourcefulness and ingenuity and good cheer of the people of Horton Bay," he said.

When asked if entrants are required to be Horton Bay residents or if he himself is a resident, Rohe replied, "Horton Bay is more of a state of mind at this time of year than a geographic location. We are all from Horton Bay."

The parade will carry the theme "Unearthing our time capsule."

"There is a great deal of excitement. We've had discussions with many people. There is a lot being dug up out of Horton Bay's past. The bay's deep, dark secrets, once securely shrouded by the time capsule, will be unveiled. Cherished relics from this crucible of history will be exposed," Rohe said.

The new "Fat Lady" from Dallas, Texas who was crowned at the 2005 parade is expected to return marking the parades official end.

The four float judges are Marilyn Kelly, a Michigan Supreme Court Justice, Julie Greenwalt, Kathleen Glynn and John Tanton, M.D.

Right after the parade, Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater will host a book signing for his work, "Charlevoix County's Contribution to World War II," at the Horton Bay Methodist Church.

For Horton Bay Parade entry information contact Rohe at (231) 347-7327.

While mainland visitors and residents celebrate the birth of the nation at these two parades, Beaver Islanders will be celebrating island style — with a parade, sky divers, jets and fireworks.

"Beaver Island is the most patriotic place in the world," said Steve West, executive director of the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce.

Festivities there will start and end with a boom.

At around 2 p.m., festivities will kickoff when a full-sized civil war canon replica is fired and a pair of F-16s with the Michigan Air National Guard huzz the island.

The mile-long parade will take its cue from the jets, making its way through downtown St. James.

In conjunction with parade activities, Luther Kurtz, owner of Sky Dive Harbor Springs, will perform an exhibition sky dive over the harbor.

A kids carnival, jam packed with activities, will immediately follow the parade.

Island activities will end with a bang — fireworks will begin at dusk, around 10 p.m. over the harbor.

Fate of library should be publicly debated

EDITORIAL

After years of squabbling, posturing and thousands in attorney fees over who really owns the $600,000 109 Clinton St. property, the Charlevoix Public Library Board of Trustees and the Charlevoix Public Schools Board have decided to have a sit-down. For that, we applaud.

What's got us giving a whole other hand gesture is the fact that these two groups decided to discuss such an important issue without public attendance.

Both the library and school created pseudo subcommittees. One consists of school board members Dean Spenceley, Bill Trubilowicz and outgoing superintendent, Dr. John Sturock. The other features library director, Val Meyerson, and board members Rick Brandi and Cynthia Postmus.

Since there was never a resolution to create these groups, they aren't "public bodies," and therefore are exempt from Michigan's Open Meetings Act.

The clandestine coalition has met at least three times at Charlevoix City Hall to discuss the matter. Hmm... tax funded workers meeting in a tax funded building to discuss a piece of property donated by a taxpayer to the taxpayers, and the public doesn't have a right to bear witness.

Did we miss something? Groups making the decisions behind the scenes is a frequent occurrence in city, state and federal government, but that doesn't make it right.

We fear this blunt and concerted effort by two public entities, who've grown fond of the idea of ownership, to restrict the public's right to know.

The last thing we want to see are ideas hatched during secret summits to be later fast-tracked during some puppet public hearing.

We would like to believe the school and library "subcommittees" have our best intentions in mind during their covert meetings, but without minutes kept, recordings available or public attendance, who knows what transpires?

Supporters of the clandestine councils say a few people can better work toward resolution than in meetings between full boards. That might sound good if the most important player in the equation, John Q. Public, wasn't omitted.

Why not let the real owners of the building step forward and speak? It's their right and duty to at least witness discussions over their property.

These two bodies are spending thousands of tax dollars on attorneys to threaten each other over an issue that is clearly moving toward litigation.

Open up your meetings and let the people speak.

Legend in local boating community relocates to Les Cheneaux Islands

Edith Gilbert
'Behind the news'

Gone, like the old railroad bridge and the water tower, a hit of Charlevoix history got underway last week, gliding through the channel and past the lighthouse, heading for her new home port in the Les Cheneaux Islands.

But while the 42-foot Express Cruiser was still tied up at the city docks in Charlevoix, Charlie Bergman, Alvin Ranger and Paul Weston paid their final respects to the Boss, the fastest boat of its era.

Originally commissioned in 1921 by Alvin Goldman, a well-to-do cotton broker from St. Louis, Mo. for a mere $14,880, she had to be no taller than 9 feet from the waterline so that she would fit under Charlevoix's Pere Marquette railroad swing bridge when it was in closed position. The bridge, in case you don't remember, was removed in 1985.

The mahogany fishing boat brought back a slew of memories to the small group assembled at the dock last Friday. Bergman, who left the Navy after World War I, became part of the crew and remembers polishing the brass on the Boss until it shone like gold. Ranger's father, Art, was the captain and his pilot's license, to this day, is still hanging in the large engine compartment that has full headroom room to provide light, ventilation and easy accessibility to the power plant.

When Goldman first took possession of the Boss, he hired 19-year-old Art Ranger of Charlevoix, who was recommended to him, "Just because he knew where the best fishing holes were." From 1921 until 1965, Ranger served as captain of the Boss. Ranger's son Alvin, named after the boat's owner, fondly recalls the days when Mr. Goldman dressed in his suit and tie, sat reading the Wall Street Journal and smoking his pipe, while trolling for steelhead off

Hemingway Pointe.

Bergman remembers Goldman as a "peach of a fellow" who raised a ton of money for the benefit of the Charlevoix Hospital. When Goldman's wife, Blanche, gave him the boat for his fiftieth birthday, rumor has it that he named her "Boss" after his strong-willed wife, and also because at 24 miles per hour the cruiser was the boss of the lakes.

In 1937, the Boss was re-powered with a new Sterling Dolphin engine of the same design but higher horsepower. The new engine powered the boat up to 26 mph and it still remains on the boat today.

Goldman had a two-slip boathouse constructed on the north shore of Round Lake in 1923. Here the Boss rocked gently in her slip in the summer, while in the winter she was lifted up to hang in her slip in the boathouse. The boathouse was sold in the 1980s and the cruiser was moved to the Les Cheneaux Islands. The Boss was welcomed home again in 2004, when by this time the boathouse was owned by Dr. Eugene Chardout, who had spent a small fortune restoring the sagging structure. Chardout was sentimental about keeping the historic flavor of Round Lake.

Only one other family owned the cruiser until it was recently sold to its third owner. In 1968 Goldman's son, Jack, sold the Boss to Bob Brandt and his partners, Bill Dykstra and Herb Lantinga of Grand Rapids. Lately however, young John Brandt and his wife, Katy, used it as their "floating summer cottage," while John kept the boat in mint condition by constantly refinishing the mahogany.

Alvin Goldman summered in Charlevoix since he was a boy and in time, he built a pillared, three-story brown cottage at 525 Michigan Avenue overlooking Lake Michigan, which was recently purchased and repainted a soft sage green by Helen and Ken Merrill of Plymouth.

My personal memory of the Boss is like visiting on someone's front porch, while cruising down the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. Seated on its spacious aft deck, where 10 or more people can sit comfortably on wicker chairs, sipping iced tea in monogrammed glasses, is a memory one doesn't easily forget.

The Boss' proud third owner plans to keep her at Les Cheneaux in a brand new specially built boathouse. Here, she will continue to draw admiring crowds just as she always has and always will.

There will be more information about the Boss in a forthcoming article in Lakeland Boating magazine.

Letters to the editor

Signs of stroke

Editor:

This may well be the last time I can share some information with you that might save your life. It was a bright, sunny day, four years ago on Venetian Saturday. We watched the long parade in the fierce 93 degree sun, on the corner by the Villager Pub. By the time it was finished something was wrong with my vision. In my ignorance I did not realize what was happening. We went home, I rested a bit and went to bed early.

When I awoke that next morning my right side was paralyzed. It was a transient ischemic attack and the blood clot moved to the left side of my brain so the right side of my body was affected.

After three months of therapy the pattern of my life ahead was sobering. My short-term memory vanished overnight, my right eye helps by arguing with my good eye.

If something unusual happens to you, don't pass it off and be wary of stress. Ask yourself, if I died tomorrow, would someone else just step in and do it very adequately. Take care of yourself. There are many people who need you.

Support Drebenstedt

Editor:

Robert Drebenstedt would be an excellent choice for Fifth District Charlevoix County Commissioner. Even though I do not live in the Fifth District, I do own property in Marion Township. I have had personal experiences with Robert as Charlevoix County Veterans Affairs director and as a mediator. Robert is willing to listen and assist people in all walks of life.

Provide constructive outlet

Editor:

If the senior class at Charlevoix High School has to be destructive can't we as parents and community members find something constructive for them to do?

When I was a senior in high school, we had a large boulder located in the front of the school for the senior class to paint at the end of the school year. We also built a bonfire during the last week of school with collected wood and no longer needed homework papers. This became a senior high ritual and one we looked forward to.

The pranks that have taken place in Charlevoix have turned into acts that will be prosecuted and may remain part of their files for years to come. Maybe the administration should look into adding some type of security as school draws to an end. The students should know better than to take part in destructive actions but we as parents and community members should try to prevent this from occurring. Any suggestions or alternatives would be more helpful than sending them out into the world as criminals when they should be thinking about college.

Pink Ribbon success

Editor:

The 4th Annual Charlevoix/Emmet County Pink Ribbon Ride, which took place on June 17, was our most successful event to date. This year our efforts raised just over $24,000, and pledges are still coming in. This amount surpasses last year's total by $4,000. That means that both the Circle of Strength through Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital Breast Health Fund will each receive more than $9,000 to help promote awareness; fund programs in early detection and education; provide support for women and their families; and make available mammograms and ultrasounds for uninsured women in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Participation rose from 179 last year to 200 this year. Once again, the riders through their personal fund-raising efforts brought in half of our proceeds. Without their dedication, this event would not be as successful as it has become. I single out the top two fund-raisers this year, Beth Carrington of East Jordan and James Mitchum of Petoskey, but thank and recognize all the riders who participated.

I extend my personal thanks to so many of the businesses in Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Petoskey, without whom we could not have put together this ride. Their donations of funds, goods and services made it possible for us to put on this event and keep our expenses to a minimum.

Congratulations to Jim Davis of Harbor Springs who won the first raffle drawing, a Trek 3700 bicycle; and to Emmy Holman of Suttons Bay who won the second drawing, a Terry brand saddle or Chris King headset.

Finally I extend my deepest thanks to Jean McDonough from the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation and Therese Green from the Northern Michigan Hospital Foundation; Diane Gorkiewicz, Kim Stevens, Gay Pung and Linda Hoffman from the Circle of Strength; Scott McKenzie and his staff at the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce; Donna Moll, Michelle Rick-Biddick, Helen Truchan, Sue Huston, Judy Jackson and Randi Hunter and Tina for manning our water stops; Cheryl Hofweber and Terri Reynolds for marking the route; Kathy McDonald's family; the rest of my committee. Bonnie Brunen, Dean Lucier and Kim Westrick; and lastly my family, especially my husband Bill and my daughters-in-law, Kendra and Melanie.

An event like this cannot be done unless you have a good support team and I have one of the best.

Please join us next year on June 16, 2007, the fifth anniversary of this event.

The Northwest Academy, members of the Zonta Club wish to thank you for your hospitality at the time of our "Touch of Class" garage sale. Your facilities truly gave us "class." We also appreciated three of your staff for their assistance. The Red Hat Lady on the corner waved the public on to our success.

It was also a pleasure to view your school. So glad your school could use some of our artifacts. The sale was a great success thanks to you.

Day of Caring participants sought

Harbor Industries and Char-Em United Way are leading the effort to plan the 3rd Annual Community Wide Day of Caring, scheduled to take place on Sept. 14.

The Day of Caring matches teams of volunteers from businesses, schools and community groups with non-profit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties who are in need of hands-on help.

"We're very excited about Day of Caring 2006," said Jennifer Archambault of Harbor Industries. "In our first year we had 70 volunteers, and last year that grew to 500. Volunteers did tasks ranging from washing senior citizens' cars, to building a deck for the Charlevoix Senior Center, to washing windows at the Safe Home. This year, we hope to engage even more volunteers and, especially, have more teams and projects in Emmet County."

Volunteer teams are asked to indicate their interest in participating and non-profits should submit a project request by Aug. 15 to ensure that they can be matched. Corporations and organizations who have already signed up to participate include Harbor Industries; Bay Winds Federal Credit Union; Huntington National Bank; Way Transportation; Charlevoix Manufacturing; Charlevoix State Bank; and Charlevoix High School.

The Day of Caring will also be the Kick-off for the Char-Em United Way 2006-2007 Campaign.

"This event is a logical tie-in with the

Charlevoix Public Library July Summer Fun Series

The Charlevoix Public Library is hosting a Summer Fun Series on Thursday evenings throughout July.

Sessions will introduce people of all ages to kayaking and canoeing, mountain biking and bird watching.

Let's Go Paddling will take place at 6:30 p.m. on July 6 in the library meeting room. The presenters, Scott and Kay Harper will introduce folks to paddling northern Michigan lakes and rivers this summer. They will show the best equipment, explain what it takes to be safe and give you the scoop on the area's best waterways. The Harpers own Jordan Valley Outfitters in East Jordan and have been active in paddling adventures for 12 years. Scott is the president of the Michigan Association of Paddle Sport Providers.

At 6:30 p.m. on July 13 in the library meeting room, Dwain Abramowski and Chet Morris will present a program on mountain biking in northern Michigan. Let's Go Mountain Biking will talk about equipment, rules of the road, safety while biking and the best trails in this area. Come with questions for Abramowski and Morris to answer. Abramowski is the author of two books, "Mountain Biking" and "Mountain Biking Trails in Southern Michigan." He is also co-founder of the Michigan Mountain Biking Association. Morris owns and runs Revolution Bikes in Charlevoix.

The final program will introduce the art of bird watching. Let's Go Birding will be led by local enthusiast, Sally Stebbins at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 27, in the library meeting room. Stebbins will welcome you to the fastest growing outdoor sport in America — bird watching, or birding as it's often called. She will explain how to get started, discuss and demonstrate binoculars and spotting scopes, suggest helpful bird books and provide suggestions on where and when to go birding in northern Michigan. Stebbins, a Harbor Springs resident, is an avid birder and a dedicated amateur naturalist. She serves as field trip coordinator for the Petoskey Regional Audubon Society, and enjoys sharing her love of wild birds with others.

All ages are welcome. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult. All sessions will be one hour in length. No reservations are required.

Big Rock Point exhibit opens June 30 at Depot

An exhibit highlighting the history of Big Rock Point, the local nuclear power plant, will open at 1 p.m. on Friday, June 30 at the train depot on Depot Beach.

The history will be told through photographs, documents, plaques, hand-on displays, a cutaway model of the plant and videos, one of which features Ronald Reagan.

The exhibit will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday through Labor Day weekend, and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays from early September through Oct. 14.

The Charlevoix Historical Society, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project, and the Consumers Energy Foundation are sponsoring the exhibit.

Pictures like the one accompanying this article will be on display.

(Above) The personnel lock is lowered from the nearly demolished shell of the Big Rock Point nuclear plant in late 2005.

The personnel lock was once the main entry point into the reactor containment sphere of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant that once stood on the Lake Michigan shore four miles northeast of Charlevoix.

The plant was shut down in August 1997, decommissioned, decontaminated where necessary, stripped, and gradually demolished until nothing was left above ground by early 2006.

Within the diminished containment sphere appears the 90-foot tall concrete monolith that housed the reactor. The monolith weighed 23.8 million pounds. A total of over 85 million pounds of non-radioactive debris from all the plant's buildings was shipped to an industrial landfill.

Big Rock Point was the fifth commercial nuclear plant constructed in the United States, and the first operational nuclear plant in Michigan. During the 35 years it was in operation it set both national and world records. Big Rock Point made a significant economic impact on northern lower Michigan. Today, Consumers Energy is returning the land on which the plant once stood to as close to its natural state as possible.

Corps issues large craft warning for channel

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Following surveys performed in May by the Army Corps of Engineers, commercial boaters are urged to use caution in certain areas of Pine River Channel and Lake Charlevoix.

While the Corps regularly dredges the bed to avoid problems, areas of the channel and the lake have shoals, or high spots in the lake bed, which could cause problems for mariners with heavy loads.

"If they need more than 16 feet they avoid that area," said William O'Donoghue, chief of technical services with the Corps. "But the only ones who need more than that are lake carriers — even the Coast Guard doesn't need that much depth, only major ships."

O'Donoghue said most pleasure craft need less than eight or 10 feet.

"We never have any strikes in Charlevoix. It's always pretty clear," he said. "We take a survey at least once a year. We go in and remove that shoal and dig it out of there."

O'Donoghue said storms off Lake Michigan push sand and other sediment into the channel, causing the shoals to accumulate.

Areas of concern are 16-feet or less, while the rest of the areas of the lake and channel are 18-feet unless otherwise specified. There is an area of less than 18-feet on the south side of the Lake Michigan side of the Pine River Channel and the northeast side of the area between Round Lake and north Charlevoix (see map).

Charlevoix has just one of the more than 100 federally controlled channels on the Great Lakes.

"We try to keep any harbor where we have commercial traffic at an authorized project depth, and that depth in Charlevoix is 18-feet," O'Donoghue said. "We have Ludington, which is probably 29, but they can only carry 27-and-a-half through the St. Lawrence Seaway, so as far as Ludington, I don't understand why they need that."

While surveys on larger channels may be year-round jobs with large funds, the Charlevoix job is generally completed in one day for approximately $1,200.

According to the Army Corps of Engineers, all inquiries on the matter should be addressed to CELRE-OT-T and should refer to Notice to Navigation Interests No. L06-24. Visit <http://www.lre.usace.army.mil> for more information.

Lakeland Boatworks launches Charlevoix Sharpie

From June 30 to July 2, the Charlevoix, a 32-foot ketch manufactured by Lakeland Boatworks Inc., will sail Lake Charlevoix, the lake for which the model was named.

First introduced at the U.S. Sailboat Show in Annapolis, Md. in October 2005, and later at Strictly Sail in Chicago, Ill. the Charlevoix Sharpie is constructed in wood/epoxy and is reminiscent of the work boats of the early 1900s.

The Charlevoix was granted a hull design registration by the U.S. Copyright Office and boasts 9-feet of looting cockpit and 12-feet of berth space on the port side. An alcohol stove, microwave, ice box and sink fills out the galley.

Featured in Capitol Entertainment magazine as one of eight "must see" models at the U.S. Sailboat show, two consecutive issues of Northern Breezes Magazine and in Good Old Boat, the Charlevoix is a beautiful boat of wood/epoxy monocoque construction. Over 800 people boarded the boat at the Strictly Sail show in Chicago.

The Charlevoix will be launched at 4 p.m. on June 30 and will travel from the Irish Boat Works to the Local nurses steer Perspectives International

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

A passion for health care reunited two Charlevoix friends who grew up just feet apart from each other on Nettleton Street.

Ann Campbell and Tricia Kelly are childhood neighbors who moved in different geographical directions after graduating from Charlevoix High School. Campbell, 27, graduated in 1997 and went on to Binghamton University in New York from where she earned a bachelor of arts degree in studio art in 2004. She returned in 2005 to study in an accelerated nursing program.

Kelly, 26, graduated in 1998 and went on to study at the University of Michigan from where she earned a bachelor's degree and in 2005 a master's degree in community health.

Campbell's education lead her to northern Peru where she studied the interplay of traditional and modern medicines in Belen under the umbrella of an organization called Amazon Promise. Her work took her to old school houses, churches and even front porches where she and her group would set up mobile clinics from where they delivered basic care. She saw skin infections, children with severe pneumonia, tuberculosis, malaria and overall unsanitary living conditions.

Kelly headed to northern Queensland in Australia where she studied health care among two indigenous populations.

Who: Perspectives International
What: Expedition Amazon exhibit opening reception
When: 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on July 1
Where: Weathervane Restaurant

Both came away from their experiences with a new outlook on culturally appropriate health care and a desire to make a difference.

Now, the two registered nurses have opted to embark on a journey together that will take them to new professional and personal heights.

In the fall of 2004 Campbell was selected to be one of four from a group of 20,000 applicants to receive a $25,000 Visa "Ideas Happen" grant.

Her idea that she and Kelly are now making happen is called Perspectives International, a non-profit organization whose mission is to enhance quality of life through culture, art, education and health care.

Through a traveling exhibit comprised of photos, paintings and video clips created during Campbell's Peruvian medical exploration they hope to raise $100,000 to build a health care center in Belen to be run by Amazon Promise.

"Through art in the U.S. we are bringing healing to a community in Peru," Campbell said. "I've found through this grant I can do a lot for them."

The photos, taken by Campbell and paintings created by Javier Villanes Arias, a Peruvian obstetrician, general practitioner and painter, are for sale during the exhibition.

Track 6 Productions of Binghamton, N.Y., produced the three short films that will also be shown. The framed photos range in price from $60 to $300. And the paintings from $60 to $1,000.

The first Charlevoix arm of the project will debut this weekend at the Weathervane.

"We want to bring the whole community on the journey with us," Campbell said.

Perspectives International Expedition Amazon will host an opening reception to take place from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 1 in the lobby, bar and deck areas of the Weathervane Restaurant, located at 106 Pine River Lane in Charlevoix.

The display will be available throughout the summer but the video clips will only be shown at the opening reception.

The exhibit has been shown at Charlevoix high and middle schools. Over time the goal is to create a curriculum around the exhibition through which science classes might focus on traditional plant medicines and English courses might incorporate Peruvian authors. Ultimately, Campbell hopes to form a student exchange program between Charlevoix and Peru.

Charlevoix resident Ann Campbell sits among pieces of art included in the Perspectives International Expedition Amazon exhibit she created to garner funds for creation of a health clinic in Belen, Peru.

Between Charlevoix and Peru. This arm of the project will further develop during Campbell's next visit to Peru. She plans to leave July 7.

The Peru project is a huge undertaking and both Campbell and Kelly also have traditional career paths. Kelly is a full-time nurse in the Intensive Care Unit at Northern Michigan Hospital and Campbell will begin full-time work as a registered nurse for Visiting Nurse Service of New York in September.

In spite of their busy schedules, Campbell said Peru is just her first stop.

"This is a template for something that could enhance any community we bring it to," she said.

Next stop? Campbell said she has her sights set on Africa where she hopes to build a women's center or clinic.

Chief McLean to retire from local Coast Guard station

Charlevoix County Veterans Affairs director Bob Drebenstedt (left) recently awarded this certificate to Chief John McLean Jr., officer in charge at Coast Guard Station Charlevoix, for his 23 years of work with the U.S. Coast Guard. McLean will officially retire on Oct. 1. His replacement, Scott Boop, will be inducted this Friday.

By BENJAMIN GOHS
 Staff writer

He may not be in a rocking chair and smoking a pipe, but U.S. Coast Guard Station Charlevoix's Chief officer in charge, 40-year-old John McLean Jr., is retiring.

While McLean admits his retirement plans sound more action packed than some, he will get to do the one thing he's always wanted — see his family more often and stay in one place.

"I think the biggest thing I'm looking forward to is spending time with my kids and not worrying about moving every four years or being on this trip or that trip and just being able to be home with my family every night," he said. "I love Charlevoix. Honestly, I can't think of a better place to call home and raise my kids."

According to McLean, the Coast Guard relocates its members every four years to offer them a well-rounded career.

McLean joined the United States Coast Guard more than two decades ago, after spending his senior year in high school in the Coast Guard Reserves. He started his full-time career with the guard in a recruitment office in Detroit and worked his way up to his current rank of chief.

"My goals kept me going. My goal when I came in the Coast Guard was to command my own small boat or lifeboat station," he said. "What got me up in the morning was taking care of the people working with me and serving my community, those are all integral parts of what made my job so good."

In his years as a reservist all the way up to chief, McLean has rescued people and commanded as many as 24 men and women in situations from routine drills to life altering rescue missions.

"When I was stationed in Cleveland Ohio, I, myself and my crew, rescued a pilot of a single engine Cessna from the water after he crashed," McLean said. "That was a huge life save, that one really sticks out in my mind."

Among the many triumphs, the chief said, were also some woes.

"I lost a shipmate back in the late 1980s. We were assisting a tug and while they were trying to assess the damage, the tug sank," McLean said.

"One of the guys got out, but one passed away. That was probably one of the very emotional cases for me."

McLean and his Charlevoix crew were, among other things, responsible for saving three lives when a 45-foot catamaran capsized in Little Traverse Bay.

But, one of the more tension inducing events McLean has ever faced is his retirement.

"I'm very apprehensive," he said. "When you're employed with someone like the military for 23 years and have that nice security blanket then to walk out on your own is nerve-racking."

He added, "I'll miss the people the most, but I'll miss the job too. I tell people all the time how nice it is to be able to retire after 23 years and love the job more now than when I first came in. A lot of people count the days until their retirement, but not me."

The fiancé of Julie Bernhardt and father of two boys, 11-year-old Jake and 7-year-old Jared, McLean said it was really a recruiter speaking during career day which peaked his interest in the profession.

"I joined because of my love of the water and it was a job that I liked," he said. "I was earning money and still serving my country."

McLean plans to utilize his extra time by focusing on his position on the Charlevoix Public School Board, working with the City of Charlevoix Fire Department, taking over as manager of the Charlevoix Community Skatepark and getting married in August.

McLean, who will be replaced by BMC Scott Boop, soon to be Officer in Charge at official ceremonies scheduled for 11 a.m. on Friday, June 30 at Coast Guard Station Charlevoix. McLean will officially retire on Oct. 1.

With a career of 15 years in the guard, Boop has served in five different stations all over the United States.

"I'm definitely excited and looking forward to the challenges," he said. "This will be my first command."

Boop and his family recently moved to Charlevoix from Port Huron, approximately 60 miles north of Detroit.

"I love it here, it's absolutely beautiful," Boop said.

Boop looks forward to serving this resort community and working with top quality people.

Symphony on the Green presents Strings on the Lake

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
 Special to the Courier

The 13th Annual Symphony on the Green will present Strings on the Lake, a benefit for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, July 7.

Foundation executive director, Lyn Jenks, said she hopes the event will raise $25,000.

All donations will go towards a $433,750 renovation project that will house a LightSpeed VCT Select Computed Tomography Scanner.

Jenks said the new scanner will offer residents a more sophisticated form of diagnostic imaging.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital already has a Computed Tomography Scanner, but plans to lease the new $1.2 million equipment.

The machine uses the latest technology, which means faster scanning, more precise images and a faster, more accurate diagnosis for patients.

"Strings on the Lake will feature music by the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra String Quartet and hors d'oeuvres by the Rowe Inn.

By changing the theme from Symphony on the Green, Jenks wants to get more people involved because the new CT Scanner will have such a big impact on the local community.

"Like with all special events, every once and awhile you need to change them up to renew interest," she explained.

The event will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Riecker, on the corner of Michigan Avenue and Division Street.

Tickets are $125 per person and can be purchased by calling (231) 547-8591.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation also accepts donations via their Web site at www.cah.org/foundation.

Work site smoking regulation in effect for Charlevoix County

The Public Health Clean Indoor Air Regulation of 2005 took effect on June 24.

On Oct. 4, 2005, the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency adopted the Public Health Clean Indoor Air Regulation of 2005. This regulation is very similar to the Public Health Clean Indoor Air Regulation which was adopted and approved several months ago.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners voted in favor of re-approving the Regulation on April 26. This regulation requires public and private work sites to create and implement a smoke-free policy prohibiting smoking in all enclosed areas, except for the following: Private residences, except when used for child care, health care or adult day care facility, casinos, restaurants, bars and tobacco specialty stores.

The following changes have been made to the previous regulation:

- The definition for employer has been changed to business and other entities which employ two individual employees. The former wording included all businesses of one or more employees.

- Smoking is not regulated in an employer owned or leased vehicle, which is occupied by only one employee and is not occupied by other employees or the public. The former wording of the regulation implied that smoking was prohibited in all business vehicles.

- A paragraph has been added which states that smoking is allowed in a designated smoking room that is a separate, enclosed area, independently ventilated so that smoke does not enter other non-smoking areas of the work site. The provision of a designated smoking room shall not result in the diminishment of workplace amenities to non-smoking employees nor require that they enter a designated smoking room to access those amenities. Before a designated smoking room becomes operational, the health officer or a representative of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency shall determine whether the designated smoking room complies with this regulation.

In order to assist businesses in becoming a smoke-free workplace, the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency has made available a brochure outlining the regulation, a resource guide for smoking cessation programs for employees, a sample smoke-free policy and a no-smoking door decal.

These resources are available by visiting www.nwhealth.org or by calling (231) 547-6523.

Charlevoix High School class of 2005 has plans to start an alumni association effective next month.

Former class presidents Michael Wojan and Nate Dube, with the help of classmates Chris Golski and Ben Bergmann, came up with the Charlevoix High School Alumni Association idea when they realized there was still $1,200 left over after their senior party.

"It was a collection of a lot of people's ideas to really get this started," Wojan said. "We just figured the extra money might as well go to a good cause."

With plans to fund special projects like field trips and to give out scholarships for overall excellence, the new alumni association will begin offi-

"The kids have a lot of work to do, but that class has always been pretty forward-looking," Bergmann said.

Cancer claims active community member Patsy Ramsey

By KRISTINA HUGHES
Petoskey News-Review staff writer

Patsy Ramsey was a survivor, known for her resilience.

Near the end of her journey, she began painting through her chemotherapy treatments, finding pleasure as an artist.

Fittingly Saturday, when Ramsey died at 49, her artwork was on display at the Summer Solstice Art Show in Charlevoix.

"We put a sign in the booth that said Patsy is with JonBénet," said Linda Boss, a friend of the family. "It was standing room only, with plenty of tears."

"It was her last wish. She wanted to be (here today) in the booth."

The fanfare showcased her joy for life.

"I kept telling people, Patsy is here with us," Boss said. "It looked like a party. Her life was a party, and even with all the awful things that happened to her, she rose above it."

Ramsey was a survivor of the tabloids, the mother of JonBénet, a business woman and community volunteer who called Charlevoix home. She was known for her community pride, volunteering with the Venetian Festival, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and as a founder of the Charlevoix Community Skatepark.

"If you knew her she wasn't a celebrity, she was Patsy. She was the tap dancer, a painter, a mom and a dear friend," Boss said. "She made everything fun."

Boss and Ramsey forged a friendship in 1996 and later founded a business venture with WebBook. Through the partnership she gained a best friend. She remembers their last few visits.

"The last time I saw her in February she tap danced at a ladies retreat," Boss said.

The community will miss her. "Everybody loved her," Boss said. "She just gave back to the community."

Charlevoix chamber president Jacqueline Merta remembers Patsy's southern charm and her love for kids. Merta said Ramsey came into the office one day.

"She said she wanted to do something for the children," Merta remembers. JonBénet and Burke were young, and Patsy soon chaired a decorated bicycle parade and contest with trophies and ribbons.

She quickly became a Charlevoix favorite.

"She made you feel welcome, she would just bring sunshine in your life," Merta said.

The Flanders and Ramseys shared several special occasions together, sharing in the Venetian festivities and fireworks.

"She considered Charlevoix home," Susan Flanders said. "Patsy will be remembered in our family as a loving friend and someone who is truly going to be missed."

"She had a lot of spunk and spirit," Flanders said. "She loved life. She was a loving mother, a beautiful wife. She loved the Lord. Her faith never wavered."

She kept her faith when her family became a tabloid sensation.

During the trying media circus, Boss defended her friend, whose sense of humor was inspiring.

"She never felt sorry for herself," Boss said. "How many times can someone have the rug pulled out from under them and get up?"

But Patsy did, with a smile. Like many of her friends, Merta admired her strength.

"Even though she dealt with a lot of adversity with the cancer and the death of JonBénet, she always kept that positive outlook on life," Merta said. "She was so cheerful and joyful."

When the ovarian cancer reoccurred, she never gave in. When her husband, John, ran for state representative, she would hit the campaign trails after chemotherapy.

"She would rest and then go door to door," Boss said. "She loved it. Because she loves people and she loves life."

She was a tour de force on the campaign trail, sharing a warmth while discussing the issues.

"You could spend five minutes with her and it's like you're her best friend, she treated you with so much respect," Boss said. "She genuinely cared about people."

Through her hardships, she always remembered others. She founded the JonBénet Children's Foundation in 1996, a nonprofit making donations in her memory, often to children's organizations. Patsy established a $1,000 scholarship to send area kids whose families cannot afford the cost to camp at Mount McSautha.

The family will remember Patsy in a fitting way. John has set up a foundation in her memory, the Patsy P. Ramsey Ovarian Cancer Foundation. The proceeds from her legacy, her paintings, will benefit the foundation.

"The artwork portrayed the joy she saw in life," Merta said of the colorful scenes of Northern Michigan.

When Boss heard the news from Patsy's family, she granted Patsy's wish she had shared with her friend — she showed her art.

"This was Patsy's legacy," Boss said. "She passed away on the day of the show. I know she was with us."

Charlevoix Public Library property debate continues

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Several meetings over the verbal and written tug-of-war of the 109 Clinton St. Charlevoix Public Library property transpired between members of the library board of trustees and the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education.

During the Monday, June 12 school board meeting, library board president, Mary Ann Chew gave an update on the situation of the new library and the old property, appraised at $597,000 in 2002, that was replete with optimism.

"The library board and the school board have been meeting in subcommittees to resolve the issue of the ownership of the present library building," Chew said. "Our board members report that the negotiating sessions have been productive and they feel the two boards are close to resolution."

School administrators claim the property belongs to them while the library board says they are the rightful owners.

According to director of the Charlevoix Public Library, Val Meyerson, the library initially requested a joint public meeting to hash out the issue, but the school board suggested holding them in private because fewer people could work better together than a large group.

"Your (Halverson's) board has requested that our two boards meet in subcommittees rather than publicly and we did do that," Chew said.

Then acting president of the school board, Dennis Halverson, asked if the library intended to fix, what he feels is, an inaccurate deed.

A pseudo subcommittee made up of library board and school board members continues to meet to discuss how the ownership debacle of the library property (pictured above) at 109 Clinton St. will be solved.

"I believe that could happen as soon as our subcommittee comes to an agreement and believe they have a plan that will work for both boards," Chew said.

No resolutions to appoint members or hold meetings were passed by either board, therefore the groups are not technically subcommittees and not subject to the Michigan Open Meetings Act and therefore both government entities may prohibit public attendance.

School board members Dean Spenceley and Bill Trubilowicz, with outgoing superintendent, Dr. John Sturock, met with Meyerson and library board members Rick Brandi and Cynthia Posthumus in search of a solution.

But, Halverson's frustration over the situation is mirrored only by his doubt in claims of impending solution.

"After months, maybe close to a year, of discussion, I don't feel we're any closer to resolution on that today than we were over a year ago," he said. "And I know we've had to expend some of these people's money in attorney fees, which I think is a terrible thing we had to do."

Estimates show the library and school have spent $4,000 and $2,400 in attorney fees respectively.

Halverson said selling the Charlevoix Middle School property to the library at such a reduced price probably wasn't in the school's best interest at the time.

"We weren't in as bad of fiscal shape as we are now, but we weren't flush," he said. "We had (better) offers on the table from private concerns."

He added, "We took great amounts of criticism that we didn't sell and put those lots on the tax roll. The shoe is on the other foot and you find us in need."

Chew said she appreciates the situations of both boards, but admitted there are other considerations than simply helping the school.

"We're concerned that we have a new library. And we're worrying about our budget and heating bill and all of the other maintenance to come," she said. "But, as our board reflects at meetings, I truly believe that what we're hearing is that a resolution can happen."

Halverson said sale of the property to pay library debt wasn't part of any bond issue, and that he heard discussions of splitting profits from it's sale.

Estimates show the library and school have spent $4,000 and $2,400 in attorney fees respectively.

Halverson said selling the Charlevoix Middle School property to the library at such a reduced price probably wasn't in the school's best interest at the time.

"We weren't in as bad of fiscal shape as we are now, but we weren't flush," he said. "We had (better) offers on the table from private concerns."

He added, "We took great amounts of criticism that we didn't sell and put those lots on the tax roll. The shoe is on the other foot and you find us in need."

Chew said she appreciates the situations of both boards, but admitted there are other considerations than simply helping the school.

"We're concerned that we have a new library. And we're worrying about our budget and heating bill and all of the other maintenance to come," she said. "But, as our board reflects at meetings, I truly believe that what we're hearing is that a resolution can happen."

Halverson said sale of the property to pay library debt wasn't part of any bond issue, and that he heard discussions of splitting profits from it's sale.

"I'm not sure how that would be (better) than if we were to move in behind them moving out," He said. "You find us in a facility that is substandard for humans to work in. We desperately need that building. We've got a lot of student records in closets in our district because we don't have a place to put them."

Trubilowicz, opining on what he's seen in the private meetings, said, "We're certainly closer to an agreement than we were a year ago. The fact that we're talking brings us closer together. I think we've had a number of areas of agreement. We're still working through some of the details."

Meyerson said she believes there will be one more "subcommittee" meeting before opening the issue to the public for comment.

"The speech from Dennis (Halverson) wasn't quite factual because he didn't speak with committee members," Meyerson said. "But we're moving forward. There's going to be resolution soon."

Cardiac rehab unit enhanced with bird watching opportunities

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild has steered a project to ensure feathered friends are well fed.

Five new bird feeders complete with hanging poles, hooks, and protective baffles are now part of the hospital gardens, where birds entertain cardiac patients.

Monica Speigl, exercise specialist at the hospital's cardiac rehabilitation department, helped spearhead the bird feeder project.

"Our department offers a beautiful view of the gardens and nearby Lake Michigan," she said. "The scenery is uplifting for those recovering from a cardiac incident. And now, patients can enjoy watching a variety of birds, as they workout on treadmills and perform their exercises."

The hospital guild helped with funding, and Karen and Steve Andrews, owners of Sturgeon River Pottery in Petoskey, donated some of the equipment and bird feed. The guild will continue to contribute bird feed.

Speigl expects to attract a host of native birds, from cardinals and nuthatches, to woodpeckers and hummingbirds.

"This feeding station will be a welcome addition for the birds, and great therapy for our patients, too," she said.

New bird feeders were installed outside the glass windows of the cardiac unit at Charlevoix Area Hospital, thanks to the hospital guild who helped fund the project and has agreed to keep them stocked with seed. (Above, from left) Lisa Russell of Sturgeon River Pottery was at the hospital on June 12 to help the group install the new feeders. Monica Speigl, an exercise specialist at the hospital accepts a check from guild treasurer Joanne Friedman and president Chris Unbehaun.

Lucky baton makes its way back to the Rayder track

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

Dale and I had a most enjoyable visit with former Charlevoix High School track stars, Greg Bryan and Al Ranger. It was such fun going over old times in school, and laughing over pranks the boys played. Later, Greg married Beverly Stroud, and Al married Patsy Rautan, all classmates at school.

In 1949, Charlevoix played Central Lake in a dual meet. Dale Suomela, Jim Jolliffe, Don Hardy and Greg Bryan, won the relay 771/2-10. They also always had great competition between Charlevoix and Harbor Springs. At the Central Michigan relays that year, Bryan, Dale Suomela, Neil Suomela and Jolliffe won three trophies in the winged feet competition. This was the first time it had been done, and has never been broken.

In Bryan and Ranger's senior year, which was 1951, Charlevoix had won 17 district championships in a row, and 14 regional championships.

In 1951, at the state meet, coach Stewart "Irish" Coleman wanted all the boys to get a medal. Dale Suomela had won a medal in the shot-put, and was supposed to run in the 880. Jim Bowman was feeling glum, as he was disqualified himself in the dashes. Irish then put Bowman in the relay, because he knew he could win. He did, and got his medal.

In 1948, Bryan moved to Lowell, as his dad was transferred there. The coach treated him unfairly, and wouldn't play him most of the year, and when he finally did put him in, he won first place. Later, his dad asked him if he wanted to go back to Charlevoix, and he jumped at the chance. He lived with George VerWy's family. In 1949, he was ineligible to transfer, as he had no guardian, so Irish let him run in all the dual meets, although he wasn't allowed to win a ribbon even though he made first place. Irish wanted to keep him in shape for his senior year.

In 1951, Bryan's senior year, he recalls a 220 relay they had. Ranger started the race, and handed the baton to Bowman who dropped the baton. Bryan remembers Bowman standing and looking at it. Ron Cunningham and Bryan yelled, "Pick up the baton." Bowman picked it up and gave it to Cunningham who gained some ground on their last place position, and then handed it to Bryan. Bryan said he ran the fastest he ever had, and in going around the curve his feet were headed one way, and his body another. They managed to scratch a fourth place. The baton they used in 1948, 1949, 1950 and 1951 was a 12-inch lightweight wood stick, which was lathed and reamed down the center. It was painted red and white. Fifty years later, Greg's grandson, Spenser Bryan, used it in a meet for Charlevoix. They announced over the loudspeaker, the fact that he used it exactly 50 years after his grandfather did.

Now, to the fun times they had in high school. Bryan, George VerWys, Ranger and Dale Suomela were asked to do a short skit at a pep rally. I remember it as clear as day. They borrowed the cheerleaders' uniforms, made mops into wigs, and did a cheer in front of the entire student body and faculty. At that time, Robert Richards, our chemistry and physics teacher, had a stamp he used to stamp each page in our workbooks.

It read, "Examined by R.S. Richards." Well, the boys did their cheer facing the crowd, and when they finished, they turned their backs to the audience, and flipped up their little skirts. There, for all to see, written on white pants, was, "Examined by R.S. Richards." Needless to say, everyone cracked up, including our very proper teachers. As they were going up the stairway, Max Novak asked them, "Where do you think you're going?" They said they were heading for class. Novak said, "Oh, no you're not. You go straight to the office. Which one of you guys came up with the idea?" Well, the boys all chirped together, "It was simultaneous." They were told to write an apology letter and present it at the next pep rally. The written apologies were confiscated before they could use them, because they couldn't trust them.

Another story was the day Mr. Richards informed the class that tomorrow they were going to be working on a 12 volt dry-cell battery. Bryan's first thought was "Oh good." So, after school, the boys dumped the acid from the battery, rinsed it out very well, and poured water into it. They put the caps back on loose. Mr. Richards came into class, and told one of the boys to get the battery. Jerry Left got up and held the kid down, and VerWys jumped up and said very enthusiastically, "I'll get it." As he came to the front of the room with the battery on his shoulder, he tipped it, and the water came gushing out. VerWys dropped the battery and ran screaming out of the room, with Mr. Richards running behind him.

There were several more pranks they did, and their imaginations sent them to the principal's office quite often. Bryan went back to the high school three or four years after graduation, to see who was teaching. As he was coming down the hallway, he met Mr. Richards. He said to Bryan, "Come with me." Greg went into his classroom, where Mr. Richards said to his current class, "This was one of my most exciting students. I was so glad to see him graduate."

So ends the antics of some great kids. By the way, they all turned out to be very good, conscientious citizens. They were athletes to be proud of, and boys who thought up some very interesting humorous things to do.

House approves Coast Guard bill

Senate vote needed to secure Acacia replacement vessel

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Uncertainty over replacement of Coast Guard cutter Acacia may soon be quashed.

On June 27 the U.S. House of Representatives voted 413-0 on a bill which if approved by the Senate, would require the Coast Guard to maintain ice breaking assets in northern Michigan with an understanding that the asset would go to Charlevoix.

While the U.S. Senate decision on House of Representatives Bill 889 has not been reached, insiders claim approval is guaranteed.

The $8.1 billion budget request bill will also have to be signed by the president before it's finalized.

"This is good news, it means we're that much closer to getting an asset. The Acacia was decommissioned and we've been pushing to move this on," said U.S. Congressman, Bart Stupak (D-Menominee). "It doesn't say Charlevoix specifically, but there is language requiring the Coast Guard maintain ice-breaking assets in northern Michigan and that that asset would go to Charlevoix."

He added, "If it weren't for this legislation, the Coast Guard would have had no intention of replacing the Acacia with another asset."

Stupak's mantra has consisted of how important it is to maintain ice-breaking capabilities in northern Lake Michigan.

"The people of Charlevoix have been proud hosts of the Acacia," he states in a June 27 press release. "I look forward to seeing this legislation move swiftly through the Senate towards enactment so that northern Michigan may continue to be home to a Coast Guard vessel."

According to the release, Stupak worked throughout the legislative process to include the Acacia language in the Coast Guard conference report.

The proposed 2006 budget for Coast Guard and maritime transportation programs has been increased by $571 million, or up about 8 percent from last year.

The Acacia, under the command of Keith Bills, left Charlevoix for the last time on Sunday, June 25. The "Ace of the Lakes," the last of the World War II era cutter/buoy tenders, was stationed in Charlevoix since 1990.

Decommissioned on June 7, the Acacia headed off for Chicago, Ill. where it will become a floating museum.

County ordered to reimburse a former drain commissioner

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

The former Charlevoix County drain commissioner who recently won a declarative judgment against the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners could soon have a settlement offer.

Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge, Richard Pajtas, ruled that the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners must pay former drain commissioner JoAnne Beemon more than the original rate of $1 a year for the years she served as drain commissioner between Jan. 1, 2001 and Dec. 31, 2004.

"In my four years in office, I tried to convince the commission, the clerk and the prosecuting attorney that the job of drain commissioner was state mandated and necessary to the public health and welfare of Charlevoix County," Beemon said. "They just chose to treat the office as if it were nonexistent. Winning that decision validated the drain commission office in Charlevoix County."

She added, "It's hard to have authority when you're only getting a buck a year."

Pajtas agreed with the brief filed by Beemon's attorney, Jeffery Wingfield, of Dundon and Wingfield, PLLC of Traverse City on June 9 which states,

"Clearly the county board of commissioners for Charlevoix County did not pay an annual salary to the plaintiff that was in full for all services rendered. (They) failed to act in a responsible manner when given the discretion to determine a salary amount that takes into account all the services that the drain commissioner provides to the county."

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jaroma, said the judge interpreted the statute to say the commissioners didn't follow the law.

"It's probably too early to tell if this will set a precedent," Jaroma said.

Michigan law demands all counties with more than 12,000 residents have a drain commissioner who maintains regular business hours one day a week and pay a drain commissioner for services rendered.

Some of Beemon's responsibilities as former drain commissioner included working with the public, providing information and references.

Beemon seeks over $120,000 from county

taking complaints and reports, making site inspections, working with engineers and contractors, attending road commission meetings and more.

According to Charlevoix County Clerk, Jane Brannon, the same per diem system of $200 per month, which applies to the current drain commissioner, was around when Beemon was in office.

"Whenever he (current drain commissioner, Marc Seelye) makes an on-site visit, he turns in a voucher and gets reimbursed for his fuel — just like a county commissioner," Brannon said. "This was the policy when she (Beemon) was working, but she refused to do it."

Beemon agreed there was a system in place for reimbursement.

"But, it was a game," she said. "They gave the per diems, but only at their pleasure."

She added, "I collected some for on-site inspections, but very few, and then I stopped asking for them."

Seelye said he receives the $200 per month plus $50 per meeting, and has no intention of seeking more money at this time, even if Beemon wins.

"I made an agreement with the commissioners and I'll honor it," he said.

While she hasn't asked for a specific amount, Beemon feels $29,000 a year for the four years would be fair compensation.

And, she said, Seelye should also get a salary for his service as drain commissioner.

Beemon, who submitted a list of duties she fulfilled during her stint as drain commissioner to the county board, awaits to see if their offer comes close to the $120,000 plus "reasonable attorney fees."

Beemon claims to have worked anywhere from 20 to 50 hours a week during her four years in office.

"I think the only thing that's going to get their (county commissioner's) attention is having to pay a fair salary," Beemon said. "I wasn't able to get their attention for four years. I hadn't ever sued anyone in my life, but I sued them."

The matter is scheduled for discussion at the 3 p.m. Thursday, July 6 Meeting of the Whole in the county commissioner's room, located at 203 Antrim St. in Charlevoix.

Happy anniversary Central Dispatch Authority

Julie Witthoef
'Just a thought'

Each day journalists tune into breaking news.

While Web sites like CNN.com and other news outlets are a useful resource, one of my top secret sources is a small electronic box with a big job.

From a possum rescue in the Pine River Channel to children driving and an assault with a steak knife, I heard it all over the police scanner last week.

The scanner informs us of fires, accidents and bear running loose in town. When we hear the tones, we hit the road and frequently follow emergency personnel to the scene of the next big story.

Over the years, I've learned the sequence of sounds that summon Station 53, Charlevoix's fire and ambulance personnel, and Station 87, the Charlevoix City Police Department. I've also learned to ignore tones for East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey.

But for the sake of my unscientific experiment, for five days I opted to listen to all the voices that are the backdrop in the newsroom each day. They are those of central dispatchers and officers changing shifts, reporting incidents and coordinating efforts.

They occasionally talk in code using straight forward terms like 10-4 to sign off and other more ambiguous phrases like "sally port," which is used synonymously with as soon as possible, 10-77 which signifies a dead body and TX which is used to request a phone call be made or to prompt a phone number.

While the fact that this rare language is spoken over the airwaves tends to entertain me, nothing evokes more shock, anger and amusement than the stuff average Joes are out there doing.

Monday morning, the city police were beckoned to the Pine River Channel where a possum with poor swimming skills was rescued.

On Tuesday, a caller made a desperate 911 call to inform law enforcement of a parent pulling the Britney Spears — driving with a toddler on their lap. Later that day, a senior citizen had fallen, successfully pushed the panic button but wouldn't communicate with assisting personnel. She just kept screaming, "I can't get up."

Topping the list Tuesday was a person assaulted with a steak knife.

Wednesday was met with more interesting calls. The first was an elderly couple suffering from dementia who opted to give their family a scare by taking a road trip. This was followed by a more serious incident off Bear River Road where gun shots were heard.

Thursday morning there was a father and son fist fight. And on Friday, a 9-year-old had an allergic reaction to a bee sting.

The scanner can be an annoyance but when it comes down to it, the noisy little bugger is good old-fashioned job security. Without an inside track on all the town happenings I would be sitting at my desk watching the flashing lights pass and wondering what the commotion is all about.

While the technology is indispensable the organization through which it's transmitted is fairly new.

June 26 marked the 10th anniversary of the Central Dispatch Authority providing enhanced 9-1-1 services to Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties.

According to information provided by the authority, the tri-county 9-1-1 system grew out of the shared need and desire of all three counties to provide a high level of emergency response to both the citizens of the region and to emergency responders.

During the past 10 years, the authority has logged over 1.5 million incidents ranging from events as large as the explosion at the 1998 Venetian Festival in Charlevoix, and tour bus accident on I-75 in Cheboygan County to routine calls such as barking dogs.

Covering a geographic area larger than Rhode Island, the authority has a staff of approximately 20 telecommunications handling the calls and dispatching emergency responders from 28 fire departments, 13 law enforcement agencies, nine ambulance agencies, and nine medical first responder squads across the region.

Happy 10th anniversary central dispatch — thanks for keeping us in the know and providing top notch service.

Referee political campaigns like athletic contests

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

The two biggest political problems we have today are uncontrolled money in political campaigns and unfair, mean-spirited, attack-ad campaigning. I have a solution for both of them.

When I was a college student many decades ago, I studied, among other things philosophy and logic. In the course of those studies we learned about reasonable argument and debate. The rules of reasonable debate required that arguments and points made had to conform to certain rules. Some kinds of argument were not allowable. Two kinds of such false reasoning have remained in my memory.

They were so old that they were expressed in Latin, "Argumentum ad captandam and argumentum ad hominem."

The first, from a word that means pleasing, was an appeal to emotion. A proper argument could not appeal to hate or love or fear or even to patriotism. An appeal to emotion in your argument or debate was out of bounds and forbidden by proper rules of discourse. The second, "Argumentum ad hominem," was forbidden because it was appealing to the reader or hearer's prejudice. It was an attack on the person rather than on his or her ideas.

As we read about today's political discussions or campaigns, they seem to consist almost entirely of those two forbidden sorts of arguments. Attack ads most commonly focus on an opponent's lack of character or lack of patriotism, and they are meant to incite hatred of the opponent. An occasional politician will proclaim early that they wish to have an idea-based campaign, but in the heat of battle, their appeals to emotion and prejudice come to dominate.

What to do about this? I suggest that we enforce the rules of reasonable argument and declare a foul if anyone uses either of these forbidden ploys. We need to treat the campaigns in the same way we treat athletic contests where a great deal is at stake. There are in such cases numerous formal rules, and everyone who enters the contest agrees to conform to those rules. There is often a need for referees in the really significant contests. A gentlemen's game of tennis can do without formal refereeing, but no important match is without a number of formal rule enforcers. It's true that occasionally players or coaches will argue against the call of a referee, but the arguments are softened by the possibility that the referee might throw a player or coach out of the game. In extreme circumstances a player or coach might well be fined a significant amount of money or be banned from play for some period of time.

Imagine for a moment how such rules and their enforcement might change the political scene. During a political debate either candidate could be declared out of bounds if their argument veered too close to a personal attack or an appeal to emotion. Political ads would also have to meet the requirements of reasonable, non-false argument in order to be aired at all. Any outlaw airing of such personal attacks or appeals to hate or fear would result in immediate, substantial fines for the organization producing them. In these circumstances parties or campaigning organizations could collect as much money as they wanted from any source at all, but would face large fines if found in violation of the rules against character defamation or emotional rhetoric. The money collected as fines could be used to fund national and international relief efforts.

Flagrant and repeated violations by a candidate or party would result in expulsion from the political arena for one or two election cycles. Such rule enforcement might even have to develop additional political parties and help air new, reasonable political voices, as those who violate the rules would be out of action for some time.

Choosing the referees might be a small problem, but the rules of reasonable argument and debate have been around for centuries, and impartial, knowledgeable people do exist.

I have a dream that someday political discourse will again be civil, and rules of argument and their rigorous enforcement are a clear way of doing that. A $1 million fine against a political party for a vicious attack ad would get everyone's attention. The expulsion from any political activity or office holding for two or even four years might chasten even the most unreasoning politician.

Letters to the editor

'Thanks' Taste supporters

Editor:
I just wanted to take this opportunity to thank everyone who was involved in making our 3rd Annual Taste of Charlevoix event a big success again this year. There was a good turnout, and ticket sales were steady throughout the day, despite the heat.

Several vendors sold out of food early or had to re-stock during the day. I had nothing but positive feedback from all of those who joined in on the festivities.

I would like to thank all of our participating vendors, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce member businesses who donated their time or materials to the Taste event, the Taste of Charlevoix Committee members, the City of Charlevoix and its staff, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and its staff, and all of the volunteers who helped that day. Without all of you, this would not have been such a success. We look forward to next year's event and making it even more successful and enjoyable for our community.

Farewell friends

Editor:
There are no words to express my appreciation to our school family and our community for their cards and phone calls as I retired from the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education. We are fortunate to live in an area where neighbors, near and far, share their ideas, their talents and their time to make up north a very special place.

Over the years, there have been many people with whom I served on the school board or its various committees. It was a very broadening experience. I must give a special thank you to the many school family friends who chose to officially say good-bye by taking me to enjoy the Young Americans with them. I will miss you all very much. You have given me many memories to brighten my days ahead.

My thoughts and prayers will be with all of you, as once again our community will be seeking a new school superintendent. This is a difficult and time consuming responsibility. The incoming board will be made up of new and less experienced members who are still learning. I'm sure the leadership of long-time board member, Larry Levensood, will assist them. Be patient as they choose to serve you.

Column response

Editor:
I read with interest your opinion piece, "Traditional Values muddy marriage debate," printed on June 12 in the Petoskey News-Review. You used the term "traditional values" as antagonistic to the freedom and relational choices of gays and lesbians. You also spoke to adoption by gays as a beneficial contribution to easing one of the world's social blights. A final thought in the article was that laws restricting marriage to one man and one woman would be "to legislate the will of religious groups."

Please consider the following responses to some of your points.

"Our government...continues to legislate our liberties via...marriage restrictions." The state is not in the business of recognizing "love relationships," but is rather in the business of promoting that which is beneficial to and required by society. It is important to understand, as well, that no one is denied access to or excluded from marriage based upon sexual orientation. There is no question pertaining to one's sexual orientation on the application to marry. Everyone has access to marriage so long as they meet the criteria for marriage based upon its humanly universal definition — a union of male and female.

You refer to those who oppose same sex marriage as "hucksters of hate" and "small-minded bigots." Most Americans, while not supporting the legal redefinition of marriage to accommodate such relationships, are indeed tolerant of them. Likewise, homosexual couples — or any individuals — have rightful access to protect their basic interests via contracts. There are legal documents to grant power-of-attorney, create joint property ownership, establish hospital visitation and joint medical decision-making rights, get joint bank accounts, have inheritance rights, and become life insurance beneficiaries. Marriage is not needed to establish these business rights for which many argue.

You refer to restricting marriage to one man and one woman as "to legislate the will of religious groups." It is not even a religious issue. It is logically impossible to view same sex relationships "on an equal social and legal basis" with heterosexual marriage when these two types of relationships, by nature of their biological differences, cannot be equivalent contributors to society and humanity. Same sex relationships are dramatically hindered in bringing forth the next generation of humanity (only with the assistance of heterosexuality can this be done). And, they are hindered in providing mothers and fathers for the new generation. Humanity requires these two things.

This is why the social value of marriage is more than the love two people have for one another, marriage has a public purpose as well, and that public purpose is tied to the inherent heterosexual nature of marriage.

"Because heterosexual bonding is directly related to both reproduction and survival, and because it involves much more than copulation, every human society has had to encourage heterosexual bonding actively. Heterosexual bonding is always encouraged by a cultural norm, in other words, not merely allowed as one 'lifestyle choice' among many," state Katherine Young and Paul Nathanson, in their book, "Marriage a la Mode: Answering Advocates of Gay Marriage."

This comment not only illuminates the public purpose of marriage but is an indication that opposition to same-sex marriage is not necessarily rooted in bigotry or hatred. Not only is Paul Nathanson basing his comment in reason and anthropology, he is stating it as a scholar and an openly gay man.

The solid reasons supporting the institution of marriage as a union of one man and one woman do not rely upon restriction of liberty, bigotry, hatred, traditional values or religious principles. They are found in the survival codes of every human society.

First Congregational Church to host organ dedication concert

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Editor

Charlevoix's First Congregational United Church of Christ will host an organ dedication concert to celebrate the addition of a Rodgers Trillium 908 Organ to its worship hall.

The concert, which will take place at 4 p.m. on Sunday, July 9, will feature music by church organist Phil Pratt and solos by soprano Maria Seaman. Pratt will also speak on the new organ's capabilities. An ice cream social will follow the concert.

"This is what it's all about. It's the music that has always spoken to me and has spoken to other people. If it's done right, it's uplifting and spirit filled," Pratt said of the role music plays in church services.

The church's former organ which underwent a renovation in the 1980s was experiencing maintenance difficulties and had some parts that were about 100 years old.

Pratt said the new electronic organ's capabilities equate to a pipe organ with 3,700 pipes. It is equipped with 20 speakers and had numerous possibilities including tying in actual pipes.

The new $60,000 electronic organ was purchased with the assistance of parish donors.

Funding for the project will also be raised at the concert where donations will be accepted and Pratt will sell his CD, "Organ Music by Request," with 100 percent of the proceeds being directed to the organ fund.

Jarema: County commission meeting was legal

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Another debate over the legality of the June 14 meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners turned into a debate over the public's right to seek the county prosecutor.

After researching the legality of the meeting, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney John Jarema, told the commissioners the meeting was legal, but instructed them on June 28 to readopt any resolutions passed at the meeting in question.

The commissioners then unanimously readopted the resolutions in one resolution.

Second District Commissioner, Randolph Frykberg, wanted the record to reflect that he had no doubt the June 14 meeting was held legally because it was held at the standard time of 3 p.m. on the second Wednesday of the month.

During the public comment section of the meeting, Bay Township resident, Bob Taylor, the man who had originally questioned the legality of the meeting, questioned how the meeting was legal.

First district commissioner, Connie Saltonstall, and Frykberg explained to Taylor that the resolution to readopt took care of any loose ends which may have appeared in the future, though Frykberg again asserted that the meeting was legal all along.

"I know the prosecuting attorney did write something on it," Taylor said. "I haven't been able to see what he wrote up on it."

At least two of the commissioners admitted to not reading the letter.

John Jarema

"I haven't read the whole letter," said chairman of the board, Vic Patrick. "As far as I'm concerned, that is attorney-client privilege information."

Taylor said the best way for him to get the information would be to take the matter to court.

"Well, that's your prerogative," Patrick said.

Saltonstall spoke for the entire board when she said, "We all want to have legal meetings. We all want to have correct postings. We will all do everything we can to make sure that happens."

She added, "Our chairman has ordered new boxes that will be posted outside the door and next to the commissioner's that will be locked. We are trying to comply with the law. If there's any way we can prevent going to court and wasting the prosecutor's time and everything else, I would like to bundle it here."

Taylor responded in kind and again asked to see Jarema's opinion in writing.

"I would too, all I asked for was a copy of it (the letter) and I thought that was forthcoming after I talked to Vic (Patrick) this morning. And if I can see that and everything is cleared up then I don't have a problem with it," he said.

"Since this was a regularly scheduled meeting and not a special meeting, I do not believe that the meeting was illegal nor do I believe that the board of commissioners acted improperly."

John Jarema,
Charlevoix County Prosecutor

Frykberg said it was the board's attorney's opinion and therefore was not subject to public disclosure.

Taylor later contended that he, and not the county board, went to the prosecutor for an opinion on the matter.

"I don't think that the public should be going to the prosecuting attorney," Frykberg said.

Taylor responded that he disagreed with Frykberg.

"I showed you regulations that covered that quite some time ago," Taylor said. "He has a dual capacity to you and to us both. Just because we go to him, doesn't mean we gotta go through you to get to him sir. I disagree with you 100 percent."

Dated June 23, the letter in question from Jarema to the board concerning the legality of the June 14 meeting was released to the Charlevoix Courier by sixth district commissioner Shirley Roloff.

"I have researched the issue and cannot find a definitive answer in either law or Attorney General's opinions. What I did find, and this was confirmed by another municipal attorney, is that this June 14, 2006 was a 'regular' meeting and not a 'special meeting,'" Jarema states in the letter.

Therefore, Jarema concluded, there was ample notice and that the meeting was properly posted in other required places.

"Since this was a regularly scheduled meeting and not a special meeting, I do not believe that the meeting was illegal nor do I believe that the board of commissioners acted improperly," he further states. "Having said that, there is no question that wrong information was disseminated to the public by the clerk. The clerk is in charge of handling all of the posting for this body as well as keeping the minutes of meetings."

Jarema also stated, "Although the clerk is in charge of posting the meetings, the ultimate responsibility is on this board to comply with the Open Meetings Act. The clerk is not a member of the public body, but each commissioner is and as such, any penalty for a violation will be born by the commissioners."

Addressing the posting locations of meeting notices, Jarema warned the commissioners and clerk to ensure notices are posted properly.

"The notices are posted in the case in the hallway outside the building department. That does not comply with the law," he said.

Northwest appoints school board members

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Northwest Academy of Charlevoix will have two new school board members as of their Wednesday, July 12 school board meeting.

Joni Olach and Jack Russell applied for positions earlier this spring and will be sworn in at the next meeting.

While this is Russell's first office, he is no stranger to Northwest Academy.

Jack Russell

who was born and raised in Charlevoix, said in the two years his 15-year-old daughter has been in Northwest Academy, he has watched her continue to grow.

"I'd heard other things from parents with kids here and so I thought I'd bring my daughter here, and sure enough, her grades went up every year," Russell said. "Her attitude is much better. So, it's done everything that I was told it would help with. I'm happy."

was active in service clubs like the military officer's wives club and helping with the Charlevoix High School band program for eight years, was also born and raised in Charlevoix.

"I had two children in school there (Charlevoix High School) and I started working with Gary (Stutzman, Northwest Academy co-administrator) and I spent a total of eight years as band mother, basically," she said.

"I had great memories of that, and evidently I did a good job and Gary got me started volunteering up here with the kids. So, last year when a position came open, I said I'd like to be on the school board. To me this is more of a (hands-on) school than a public school. In a public school you're not getting that one-on-one interaction these kids get here."

Olach said she won't let her age and lack of experience deter her from doing what's best for the kids.

"I'll listen and learn," she said. "Making a difference for the kids, that's what it's all about. They're our future."

Olach added that she is excited to be sworn in and get to work.

The Northwest Academy School Board's next meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 12 in the Northwest Academy conference room.

According to Stutzman, optimism for the upcoming year is an understatement.

"There's a real good feeling between the board and the administration," he said. "This board is very, very connected with what goes on in school on a daily basis."

Stutzman has nothing but respect and admiration for the two new board members.

"(Joni) Olach has been involved in the school business as a mom.

She was very active as a band parent and very supportive of the programs and now as a senior citizen she volunteers in the school," he said. "I think Jack (Russell) brings a great perspective to the board as a parent."

He added, "I think having a nice mix of, individuals with children in the school, as well as adults in the community who are interested in the education of the kids, makes a very nice cross section."

Among Northwest Academy administration goals, is building a new playground, installing a compact theater, constructing a permanent rock climbing wall and adding 20 students.

"We'll be working on new innovative programs that will help students get prepared for their role in society once they graduate," Stutzman said.

To celebrate their tenth year of operation, Northwest Academy plans to host a celebration in conjunction with Venetian Festival, featuring Famous Willies Barbecue this summer open to previous students of Northwest Academy, their parents and the general public.

Castle Trolley offers Lake Charlevoix tours

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Editor

Owners of a new trolley service with a goal of uniting and promoting the Lake Charlevoix business community launched a new summer lake tour.

"The purpose of the trolley is to hopefully improve business for everyone all the way around the lake. Whether they're boaters, campers or residents, we want them to feel comfortable moving around the lake, which helps us all," co-owner of Castle Trolley, Dave Hayden, said. "Lake Charlevoix is one big community, we need to start thinking like that."

Hayden and fellow Charlevoix resident Rich Simmons, own Charlevoix Limousine Service. The two added Castle Trolley Lake Charlevoix tours to their repertoire of offerings this week.

They have owned Castle Trolley for over two years and during that time have focused on accommodating the transportation needs of Castle Farms event attendees.

Hayden credits Castle Farms

owner Richard Mueller, from whom he bought the trolley, for the trolley service concept.

"He's really the brain child of this," Hayden said.

During the recent winter season, Castle Trolley offered weekend transportation to and from Boyne Mountain and Boyne City. Hayden said while the service was well received, the winter elements were too harsh for the 13-year-old trolley.

Hayden said the new summer tours would allow a maximum of 27 people to enjoy the beautiful Lake Charlevoix scenery from the comfort of the immaculate trolley.

He said riders are permitted to bring cocktails and hors d'oeuvres aboard. The trolley chauffeurs are two licensed school bus drivers with many years of experience.

Tours began on Tuesday, July 4 and will take place again this week on Friday, July 7. Trolley service will continue on Tuesdays and Fridays through Labor Day.

Tours depart at 4 p.m. from the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce off Bridge Street. Every two hours, the trolley, which runs until midnight, returns to each destination.

Stops along the route include Charlevoix destinations the Charlevoix Country Club, Argonne Supper Club, Northwest Marina and Grey Gables; Boyne City favorites Young State Park, the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce, Garretts, Lester's BBQ, The New Tannery and the Harborage; and East Jordan hot spots the Jordan Inn, East Jordan Marina and the East Jordan Tourist Park.

Simmons and Hayden said if the service is well received a second trolley might be added.

"We would like to tour the lake seven days a week next year," Simmons said.

The two are planning to offer a Christmas holiday season tour of lights in conjunction with the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce, to benefit area food pantries.

Private trolley rental is also available.

For more information about the trolley service including scheduling, or to book the trolley for a private party, contact either Simmons or Hayden at (231) 547-9088.

New family physician joins Boyne Area Medical Center

Amy Mitchell, MD

The busy primary health care practice at Boyne Area Medical Center will now find it easier to accept new patients and see them quickly.

Amy Mitchell, MD, will join the Boyne Area Medical Center staff on July 10.

As a family physician, Mitchell will offer a full spectrum of care to all patients — from newborn infants to the elderly — with a special focus on preventive medicine.

"I enjoy the challenges and variety family practice offers," she said. "It's a chance to help patients achieve their maximum level of wellness at all stages of life."

A graduate of Northwestern University, Mitchell earned her medical degree from Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine and completed her residency at the University of Michigan Hospitals. She has spent the past six years in private practice with the Townsend Medical Center in Jackson.

Mitchell, whose family vacationed in the area, is especially pleased to practice in north-west Michigan. She and her husband Ian, a third year law school student at Michigan State University, are making their home in the Boyne area.

To make an appointment with Mitchell, call Boyne Area Medical Center at (231) 582-5314.

Book shop to host signing with author, comedian
Bruce Cameron

Bridge Street Book Shop, located at 407 Bridge St. in Charlevoix, will host comedian California couple Bruce Cameron and Cathryn Michon at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 7.

The two continue to make people laugh through their writings and stand-up routines. Cameron traces his childhood roots to Charlevoix. His first book, "Eight Simple Rules for Dating My Teenage Daughter," went on to become an ABC hit starring the late John Ritter.

His current book, "How To Remodel a Man," offers step-by-step instructions for actually altering the character and behavior of men.

In Michon's book, "Grrr Genius Guide to Life," she shares her humorous insights into the modern woman, from a bizarre Catholic funeral to an interview conducted in underwear, as she presents a 12-step program that uses personal anecdotes to illuminate her own path to genius.

Sheriff: Church break-ins believed to be connected

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Sheriff George Lasater

Church robbers have struck again. According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater, on June 19 his deputies responded to a second breaking and entering complaint at a church during the month of June.

Lasater said his office believes the incidents are connected.

The incident occurred some time between 9:20 p.m. on June 18 and 5:24 a.m. June 19 at the Lighthouse Missionary Church located off Rogers Road near M-66 in South Arm Township.

Suspects entered the church and stole checks and between $300 and $400 in mostly change which was stored in brown, plastic acorn shaped banks that are about 4 inches wide. There are 20 to 30 of these banks missing. The money was being saved to fund missionary trips for children.

The other is believed to have occurred the morning of June 11 when thieves broke into Bible Baptist Church, located off M-66 in Marion Township, and stole an undetermined amount of cash and checks from a safe box.

Lasater said his office has pinpointed a couple people of interest but arrests have not been made.

Those with information about the larceny are asked to contact Lasater, corporal George R. Lasater, or deputy corporal, Chuck Vondra at (231) 547-4461.

Health department expands drinking water testing service

Expanded drinking water tests are available locally through the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency's Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory.

The laboratory recently received full certification from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

Northern Michigan residents can stop by the health department offices in Bellaire, Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Gaylord to obtain test kits to have their drinking water analyzed. The test kits identify the presence of coliform bacteria, as well as common chemicals including nitrate, nitrite, fluoride, sulfate, chloride, iron, sodium, and calcium carbonate.

Instead of being sent to the state laboratory in Lansing, water samples are analyzed at the Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory, which is located at the health department's branch office in Gaylord. The health department routinely samples private and public water supply wells to assure safe drinking water and to maintain compliance with state and federal drinking water requirements for facilities supplying water to the public.

"For the past several years, we've been sending water samples to the state laboratory in Lansing for analysis. It was expensive in terms of both time and money," said Scott Kendzierski, director of environmental health services for Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

"With quicker turn around times, we are better prepared to respond to water quality issues that have public health significance and we can conduct follow-up sampling in a timely manner," he added.

The Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory is one of six regional laboratories in the state. They were organized to provide analytical data which is accurate, timely, and relevant to public health, clinical and epidemiological needs. The labs can analyze samples for food borne illness and communicable diseases in addition to water-borne illnesses.

Homeowners should check their drinking water regularly. Unlike public drinking water systems, which have professionals frequently checking the water's source and its quality before it is sent to the water distribution system and the public, homeowners are responsible for their own drinking water quality.

"Poor water quality can result in illness due to bacterial contamination or toxicity from a variety of contaminants," said Kendzierski. "Our division routinely evaluates and reviews water sampling results in our area, tracking groundwater contamination and consulting with people who have unsafe water supplies."

The health department tracks water quality results through internal and state database systems and has been identifying wells and aquifers that are or may be vulnerable to contamination.

For more information, visit www.nwhealth.org, or call Ken Terpstra at the Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory at (989) 732-6878.

Public Notice?

Without it in your newspaper, you're left guessing what the government's doing in your community.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

Wagbo Peace center offers Sharing the Harvest program

Since 2003, East Jordan's Wagbo Peace Center has provided fresh, nutritious food to low-income families in Charlevoix and Antrim counties through its Sharing the Harvest program.

For a fourth season, Wagbo will be offering Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) "shares" to qualified local families in need. Community Supported Agriculture is a subscription food model where shareholders receive a weekly basket of freshly harvested produce from the farm for the entire growing season.

In addition to providing weekly food baskets, Wagbo's Sharing the Harvest program includes classes covering home vegetable gardening, family nutrition, the health and environmental benefits of organic food production and fresh food preparation and preservation. At the same time, kids in the program can learn about healthy eating and try new foods, all while having fun at the farm.

Sharing the Harvest addresses the need for a healthy addition to the boxed and canned food traditionally available through food pantries.

The Wagbo Peace Center is located at 5745 North M-66, three miles south of East Jordan. For information about contributing to or participating in the Wagbo Peace Center's Sharing the Harvest program, call (231) 536-0333.

Mariner sailing program at Depot Beach

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

There couldn't be a better way to spend a summer day than sailing off the shores of Lake Charlevoix.

At least that's what the Lake Charlevoix Mariners think as they prepare for their twentieth year of sailing.

In partnership with the Charlevoix County Michigan State University Extension program, the Mariners will run the 2006 4-H Youth Sailing School July 10 through Aug. 18 at Depot Beach in Charlevoix.

"It teaches kids a life-long skill," said Keith Attee, vice-president of the Lake Charlevoix Mariners. "We're essentially the heart of the school, you could say, because we provide the equipment and such."

Charlevoix County kids, ages eight to 19, can attend a session for $40 and out-of-county students can join for $80.

"We're trying to get the students at a young age so they'll stick with sailing," said Lindsey Carland, program leader.

Each session runs for five days either in the morning from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. or in the afternoon from 1:15 to 4 p.m.

Students must meet at Depot Beach for their designated session equipped with a shirt, shoes and a bathing suit. Personal flotation devices will be provided to those students who do not have one.

While in the school, students will learn basic knot tying, docking and departing skills, and weather awareness, just to name a few.

Not to mention, sailing will also boost confidence, utilize teamwork and support good sportsmanship, said Carland.

"We've really got a very experienced staff," she added.

Carland herself began sailing at just two months old.

All instructors in the 4-H Youth Sailing Program are trained and certified by U.S. Sailing and hold American Red Cross First Aid and CPR certifications.

On Aug. 4, the Lake Charlevoix Mariners will host their 20th Anniversary family picnic celebration. All former instructors, members of the Mariners, students, and their parents are invited to join in.

The Mariners will also be having an auction to help raise money for next year's program at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 12 in the parking lot at Irish Boat Shop.

As their only fundraiser, the Mariners will be auctioning off powerboats, sailboats, inflatables, nautical equipment and other donated items.

The money raised, along with donations from local businesses and residents, will provide scholarships for the summer sailing program for Charlevoix County kids.

To donate to the auction, contact the Lake Charlevoix Mariners at (231) 582-6232.

Each year, Crooked Tree Arts Center hosts The eddi Awards, a celebration of those individuals and organizations that appreciate and participate in the arts in northwest Michigan.

The name, The eddi Awards, honors the late eddi Offield, an accomplished artist, and generous benefactor and advocate for the arts in our area, who always spelled her first name with a lower case 'e'.

Serving as co-chairs of the eddi Awards 2006 are Teresa Crouse of Petoskey, and Steve Spencer of Harbor Springs.

Awards are presented in eight categories: Visual and performing artists, arts and cultural organization, arts in education, arts and cultural leadership, individual patron, benefactor and lifetime achievement.

Nomination forms are now available at Crooked Tree Arts Center and on-line at www.crookedtree.org. While the forms require the usual basic contact information, it is the nominator's description of the nominee that is most important.

"There are many people and organizations here in northern Michigan who are very deserving of an eddi Award. Nominators are encouraged to submit a personal story, detailing the reasons their nominee should be an eddi Award recipient," said Spencer.

Crouse added, "The essence of the works of the person or organization is what the jury needs to understand. Descriptions don't have to be lengthy, but are vital to the process."

Winners of The eddi Awards are selected by a volunteer committee representing a wide range of artistic and cultural disciplines in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

The celebration and presentation of the eddi Awards will take place on Friday, Sept. 15 at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Big Rock exhibit opens to rave reviews

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, July 5, 2006 - PAGE 35

Dozens of people attended the Big Rock Point exhibit press preview on Wednesday, June 28 at the Depot.

Those in attendance swooned at the amazing work exhibit organizers have done.

The Charlevoix Historical Society, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project, and the Consumers Energy Foundation are sponsors of the exhibit on the history of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant at the train depot which officially opened on Friday, June 30.

The history is told through photographs, documents, plaques, hands-on displays, a cutaway model of the plant, and videos, one of which features Ronald Reagan.

The exhibit will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday through Labor Day weekend, and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays from early September through Oct. 14.

Big Rock Point was the fifth commercial nuclear plant constructed in the United States, and the first operational nuclear plant in Michigan. During the 35 years it was in operation, it set both national and world records. Big Rock Point made a significant economic impact on northern lower Michigan. Today, Consumers Energy is returning the land on which the plant once stood to as close to its natural state as possible.

For more information about the exhibit, call (231) 547-0373 or visit www.chxhistory.com.

Teachers make concessions

Instructors waive wage increase and benefits to address the budget

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Contractual concessions made earlier this spring by teachers and support staff of Charlevoix Public Schools could save the school system nearly $189,000 over the next two years.

The savings, projected by Charlevoix Public Schools business manager, Shawn Biddle, come from a change by staff in health plans and agreeing to no increase in salary for the first year.

"Both their negotiator and myself sat down and talked in a non adversarial situation and we came up with a solution that could serve the needs of both groups and still be beneficial to the district," said outgoing Charlevoix Public Schools superintendent, Dr. John Sturock. "From the board's perspective, we are very pleased we could find some common ground and reach an agreement for the next two years, because the school district faces other issues."

The negotiations yielded a zero increase for the 2006-2007 school year with a 3 percent increase in the 2007-2008 school year for projected savings of $175,000 the first year and $14,000 the second year.

According to Biddle, the numbers could go slightly higher or lower depending on which health plans are chosen by teachers and support staff.

"Typically, contract negotiations are very formal with bargaining teams," Sturock said. "But we sat down and talked about health care and other issues to see if we could maybe try to get some money back into the district because we're obviously looking at some financial issues."

Sturock said both teachers and support staff had representatives on the Financial Steering Committee and both groups worked together on the contract negotiations.

"We talked and looked at different points and weighed them both ways," he said. "In negotiation, nobody ever gets everything they want, but both sides could live with what we settled."

and the benefit is that we saved the district almost $200,000 over a two-year period."

Many other school districts are altering their benefits packages as well.

"By making that move, the district was able to save money, and obviously the teachers felt that they would still get an equality health care plan for themselves," Sturock said. "I think most school districts up here are moving that way and most contracts that have been working are moving toward concession across the board."

He added, "We had fairly good negotiations. This is the fourth contract we've negotiated while I've been here and we've never gotten into any labor

Students reach out to music teacher

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

A small stand packed with tasty treats was a reflection of the sweet mark former Charlevoix Elementary School music teacher Marina LaBlance left on the lives of her students.

On July 6, 13 of LaBlance's former students reacted to news of their teacher and friend's colon cancer diagnosis with the same selfless giving spirit she showed them. The kids organized a bake sale on Bridge Street to raise funds for LaBlance.

"We all pitched in with something," said Mallory Murray, a student event participant.

"She gave so much to us and the community. We just liked her so much," added Pauline Sheets, one of the bake sale organizers and a former student of LaBlance.

LaBlance, 58, was diagnosed with colon cancer by her family practitioner, Dr. Jim Gels, on June 14 following an ultrasound that revealed tumors on her liver. Prior to the diagnosis, she had experienced pain in her side that was initially believed to be a pulled muscle. The symptoms continued to worsen and further testing proved surgery was needed to remove a tumor in her colon and aggressive chemo-

Three injured in July 2 boat explosion

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is investigating the explosion of a 1987 Cruisers Inc. 28-foot cabin cruiser which occurred at 12:45 p.m. on Sunday, July 2 at the Ferry Beach launch ramp in Lake Charlevoix.

The operator, Alan B. Crow, 36 of Charlevoix stated that he had turned the ignition key to start the boat when it exploded and caught fire. There were three other persons on board and another on the dock tending the lines when the incident occurred.

Lindsay Laway, 13, was ejected from the boat by the explosion and landed on the dock, she suffered a fractured leg. Another 13-year-old girl was thrown out of the boat and landed in the water. Lana Magris, 53, of Florida, also suffered a leg injury.

None of the other persons involved suffered obvious injuries.

The incident remains under investigation but it is believed that inadequately ventilating the bilge was a factor. The operator advised that he had just fueled the vessel at a local gas station.

therapy treatments would follow to combat the stage four cancer.

Her first day of a 48 hour jump-start chemotherapy treatment took place on June 27. Due to complications from the treatment, she was unable to visit the young philanthropists who raised $431 at the sale.

She said the efforts of the students and other community members who have reached out to her, have been heart warming and inspiring.

"I always knew my children would come through for me. We've always been there for each other. It's a bond that's there that no one can take away. I'm so proud of them that they spearheaded this. That came from their hearts," she said.

This is LaBlance's second bout with cancer, the first, breast cancer, came 11 years ago. She attacked it with radiation and the same strength of spirit that she said will carry her through this unrelated health challenge.

She is being treated by Dr. Judy Ramsdell at Munson Medical Center, in Traverse City. Ramsdell, an oncologist, also saw her through radiation and a lumpectomy following her breast cancer diagnosis.

While she had fewer side effects from radiation, LaBlance said the treatment isn't her focus, beating the disease is.

"This is temporary. The prognosis is looking good. I just have to keep moving forward — high energy, high attitudes," she said. "It's mind over matter. You don't have any other option. You have to stay positive and fight it."

LaBlance is a mother of two — Maro, 28 of Denver, Colo. and George, 25 of Charlevoix.

She moved to Charlevoix in 1972. Her dedication to education earned her the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of America Award in 1973 during her first year of teaching. Then, in 1996, her colleagues and peers voted for her to receive an Outstanding Person in Education award.

LaBlance has also received the E. Dale Kennedy Award for excellence in promoting education and in 2004 received an eddi Award for her dedication to the arts and education. And in January 2005 was named Outstanding Citizen of the Year at the 47th Annual Meeting of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

She retired in June 2005 from her position of 33 years as elementary school music instructor.

"She made school fun. She always had a smile on her face and laughed a lot," said Luke Klinger, her former student and a bake sale organizer.

LaBlance is secretary for the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair board of directors. She has been actively involved with the art fair for over 20 years. This year's event will take place on Aug. 12 in East Park.

Local teens involved in rollover accident

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is investigating a one car crash that occurred at around 10 p.m. on Friday, July 7 off Mt. McSaubia Road in Charlevoix Township.

Kacy Hoaglund, 16, was driving southbound on Mt. McSaubia Road in a 1996 Isuzu Rodeo when she lost control on a curve. The vehicle left the roadway and rolled with the roof striking a large tree in the front yard of a residence.

Three occupants, Cameron Crain, 16, Sarah Shepard, 16, and Stephanie Way, 16, were able to exit the damaged vehicle. However, Hoaglund was trapped and had to be extricated from the badly crushed vehicle using the JAWS. All occupants are from Charlevoix. They were all transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by ambulance for multiple injuries. Hoaglund, who had been issued her level 1 driver's license earlier in the week, was later transported to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey with multiple fractures.

The crash remains under investigation but the sheriff's office advised that excessive speed was a contributing factor.

disputes, mediation or arbitration." Sturock feels the teachers and support staff of Charlevoix schools are always willing to help do what is best for the community.

"I haven't seen concessions to this extent around here. They could have held out and not agreed to the contract," he said. "And, I think the board realizes you can't ask employees to pay the price for everybody."

He added, "We have a good staff, and I believe that they realize the situation we're in and the financial hardship we're facing. By understanding the needs of the kids and saving some money, we're saving some teachers."

Aside from the obvious benefits to the school's budget, Sturock said some monetary solvency will help the new superintendent focus on learning the lay of the land.

"I just think we have a great community and teachers and parents all working together, and this is just another example of us working together," he said. "And, hopefully now we can focus away from contracts and whoever is here can look at other ways to reduce costs and raise revenues so that, next spring, they won't be looking at cuts again."

Sturock added, "With a new superintendent coming in, it would be difficult to come in and start a relationship with teachers and support staff and do contract negotiations instead of building relationships and that rapport. This is positive."

OPINIONS

Lock me up, the kids are out-of-town

Benjamin Gohs
'Staff writer'

I was skeptical that institutionalization could render one unable to cope with life on the outside — that was until the kids went down to visit our folks for a few weeks.

Back in March, dreams of a quiet house, fruity umbrella drinks and being fanned with a giant feather didn't foreshadow the lackluster events to come.

The wife and I kicked off the celebration of newfound freedom with spaghetti and Seinfeld reruns.

Day two, the kids called. The wife was happy to hear from them, but I'm not much of a telephone talker and they'd just left.

"So, watcha been doin' for the last 18 hours?" At their age they don't always catch the sarcasm.

By day three I sensed something was amiss. We weren't Congaing through the kitchen and the wife's gloom was palpable.

After some prodding she admitted, "I miss the kids." For my own safety, I had to lie, "Me too."

The wife was thrilled when the kids phoned on day four. Then she hands me the phone, "You're having fun? That's good. Grandpa lets you eat anything for breakfast? That's nice. A sandwich made of jelly between two slices of cheese? I'm giving the phone back to your mother now."

Who were these permissive and patient people, and what had they done with my parents?

The call helped her mood for awhile. But by day eight, she had full-blown Summer Camp Syndrome. Symptoms include long diatribes about how great the kids are, unexplained shortness with husband and spontaneous sobbing.

Anticipation seldom equals reality. I get that, but the most excitement I had was clipping my toenails in the living room — a taboo to be sure.

So much for, "The Devil's workshop." Idle hands led me straight to boredom's waiting room, where the only thing to read are pamphlets on mono.

On day 12 we had lunch with half a western movie — "Dances with Melodrama," if I recall. Evidently we'd rather do housework than watch Kevin Costner get frisky in a teepee. (I've since had to watch Alien Autopsy three times to get the image of him in buckskin out of my head.)

I heard an occasional groan from my daughter's room as the wife unearthed mysteries from the Mesozoic era. Once she called me in to show me Mt. St. Biohazard, which consisted of dust bunnies, fuzzy spoons, old socks and the fossilized remains of a bagged lunch.

Between bleach fumes and dust thrown by our vintage vacuum, allergies left me dazed. So, I was in my own little world organizing shaving accessories and polishing the necessary, when the wife burst in with blood gushing from her hand.

Apparently the girl stashed a shattered picture frame in her toy box. I squealed, jumped, and hit my head on a shelf. Luckily, I didn't suffer any brain damage. When my eyes uncrossed, I tried tending to her wounds, but found it difficult due to all the hysterical blubbing.

After a good smack in the face and a few stern words, I dried my eyes and promised to relax. She endured my backwoods doctoring without a peep, while I would've called for a priest and made her promise never to remarry.

By that evening we were wheezing, bleeding and praying the children would soon be home. Day 14: Small talk was exhausted. Like inmates out on parole after a 40-year sentence, we found this disruption to our routine unsettling.

Even worse, she blamed me for the kids' absence. "I thought we could use some time alone," I pleaded.

All she heard was, "I am evil. I took your children away. Ha, ha, ha."

I had inadvertently insinuated myself between mother and cubs, and no one was around to hear my screams.

"How about a chocolate malt?" I asked, as I readied myself to either fall to the carpet and play dead or beg for mercy.

"OK," she said, her eyes full of disdain. I don't know how long I can use ice-cream as a tranquilizer, but the kids are due to arrive this Sunday. If you see us in line at Dairy Queen, run for your life.

Details can make or break wedding event

Gayle Gennett
'A look at life'

Summer is a popular season for weddings and I would guess you've been invited to one or two or maybe you will be taking the plunge.

As a non-denominational officiate I've had the chance to view many events unfold that were not necessarily part of the wedding planner's agenda. In the end these unplanned events always add to the memories of the wedding day and provide something to share at future family reunions. My advice for brides and grooms is to keep it simple. For those of you not married yet, you may disagree, but for those readers currently in wedded bliss you'll understand this information.

I had the pleasure of officiating a Portuguese wedding that took place in a lovely courtyard adjacent to a beautiful Victorian hotel. The hotel manager thought wouldn't it be nice to have the bride enter the ceremony from the back entrance of the hotel. What the manager didn't realize — the bride didn't speak or read English and walked through a door marked "Fire Exit Only — Alarms Will Sound." This same wedding also followed the tradition of signing the marriage license during the ceremony. The large ball-point pen I brought didn't possess the weight needed to keep the license secure in its setting. After taking a quick glance to see that everyone and everything was in its place, to my heart beating horror I couldn't help but notice that the license was no longer sitting on the table near the flower filled arch. Something waving to me on a nearby bush caught my attention. There was the license, flopping wildly in the breeze, taunting me as I bent over the arch trying to grasp it. To the guests' delight it added a little drama and entertainment before the reception.

On another occasion, the bride and groom were to be wed on a private beach bordering the bride's parents' summer home. Being by the water, they thought the groom could make a dramatic entrance by boat. While the guests patiently waited for what seemed like a very long time and the violinist had played every song she knew by heart, a cell phone beeped in to let us know the boat bringing the groom was experiencing mechanical difficulties and needed to be towed to shore. I really need to practice my "jokes for weddings" and other time fillers if this should occur again. The message here is this, avoid grand entrances.

An interesting little hit for those of you planning a destination wedding on a remote island. A friend of mine attended a wedding which the bride arranged totally via the Internet. It was to be a small wedding on a remote beach. The photos beckoned them with the wonderful beaming sun, white crested waves and swaying palm trees. The bride and groom approached the officiate with somberness and smiles as they quietly gathered beneath the beautifully decorated arch. The ceremony was interrupted by the giggling of family and friends. As they looked around they noticed that the people on the beach were naked. My advice here is if you pick a destination in a warm climate on an island ask if it's a nudist beach first.

Weddings are a memorable event, whether you are taking it all in as a guest or as the maid of honor. The small upsets of the day are rarely noticed. If attending a wedding this summer, those of you already married may relax and enjoy visiting with friends. Individuals soon to be married will make notes on napkins or programs reminding themselves what they may add to their own wedding. For the bride and groom, what's next on the agenda may not be on the wedding planner's agenda. The reception moves quickly and the event is remembered in photographs and stories shared for years to come.

Whatever your situation may be, I am hopeful that you'll enjoy the day with family and friends and whatever unplanned events occur will be minor ones. Mignon McLaughlin offers a reminder for those of you who are already committed in marriage, "A successful one requires falling in love many times, but always with the same person." I couldn't agree more.

Letters to the editor

Demand accountability

Editor:
A bill for $150 for Mary Beth Kur's services was received by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. Minutes of meetings were reviewed and a thorough search of who requested this action was not completely determined but the bill was paid.

This leads one to believe if a bill is submitted to the board by anyone the board will pay it without justification.

Over 26,000 residents in Charlevoix may be interested in this and require further investigation of use of their tax dollars or they may be submitting their own bills.

What is unfortunate is that I feel personal agendas of a select few have obstructed the way this board does business and may be done.

All this turmoil could have been avoided had the commission simply required Mary Beth Kur to let the board know who requested her assistance. I believe the public deserves to have their business conducted in a clear and unquestionable manner and that the commissioners need a wake-up call from any citizen who is offended by this nonsense.

he has learned from children's shows on TV are legion.

That won't happen for my infant great-granddaughter if Congress has its way. Cutting the budget for the children's TV shows this year and eliminating funding for public radio and TV entirely in two years is just plain un-American. It's as if Cookie Monster started devouring children.

Board begins search for interim superintendent

By BENJAMIN GOHS
 Staff writer

Minutes after superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturock, tendered his letter of resignation on July 5 effective, July 28, school board members devised a plan to acquire his replacement.

Four retired superintendents, James D. Cooper, Kent Reynolds, Kenneth J. Walcott and Dennis R. Hagey expressed interest in acting as interim superintendents in Charlevoix while the school board searches for a permanent replacement.

Newly appointed vice-president of the board, Dean Spenceley, said, "I think we need to get someone in here relatively quick, even if it's just temporary. John (Sturock) would probably be of great help to them just in setting them up and showing them the ropes."

Recently appointed school board president, Bill Trubilowicz, said there isn't much time to dally.

"We always have the option of searching for a permanent superintendent, but I agree, we're kind of late coming out of the gate," he said. "Starting the school year, I don't think it's out of the question to say the first three months maybe, so that would definitely put us at a disadvantage."

He added, "It seems to me, if we could get someone to start Monday, that wouldn't be too soon."

Sturock outlined several steps the board could take, including beginning the search for a permanent superintendent immediately or over the course of the next school year.

"If you were to go out and look for a new superintendent and go through the process, it would take until October," he said. "First of all, you'd have to look at hiring someone to help through the process, then they would come in and most likely do some work in the community to find out what would be the characteristics and qualifications the community might be looking for in a superintendent, and they would put that all together and advertise for at least a good month."

Spenceley asked how intricate the hiring process should be.

"In my experience, and this will be my third superintendency, but coming from Concord to Charlevoix, those jobs aren't that much different," Sturock said. "It's probably just learning the lay of the land, learning people and beginning relationships. But as far as the nuts and bolts of getting involved with superintendency, all of these people have that experience they need."

He added, "I think you need to move fairly quickly. I don't think they want to be put through any lengthy process. I think if you do that, you'll lose them — they'll pull out."

According to the outgoing superintendent, any one of the four candidates could do a fine job.

"What you're looking for is the best fit for Charlevoix. They are all superintendents that have retired and three of them have served on an interim basis," Sturock said. "I think if you could bring them on board the last couple weeks in July or the last couple days in July, that would be more than adequate."

In addition to getting an experience

enced interim superintendent, by hiring a retired person, the district will save money on the Federal Insurance Contributions Act and health care.

A committee consisting of Trubilowicz, Spenceley and re-appointed secretary, Larry Levensgood, was scheduled to spend the morning of Friday, July 7 conducting conference calls with the four interested parties.

A special school board meeting was held at 6 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. on Monday, July 10 in the high school media center for the board to interview both Hagey and Cooper respectively.

"Following the interviews, the board will deliberate and choose which one we want to enter into contract negotiations with," Trubilowicz said.

Information on which candidate was chosen was unavailable by press time.

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
 Special to the Courier

After more than three years of dreaming, planning and fund-raising, the Charlevoix Community Skatepark is finally open to the public.

Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc. is celebrating this long-awaited park by hosting a grand opening on Saturday, July 15.

The park, located at 401 West Carpenter Avenue, has been open to the public for almost a month, and it seems local and out-of-town kids are really catching on.

"I've been to a lot of skate parks, but this one's great because the way it's set up," said 9-year-old skater, Ian Miller. "I've never been to a park with a half pipe like this one."

Miller's mom, Theresa, is glad there is an outlet like this one available for kids.

"The park's small, but it's nice. They've got some really innovative ramps," she said.

East Jordan residents Nick

Kidder, 15, and Josh Force, 15, were impressed with the park.

"This is our first time out here, and it's pretty cool," Force said.

At the grand opening this Saturday, Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc. will have free food, a raffle and live music by Cereal Box Propaganda. Modern Day View and Simplicity.

Skateboarders, in-line skaters and BMXers of all ages are welcome, but children under age eight must be supervised by an adult.

Summer hours are from noon to 9 p.m. daily through Aug. 31. Park passes run anywhere from $3 a day to $75 for the summer. They also offer helmet and pad rentals.

Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc. has set up a scholarship fund in memory of the late Patsy Ramsey who played an instrumental role in the planning of the park.

The Charlevoix Public Library's two-year Pennies from Heaven fund-raiser which was started in conjunction with the capital campaign to assist in funding the new building will come to an end on July 31.

The Pennies from Heaven campaign will officially end on July 31 when library personnel will open the box and count the pennies. The campaign goal is one million pennies or $10,000.

America in Bloom judges to critique Charlevoix

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

"Charlevoix the Beautiful" — Charlevoix's town motto, may soon be its claim to fame.

America in Bloom, a national organization that awards towns for their efforts in beautification, will be coming to Charlevoix on July 17 and 18.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful submitted an application early this spring after an anonymous citizen brought the idea to the committee's attention, said Keep Charlevoix Beautiful president, Bob Hoffman.

The two America in Bloom judges, Dwight Lund and Norm Kleier, both of the Chicago, Ill. area, will be in Charlevoix for just 24 hours.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, along with the Charlevoix Area Garden Club and various citizens, will give the judges a tour, concentrating on the petunias, local gardens, and historic sites like the Harsha House Museum and Earl Young homes.

"Basically we're going to show off our little town," said Keep Charlevoix Beautiful member, Lori DeGrazia. "We want to put our best foot forward and have Charlevoix look good."

The judges will give points in categories like landscape areas, floral displays and community involvement and then compare Charlevoix's point values to other towns our size across the country.

"We've spent a lot of time and effort with our petunias," Hoffman said. "Winning would give the people who have helped Keep Charlevoix a great place to live and visit some recognition."

Besides the famous petunias, Hoffman said he thinks Charlevoix might have a great shot at winning an award.

"Round Lake, our three beaches and the water really give us a unique edge over other towns in the country, I think," Hoffman said.

The winners will be announced during an award ceremony this fall in Arkansas.

One injured in personal water craft accident July 1

At approximately 5:15 p.m. on Saturday, July 1, a personal water craft accident occurred on Lake Charlevoix near Hemingway Pointe.

A 6-year-old child was injured while riding as a front passenger on a personal water craft operated by Matthew Grigg of St. Louis, Mo.

Grigg stated his personal water craft jumped as he encountered a large wake at which time the 6-year-old boy was lurch forward into the handlebar receiving a laceration to the inside and outside of his nose. The child was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater reminds all personal water craft operators to use the utmost care and caution on this type of water craft when children are aboard.

Writing workshop on Beaver Island

Western Michigan University's popular writing workshop on Michigan's scenic Beaver Island will be offered from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, July 17 through July 20, at the Beaver Island Community School in St. James.

"Writing for Publication: A Workshop on the Craft of Publishing Articles in Magazines or Professional Journals," is a coached, hands-on program for educators and others who have little experience in writing for or getting published in periodicals, particularly professional journals.

It focuses on how to start articles effectively; perfect a clear, forceful writing style; eliminate jargon and fuzzy language; and make articles attractive to editors of periodicals. Participants leave with a completed article and suitable submission letter.

The program is held on Beaver Island as a way of stimulating the creative senses. The 90-square-mile island is located in Lake Michigan about 22 miles from Charlevoix and is considered one of Michigan's most beautiful and treasured historic places. Workshop participants spend their mornings in an intensive learning environment, then have their afternoons and evenings free to continue working or touring Beaver Island.

"Writing for Publication" is being presented by Western Michigan University's Office of Lifelong Learning and Education. Leading the workshop will be Dr. Lawrence Schlack, Western Michigan University associate professor emeritus of educational leadership. Schlack is a former intermediate school district superintendent who has taught writing workshops in Michigan and several other states for more than 20 years.

The workshop cost is $275 per person. Academic credit from Western Michigan University is available for an additional fee.

Excitement is building in anticipation of the Charlevoix Venetian Festival Country Kickoff.

On Tuesday, July 18, the 76th Annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival and Charlevoix's Historic Landmark, Castle Farms, will join forces once again and this time it will be quite a ride.

The Super Kicker Rodeo will showcase professional, tough nosed cowboys and about 30 of their "ranked" bulls in a rodeo exhibition which is sure to impress. To accompany the western heritage, country artist, DeWayne Spaw, who is famous in the rodeo circuit, will headline the Spaw will perform from 7 to around 7:30 p.m. when the Super Kicker crew take over and execute daredevil rides. He'll return to the stage at 9 p.m. to play another set.

The Charlevoix City Band and the Northwest Academy Jazz All-stars will open the event with performances beginning at 5 p.m.

Children will also squeal with excitement as they are entertained by numerous kid-friendly activities available. These will include rides on "Baby Laura" the elephant and "Mongo" the mechanical bull as well as activities like the Chamberlain petting zoo, a rock climbing wall and an inflatable slide.

The kids won't have a monopoly on the fun, though. This year those 21 and over will have the opportunity to lounge in the beer and wine pavilion, specially secured to prevent underage entry and alcohol consumption outside the pavilion. Grey Gables will cater the event. Non-alcoholic beverages will also be available.

The all inclusive admission fee (other than food and beverages) is $12 for those ages 12 and over and $8 for kids. Children under 3 can attend free-of-charge.

The Castle gates will be open from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. with the Charlevoix City Band performing at 5 p.m., the Northwest Academy Jazz All-stars at 6 p.m., the Super Kicker Rodeo bustin' loose at 7 p.m., immediately followed at 8:30 p.m. by the toe tapping tunes of DeWayne Spaw.

Participants are asked to bring your own lawn chairs for the performances.

Cowboys with the Super Kicker Rodeo and 30 bulls will put on a rodeo exhibition at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 18 during the Charlevoix Venetian Festival's Country Kickoff event at Castle Farms. The event will also feature live music and children's activities including elephant rides and inflatables.

Committee of the Whole hash out administrator's role

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

At the July 6 Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners' Committee of the Whole meeting, they discussed what they would like to see in a potential county administrator.

"As you know, over multiple years, there has been discussion over this, we've talked about it," said Second District County Commissioner Randolph Frykberg. "We had concepts, but we never got down to the point of saying, 'This is where we're going to go.'"

Frykberg presented the committee with a draft job description.

"This was taken from looking at some of the literature that's out of the Michigan Association of Counties and other management guidebooks," he said. "I tried to cover the bases of what I've heard, what I have experienced from other county boards of commissioners."

The commissioners tentatively decided on the administrator title because it offers them a level of control they might not have over a county controller or county coordinator.

"Their (administrator) power, their authority comes from the county board," he said. "The administrator is carrying out and answering directly to the board."

While it is still subject to changes and the complete wording of their draft is not included here, some of the duties in the draft job description include: Financial management, which would cover budget development, accounting, purchasing and grant research; human resource management, which would include things like labor relations for non-elected department heads and their employees, benefit plans, training and personnel development; information and communication systems like phones, computers and office services; and to serve as a liaison between department heads and the board of commissioners.

The committee agreed they would like to see candidates with a degree and, "substantial course of study in organizational management, public finance, public administration, human resource management and policy analysis."

The draft further states, "Strong preference will be given to progressive administrative experience combined with demonstrated results in municipal settings as county administrator, assistant county administrator or equivalent."

A potential county administrator would research for, inform and advise the board of commissioners on policy, program effectiveness and management issues, make recommendations on human resource matters, oversee compensation and classification process, guide the administration of government, serve as a purchaser in order to reduce costs and duplicative services and serve as the ombudsman among units of county government.

The person in the county administrator position would also become the new Freedom of Information Act coordinator, implement directives and policies, attend functions on behalf of the board, make reports, conduct staff meetings, prepare notices, agendas and distribute them to the county board of commissioners and the county clerk.

While the two positions are not identical and the commissioners have not yet revealed what the pay would be for the potential county administrator, Emmet County Controller, Lyn Johnson, receives a salary of $95,670.

Johnson said he acts as the main buffer between the Emmet County Board of Commissioners and department heads, while performing many duties similar to those outlined in the Charlevoix County Commissioners' draft of job duties.

The Emmet County office of county controller was created in the early 1980s.

According to Johnson, one of the main differences between hiring a county coordinator and hiring a county administrator is that it takes two-thirds of the county commission to fire the coordinator, while it takes a simple majority to terminate the administrator from employment.

Committee of the Whole members agreed to discuss the matter further during the 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 26 board meeting in the commissioners' room, located at 203 Antrim St. in downtown Charlevoix.

Five vie for the 2006 Miss Charlevoix crown

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Five Charlevoix women are competing to earn the coveted Miss Charlevoix crown for 2006.

Diana Phillips, who has coordinated the Miss Charlevoix competition for the past 11 years said the Charlevoix Venetian Festival pageant provides both educational funding and professional opportunities to winning candidates.

In addition to the crowning of the Venetian queen, awards for Miss Congeniality and Scholastic Achievement will be presented at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 21, at the bandshell in East Park.

Candidates for Miss Charlevoix must be 16 to 22 years old, have a primary residence in Charlevoix or have graduated from the Charlevoix School District, be single, never have been married and have no children.

Candidates for this year's crown are: Zita Anderson, Kim Way, Madison Ramsey, Samantha White and Kara Ciesielezyk.

Anderson, 16, the daughter of John and Zita Winn and Steve Anderson, is a member of the Charlevoix High School class of 2007. She is involved in sports including basketball, volleyball and soccer and plays the piano. She aspires to be a math teacher.

Anderson is working at the Charlevoix Municipal Marina this summer. She said the most challenging part of the competition will be the essay portion while public speaking will come most naturally to her.

Kim Way, the 17-year-old sister of Miss Charlevoix 2005, Kari Way, is the daughter of Kris and Barney Way of Charlevoix. Like Anderson, she will also graduate from Charlevoix High School in the spring of 2007. She plans to study computer graphics in college. Currently, she's working at Dry Harbour Marine designing its Web site. She said competing for the Venetian Festival crown has been her goal since she was young.

"The parades, meeting other people, seeing different towns — the whole thing is prestigious," Way said.

Madison Ramsey, the 18-year-old daughter of Keith and Mary Ramsey, graduated from Charlevoix High School this spring. She plans to attend Grand Valley State University in the fall where she'll study business or elementary education.

The accomplished athlete and prom queen said the speeches will be her greatest challenge but she feels the overall experience will help her grow. "Meeting people and getting experience public speaking and in doing things I haven't done in the past (will tend Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant to study business or journalism.

White enjoys snowboarding, cheerleading and photography.

She said the competition brings great opportunities to meet new people and the speeches present her with the greatest challenge.

Kara Ciesielezyk, 17, is the daughter of Carey and Nichelle Ciesielezyk of Charlevoix and Karyn Callenborn of Traverse City. Following graduation in 2007, Ciesielezyk plans to attend a college in Michigan to study business or journalism.

Her hobbies include cheerleading and softball. She entered the Miss Charlevoix competition for the overall experience.

"I like trying new things and being able to say I've done that, I've been there," she said.

The two-day competition, operated under the direction of three judges from outside Charlevoix County, is going on this week. Day one includes a five to seven minute informative speech and a panel interview. Day two brings a 20-minute personal interview and a second reflective speech.

The queen will not only receive an honorary scholarship, she will represent Charlevoix at various parades and events throughout the state. This year's scholarship award is expected to range from $2,000 to $2,500.

On July 22, Miss Charlevoix 2006 and her court will ride in the Venetian Festival Street Parade and the Grand Electric Boat Parade.

"Basically they are the ambassadors of our town," Phillips said.

Senior center requests millage allocation

Representatives of the Charlevoix Senior Center have approached the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to request funding from the county-wide senior millage. The money is currently handled by the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. The Charlevoix Senior Center (pictured above) is located off Norwood Road.

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

A dispute over funding between the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging and Charlevoix Senior Center Inc. has yet to be resolved.

During the July 5 Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners' Personnel/Internal Government Committee meeting, members of the Commission on Aging and the Charlevoix Senior Center discussed whether or not the latter can receive additional funding from the former.

"I apologize for even being here, because in February, when we met with the senior center, (they) were supposed to come back to our subcommittee to work on issues between (us)," said Sue Bergmann, director of the Commission on Aging. "I thought we were getting somewhere, but when I find out that they had come to your board first, before coming to our board, I questioned how well that works."

Charlevoix Senior Center vice-director, Richard Tunison, told the committee they have the ability under the law to appropriate more operating funds to the center, if they choose.

"We now raise $136,000 for our budget through fund-raisers, grants, gifts and membership dues," he said. "We do not want to turn that back over to you in exchange for $136,000 we're asking for to run our budget."

He added, "The reason that we're asking for ($100,000) money is so we can cut down all the fund-raisers we have to do to keep operating and direct our efforts toward more service. We're trying to expand our activities."

According to Bergmann, the Charlevoix Senior Center taxpayers account for about one fortieth of the Commission on Aging's overall budget.

"We're trying to be fair and equal," she said. "But I don't feel that they're entitled to the whole amount without participating with our senior centers or our Commission on Aging."

In budget year 2005-2006, Charlevoix Senior Center Inc. received $3,316.18 for natural gas, $845.99 for telephone and $6,645.30 for water and electricity from the Commission on Aging.

Tunison outlined a trial balance sheet from Charlevoix County which shows the Commission on Aging with a fund equity of nearly $1.5 million.

"They've set aside $1.5 million, that's money not spent on seniors," he said. "Understanding that a person should have a reasonable rainy day fund, but a million and a half for a budget of $500,000 is probably a good sized rainy day fund."

He added, "It certainly isn't going to hurt anybody to give $100,000 to the senior center in Charlevoix."

Bergmann said the Commission on

Library to award Venetian Kid's Day armband to read club winner

A free armband for Charlevoix Venetian Festival Kids Day will be awarded in a "By the Book" contest offered to Charlevoix Public Library's Summer Reading Club members.

Parents and children in the Read-to-Me club, and Summer Reading Club for children ages 6-10 will compete for free armbands to be used at Kids Day activities from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 20 in East Park. The event will include pony rides, a craft tent and other special activities.

"Imagination never ends," said Annette Nesburg, coordinator for the Venetian Festival Kids Day.

This is the fourth year in a row that the festival has donated armbands to Charlevoix youth as a reading incentive.

Summer Reading Club top readers and winners of the Venetian Festival armbands will be announced at the Summer Reading Club program at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 18. Winners need not be present to win. But armbands not picked up by noon on Wednesday, July 19, will be awarded to the next top reader in that age group.

Summer Reading Clubs conclude on July 25 with invitation only events including a wrap party for teens at 3 p.m. and at 7 p.m. a performance for young readers and their parents by ventriloquist, Virgil Norgrove.

Club registration continues through July 18. For more information, call Chris Hauke at (231) 547-2651.

County commission: Senior center, commission on aging must negotiate SENIOR

Aging pays for all the senior center's expenses except those connected with the nutritional program and expressed concerns about potential duplication of services caused by the Charlevoix Senior Center. She also said the Commission on Aging gives the senior center $25,000 a year in millage money.

"That's more than generous compared to any other senior center in this region without participation," Bergmann said. "So I would recommend, and I know the majority my board feels the same, that (we) continue negotiations to come up with an agreement and then bring it back to this board."

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jarema, has been working on this issue for at least four years.

"If you're worried about duplicative services, that can be written into the contract," he said. "(And), if it's true that the Commission on Aging pays everything except the nutritional part, then if you take out the cost of the food services and the people who prepare it, then the commission should pay all the rest and they don't."

He added, "To say that they (Commission on Aging) give $25,000 for the building for electricity and water, that's a county-owned building, that $25,000 is sort of illusory because, if they (Commission on Aging) didn't pay it, the county would have to."

Tunison said the senior center wants to get away from their current, "Hand to mouth budget."

"We're more than willing to be accountable," he said. "We'd like to divert more of our energies toward providing senior services and not so much toward fund-raising."

Second District County Commissioner, Randolph Frykberg, asked both sides if they could put the small issues aside and work on the larger points of contention, and reminded them that there are two other senior centers, one in East Jordan and one in Boyne City.

"To go in and have it fair to the other two agencies, I think we have to have some ground rules that are similar," he said. "You've got to get some paperwork down and get started."

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners' personnel/internal government committee told both sides to go back to the negotiating table.

Good Samaritan Family Services seeks matching funds for truck purchase

Rotary Charities of Traverse City recently announced approval of a matching grant for $15,000 to be given to Good Samaritan Family Services in Ellsworth.

The purpose of the grant is to purchase a truck for picking up food for the Good Samaritan pantry to help the growing number of needy client families in Antrim and Charlevoix counties.

The Good Samaritan pantry has had an increase in food client families on an average of 25 percent a year since the year 2000. The pantry provided food for 276 needy families in May. The number of needy families is expected to increase well into the future.

The pantry currently purchases and transports more than 14,000 pounds of food each month for client families. Most of the food is purchased from the Manna Food Bank in Harbor Springs, a 120-mile round trip. The transporting of food is being done by volunteers using their own pickup trucks making multiple trips each month. The increase in pounds of food has made this method impractical and nearly impossible during the last two years.

Good Samaritan must raise $15,000 in order to receive the $15,000 matching grant for the truck. Those interested in making a tax-deductible matching gift can make a check out to Good Samaritan Family Services, and send it to: Good Samaritan Family Services, P.O. Box 206, Ellsworth, MI 49729.

For more information, call Bill Broadwick at (231) 533-5552.

Engstrom purchases local Amick real estate office

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Charlevoix resident Kimberly Engstrom has taken over Amick Lakeside Rentals and Charlevoix Lakeside Rentals and Management.

Engstrom, who has been in the real estate business for five years, purchased the business in September 2005 from former broker, Carol Amick, who started the company in 1998 with her husband, the late Ed Amick.

Prior to taking the business leap, Engstrom was an escrow agent for Northern Preferred Title.

She said her real estate experience coupled with 25 years in the fields of sales and marketing, the business venture was the next natural step.

Services offered at Amick Lakeside Rentals and Charlevoix Lakeside Rentals and Management include sales and short and long-term rental of commercial and residential properties. Engstrom said they specialize in waterfront properties.

The real estate office offers four agents to service clients. They are: Engstrom; former owner, Carol Amick; Sharon Tormey; and Sue Carlson.

Since acquiring the business, Engstrom has got a new Web site up and running which is equipped with a live Web cam that pans the Charlevoix Municipal Marina and East Park. Office space at the group's headquarters at 105 East Clinton St., overlooking Round Lake in downtown Charlevoix, has also been expanded.

Changes they are working toward include increasing property rentals and sales and bringing more agents on board.

Engstrom is the wife of Charlevoix attorney Ed Engstrom. They have two children, Kelsey, 8, and Tyler, 11.

For more information about Amick Lakeside Rentals and Charlevoix Lakeside Rentals and Management, visit www.charlevoixrealstate.com. Or call Engstrom at (231) 547-2222.

Johnson will be available at 1 p.m. on Friday, July 14 to discuss and autograph her book which features stories and photos of many of the barns on Old Mission Peninsula where she has lived since 1995.

Rainbow Shoppe new home at Brumm's Showroom

Officers with The Rainbow Shoppe board of directors, Barbara Jensen, Rita Orłowski, Ceil Doan and Pastor Dan Gilmore stand on the front steps of the Norman Brumm Showroom building, located at 06480 Old U.S. 31 South. They plan to purchase the building in September and relocate The Rainbow Shoppe there.

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Editor

Charlevoix residents Joan and Dawson Way have taken steps to bring one of Charlevoix's longest standing retail stores, The Rainbow Shoppe, closer to its relocation goal.

"They are the first two angels to come forward to offer this beautiful space to us," Barbara Jensen a member of The Rainbow Shoppe board of directors, said.

The Rainbow Shoppe board of directors is negotiating the purchase of the Norman Brumm Showroom building, located at 06480 Old U.S. 31 South near the intersection of Bell's Bay Road and U.S. 31.

The Rainbow Shoppe, has been in business for 22 years in Charlevoix and is a local thrift store operated under the direction of a 20-person board of directors made up of two representatives each from 10 area churches.

The group has put $15,000 toward the $50,000 down payment and will now pursue fund-raisers and donations to finance the $35,000 balance. The total cost is $450,000.

"We want to appeal to the community for this," said Rita Orłowski, a board member and store founder.

"We need quite a few more angels." According to Jensen, the store has outgrown its existing location at #1 Van Pelt Alley in downtown Charlevoix, where there is no on-site parking.

The board's decision to move was also made in response to proposed rent increases. The organization currently pays $2,500 a month to rent the Van Pelt Alley space.

In a previous interview, Orłowski explained that in May 2005 the board's landlord, Bill Decker of Detroit, approached its members with lease changes to reflect a triple net set-up under which rent would include the lessee's share of insurance, taxes and repairs.

The board opted to decline this agreement.

Decker also offered to sell the board the building for $375,000. However, Orłowski said this was determined to be an undesirable move for the group.

The current site is 12,000 square feet, 8,000 of which is used for retail space. The proposed Brumm's location includes over three acres of property and offers over 13,000 square feet of retail space, a huge amount of storage space and two apartments.

Rainbow Shoppe seeks support for relocation

Orlowski and Jensen said the extra space will allow for sale of larger furniture items and living quarters may be used in the future to house a live-in caretaker or to expand the Shoppe's outreach efforts by providing emergency housing.

"We don't know how the Lord is going to expand our ministry, it's exciting," Jensen said.

While the group has spent 20 years at its current location, members of the board said the new location offers better exposure. They added that while loyal customers will have to adjust to traveling to a new place to shop they don't think business will be hurt.

"We aren't afraid of that. We've been faithful, honorable merchants and I'm sure the community will follow us. After a lot of prayers and meetings, we felt this was the way to go," Orlowski said.

The site is currently occupied by the showroom of local artist Norman Brumm, 67, who specializes in nature inspired art. He has been at the showroom site since 1980. Brumm's sister is Joan Way.

He plans to down size his operation and move next-door to the location currently occupied by Northern Sky Obedience Academy, located at 6462

Old U.S. 31 South. The academy is relocating.

Norman Brumm

"It's hard to leave, everything is arranged here for my work. But it's just too expensive," he said. Brumm said the showroom is costing him over $1,000 a day to operate with taxes, electric bills from kiln use, and labor topping the list of costs.

"I can't make that up. My work is improving but I can't do it all day like I used to. I don't want to have to make $1,000 a day. I don't want to work under pressure. Too much pressure and the wrong kind of pressure is bad. I can apply pressure to myself in the areas I want to grow," Brumm said.

Upcoming fund-raisers for the site purchase include two concerts in East Park sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association. The first is a church youth event, which is scheduled to take place at 6 p.m. on July 23. The second, United Church Singspiration will take place at 6 p.m. on Aug. 27.

Others are also being planned.

From 1983 to 2003 the Rainbow Shoppe had given away $1 million to organizations in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The Charlevoix Ministerial Association is one of the 33 groups they support. According to Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene pastor Dan Gilmore, the association's emergency assistance program, which helps with housing and medical needs of Charlevoix residents, gleans about $20,000 a year from the Shoppe.

On a daily basis the Rainbow Shoppe staff also works with the Family Independence Agency and walk-in clients in need, to provide goods quickly and free-of-charge.

The store started at an Antrim Street location with seven volunteers and now utilizes 172 volunteers and seven full and part-time staff members.

The Rainbow Shoppe is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. For more information or to donate to the shop's relocation effort contact Rita Orlowski at (231) 547-5518 or Ceil Dean at (231) 547-0376.

Strings on the Lake, a benefit for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, took place at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, July 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Riecker, located on the corner of Michigan Avenue and Division Street. Proceeds from the fund-raiser will go toward a $433,750 renovation project that will house a LightSpeed VCT Select Computed Tomography Scanner at the hospital. The event featured the symphonic sounds of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra String Quartet.

This group of musicians with the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra played pool side at the July 7 Strings on the Lake event as onlookers relaxed in beautifully landscaped surroundings overlooking majestic Lake Michigan.

Marina project dodges delay

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Editor

Charlevoix City Council decided the risks of delaying the renovation of the Charlevoix Municipal Marina for one year outweigh the possible cost of the project overlapping into the 2007 tourist season.

"The community has waited long enough. It's time to push forward. It's a small price to pay for what we are going to get," said city mayor Norman Carlson Jr. at a joint Downtown Development Authority and city council meeting on July 17. "I've been bombarded with calls saying, 'I'd rather get the damn project done.'"

Carlson credits John Winn, a Charlevoix resident and former Michigan Waterways Commission chairman, for keeping the project on track. Winn drafted a plan that will stage the project allowing for limited use of the park and winter construction of the new marina.

According to city officials, this means the new sea wall and dock system will likely go to bid within the next month.

Approval of the dock and sea wall contract will need to come from both the state funding agency, the Waterways Commission, and the city.

The city is aiming to start construction of the water side of the project some time between October and Dec. 1. The project construction is expected to take about four-and-a-half months. The ultimate goal is to have the water side of the project complete by Memorial Day 2007.

The marina project will include replacement of the sea wall, removal of the existing 17 docks which at the furthest point extend 75-feet into Round Lake and replacement of those docks with a 67-slip floating dock system that extends 220-feet into Round Lake at the furthest point.

The grand scope of the project which includes construction of a new performance venue and a new harbor master's building will extend through the 2007 tourist season. East Park will likely only be open from Clinton Street to Mason Street next summer — meaning art and craft shows will have to be relocated for

Big Rock Point moves toward public purchase

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Editor

A dream of public ownership of some of the most sought after waterfront property in Charlevoix County is beginning to materialize.

The Parks and Recreation Division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources recently applied for a $3 million grant through the Department of Natural Resources Trust Fund to acquire Consumers Energy Big Rock Point in Charlevoix's Hayes Township.

The Trust Fund board, which allocates about $25 million a year in grant money, is expected to make a decision on this request at its Dec. 6 meeting in Lansing. Approval requires a majority vote of the five-member board.

"This is the first step to see if the (Department of Natural Resources) Trust Fund board is interested in acquiring that property for the State of Michigan. And if they are interested, there is interest in spreading out payments over several years," said Mary Dettloff, the public information officer for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

According to Dettloff, that grant application requires a $3 million matching grant which has been applied for through the U.S. Coastal and Estuarine Land Conservancy Program run by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration through the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Tom Bailey, executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy and one of many people on a local ad hoc committee working toward public acquisition of the property, said the Big Rock Point grant request is twentieth on a list of 41 applicants for Land Conservancy Program grants.

According to Bailey, the deal with Consumers Energy has not yet been reached. But he said the ballpark total cost is $20 million.

He added that discussions with the company as to the terms of purchase have taken place and are contingent on the money coming through.

Bailey said plans for the property if it is turned over to the State of Michigan may include an interpretive center highlighting its importance as a historic site.

In February, the state evaluated the property to see if it fit the department's criteria to do its work — conservation, recreation and preservation of wildlife habitat.

Dettloff said the decision to move forward with the grant request is linked to the findings of that evaluation.

She said the property, which includes a total of 530 acres of land, encompasses about 1.5 miles of Lake Michigan frontage and 330 acres of virtually undisturbed cedar-swamp wetlands which is ideal habitat for deer. She said also included are several threatened plant species and migratory habitat for birds and butterflies.

"It's lakefront property on Lake Michigan which is always of interest to us. That's becoming a very rare commodity for public access," she said.

This is the same rare commodity that according to Tim Petrasky, Big Rock

This plan, submitted by Charlevoix resident and former Waterways Commission chairman, John Winn, was instrumental in encouraging Charlevoix City Council to move forward with the marina and East Park renovation project. The dotted line in the center shows the area of East Park, from Clinton to Mason Street, which will be available in the summer of 2007, if the project is properly staged.

one year. Demolition of the bandshell and existing Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce building is expected to take place on Dec. 10.

City harbormaster Hal Evans said the schedule will result in inconveniences for some boaters who use the shower facilities but about 50 percent have accommodations on board. The new harbormaster facility with boater use areas may be open by mid-July 2007.

While Charlevoix city manager Mike Wiesner and the Downtown Park Renovation Committee recommended the project be held off until fall of 2007 to avoid complications with park and marina use, they too said they understood and support council's decision to press on.

Wiesner explained that the main project setback is a result of lengthy reviews of the project by the Waterways Commission. The commission is funding 75 percent of the project, but according to Wiesner, this is the first time they have been in charge of closely reviewing plans as well.

Future delays in the review process could add six weeks to the expedited project schedule. The schedule is based on a four week review time but Waterways has said the review could take up to two months.

In a preliminary project schedule assuming a four week review time provided by East Park design firm Pollack Design Associates, the grand opening for the entire East Park and marina project is expected to take place on Sept. 23.

On June 12, city council approved the $8.2 million grant agreement with Waterways. This is about $800,000 or 10 percent higher than was initially budgeted. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will fund most of the $4.7 million East Park project. The bond request the city approved for $5.5 million gives the city $4.9 million after costs for bonding, to spend on the project.

Grant requests submitted to buy Big Rock Point

Point public affairs director, has attracted "numerous" developers to the site.

Not included in the grant application is the 30-acre parcel which houses the dry fuel storage facility which is approximately the size of a basketball court.

This is expected to be dismantled by 2012 pending the opening of Yucca Mountain in Nevada which is expected to happen in 2010. In a previous interview, Petrosky said it will take a year to ship the material and another year to dismantle the dry fuel storage facility.

A commitment to this removal and overall approval from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission signifying the property is clean is needed before any state agency will fork over funding.

"The Trust Fund board won't spend a dime of public money without a guarantee from Consumers, the Department of Environmental Quality and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission that the property is completely clean," Dettloff said.

Approval by the Trust Fund board may also be hampered by board president Lana Pollack's opposition to the project.

At the June board meeting, Pollack voiced her adamant opposition to the state's proposed purchase of Big Rock Point because of its background as a nuclear power generation site and the continued storage of nuclear waste at the site.

Big Rock, the fifth nuclear power plant in America, officially ceased providing power in 1997 because it was no longer economically viable. At that time efforts began to decommission the site back to green field status.

Green field status is a term used by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission which means that a location which once housed a nuclear plant can have its radioactivity levels lowered to the point that the property can be released for public or private sale.

Big Rock Point has scheduled a green field celebration to take place on Aug. 29 to celebrate the end of the decommissioning project. Paperwork filed with the regulatory commission releasing the property is expected to be approved in early 2007.

Petrosky said there is no set deadline at which time the property must change hands.

A 'thanks' and 'spanks' shout out to Charlevoix

EDITORIAL

The mishmash of positive and downright questionable actions by Charlevoixians in the last month have sparked a new editorial approach.

This week, we want to congratulate positive thinking by offering thanks to those that have made life in town more livable. And spanks to those that have us shaking our heads.

We'll start with the good and move on to the bad and the ugly.

Thanks to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners for addressing meeting time mishaps with forward thinking. After a county resident questioned the legality of a meeting due to improper posting they took the bull by the horns and installed new, locked cases for meeting notices. And they've even posted notices on the door of the commissioners' room.

Thanks to Pat Harmon and the Charlevoix County Road Commission for their vision. While we may not want to fork over more money in the form of a 1 mill county wide road millage, no one else is going to pay for it. The feds and the state have made their penny pinching philosophy clear. "No road construction money." Someone has to foot the bill and it has to be us.

Thanks to Charlevoix Public Schools' teachers for foregoing a 2 percent raise and choosing health plans which are less costly. This is a win for students. And a win for students is a huge victory for the community.

Charlevoix City Council is getting the spank. Since April the city has known the United States Coast Guard signed off on language in a bill which would retain the cutter Acacia, or if decommissioned (as it was on June 7), would replace it with another ice breaking asset. However, in spite of the fact that council approved a month to month contract with lobbyist Bob Davis to achieve the same result, they continue to pay Davis $3,000 a month. Council members have voiced concerns at meetings but it's high time someone stops the bleeding.

Just one more lashing. To who or whatever is the cause of petunia beds being overrun with weeds — they look awful. Whether it be poor soil or under weeding by the Charlevoix Public Schools Band Boosters who have the contract, a change needs to be made next year.

Month designations should be connected to natural world

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Even though our brightest theoretical physicists aren't sure just what time is, the rest of us have historically busied ourselves dividing it up in all sorts of ways.

We have years, months, days, hours, minutes and seconds. The last three of those are pretty much arbitrary divisions of what seems to be continuous time. Months and years have mostly been related to celestial events: Years to the journey of the earth around the sun and months to the observed changes in the appearance of the moon.

For a biologist, it would make a lot more sense to have the months connected to events in the natural world, like the beginning of growth in the spring or the falling of leaves in autumn. Of all the various calendars of months, only those of aboriginal peoples all over the world have anything to do with natural events.

Our usual names for months come to us from what is called the Gregorian calendar and are designated either for ancient gods, Roman Caesars, Roman generals or the month's supposed place in the year. January is for the Roman god Janus, July for a Roman general and August for one of the Caesars. September of course means the seventh month and October the eighth month. As you can see, our names for months are pretty much arbitrary.

I really prefer the Odawa month names. What we usually call March, for example is the Snow Crust Moon, April is the Syrup Moon, June is the Blooming Moon, July the Berry Moon and October the Falling Leaves Moon. I celebrate every one of those months every year in the way the Odawa name suggests.

Maybe if we named our months for real events in the natural world rather than for mythic gods or heroes we could more easily be aware of the changes in the world around us. Really seeing the plants and animals that we share the world with has a lot of advantages, both for those other living things and for ourselves.

We need not use names that are already in the historical record. I have a few suggestions from my own contacts with our Charlevoix world. There certainly is a zucchini month each summer. Maybe we should rename August as tomato and zucchini month. The Odawa calendar had a Sucker Moon, coinciding pretty much with our May, when the streams were filled with easily available suckers. We should have a moon or month when the salmon return.

In Charlevoix, there is clearly a month when many people move to a warmer climate, and a month when many people return. A trillion month would be a pleasant reminder of the rebirth of flowers. Maybe if we devoted a full month to the harvesting of deer, we could cut down on their overpopulation.

I welcome any further suggestions, and even if we wind up with 20 overlapping months rather than our standard 12 or so, we would still be better connected to our climate, vegetation and animal life. And that would be a very good thing.

Pitch in with petunias

Editor:

I just got home from helping the Charlevoix High School Band Boosters weed the petunias — a hard job, but fun and rewarding. What I wonder is why the businesses and homes behind the flowers along U.S. 31 don't weed their frontage.

I realize they didn't ask for the job and weren't given a choice, but just the fact that their homes/businesses would look better if the weeding was constant should be incentive.

I also understand that in some cases the residents are unable to help maintain the beds. There's also the idea of civic pride — we have a beautiful little town, we're known for our petunias, and they always make a big hit with visitors. Just a thought.

Support Tripp

Editor:

This letter is in support of Shirlene Tripp in her bid for First District Charlevoix County Commissioner. We have known Shirlene for at least 35 years. We have always found her to be extremely honest and fair in every facet of her life.

She is a strong believer in support of local government as being the method of government most beneficial for the residents of this county. She has already proven her worth in Hayes Township by her prior service on that township board. She feels it is very important to listen to the people she represents, and we know she would give all Charlevoix County residents the best possible service in her role as commissioner.

Library changes

Editor:

We love being busy and having our library the center of summer activities. And boy, does it get crazy in here. We hope you will all be patient with us during our last summer at 109 Clinton St. We know that sometimes you have to wait to use a computer, stand in line to check out a book, sign up to use the constantly-in-use downstairs meeting area, and squeeze into a corner in order to read the latest copy of the paper. Luckily it won't be long until we are in our new building with the grand opening scheduled for Oct. 7.

Meanwhile, please take advantage of our cozy, small library, where everything is a few steps away, including the new books and staff. Enjoy our summer programs planned for readers of all ages — a schedule is available at the front desk. And get ready for the move. If you are interested in assisting us with the move this September, call the library at (231) 547-2651 and we'll take your name.

Help, I'm choking

Editor:

(From the perspective of a Charlevoix petunia) Help, I'm choking. I used to love summer — sitting by the side of the road, watching all the traffic go by. But this summer, I'm on the north end and I can see nothing. The weeds are so tall and so thick I can hardly breathe.

I am no longer a part of keeping Charlevoix beautiful. Someone please help me.

The remaining two-thirds is directed to the club's local projects. Since the club's inception, 17 years ago, it has placed $85,000 back into the Charlevoix area through programs. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club presently provides

$3,500 in scholarship money annually for women planning to attend or currently attending college. An endowment fund is also available at the Women's Resource Center for women trying to improve their employment status. John Flanigan: Died May, 17, 2006

John P. Flanigan, a retired insurance agent and broker and former St. Louis University basketball coach, died Wednesday, May 17, at Mari De Villa Retirement Center in Town and Country. He was 92 and a resident of Ladue, Mo.

Flanigan was born in Chicago, Ill., and moved to St. Louis, Mo., with his family when he was 1-year-old. He was a 1931 graduate of St. Louis University High School and a 1935 graduate of St. Louis University, where he played on the basketball and baseball teams and was president of Pi Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

For the next 12 years, Flanigan stayed active in basketball, qualifying to play in several Amateur Athletic Union national tournaments in Denver, Colo., and serving as a referee and later as a coach at St. Louis University from 1945-1947. He coached the Billikens to their first Missouri Valley Conference Championship during the 1946-47 season. In 1995, he was inducted into the Billiken Hall of Fame, joining seven of his players.

Ed McCauley, a basketball star at St. Louis University and in the National Basketball Association, once said Flanigan contributed more to his career than anyone else. "Nobody's ever given him credit that I think he deserves," McCauley said in a 1991 interview.

Flanigan entered the insurance business as an agent and broker in 1940. In 1950, he founded Flanigan Insurance Agency in Clayton, Mo. He retired in 1989. Two of his sons, John Flanigan Jr. of Webster Groves, Mo., and David Flanigan of Chesterfield, Mo., now run the firm.

Flanigan, a former member of the Belvedere Club Trustees, was also an avid golfer and won the 1970 Belvedere Golf Club Championship in Charlevoix.

He served on the board of the White House Retreat League and was president of the St. Louis Priory Father's Club.

The funeral Mass was celebrated at the Church of the Annunziata in Ladue, Mo. Burial will be private.

In addition to sons, John and David, among the survivors are his wife of 60 years, Ann Allen Flanigan (sister of the late Mrs. Diddy Schade); three more sons, Philip Flanigan of Jacksonville, Fla., and Peter Flanigan and Christopher Flanigan, both of Ladue, Mo.; two daughters, Florence "Missy" Clark of Norfolk, Va., and Annie Flanigan of Ladue, Mo.; 15 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to Masses or the donor's choice.

Agnes Simmerman: April 21, 1920 - July 15, 2006

Agnes Simmerman, of Holland and formerly of Charlevoix, passed away on July 15 at Zeeland Community Hospital.

She was born on April 21, 1920 in Toledo, Ohio to Antonia and Thomas Kovar who moved their family to Charlevoix in 1924. On Jan. 20, 1940 she married Wesley Simmerman of East Jordan in Detroit where they made their home until returning to Charlevoix in 1973. During the 1940s and 1950s Agnes enjoyed working at a variety of jobs which included riveting air planes during World War II, and working for the Parke-Davis pharmaceutical company. She also served as a Girl Scout leader in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

Above all, Agnes was a devoted wife and loving mother who always made her family her top priority. It wasn't until after 21 years of marriage that Agnes and Wes had their first and only child, Susan. Agnes often said that she had the benefit of having both a daughter and a granddaughter in her one child. In regards to her family, Agnes truly lived her life in the spirit of 1 Corinthians 13:8, "Love always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. Love never fails."

Beyond family, the greatest joys of Agnes' life included baking, bingo, sewing, gardening and animals. She possessed a quiet, gentle spirit and had a great appreciation for the beauty in nature. Beyond pets, she always showed care and loving compassion to any creature needing help including birds, mice, frogs and snakes. She seemed to be the living embodiment of Mother Nature.

After 60 years of marriage, she was preceded in death by her husband, Wesley, in July of 2000. She was also preceded in death by her sisters, Antonia Nalepa, Mary Cooper and Terri Jaskierski.

She is survived by her daughter, Susan, and son-in-law Julius Koenigsnecht of Holland; and her sisters, Anna Schwarz of Holland and Bette McConaughy of Traverse City.

A visitation took place on Tuesday, July 18, followed by a funeral service, at the Winchester Funeral Home of Charlevoix. Interment immediately followed at St. Mary Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Rev. Nancy Rhode officiated. Donations may be made in memory of Agnes to the Charlevoix County Humane Society, or to the Alzheimer's Association.

JULY 2006

Griffon search faces challenge from state

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

The LaSalle-Griffon Project kickoff was held Monday, July 17, with a press conference and fundraiser after a last minute threat was rescinded.

On Wednesday, July 12, Assistant Michigan Attorney General, Tracy Sonneborn, sent cease and desist letters to those involved with the press conference and fundraiser portion of the project. An apology letter followed on July 13.

"It's very obvious it was to get the City of Charlevoix and the (Charlevoix Area) Chamber (of Commerce) to not support this project," said Steve Libert, president of Great Lakes Exploration Group, LLC.

Libert, who thinks he found the Griffon in Lake Michigan in 2001, has battled with the state over a salvage claim since 2004.

Sonneborn apologized for erroneously claiming appropriate paperwork had not been filed.

"Great Lakes Exploration Group, which is a non Michigan based LLC, are not allowed to solicit charitable contributions in Michigan," said Nate Bailey, spokesman for Michigan Attorney General, Mike Cox. "The Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management (a Michigan-based non-profit working with Libert) is in the process of being licensed so they would be legally allowed to solicit funds."

The first letter demanded details of correspondence, agreements and conversations between Great Lakes Exploration Group and the Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management, the chamber and the city among others.

"It seems as though the Great Lakes Exploration Group is doing all the work on this. And though they purport to be raising this money for charity, it is unclear what, if any involvement the Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management has had in this," Bailey said. "This is a real problem if these people think they're giving money to a charity, but if in fact they're funneling money into what amounts to Mr. Libert's pocket. That would be our concern."

Libert isn't sure whether the state's actions were deliberate.

"If it takes a court order for me to get the paper transaction, I will. And then I'll make a decision on whether or not to take legal action," he said. "They have done a significant amount of harm. If this had gotten out to the public, you can imagine what would have happened — nobody would have showed up (at the July 17 press conference)."

He added, "I could have lost over $100,000 just on this. I had to hurry up and let them know the paperwork has been filed, that everything has been done legally — 100 percent."

Bailey said his office will await a response from the Great Lakes Exploration Group and the Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management.

"There may be clear and defined ways that this money is going to be handled," he said. "And that may satisfy both the law and the protection of donors."

While some may be uncertain about the fate of the Griffon project, press conference moderator, TV 7&4's meteorologist, Greg McMaster, had no doubts about the Griffon's importance.

"Finding a historic shipwreck of this significance can only be compared to a likeness of a ship sailed by Christopher Columbus," he said. "Our hope is to see a broad based scientific investigation of the site the Great Lakes Exploration Group believes to be the Griffon."

According to Center for Maritime and Underwater Resource Management president, Kenneth Vrana, there is nothing yet to exclude Libert's find as the Griffon.

"We found a single timber with characteristics consistent with early ship-building techniques," Vrana said. "Our recommendation at this point to Steve is to take a precautionary approach. And, treating it as if it might be Griffon is definitely warranted."

Whether Libert's group is allowed to continue with phase two is still up to a federal court.

"The state is trying to say that it's an abandoned ship and therefore they own it, but there's a lot more to it than that," he said. "It's a legal process that I couldn't even begin to tell you. It's going to take a lot of money and I'm going to fight."

Built by, Rene-Robert, Sieur de LaSalle, a man instrumental in securing the territory which would later become part of the Louisiana Purchase, the Griffon is thought to be the first European ship on the Great Lakes.

With a crew of 35, the Griffon's maiden voyage consisted of sailing from the Niagara River to Wisconsin. LaSalle then instructed a crew of half a dozen men to sail back to Niagara with a load of commerce while he pressed on via canoe. The ship was last seen in September 1679.

Cooper, top choice for interim superintendent

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Charlevoix schools are one step closer to having an interim superintendent.

During the Monday, July 10 Charlevoix Public Schools' Board of Education, emergency meeting, board members voted unanimously to enter contract negotiations with former, five-year interim Boyne City Public Schools superintendent, James Cooper.

"I started looking at the possibility of what I might do after I left Boyne City," he said. "And, I considered interim superintendency and some other things."

He added, "My passion and my interest is education."

Following interviews via telephone with four initial candidates on Friday, July 7, Cooper and Dennis Hagey, were chosen for an interview before the board and the public.

During the post interview process, school board members agreed both candidates were topnotch, however, they had issues with Hagey's unwillingness to act as a full-time interim superintendent.

"I completely understand if you feel I can't give you the same amount of time as the other individual," Hagey said. "Even if you don't select me, I could be convinced to come up and help you people."

James Cooper

He added, "I hope you understand, I can't stay away from the wife five days every week for a year. It's not reasonable and I'm too old."

In his 30 years in the business, Cooper has also worked as a superintendent for Hopkins and Harbor Springs Public Schools.

During the nearly two hour process, the candidates were asked questions from the board on subjects ranging from what candidates would do when faced with an irate parent to why they are best suited to work for Charlevoix Public Schools.

Cooper, who left Boyne City Public Schools due to a limit on the number of years an interim superintendent may serve in each district, said the position in Charlevoix interested him because it is such a strong district.

And, he said, "I think the best thing you can do with an irate person is listen. Many times you just need to let them get the issue out that's concerning them."

Cooper said he looks at each case individually and evaluates it in relation to board policy, legal aspects involved or differences of philosophy.

School board president, Bill Trubilowicz asked Cooper how he would familiarize himself with students, staff and the community in general.

"It's all about visibility and establishing relationships," Cooper said. "I think the most important thing you do as a superintendent is to build relationships and help promote the success of the school district by being active and letting people know you're available."

Cooper cited the need for staff meetings outside the office setting, open door policies and openness with the community.

Trubilowicz asked how Cooper's former staff would respond if asked how they felt about him.

"Overall, I think they would describe me as being fair and consistent. I think they would tell you I am a good listener and I care about them as well as the kids," Cooper said.

"And, that I'm a pretty good problem solver, I follow through on what I say and I also believe that I have a good sense of humor. I take my job very serious, but I don't take myself very serious."

Trubilowicz then asked how Cooper would resolve conflicts between the superintendent's office and the school board.

"It needs to be upfront, open and honest," Cooper said. "If you have a problem, then you need to let me know or it will fester and grow into a bigger problem."

After Cooper stressed the importance of working with local government and service organizations, board member, John McLean Jr., asked him about his long and short-term goals.

"My goals are to be the very best superintendent that I can be (and) to work as hard as I can to fulfill any goals the district has," Cooper said.

Cooper quoted two businessmen from the 1980s who said organizations are either improving or they are not.

"I believe there are two types of school districts, those that are improving and those that aren't, and I believe that," he said.

But, he added, "It's not coming in with any preconceived idea about the district. It's not coming in to be a change agent without knowing what changes there may need to be."

While Cooper was the board's first choice, if he doesn't accept a deal from the board, Hagey may be offered the position.

The search process for a permanent superintendent could take anywhere from a few months to a year, Trubilowicz said.

"To think any great candidates will be available before the first of the year, I think, is wishful thinking," he said.

Waltonen faces prison for drug deals and prostitution

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Charlevoix Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas exceeded the sentencing guidelines in a case involving drugs and prostitution.

On June 30, Judge Pajtas handed down a sentence of four to 20 years in prison to Lloyd Waltonen, 43, of Charlevoix who was convicted on two counts of delivering a controlled substance and one count each of maintaining a drug house, attempted eavesdropping and prostitution.

Arrested in February, Waltonen pled to those five charges on June 15. During that plea agreement the prosecutor dismissed a habitual offender charge, stemming from two prior felony convictions from the early 1990s which could have doubled the maximum sentence prescribed. Also dismissed were two counts of delivering a controlled substance, three counts of maintaining a drug house and three counts of prostitution.

According to Judge Pajtas, the sentencing guidelines for the five counts he was convicted of carry a penalty of a minimum of up to 11 months in jail. However, in sentencing Waltonen, he said he felt the guidelines didn't account for the severity of the situation. He said the length of time over which the crimes were committed, three years, and the number of deliveries involved justified the substantial increase in prison time.

"The guidelines do not give weight to this continuing pattern of criminal behavior," Judge Pajtas stated on the record. "Further, the guidelines do not consider that the defendant exploited a vulnerable person. He was 22 years her senior and he knew she had a drug problem when he met her. He knew she was on probation for a drug conviction. Yet, for almost three years when he knew she was severely addicted, he kept feeding her oxycontin and methadone for sex."

Chief assistant Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Shaynee Fanara, who did not formally request Judge Pajtas exceed the sentencing guidelines, said the outcome was favorable.

Lloyd Waltonen

judge's decision addressed those concerns," Fanara said.

According to summaries of testimony by two women in an affidavit of probable cause given by Charlevoix County Sheriff's detective corporal Chuck Vondra, Waltonen forced oral and vaginal sex in exchange for oxycontin and methadone.

A search warrant executed at Waltonen's residence on Feb. 9 resulted in seizure of pill bottles labeled Lloyd Waltonen containing methadone, oxycodone, amphetamines and Adderall XR pills.

Waltonen, who has been transferred to the Southern Michigan

"It was nice for the victims. They had to come forward and talk about a really bad time in their lives and were doubtful the system could help them. But the Correctional Facility in Jackson, may appeal the sentence on the basis that it exceeds the applicable guidelines. He has not yet entered this appeal.

While Waltonen has been sentenced on the former charges, Fanara said this will in no way limit the prosecutor's office from going forward with possible criminal sexual conduct charges if the court of appeals finds in their favor.

Judge Pajtas quashed four, first-degree criminal sexual conduct charges which were appealed by Fanara on April 13 when she filed an objection and a motion to reconsider. Judge Pajtas then issued an April 19 order denying the chief assistant's motion for reconsideration.

"The issue presented to the court in the defendant's motion to quash is whether or not criminal sexual conduct can be charged where a person engages in consensual sexual intercourse in exchange for illegal drugs," Judge Pajtas states in the order. "The answer is obvious. There can be no criminal sexual conduct where the sexual conduct is between two consenting adults."

Judge Pajtas, in his order, further stated, "This court has reviewed the entire preliminary examination transcript. The complainant's testimony was unequivocal that while she didn't desire to have sex, she voluntarily did so to obtain illegal drugs. While there may be probable cause to charge the supplier of the drugs with prostitution, he or she does not commit CSC first degree."

Fanara awaits a decision from the court of appeals on the alleged criminal sexual conduct aspect of the case. She said a decision will likely be made in about six months.

County road millage goals announced

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Voters at the Aug. 8 primary election will decide the fate of a Charlevoix County Road Millage proposal.

State and federal road construction funds may not be forthcoming in the near future, said Charlevoix County Road Commission officials during a July 12 press conference, and that leaves local residents responsible for the condition of their highways and byways good or bad.

"Things have fallen apart way faster than the township or the road commission has money to fix," said Charlevoix County Road Commission manager, Pat

Harmon. "If passed, all the money collected in Charlevoix County, gets spent here in Charlevoix County. It's not going to go to Washington D.C., it's not going to go to Lansing."

And, while Charlevoix's primary paths are in peril, the Michigan legislature continues to take whacks at the state's already brittle transportation budget.

"Just three weeks ago, we got a letter from the county road association," Harmon said. "Our legislative people took $11 million from the Michigan Transportation Fund to fund the Secretary of State's issuing new license plates."

Harmon speculated that reduction could account for as much as $40,000.

A successful millage would be levied from 2006 to 2010, with roadwork to begin next spring on several of the 44.08 miles listed. The following years of operation and lengths of roads repaired may vary depending on potential increases in fuel and materials costs.

• Year one, 5.59 miles of Boyne

City-Charlevoix Road, from Nelson to Pincherry Road.

• Year two, 6.39 miles of Camp Ten Road and 5.45 miles of Springvale Road.

• Year three, 3.79 miles of Ellsworth Road and 3.38 miles of Six Mile Lake Road.

• Year four, 4.04 miles of Kings Highway, 3.47 miles of Deer Lake Road and 2.65 miles of Kortlase Road.

• Year five, 2.20 miles of River Road and 7.12 miles of Marion Center Road.

During the conference, Harmon and members of his handpicked Road Advisory Committee discussed why they feel passage of the proposed millage is important. The committee includes East Jordan Chamber of Commerce director, Mary Faculak; supervisor of Wilson Township, Todd Sorenson; business owners Douglas Bergmann and Dave Kortlase; Charlevoix Township supervisor, Dale Glass; and Chandler Township supervisor, Dennis Howard.

Criteria used to compile the list included road condition, access to primary highways, traffic volume and miscellaneous safety concerns.

"We wanted to separate this money so there would be some improvements throughout the entire county, instead of just one portion of the county," Harmon said. "The roads we picked, we thought would benefit most residents in the county."

If passed, residents would be billed on their home's taxable value, not the State Equalized Valuation. For example, if your home's taxable value is $100,000, you would pay an extra $100 per year.

Twelve of the county's 15 townships currently have road millages which, Harmon said, could be maintained to focus on porects the road commission can't get to.

"I'm probably one of the last people to come to this understanding," Howard said. "I've fought local tax dollars for roads my whole career."

Howard changed his mind only after realizing no one from the state or federal level intended to fix the situation.

If the millage proposal fails, general maintenance such as snow removal and pothole filling will continue.

"But as far as major reconstruction or re-paving roads, there won't be any funds to do this," Harmon said.

The following is the balloting wording exactly as it will appear on election day: "For the sole purpose of funding general operating expenses to be incurred in maintenance and repair of primary roads and highways within the County of Charlevoix, shall the tax limitation imposed under Article IX, Sec. 6, of the Michigan Constitution on general ad valorem taxes within the County of Charlevoix be increased by 1 (one) mill ($1.00 per $1,000.00 of taxable value) for a period of 5 (five) years, 2006-2010 inclusive, for road purposes within incorporated cities and villages in Charlevoix County and to improve, repair and maintain existing county primary roads within the townships in Charlevoix County, Michigan with the money to be collected and distributed in accordance with all applicable statutes? (It is estimated that this proposal would produce revenue of $1,866,066.83 during the first calendar year)."

Park packed with activity for July 20 Kid's Day

Music, ponies, bubbles, balloons, crafts and more will populate East Park for the Venetian Festival's annual Kid's Day.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday, July 20 Venetian Festival kids can revel in a variety of activities in the park.

There will be a bubble land and pint sized ponies as well as a craft tent for budding artists to produce festival keepsakes.

Also available will be a giant inflatable slide and obstacle course, Rayder moon walk, jump house, and petting zoo.

Two performances by the Ragamuffin Children's Theatre are scheduled for 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the bandshell. "Twister Joe" will provide balloon twisting entertainment for children and Kookie the Clown will tickle your funny bone. At 3:15 p.m. Northern Martial Arts will give a demonstration of their skills.

The purchase of a $7 arm band will gain participants entry into the craft tent and giant inflatable fun land. The band will also allow kids to ride ponies and explore their cowboy blood on "Mongo" the mechanical bull.

Activities there is no charge for, include, the Ragamuffin Children's Theatre shows, Northern Martial Arts demonstration, entrance into the petting zoo, hands on fun in bubble land, temporary tattoo application, face painting, free balloons and popcorn munching.

Finger printing will be available from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. with representatives from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

For additional information, on the day of the event, visit the arm band booth in East Park.

Venetian Jackpot awarded on July 22

While you enjoy the Venetian Festival this year, wouldn't it be nice to spend some of your time after the shows and events putting your pockets, packed with cash?

Well, you can, with the First Annual Venetian Festival Fireworks 50/50 Raffle, ticket holders have the potential to win thousands of dollars in the Fireworks Jackpot drawing.

The raffle replaces the former Boat Raffle fund-raiser which was discontinued this year to reduce participation costs, increase the fireworks funding available and to meet the requests of participants who were more interested in cold, hard cash.

This raffle is a significant fund-raiser for the Venetian Festival and provides between $10,000 and $12,000 for many of the festival activities throughout the week of July 16-22.

The money raised from this raffle helps pay for the Heritage Display, Rhythms of Venetian, Kid's Day, Venetian Games, and the spectacular fireworks displays over the lakes, among many others.

Since a majority of these events are free to the public, support of this important fund-raiser is key to the continuation of these activities.

There are 3,000 tickets available that will be sold from July 1 through July 22 all over town by a sales team of about 15 raffle ambassadors. Tickets are $10 each or three for $25.

The Venetian Festival Board encourages you to buy tickets in increments of $50 or $100 to increase your chances of winning. The winner doesn't need to be present to claim the prize.

The drawing for the 50/50 raffle winner will take place during the intermission of the Kids from Wisconsin performance on "Venetian Saturday," July 22, in East Park.

For more information, call raffle chairman, Steve Andreac, at (231) 547-9980.

Mary Ann's Take Out opens on south side

Charlevoix's newest take-out restaurant, Mary Ann's, located on the south side has turned fast service and quality menu items into a strong new business.

Co-owner, Mary Ann Hodack, said the take-out stop which offers burgers, sandwiches, Coney dogs, salads and ice cream, opened on May 1 and has since reaped the benefits of its location at 1531 U.S. 31 South and its regular customer base.

"The locals have made our first two months a real success and we plan to serve them the very best for many years," Hodack said.

The site is the former location of the Silver Birch Motel, across from the Charlevoix Municipal Airport, which burned down on Jan. 18, 2002.

Hodack, 48, said this business venture was a perfect opportunity for her to pursue her lifelong dream of opening a Coney Island type restaurant. The idea came from her father, Bob Hodack of Flint, as did the secret Coney sauce recipe.

After over a year of planning,

Hodack opened the restaurant this spring with fellow Charlevoix resident, Lisa Nicola, 42, who is originally from Iowa.

Hodack is a prior owner of Juilleret's where she worked for 10 years. The two also currently own and operate Charlevoix Irrigation, an estate management business. Prior business undertakings include former ownership of Backwoods Party Store in Intron and design of Helen's, a restaurant at the Centennial Farm in Bellaire.

"We have opened and enjoyed success at four businesses in northern Michigan. We love the community and appreciate its support," she said.

Future expansion plans may include construction of a closed in entrance area and food delivery service this fall.

The restaurant employs 15 people, six of who are full-time employees. It is operated under the management of Charlevoix resident, Jessica Whitley. Current hours of operation are from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

For more information or to place an order, call Mary Ann's Take Out Restaurant of Charlevoix at (231) 237-9700.

BUSINESS

Charlevoix featured in Broder's 'Taking Care of Cleo'

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Bill Broder, author of "Taking Care of Cleo," will be signing books at the Bridge Street Book Shop at 7 p.m. on July 21.

"I love Charlevoix," Broder said. "It's very beautiful and I've always wanted to write about it." In the novel, he draws upon his own experiences of the summers he spent as a young boy in Charlevoix.

"It was the beauty of the place that I remember most," he said. "The townspeople were wonderful to us while we were living there."

"Taking Care of Cleo" chronicles one summer in the life of a Jewish family living in Charlevoix during Prohibition.

The Bearwalds own a dry goods store and have two daughters. Cleo, 20, is autistic and 18-year-old Rebecca, the narrator of the story, is anxious to escape a lifetime of "taking care of Cleo." The lives of this small family change drastically when Cleo discovers a beached yacht filled with bootlegger's whiskey and convinces Rebecca to help her sell it.

Unfortunately, the girls attract attention from the Purple Gang, the leading Jewish gang in Detroit.

Learn what happens to the Bearwalds in "Taking Care of Cleo," perfect for a Charlevoix-themed summer read.

"It's an excellent book," said Bridge Street Book Shop owner, Jim Berlage. "It's especially good because it's all about Charlevoix in the past."

Broder's "Taking Care of Cleo" is a finalist for this year's Great Lakes Book Award, given out by The Great Lakes Booksellers Association. Winners of this prestigious award will be announced in late August.

Copies are available at the Bridge Street Book Shop for $24.95.

The Charlevoix Public Library also has one copy available for check-out and one copy for patrons to browse through in their Michigan Room.

Charlevoix Street Legends: More than just cool cars, it's a lifestyle

Linda and Jim Boss of Charlevoix check out what Traverse City resident Ken Sterling has under the hood of his Ford Cobra 427 at the Street Legends Car Show July 15 in East Park.

Hundreds of classic and souped up cars lined the tiers of East Park at the Charlevoix Street Legends 14th Annual Car Show on Saturday, July 15. The show included entertainment, door prizes, games, raffles and more. Street Legends is a not-for-profit organization which has donated over $60,000 to local charities, including Camp Quality and hospice organizations over the last 13 years.

Street Legends has hosted its car show at various locations including Shanahan Field and Castle Farms. The club opted to move the show back to its home base, East Park, this year. Pictured above is the layout of cars.

Local woman on 60-mile mission to quash cancer

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Tonya Mann, 34, of Charlevoix, doesn't stroll through downtown like most people, she power walks.

She isn't window shopping or getting an ice cream cone from Kilwin's, she's on a mission.

A mission that requires a 60-mile walk in just three short days, all in the name of breast cancer research and awareness.

"My mom was diagnosed with breast cancer six years ago," Mann said. "It's a disease that affects my mom and everyone else in my family, including me."

The Breast Cancer 3-Day walk, set to take place in the Detroit area, raises money for breast cancer research, screening, treatment and education through the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and the National Philanthropic Trust.

"I'm walking in honor of my mom, because she is an awesome person, friend, grandmother and mother," Mann said.

According to representatives of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, 200,000 American women will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year. Nearly 40,000 will die from the disease.

Charlevoix resident Tonya Mann will partake in the Breast Cancer 3-Day Walk. Here she is pictured with her son, Morgan, six months, daughter, Kiley, 4, and family pup, Bailey.

"That's why I'm walking so far, to do something bold about breast cancer," Mann said. "Plus, for me it's a personal challenge. It's something I've always wanted to do but never had the time."

So with that goal in mind, Mann has raised $1,700, just shy of the $2,200 she needs to reach before the walk on Aug. 11.

She also has a coach, set up through the Breast Cancer Foundation, who gives her advice on exercising and checks up on her weekly.

"I've been trying to keep with the schedule they've given me," she said. "I just wouldn't have had a clue how to walk 60 miles without my coach."

During the walk, she'll be trek-

Motorcycles aren't mopeds

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater wishes to advise citizens that there is a noticeable increase in the numbers of motorcycles that are being illegally registered and operated as mopeds.

The Michigan motor vehicle code 257.32b defines moped as a two or three-wheel vehicle that does not exceed 50cc, is two horsepower or less and cannot propel the vehicle at greater than 30 mph on a level surface.

Several of these vehicles have been stopped recently for speeds far in excess of 30 mph. Lasater said if the vehicle cannot conform to all of the above requirements then it's a motorcycle and the operator is required to have a driver's license with a cycle endorsement, vehicle title, registration plate, insurance and be wearing an approved helmet.

Lasater warns that fines and costs associated with operation of these "illegal mopeds" can be misdemeanors running into hundreds of dollars. A "no insurance" conviction on an operator's driving record will later subject that individual to several years additional "driver responsibility" fees to the State of Michigan.

Pamphlets outlining how these vehicles are dealt with under

Michigan state law are available at the sheriff's office, located at 1000 Grant St. in Charlevoix.

Double duty investigation

Prosecutor looks into legality of elected officials with dual roles

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

The Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office is investigating several local officials after questions about potentially incompatible offices were raised.

Attorney Ellis Boal of Charlevoix asked the prosecutor's office whether some elected individuals in the county are in violation of Michigan's version of the federal Hatch Act, a law enacted to prevent people from simultaneously holding jobs and elected office for the same governmental body.

"I am investigating Marc Seelye and other individuals who may have a conflict. It was brought to my attention from Ellis Boal that there's an apparent conflict with Mr. Seelye being the drain commissioner and soil erosion officer," Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jarema, said. "I am looking into the laws on that conflict and am going to ask for an opinion from the attorney general's office."

The investigation into the legality of Seelye's status in both positions sparked questions about other area elected officials who simultaneously hold hired positions for the same political body, however, Jarema did not release those names by press time.

While Michigan's version of the Hatch Act does not apply to volunteer firefighters or candidates yet elected, it prevents school employees from holding a position on the school board, a city employee from holding an office in city government and certain county employees from holding county office.

MCLA 15.403 states violators could face a 30-day suspension or removal from office.

The Michigan law was created to prevent undue influence by an office holder on his employment and to prevent supervisors from having power over the political actions of one of their employees.

Rave reviews follow Venetian

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Venetian officials and local law enforcement agree the 76th Annual Venetian Festival occurred as smoothly as it could have.

"This is my 20th year as an officer during Venetian, and it was all typical stuff — dogs in the park, lost children, shoplifters, people vending without permits," said Charlevoix City Police Chief, Gerard Doan. "And that normally comes out on Saturday night with all the people."

He added, "This year, things went very smooth. I'm very pleased with the way everything turned out."

Doan said the number of participants, complaints and incidents were all down during the festival.

"It's been that way all summer," he said. "We had a couple shoplifting incidents where the culprits stole quite a bit of clothing articles, those were separate incidents, and three missing children — but everybody went home safe."

In addition to Doan, there were seven full-time and three part-time city police in addition to several deputies each from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the Petoskey post of the Michigan State Police.

"We had a few disorderly arrests that were related to alcohol, no major traffic incidents," he said. "I'm real pleased with all the efforts from the officers and the good work they did this weekend."

President of Charlevoix Venetian

Festival Inc., Dan Barron, said. "We're very pleased. It seems that, by and large, our activities and events are running smoother and smoother each year due to the great effort and additional experience and wonderful efforts of our volunteers."

He added, "Especially those in key committee positions. They're capable and enthusiastic and did one whole of a job."

According to Barron, most of the events had similar turnouts to last year.

"I think the bull riding numbers were up slightly. I believe the Thursday night Trick Pony concert was the biggest turnout we've had to date in East Park," he said. "It's a wonderful feeling when we can top off the week's activities with one of the most premier fireworks displays in the country."

Barron said the 76th Venetian Saturday fireworks display was bigger and better than the one which kicks off the Kentucky Derby Festival.

"Our shell count intensity for the Saturday night display exceeded that of Thunder Over Louisville, which is typically the largest fireworks display in North America," he said. "So it really is fun to be able to wrap up the festival on that note."

Even though the Venetian Festival has only been over for a few days, Barron and his cohorts are already holding meetings and planning for next year.

"(Next year's) theme might be, 'How the heck do we do Venetian?'" because the parks are going to be ripped up and we're going to be under construction," he said. "We are already meeting and will have half a dozen meetings alone on how to stage next year's festival."

He added, "We're going to move around and have some things that might not have worked as well in the past, but we'll make them work as well as they can for what may be a chaotic construction situation downtown."

But, Barron assured, wherever the Venetian Festival is held, it will be something to celebrate.

"Venetian will be alive and healthy next year, it's just a matter of figuring out where we'll be on any given night," he said.

East Park is expected to be under construction in conjunction with a $4.7 million park renovation project during the 2007 Venetian Festival.

County officials elected and hired, is it legal?

COUNTY

John Jarema

is in his fifth year as soil erosion officer and second year of his drain commission term, refused to answer any questions regarding the investigation, including who gave him the go-ahead to hold both offices.

"John Jarema is handling it at this point," Seelye said.

According to Charlevoix County Clerk, Jane Brannon, Seelye made close to $3,000 last year as the drain commissioner, a position to which he was elected and his adopted salary for 2005 as soil erosion officer was $33,182.

Charlevoix's storm water ordinance states, "Any person aggrieved by the action or inaction of the Soil Erosion Officer related to this ordinance may appeal to the Charlevoix County Storm Water Appeals Board."

One of Boal's concerns is that the same person acting as soil erosion officer and drain commissioner would have to recuse himself from all appeals therefore defeating that part of the drain commissioner's job.

According to former Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner, JoAnne

Beemon, shortly after Seelye was elected, she questioned whether he could serve in both offices.

"He said he had checked into it and said it was legal for him to do that. You can make the drain commissioner the agent for soil erosion, but you can not give the soil erosion agent the responsibilities of drain commissioner," she said. "I did talk to them (the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners) about it and I said this could very easily be solved. I said you could pay your drain commissioner a salary and then make him the soil erosion agent."

She added, "It's done all over Michigan, and it's legal."

Beemon said, while her warning went unheeded, she doesn't think Seelye did any of this intentionally.

"Someone misinformed Marc, he is a decent guy and I think he wants to do the right thing," she said.

The fate of Seelye and the unnamed officials now await an opinion from the Michigan Attorney General.

Gas price solution is just a field away

Benjamin Gohs
'Staff writer'

Gasoline prices continue to rise and they are never coming down. And here is some more good news about gas, it won't last forever.

While smog-choked cities everywhere may rejoice, running out of fuel tops our petty complaints about spending a few more hucks on it each week.

As much as I worry about the future and our fuel situation, I still get a kick out of listening to people in the cradle of capitalism fume over high prices. Some even go so far as to demand action from their congressman. But we'll pretend asking the government to control prices isn't socialism.

Americans don't complain about capitalism when 7-year-old Chinese slaves keep store shelves packed with cheap toilet brushes and knick-knacks, but don't mess with our wheels. We want our fuel cheap, clean and renewable we can live without. And since we don't want to be controlled by Crown Prince, Short-Fuse of Bomb-bangistan, we routinely take peacekeeping trips to secure desert regions — the machine guns are a figment of your imagination.

Meanwhile, genius types worldwide debate what we should do when the crude oil disappears, and U.S. politicians promise to spend your taxes in search of alternative fuels. I guess nobody told them the technology to run a diesel engine on peanut oil has been around for 108 years.

Extremists interested in keeping this country on the dino-teat scare the rest of us by claiming alternative fuels are a communistic, tree-hugging, hippie plot.

I don't see how putting some unemployed American farmers and autoworkers back on the job producing straight vegetable oil (SVO) and building SVO-equipped diesel engines is anti-capitalist. But what do I know.

There are some who claim SVO is harmful to engines (look for the guy wearing the Amoco hat and a T-shirt which reads, "I heart Ahmed"), yet there are many vehicles which have been running on biofuel for decades.

The problems come when someone tries to use E85 (15 percent gas/85 percent alcohol) or B100 (diesel made from veggie or animal fat) in an engine not designed to run it. Then, when it causes damage, the critics jump up and say, "See, we told ya. You can't get away from petrol."

I'm not saying oil is evil. I love my V-8 gas guzzlers, all three of them. We need fossil fuel, we just don't need it to fuel our vehicles.

Even if we became SVO dependent in the next 20 or 30 years, we would still need foreign oil. Without it we wouldn't have Band-Aids, Tylenol, paraffin, asphalt, polyester, CDs, DVDs, surgical tubing and thousands of other products.

Some items made from oil have substitutes, but I'd rather not wear natural rubber shoes which are gummy in August and stiff in January, and I could write with a turkey feather dipped in blueberry juice, but I'd rather use a Bic.

I'm not saying it would be cheap for us to run out tomorrow and buy a diesel-powered car, equip it with an SVO kit (from $400 to $1,500) and spend $5.99 a gallon on soybean oil. Though if SVO was mass-produced as a fuel, the price would surely come down.

If the auto and agricultural industries phased SVO vehicle technology in over time, we might be able to make it work.

Granted, we'd need a lot of farmland. The oil expelled from about 2-and-a-half acres of certain seeds could power an efficient diesel about 10,000 miles.

We could plead with our leaders to help, but Rudolf Diesel invented his SVO engine in the 1890s. If they wanted to act, they would have by now.

Private sector stewards in agriculture and auto manufacturing with vision and deep pockets need to get this going.

If your red-blooded, meat eating, American machismo prevents you from switching fuels to save the planet, do it to spite all those brown-skinned boogiemens we're always trying to stabilize in far-away lands.

I'm not sure who will take responsibility for our future, but maybe we could start by contacting the secretary of agriculture and our favorite auto manufacturers with our thoughts, it could prove more useful than grinding your teeth and snarling at the gas station attendant.

Summer brings family and community reunions

Gayle Gennett
'A look at life'

We recently held a family reunion in our home and a neighbor's home.

It's nice to have good neighbors that let you move in when they aren't home. Honest, we didn't break in — we had permission to use it. Family reunions can be stressful which is probably why my husband refers to them as family rebellions. I think it went very well considering it was sweltering inside without air conditioning in either of the homes. The warm haze brought us all out onto the deck and front porch for conversation and lemonade, which also brought back memories of days past.

The Detroit Tigers hummed on the television inside and we would occasionally send someone in to check the score. The scene was reminiscent of another time in my life when the men in the family sat in a straight line, gripping their folding chairs, intently listening to the score that emanated from the small, plastic square box. We'd hear the infrequent outburst of male voices when a player made a hit. The women of our family giggled in their own gathering which was set in a perfect half circle. They regaled sharing the latest escapades of their spouses and children while we youngsters were entertained playing badminton, horseshoes, and looking for frogs in a nearby pond. Back then, every age group was present just as it was this past weekend. We had infants in tow passed from grandma to aunt to mother, needing just as much care as the elderly in their walkers who were also visited in turn by each of us.

Everyone got along and it was especially nice to see the younger children turn into delightful teenagers.

As we sat on the front porch we listened to the chatter of the frequent passersby commenting on how we must have cooler evenings up north because the flowers are plentiful and absolutely beautiful no matter which direction they look. We also heard the occasional, "My goodness the new library is absolutely gorgeous and isn't it huge?" Our conversations were only mildly interrupted by the honk of a horn signaling a vehicle was secure for the night. The mild, click, click, click, of the sprinkler lulled us back into a dream state and the chirping of a displaced squirrel would bring us back to our senses again. I wondered what my family would take away in their memories of this trip north and thought how lucky we are to live here in an area that can bring back childhood memories.

The family was mentioning how well they slept in the clean, northern Michigan air. I was too busy thinking about meals to cook and activities to plan when my brother took notice and gently reminded me to stop and take in the beauty around me while I was able to do so. He was right. I stopped what errand I felt was so important to do and grabbed a metal skewer and took on the task of making the perfect toasted marshmallow.

As the family members started their sojourn south, it was time to prepare for yet another reunion — Venetian Festival. Whew...made it through another one unscathed and all in one piece. July 4 seems to mark the beginning of summer in Charlevoix and the Venetian Festival signals that it will soon come to an end. I always remind myself that summer is still here and the Waterfront Art Fair will be next on my list of things to do.

The Venetian Festival is a great time to see people you haven't seen in years. It's Charlevoix's homecoming and reunion rolled into one. Only in a small town such as ours could you run a 5K in the morning, walk in the parade at noon, and work at a booth in the evening. For the parade this year I was faced with a new dilemma. When I called friends to participate and they realized they had to walk and not ride on a float I was given replies such as: "Bad feet," "Bad back," "Bad hips," and "Bad knees." My daughter reminded me that I too, am getting older and may need to pick younger people to participate in the parade.

Next year we'll get scooters for us young at hearts so we can still be together. Ahhh, summertime, family, friends, fun and next year, "scooters."

Letters to the editor

Pitch in with petunias

Editor:

In response to your editorial in the July 19 issue of the Courier (page 4, "A 'thanks' and 'spanks' shout out to Charlevoix").

I want to only respond to your last paragraph, regarding the petunias and the Charlevoix Public School Band Boosters, and your opinion of the state of the petunias this year.

First of all, have you talked to the any of the band boosters that have put in approximately 265 hours of time as of July 1, and many more hours during the month of July? I am sure, that these people, that have done this service for the past two years, would have a few words for you, being that they spend mornings prior to going to work, or several hours in the evening after they have put in a full day's work, weeding. Many of them would state they agree with you, that they do look "awful" this year, but they can only do so much. The weeds are definitely thriving this year, whether it is being caused by the soil, our weather conditions being extremely dry, or some other unknown factor.

The Charlevoix Band Boosters, deserve some compliments, rather than "lashing" as you put it. Where were these compliments over the past two years, when everyone took the beautiful petunias for granted?

Rather than lashing these people, why not see what can be done to help them? After all the heat that they are taking this year, I am sure that they would like to do something different next year as well. Like maybe enjoying their summer like others.

'Thanks' organ supporters

Editor:

We would like to thank everyone who helped make our new organ dedication concert a success. More than $1,200 was raised at the July 9 organ concert to go toward the organ fund. The musicians were excellent, and 30 church members ushered, baked shortcake, prepared strawberries, and helped with our strawberry shortcake reception.

There was a memorial service the following Tuesday, and we shared our strawberry shortcake for their reception when we learned that it had been her favorite dessert and had been served at her wedding reception.

Thanks everyone who helped.

Traffic control mishandled

Editor:

How stupid is the Charlevoix Police Department? Tonight, following the Friday night fireworks, which were very good by the way, four policemen were standing on the sidewalk at the corner of Clinton and Bridge streets, talking to one another while the traffic light flashed yellow for Bridge Street traffic and red for Clinton traffic. At 11 p.m., traffic was very heavy on Bridge Street. Why, may I ask, were these policemen just standing there while Clinton Street traffic was at a standstill. One policeman would occasionally stop traffic on Bridge Street so pedestrians could cross. That was a nice touch but Clinton Street traffic was totally ignored. What's the matter with these people? What are they paid for, other than handing out parking tickets? Part of their job is to regulate traffic at times like tonight. They were getting paid for that job, not for standing and visiting with their fellow policemen.

Support Shirlene Tripp

Editor:

I began attending Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners' meetings two years ago. I noticed Shirlene Tripp was at the meetings and asked her why she came. She said she likes to know what is going on in her county. She believes in open, honest and fair government and wants to do her best to make sure business of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is done that way. Shirlene is a dedicated citizen and I think she would be good for the residents of Charlevoix County's First District.

Bathrooms need attention

Editor:

I am disappointed and disgusted with the condition of the bathrooms at Depot and Ferry beaches this summer. In the past I have felt that the bathrooms were not as clean as they could or should be, but this year they are even worse. A couple of weeks ago, at Depot Beach, there was feces all over the women's bathroom and this past Sunday there was no toilet paper at all. Paper was finally put in the stalls around 3 p.m. However, the restrooms were not cleaned. After all of the activity at the beaches over the weekend due to Venetian, those bathrooms should have been cleaned bright and early Sunday morning. There are a lot of days that the bathrooms are in the same unsanitary condition that they were in the day before.

The poor lifeguards work at these beaches for eight hours a day and they have no access to toilet paper if need be. They have to use those filthy facilities and listen to all of the complaints about them.

I feel that it is a shame that "Charlevoix the Beautiful" can't keep their bathrooms clean and sanitary.

Charlevoix the Bountiful

Editor:

We are deeply grateful for each and all of you as you have surrounded us with your caring spirit during this time of John's passing. Our heartfelt thanks to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the City of Charlevoix police and fire departments and ambulance personnel, doctors, nurses and all hospital staff who so gently softened the tragic nature of the accident by their kind and compassionate responsiveness. We want you to know how much your vital services are valued in our time of need.

A special appreciation goes out to Virginia Marme and her crew of willing assistants who so skillfully planned and served the delicious luncheon at Greensky following the memorial service. Also we recognize the newspaper reporters who captured the persona of John and communicated it so effectively.

It seems fitting to add "Charlevoix the Bountiful" to the existing "Charlevoix the Beautiful," because of all the warm and genuine expressions of concern that have been heaped upon us. We sincerely give thanks for all the blessings that have come to us.

Library to host Paws for a Story dog introduction

Dog owners interested in participating in the Charlevoix Public Library's Paws for a Story program are invited to attend an introduction to the program at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 10, in the meeting room at the library.

Mild-mannered dogs and their owners can train to become a reading team for the program which will be initiated at the new library building this fall.

At the introduction event, Wendy Perrett, therapy dog owner and tester for Therapy Dogs Inc., will give tips on what to look for in a potential therapy dog, dog training and what to expect during a therapy-dog test.

There will be a video on the "read to a dog" program and Perrett and Christine Hauke, youth services librarian, will discuss the new program, answer questions and talk about training dogs to read with children.

Dogs must have a gentle disposition and have successfully completed an obedience course prior to scheduling a therapy dog test. Testing will begin in September for owners who feel their dogs are ready.

For more information, call Chris Hauke at the library at (231) 547-2651.

directed toward several initiatives the worldwide service organization supports in its effort to advance the status of women.

These include major international projects like support of micro-loans for women in Niger Africa to help them become self-sufficient and tetanus prevention in Afghanistan. Clubs traditionally send one-third of their service dollars to support these international projects.

The remaining two-thirds is directed to the club's local projects. Since the club's inception, 17 years ago, it has placed $85,000 back into the Charlevoix area through programs. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club presently provides $3,500 in scholarship money annually for women planning to attend or currently attending college. An endowment fund is also available at the Women's Resource Center for women trying to improve their employment status. Another success has been the club's Sights on Success day-long event offered free-of-charge to sixth through eighth-grade girls aimed at helping participants make good life choices.

Well Being Day Spa opens doors

Business: Well Being Day Spa
Location: 1516 Bridge St.
Hours: 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Saturday Services: Massage, bodywork, aromatherapy

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Charlevoix resident Lindsey Lewis recently opened a new business called The Well Being Day Spa, specializing in massage, bodywork and aromatherapy.

"I'm just thrilled that I'll be able to offer my knowledge and skills to the community of Charlevoix," Lewis said.

The Well Being, located at 1516 Bridge St., features a quiet environment for patrons who want a traditional Swedish massage or something a little more soothing like a hot stone or deep tissue massage.

"I like it because it's just me here in my spa," Lewis said. "Most places are a spa and a salon, and it's not very peaceful when someone's next to you getting their hair blown dry or you can smell the perm chemicals while you're trying to receive aromatherapy."

Lewis graduated from The East-West

College of the Healing Arts, known as "The Harvard" among massage schools.

The Well Being carries an all-organic product line made in the United States called Florapathies.

"I looked specifically for a company that would support the American economy because it's very important to me and my business," Lewis said.

She also does private parties, girls' retreats, works in conjunction with Castle Farms for bridal showers, and plans to increase her services to include facials and waxing by early next year.

"I've always loved massage," Lewis said. "It's so relaxing and tranquil."

Before opening The Well Being, Lewis worked as a manager and massage therapist for Bellini's European Spa in Portland, Ore.

To make an appointment with Lewis call (231) 237-9455 or visit The Well Being between the hours of 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Fiber Arts Festival on tap this weekend at the Castle

Castle Farms guests will enjoy an introduction to the fiber arts this weekend. A Fiber Arts Festival will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on July 29 and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 30 at Castle Farms, located off M-66.

Attendees can visit live animals; enjoy interactive demonstrations in weaving, spinning, natural dyeing and felting; watch sheep dogs at work; enjoy 4-H Club members as they put their llamas through their paces in an obstacle course; see how sheep are shorn and talk to vendors who are fiber artists and shepherds in their own right. The younger set can enjoy story corner, doing a woolly craft, playing old time games or even taking a pony ride.

A new highlight for 2006 is the fiber art fashion show that will take place each afternoon. Models will walk the runway in garments and accessories created from commercial yarns and the fiber of the types of animals on display. Many of the items showcased in the fashion show are original designs by Michigan fiber artists.

During this event, Castle Farms will host more than 50 vendors with hand made goods including painted yarn, al-

New leader steering Coast Guard station

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Editor

Coast Guard Station Charlevoix's newly inducted officer in charge, Scott Boop, hit the water running.

Since being inducted on June 30, Boop has responded to routine responsibilities like lake patrol. But he's also had to tackle serious incidents like stranded boaters in Harbor Springs and a July 2 boat explosion at Charlevoix's Ferry Beach boat launch. Then, early last week, Boop was be-bopping all over town meeting with local law enforcement in an effort to stage a safe Venetian Festival.

After the whirlwind start, Boop, 34, finally caught his breath during the Venetian Festival's July 22 street parade when he rode in the Coast Guard's 25-foot boat alongside his wife, Jennifer, and children, Aidan, 1, and Addison, 2 months.

The brief break was welcomed, but Boop said since enlisting with the Coast Guard when he was 19 he has always enjoyed "being part of the action."

Boop was promoted from executive petty officer stationed in Port Huron to officer in charge at Coast Guard Station Charlevoix in the wake of the retirement of John McLean Jr.

At the local station, he oversees 19 Coasties and four reservists in law enforcement and search and rescue responsibilities from Traverse City to Cross Village and out to Beaver Island.

In accepting the new position, he said the workload doesn't present his greatest challenge.

"There's always a challenge in taking on something new. I couldn't do it without the loving support of my friends and family," he said.

"I'll also have to keep guys motivated in the winter and do ice rescue which I haven't done in quite a few years," he added.

While Boop was not in charge of the local Coast Guard station when the recently decommissioned cutter Acacia was stationed in Round Lake, he said he supports a new ice breaking vessel being brought in to replace it.

"It would definitely benefit Charlevoix. We are good neighbors to the city and having more good neighbors won't hurt. I would love to see another ship here. The newer ships coming on-line add law enforcement and additional search and rescue help in this area," he said.

The Boop family moved to the Norwood area from Port Huron in January. However, due to his continued duties at the southern Michigan post, Boop commuted north on weekends until he was officially reassigned on June 1.

He is a Cleveland, Ohio native. Having grown up on Lake Erie, he said his new Great Lakes post is a perfect addition to his professional pursuits and the new surroundings appeal to his family's affinity for the outdoors.

Boop is also currently enrolled in an on-line legal studies program through the University of Maryland. He is scheduled to graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in legal studies. He said he may go on to pursue a master's degree locally.

Skatepark scholarship fund honors Patsy Ramsey

The fundraising board of Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc., a local non-profit organization, has established a scholarship fund to honor their board trustee, Patsy Ramsey, who recently passed away.

Patsy had a vested interest in getting the local skate park concept on its feet. She, along with her son, Burke, and Zeke Daman did the first presentation to Charlevoix City Council in March 2004 promoting the park idea and need for a facility in Charlevoix. She was actively involved for the first year, then became a trustee due to her health. She was a park volunteer in 2004, and helped with the capital campaign and many of the grants that were written.

Burke Ramsey, is an avid skateboarder and serves on the advisory board of students for the park. Scholarship applications will be reviewed and funds transferred to the City of Charlevoix as needed.

Donations may be sent to CCS Inc., Patsy Ramsey Scholarship Fund, 08455 Stolt Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720. For more information, contact Laura Stebe at (231) 675-4505.

Venetian Games croquet results

The Open Division of the Venetian Croquet Tournament ended in a tie.

The Open Division championship game ended in a tie and participants opted against a tie breaker. Instead they named themselves co-champions.

Marie and Tim Volovsek appeared to have won but the team of Burton and Gina Engel tied them on their last shot.

"It was a great battle and the decision was that both deserved to win so the tie stayed," Venetian Games commissioner, Dean Davenport said.

In the key match between the City of Charlevoix team and the Charlevoix Township team which determined which fire truck would lead the July 22 Street Parade, the city team of Bo and Ike Boss emerged victorious for the second year in a row.

In the Service Club Division, the Kiwanis team of Dave Burzyck and Terry Edger won for the second year in a row defeating Zonta.

Over 600 bicyclists riding in conjunction with the Michigander event biked through Charlevoix on July 20. The tour takes participants from Big Rapids to Mackinaw City. Last week they passed through Charlevoix en route to Harbor Springs — the last stop in their trek to Mackinaw. Here Cameron McKenna of West Bloomfield leads a pack of friends along the Bridge Street side-walk.

Summer baseball wraps season

Hayes, Telgenhof, Turkelson & Groat, an 18 and under baseball team featuring players from Charlevoix and Traverse City, recently finished play in the Traverse City American Legion Babe Ruth League in Traverse City.

The team finished with a 5-10-1 mark playing teams from Traverse City Central, Traverse City West, Traverse City St. Francis, Glen Lake, Kingsley, Benzie Central and Leelanau St. Mary high schools.

"Although our record wasn't what we had hoped, I was happy with the dedication of our guys, especially the guys who made the trip down each week from Charlevoix," coach Allen Telgenhof said. "These guys were dedicated to continuing their season and improving as baseball players. That is only going to help them and our Charlevoix baseball program out down the road."

Playing from Charlevoix on a regular basis were Danny Waldron, Ty Telgenhof, Mike Kras, Jon Putman and Chris Waha. Other Charlevoix players were Sam Balasz, Ethan Towsley, Kyle Jones, Matt Teuscher and Eddie Waldron.

"It was an especially good opportunity for our pitchers to get some extra work," Telgenhof said. "It was nice for them to get a chance to play with players from other schools as well, since we had guys from Traverse City Christian, Traverse City West and one all the way from Maryland."

SCRAPBOOK

Looking back at Charlevoix families in the 1940s

Marilyn Boss
'Days gone by'

So many memories are brought back as I write about the people who lived in Charlevoix in 1940. The directory put out by the Charlevoix Courier was accurate, and very well done. Glen V. Mills was the solicitor and compiler of the book. As I wind down my articles on those people, I hope you have enjoyed reminiscing as much as I have.

Percival Ross and his wife, Phoebe, lived at 202 Nettleton St., with their daughter, Mary Jane.

Rachel Routley was a widow (Matthew) and lived at 304 West Lincoln St. William Lusk also lived there.

Albert Rowe and wife, Anna, lived at 107 Park Avenue. He was a salesman. Their children were Carl, William and John.

Ervan A. Rueggeger was the Probate Court Judge. He and his wife, Mary, lived at 447 Pearl St. in Boyne City.

Carl and Ruth Russell lived at 502 Newman St. He worked at Petoskey Portland Cement Company. Their children were Gerald, Jack, Elaine, Richard and Donnie.

Milton Russell and wife Mabel lived at 402 Newman St. He was one of the best stone masons Charlevoix ever had. Their children were Howard, Douglas, Reda, and Robert.

Robert and Myrtle Russell lived at 404 West Hurlbut. He was a butcher.

Miles T. Russell and wife, Ruth, lived at 202 East Hurlbut. He was a driver for Charlevoix Coal and Ice Company. Their children were Kenneth, Juanita and Maxine. As far back as olden pictures of Charlevoix go, the Russell family was present. I have looked at many of them, and there are little fellows in the crowd, and the family resemblance is remarkable.

Charles Saganek and his wife, Agnes, lived at 202 Ferry Avenue. He was a laborer. Their children were Gladys and Charles H.

Michael and Leona Saganek lived at 501 West Garfield. Their children were Albert and Elmer. He was a machinist at the Shapton Machine Shop. Michael Saganek was a blacksmith. He lived at Robinson and Sherman.

Annie Saltonstall was a widow (Brayton) and lived at 408 Mason St. Gilbert Saltonstall was her son, and he and his wife, Charlotte lived at 200 Lewis St. He was a physician, and had his office at 112 Clinton St.

George and Ila Sarasin lived at 1210 Bridge St. Their sons were William, Clayton, and Robert.

Max Scamehorn owned Mac's Fishing Camp, located at 227 Belvedere Avenue on Round Lake. He lived in a small house there, and rented his dock in the summer.

Walter and Reda Scott lived at 410 Antrim St. Lee Scott also

Two Charlevoix restaurant owners, each facing eight felony charges and two misdemeanors in connection with alleged money laundering, embezzlement and tax fraud, are being held in Sault Ste. Marie.

Yong Shen Dong, 38, and Yuzhen Chen, 35, husband and wife who own and operate China 1 in Charlevoix's Glen's Plaza, are in the custody of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement office in Sault Ste. Marie for deportation status and Dong has been tested for tuberculosis.

According to Jane Sundmacher, coordinator of marketing and public relations for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, no reports of tuberculosis.

Locals embark on African mission trip

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Last week, a group of Charlevoix residents readied themselves for an experience that is next to impossible to prepare for.

On July 27, a group of 12 Charlevoix Community Reformed Church parishioners gathered to receive vaccinations and a vision tutorial before leaving July 31 from Detroit for a medical mission trip to Uganda.

"It's about being a part of something a lot bigger than ourselves. Something that lasts. I'm sure it will be life changing," said Charlevoix resident, Jessa Martin.

While the core of the Team Uganda group is drawn from the Community Reformed Church, six other people are joining them including a pharmacist from Kansas, a registered nurse and two average Joe's from Oklahoma, an East Jordan resident and two people from Grand Rapids.

This is the second mission trip to Uganda the church has sponsored. They also sponsor trips to Guatemala and will co-sponsor a team that will travel to Ukraine in May 2007.

The first Uganda mission, a 17-day trip, took place last summer. During that excursion, a team of 17 treated nearly 1,400 patients, 60 percent of which were children under the age of 13, for conditions ranging from worms to HIV/AIDS.

Don Trimper, a Charlevoix resident, will lead the team again. A retired physician, Trimper has participated in more than 15 missions in Ukraine, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Romania and Kenya.

"It's a tremendous rush. You meet people you would otherwise never have a chance to know or meet. You get a lot more than you put in," Trimper said.

The team, which includes a total of three doctors and two registered nurses, is similar in size to last year, but Trimper said he expects them to treat about 2,000 patients.

Team Uganda gets to work

Hosted by the Washington-based World Outreach Ministries Foundation (WOMF), members will be housed, fed and transported to several remote villages northeast of the Ugandan capital Kampala, in southern Uganda, to deliver care.

During the last couple days of the two-week trip, some group members, including Martin, will split off and travel to Lweje Island in Lake Victoria to treat members of a remote fishing village.

While the team plans to bring medical assistance to the people of Uganda, Bruce Deckinga, a surgeon, said their own health is their greatest concern.

"Infectious diseases is the number one concern — malaria, typhoid, contaminated wells," he said.

Personal safety was not a concern during the 2005 mission trip.

Uganda lies within a volatile and developing region of east Africa. It borders Kenya, Rwanda, Sudan, Ethiopia and the Democratic Republic of Congo.

The Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) has been active in northern Uganda — an area visited by the team — and in March 2004, two Americans were murdered there. In May 2004, the leader of the resistance army issued an order to target Americans, according to the U.S. Department of State Web site, www.travel.state.gov.

However, Trimmer said the group will operate under the umbrella of a reputable organization and will travel with translators.

"In 18 years, I've never seen any organization do as much as they have been able to do in Uganda," he said in a previous interview. "You know they must be well-organized, they must have good leadership, they must have good relationships with local and national governments. All of that is very important."

Since 1987, the World Outreach Ministries Foundation has planted 35 churches in Uganda, initiated eight primary and secondary schools, created two Bible schools, ministered to several hundred prisoners, supported two medical clinics, founded an orphanage for children who have been abandoned because of AIDS which presently houses 110 children and supported 430 orphans with monthly food, clothing, school fees and medical care. Currently, the agency is building a hospital in southern Sudan, which is Uganda's northern neighbor.

The group is scheduled to return on Aug. 18. Reentry meetings will follow at the church.

For more information, call the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church at (231) 547-9482.

Keep infrastructure millage money where it belongs

Last week, Charlevoix City Council and the city planning commission met for yet another long-winded look at the looming budget crisis and how infrastructure funding soon won't keep pace with the proposed project schedule.

Under the setup in the hands of attendees, during the 2007-2008 budget year, infrastructure millage money would be used for typical infrastructure projects like water and sewer lines and road and sidewalk construction, replacement and repair. But it would be used for beaches and the golf course as well.

The current infrastructure millage rate is 2.2337 mills. During the 2006-2007 fiscal year this millage will generate $450,000. While almost half a million bucks isn't chump change, city officials continue warning city council that the infrastructure cash-well will soon run dry.

Each public body that has explored this issue seems to be slowly edging toward the solution of proposing a millage increase which would have to be approved by city voters.

As it stands, the city millage rate is at 11.2837 mills, the maximum amount allowed by the Headlee Amendment.

While the millage rate according to Headlee is maxed out, voters can roll back Headlee allowing the city to levy up to 15 mills which is the maximum amount allowed by city charter.

Both the infrastructure millage and current 9.05 mills operating millage fall under the umbrella of operating millage funding. However, we feel the infrastructure millage wasn't intended to be used to keep the golf course and beaches in tip top shape.

We feel allocation of these funds to beaches and the golf course pulls the wool over the eyes of voters. When we think infrastructure we think roads, water lines and sewer pipes.

Currently, both the beaches and the golf course fall under the city's hefty recreation budget. That makes sense.

The cost of beaches in the 2006-2007 recreation budget is $57,900. And the golf course draws an additional $250,800 from that budget.

If these same costs became the burden of the infrastructure budget they would soak up over half of the amount generated by the millage.

So, as you're bumping down poorly maintained city roads en route to an afternoon on the golf course or at the beach you may wonder whether your tax dollars were directed to where they truly need to go.

We urge City of Charlevoix administrators to keep infrastructure money where it belongs.

Beware of scientific salesman

Roger Knutson
'Ear to the ground'

Decades ago, Jacob Bronowski attempted to explain the importance of science to our modern world in a book entitled, "Science and Human Values."

The book remains the best overall exposition of the importance of science. In two brief quotes he made clear our necessary relationship to science. "We live in a world which is penetrated through and through with science, and which is both whole and real. We cannot turn it into a game by taking sides." A second quote makes clear exactly what the potential consequences of misuse of science might be. "The world today is made, is powered by science; and for anyone to abdicate an interest in science is to walk with open eyes toward slavery."

The misuse of science has a long history, from the time when presumed "scientific" differences between races (which always showed that white Europeans were superior) were prominent, to the present, when it is possible to hire a scientist to expose global warming

Rather than being in the service of some other human enterprise, science in its pure form is a way of approaching the truth about our world and about ourselves. To quote Bronowski again, "Only adherence to truth as it is revealed by efforts of people to uncover the connections that may link one apparently unlike part of the world with another can free us from the idea that there are given truths that supersede our understanding."

Roger Knutson is a columnist for the Charlevoix Courier. He can be contacted by calling (231) 547-6558 or by e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

The First Amendment

as a fraud. Its current misuse is probably more important because it is so much easier to communicate both truth and falsehood. Science has more and more become something to be used in the service of other less noble goals.

Science in the service of religion winds up assuring the less well-informed that it is a scientific certainty that life begins at conception. Science itself offers no universal definition of life, and conception is to science not a single act, but a lengthy and complex process that merits further study.

Science in the service of literature (fiction) is clearest in the case of author Michael Crichton, who can take a tiny bit of recent tentative science and convert it into a horror story about the end of the world.

The uses of science in the service of politics are too abundant to even require examples, and science in the service of economic gain is a major engine of our entrepreneurial economy.

Rather than being in the service of some other human enterprise, science in its pure form is a way of approaching the truth about our world and about ourselves. To quote Bronowski again, "Only adherence to truth as it is revealed by efforts of people to uncover the connections that may link one apparently unlike part of the world with another can free us from the idea that there are given truths that supersede our understanding."

standing."

What should we be doing about the potential misuse of science in the present day? Any time a politician, a best selling author, a salesman or even a religious leader uses science to buttress their point of view, we should be wary. Even many scientists have become the equivalent of lobbyists for a particular point of view. Some scientists can be bought. Scientists supported by government, as in the National Science Foundation or the National Institutes of Health may provide the best sources of information, since their continued funding does not depend on their finding support for particular ideas. Science supported by agencies or groups that benefit economically or politically from the results of the scientific process is particularly suspect. Science is an approach to truth, not the discovery of truth.

Scientists as individuals are no more noble or honest than any other group, but science as an overall enterprise is self-correcting. Such correction takes time and energy to work. The latest word from science is likely to be the least dependable of all. Patience remains one of the premier virtues, and it is certainly vital in our societal relationship to science.

all operational cost and wages for the Boyne City and East Jordan senior centers. Currently, the Commission on Aging has $1.5 million invested in a "rainy day fund." If one allows for a generous $500,000 contingency fund, then $1 million is not being spent on senior citizen programs as intended by the voters. It would not be a hardship for the Commission on Aging to cover the operational cost for the Charlevoix Senior Center as well. This would allow the Charlevoix Senior Center to shift their focus from constant fundraising to improving their programs.

According to Michigan Law (MCL 400.573), a local unit of government (county commission) may appropriate funds to public or private non-profit corporations or organizations for the purpose of planning, coordinating, evaluating and providing services to older persons. The Charlevoix Senior Center, like the Commission on Aging, is a non-profit 501(c)(3).

Please ask your county commissioner to support the Charlevoix Senior Center with a direct operational appropriation to the Charlevoix Senior Center.

Support county road millage

Editor:

The roads in Charlevoix County are like the arteries of the heart. When the arteries to the heart are blocked and in bad shape, the heart ceases to operate and the body dies.

The primary roads are in bad shape in the county and if we cannot get our visitors to and from the county, all of the county will die. Also important to note, is when the roads do get repaired, those roads will greatly reduce the repairs on vehicles of county residents. Vote 'yes' for the county road millage on Aug. 8.

Carson for GLE board

Editor:
As you look through your July copy of Country Lines, our Great Lakes Energy magazine, please take a few minutes to find the ballot for electing the new board of directors.

One of the candidates is Mark Carson, son of Howard Carson. Howard Carson served our community for more than three decades. Now Howard's son, Mark Carson, is seeking a seat on the board of directors for Great Lakes Energy. Mark vows to represent northern Michigan, the area which has the fewest directors and the largest member base. Mark can provide the proper balance of age, experience and education to the new board. We know both father and son and know that Mark Carson will represent our area and continue the tradition of having a Carson serve our community.

Please look for the ballot in the July issue of Country Lines, put a check by Mark Carson's name and send it in the prepaid postage envelope provided. Jack and Carol Apol

Pitch in with petunias

Editor:

I am responding to your comments made regarding the petunia beds (A 'thanks' and 'sparks' shout out to Charlevoix, page 4 of the July 19 edition of the Charlevoix Courier). The weeds are extremely tenacious this year. We are still exploring this year. We are still exploring this year. We are trying to discover what is causing the problem. The soil in the flats of petunias that we purchased is weed free. Dale and I know this for a fact because residents who purchased the extra flowers for their homes or businesses are not experiencing the weed overgrowth.

Dale and I are especially thankful for the hand parents and community members who have diligently worked to weed the flower beds. Several of our family members recently volunteered to help with the weeding. They remarked that it was difficult work, but rewarding.

Chris Wilhelm, who heads up the band boosters, has put in countless hours weeding the petunia beds. She has even been weeding by herself during the hottest hours of the day. We have also seen several residents taking the time to weed sections of the beds. We can't thank these people enough.

Charlevoix residents, we need you to show your community pride. For one reason or another, the band boosters do not have enough volunteers to tackle the tremendous amount of weeds. Instead of placing the blame on those dedicated people who are weeding, why not get out there and give them a hand?

The petunias are part of Charlevoix's charm. Most residents benefit in some way from the tourists who visit our town. I have noticed that most of the property owners who weed in front of their businesses are pulling in the tourists because their places look so attractive. Several homeowners also have been weeding in front of their homes, and mowing the line of grass directly behind the flowers. Dale and I really appreciate your efforts.

The band boosters weed on Monday and Wednesday night. The whole town can be weeded very quickly if more people come out and help. Bring your garden tools and a pair of gloves. We desperately need you. Please come and help our "choking petunias."

Kudos African choir

Editor:

On July 4 the Charlevoix Ministerial Association sponsored "The African Children's Choir" in East Park in Charlevoix. The choir had 25 children ranging from 7-10 years of age from Uganda in Central Africa.

I have never seen such energy, enthusiasm and happiness. All they wanted to do was sing and dance and we are pleased they did. These children are singing for a reason besides being very happy. They are singing to the Lord for schools, education, scholarships and emergency relief efforts. This reflects the choir's mission to help Africa's most vulnerable children today so they can help Africa tomorrow.

Emergency funds are needed to help more than 2,700 children in South Africa who, in addition to losing one or both parents to AIDS or other diseases are facing starvation. The African Children's Choir has been instrumental in financing tuition for thousands of children who otherwise have no access to an education. Education is the key to long-term change and advancement in Africa through the parent organization "Music for Life." The African Children's Choir operates several literacy catch-up schools and primary schools that serve as a lifeline for children who would otherwise spend time in the streets. The choir also funds the African out-reach academy, a comprehensive education and health out-reach effort that includes a day and boarding school and nursery medical clinic and agricultural farms.

Once more, kudos to these incredible little children who are doing a man size job. They are worthy of praise. For more information, contact Ray Barnett at the African Children's Choir office, P.O. Box 29690, Bellingham, WA 98228.

Church peace crane project marks anniversary of Hiroshima bombing

Several hundred peace cranes also will be donated to the Children's Peace Memorial at Hiroshima, Japan by members of Charlevoix's First Congregational Church.

They made the cranes during the past year under Charlevoix resident Barbara Wilson's instruction. They will be gathered Sunday, Aug. 6 on the 61st anniversary of the atomic bombing of the Japanese city.

The project grew out of the reading of the true story of "Sadako and the Thousand Cranes." It tells of Sadako, suffering from the bomb's radiation, who believes she will get well if, according to legend, she makes a thousand cranes. She died before she could finish making the paper cranes but her friends took up the challenge, eventually building the memorial now draped with colorful paper cranes sent from all over the world.

County commission candidates face off

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHS
 Staff writer

All but one Charlevoix County Commissioner seat will be contested in the Aug. 8 primary election.

District One — Hayes, north side of Charlevoix and Bay townships as well as the City of Charlevoix north of the bridge.

Tripp

Shirlene Tripp

Shirlene Tripp, 69, is one of two Republicans battling for first district commissioner. Connie Saltonstall's seat.

Tripp was a 4-H leader for over 10 years and a 45-year member of the Rebecca Lodge of Emmet County. She is a certified ceramic instructor at her shop, Tripp's Ceramic, and a part-time employee of Wal-Mart. She served as a trustee, treasurer and planning commission member of Hayes Township for a total of nearly 27-and-a-half years. She also served in the treasurer's office of Wyoming Township for 2-and-a-half years.

Tripp, who enjoys working with people, said she seeks the support of at least 50 percent of those registered to vote. If elected she plans to look for different ways to finance roads.

Barnes

Josh Barnes

Barnes, 78, is a former director of Summa Industries, served two terms as mayor of Charlevoix and became interim commissioner when his daughter, former First District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Valerie Snyder, moved to Las Vegas, Nev. in March 2005.

Mayor Norman Carlson appointed Barnes to head the city's response to the request that Charlevoix be the host city for the Griffon Project, according to Barnes.

Barnes hopes to make the county government run smoothly by obeying the letter and intent of the law. He also hopes to lend his engineering and corporate management skills to certain committees.

District Two — Evangeline Township and Boyne City

Frykberg

Randolph Frykberg

If elected, this will be second district incumbent, Randolph Frykberg's third term. Frykberg has 31 years combined experience in local units of government and is former 13-plus years manager of Boyne City. He has served on the state's air pollution commission, the Great Lakes Basin Commission Advisory Board and 41 years on the National Ski Patrol.

At age 59, Frykberg has also served as a municipal operations consultant, zoning administrator and a planner.

Frykberg enjoys local government because it is closest to the people. He hopes to move ahead with the hiring of a county administrator. Another interest of Frykberg's is for the commissioners to do more planning in general.

Christensen

Chris Christensen, 34, an associate broker with Lynda's Real-Estate Service in Boyne City, hopes to unseat Frykberg in the Republican primary.

Christensen served in student government while attending college in Petoskey and he currently serves on the Antrim/Charlevoix/Kalkaska board of directors of the Association of Realtors.

Christensen said he will represent the people of Boyne City and Evangeline Township while investigating every avenue before rushing to tax the citizens of the county. He also hopes to explore whether the county actually needs an administrator or a human resources director.

The third district commissioner served as a trustee and then as supervisor tor or a human resources director.

District Three — Melrose, Chandler, Hudson, Boyne Valley townships, the Village of Boyne Falls and the portion of Wilson Township south of Boyne City-East Jordan Road

Reinhardt

Ronald Reinhardt

Incumbent Ronald Reinhardt, 66, hopes to beat fellow Republican, Alex Grelicz, and continue representing his constituents and the agricultural sector for a third term.

With nearly a decade of working for the people of Charlevoix County, Patrick said he will continue working to make sure everyone has their say if he is re-elected.

County-wide road millage proposed

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, August 2, 2006 - PAGE 11

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

A county-wide ballot measure to fund maintenance and construction of Charlevoix County roads will be decided at the Aug. 8 election.

A successful millage would be levied from 2006 to 2010, with roadwork to begin next spring on several of the 44.08 miles listed. The following years of operation and lengths of roads repaired may vary depending on potential increases in fuel and materials costs.

- Year one, 5.59 miles of Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, from Nelson to Pincherry Road
- Year two, 6.39 miles of Camp Ten Road and 5.45 miles of Springvale Road
- Year three, 3.79 miles of Ellsworth Road and 3.38 miles of Six Mile Lake Road
- Year four, 4.04 miles of Kings Highway, 3.47 miles of Deer Lake Road, 2.65 miles of Korthase Road

Graphic by Jessica Healy

Marked on this map of Charlevoix County are those roads that would be repaired if a proposed road millage is approved by voters on Aug. 8. They are marked Y1-Y5 to note where work would be done in the next five years.

What it is: County-wide 1-mill ballot measure to fund road maintenance and construction.
When to vote: 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Aug. 8
Where to vote: Local township and city halls

• Year five, 2.20 miles of River Road and 7.12 miles of Marion Center Road

The criteria for roads most in need of repair includes traffic volume, road condition, safety concerns and access to primary highways.

If passed, residents would be billed on their home's taxable value, not the State Equalized Valuation. For example, if your home's taxable value is $100,000, you would pay an extra $100 per year. If your home's taxable value is $50,000, you would pay $50 per year.

Of the 15 townships in Charlevoix County, 12 currently have road millages which, Charlevoix County Road Commission manager Pat Harmon said, could be maintained to focus on projects the road commission can't get to.

If the millage proposal fails, general maintenance such as snow removal and pothole filling will continue.

It is estimated that this proposal would produce revenue of $1,866,066.83 during the first calendar year.

Residents of the county are to vote in their residential unit. City of Charlevoix residents vote in the city, township residents vote in the township where they reside.

Island, mainland schools receive gaming allocation

The Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians is pleased to announce the distribution of their bi-annual 2 percent gaming revenue allocation to local units of government.

Under the terms of the consent decree, settling Tribe v. Engler, the Grand Traverse Band agreed to pay 2 percent of its video gaming revenue to local units of government.

On July 19, the Grand Traverse Band Tribal Council determined which organizations would receive a portion of the 2 percent gaming revenues derived from slot machines.

Of the 87 applications received, which totaled $2,255,814.68, the tribal council awarded 38 applicants. The total amount available to allocate for this 2 percent cycle was $807,927.94.

Three of the recipients are the Beaver Island Community School for replacement of playground equipment for $15,500; the Beaver Island Lighthouse School for acquisition for new textbooks for $9,000; and the Charlevoix Public School's Title VII for the Indian Education Program for $37,000.

Forgotten Eagles to conduct ceremony Aug. 4 at VFW

In conjunction with a statewide tour, the Forgotten Eagles of Michigan will visit the local VFW post this week.

They will arrive in Charlevoix between 1:30 and 2 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 4. Township voters to decide ballot measures

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Townships across the county will have measures on the Aug. 8 ballot including millages for road repairs and the operation of libraries.

Some of the following millage proposals are new and some would be restored millages which were reduced in adherence with the Headlee Amendment.

Approved in the late 1970s, one of the provisions contained in the amendment limits the amount of taxes which can be collected from the taxpayer.

Eveline Township
Eveline Township voters will decide the fate of a 1-mill ($1 per $1,000 of taxable value), two-year road millage. If approved, the millage could raise $221,911 over 2006 and 2007.

Norwood Township
Norwood Township voters will decide whether to renew an existing 1-mill road construction and maintenance millage for another four years (2007 through 2010).

According to township officials, an approved millage would regain the .0147 mills reduced by the Headlee Amendment. The millage could raise as much as $42,259.

Norwood Township residents will also vote on whether to restore their emergency services millage to .5 mills (.50 cents per $1,000) for the next four years (2007 through 2010) to fund fire and ambulance services. The millage was previously rolled back to .4927 after passage of the Headlee Amendment.

If approved, the millage could raise as much as $21,130 the first year.

Peaine Township
Peaine Township (Beaver Island) voters will decide the fate of several ballot measures including restoration of 1-mill for road construction and maintenance set to expire around the first of the year; an additional 1-mill for road construction and maintenance; the restoration of both a 2-mill ($2 per $1,000 of taxable value) medical center millage and a .75-mill (.75 cents per $1,000 of taxable value) airport operations and maintenance millage; and a 1-mill library services and operations millage.

The road construction maintenance would be levied for five years (2007 through 2011), if passed, raising an estimated $59,937 in the first year.

The additional road millage would be levied for six years (2006 through 2011). It could raise an estimated $58,475 in the first year.

If approved, the rural health center millage renewal would be levied for four years (2006 through 2009) and raise approximately $116,951 the first year.

The airport millage renewal could be levied for five years (2007 through 2011), raising $44,953 during the first

The Beaver Island District Library millage, if levied for four years (2006 through 2009) would raise an estimated $98,996 in the first year.

St. James Township
St. James Township (Beaver Island) voters will decide four ballot measures: 1-mill restoration of the fire protection millage; 2-mills to restore the island medical center millage; 2-mills to restore the township's road construction and maintenance millage; and 1-mill for library operations and maintenance.

An approved fire protection millage would be levied for four years, raising an estimated $40,521 in the first year.

The island's medical center millage, if passed, would be levied for four years and raise an estimated $81,043 in the first year.

The road construction and maintenance millage would be levied for four years (2006 to 2009) and raise an estimated $81,043 in the first year, if approved.

The Beaver Island District Library millage would be levied for four years (2006 through 2009) and raise an estimated $98,996 in the first year if approved by voters.

Race for supervisor's seat heats up in Hayes

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Several townships across Charlevoix County have openings for everything from supervisor to treasurer which will be decided at the Aug. 8 primary election.

Eveline, Hayes and Norwood townships all have candidates running to fill vacancies.

Hayes Township

Ethel Knepp

Sixty-year-old, Ethel Knepp, is running for the supervisor position of Hayes Township. The term expires in 2008.

"I think I'm the best candidate for the position," she said. "I'm really very knowledgeable about local government and that's the main reason I think I would be the better candidate."

Knepp said, if elected, she will work to get roads repaired and find some lakefront property for public use.

"It's (lakefront property for the public) been a goal I've had for a long time," she said.

She also said she will continue working on updating the zoning ordinance to see that it is reasonable.

Knepp worked as township clerk from 1988 until 2005, she served on the zoning board of appeals and acted as zoning administrator.

Knepp said, technically, she could probably hold both the zoning administrator and supervisor positions, but she doesn't know if it would be feasible with the amount of time it would take to do both jobs accurately.

She said, "I don't want to see any conflicts."

"Anybody that knows me knows I take care of business," she added.

Frederick Parsons

Frederick L. Parsons, 67, hopes to beat his fellow Republican, Knepp, in the Hayes Township supervisor's race.

"I want to continue the good progress that the board's made and the planning commission's made in the last year," said Parsons, who has been filling the vacancy left by former supervisor, Tim Boyko. "I'm capable of doing the job, and I've got board experience."

Parsons has 31 years of experience as a licensed Michigan Real-Estate broker, he is retired as chief warrant officer in the United States Navy Reserve after five years of active duty and 31 years in reserve.

He is retired as the supervisor of the Department of Public Works for Charlevoix Township and has served as a trustee for Hayes Township.

Parsons has 14 years experience as a member and training officer for the Charlevoix Township Fire Department.

Marlene Golovich, a 53-year-old Hayes Township resident, is running as a Republican for the clerk's position.

"I enjoy working with the local government and I love my job working with people," she said. "It's very rewarding."

Golovich has served on the zoning board of appeals and the planning commission as well as being the deputy clerk of the township.

"The closest thing to my heart is land use," she said. "I'd like to see open space and farmland preservation and I'd like to see the township acquire property on Lake Charlevoix for a park."

She added, "We have a small one (park), but there's no boat launch there."

Jim Rudolph, 64, is the only Democrat looking to fill an office in Hayes Township.

He is on the board now and is running to maintain the seat of trustee.

"I've been on the planning commission for about 18 years and I think I have in-depth knowledge of the pressures on the township between property rights and maintaining the environment," Rudolph said.

Rudolph said one of his main goals is to look into the idea of mandating affordable housing in the zoning.

"Right now our zoning allows for it, but doesn't require it," he said. "Someone can take that dense zoning and put in really expensive homes."

He added, "I think I am very skilled at making just decisions on that."

Norwood Township
David Leusink, 43, is running as a Republican for the Norwood Township treasurer position. Leusink was appointed to fill the vacancy left by previous treasurer, Ellen Jensen.

"It's a way for you to give back to your community, I think," Leusink said. "One way of doing that is public positions."

He added, "The best way to affect township government is to be a part of it."

Leusink said the position has allowed him to meet many of his neighbors.

"Most folks have been delightful to work with," he said.

He added, "In Norwood, to a certain extent, we need stabilization in the community. We need to work toward better communication between residents."

Eveline Township
Republican, Ronald J. Chapman, the Republican running unopposed for position of Eveline Township trustee, did not return phone calls by press time.

James Cooper named interim superintendent

Charlevoix school board approves $104,800 1-year contract

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

James Cooper

Charlevoix Public Schools welcomed a new superintendent.

Charlevoix Public School Board members voted 7-0 at a Wednesday, July 26 special meeting to approve the $104,800, one-year contract for soon-to-be superintendent, James Cooper, formerly of Boyne Area Schools.

"I'm planning on starting on Aug. 1 officially and I'm excited about it," 56-year-old Cooper said. "I think Charlevoix is a very strong district, and for me it's nice, because I'm familiar with a lot of people in the district."

He added, "I'm really looking forward to it. I think it's a great opportunity."

The first order of business, the interim superintendent said, is to familiarize himself with procedures and personnel.

According to outgoing Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturock, Cooper was willing to come down in price from his slightly higher salary requirements. In turn, the board designed his reimbursement package with some future incentives in mind.

"They (the board) built some merit pay in there, so that'll be determined by setting up a process where he could make some money if he does certain things and reaches certain goals."

Sturock said a private sector business of 200 employees and a budget of $13 million might pay a CEO two to three times what a superintendent makes.

"When you take a look at it in comparison to an average Joe Blow, it seems like a lot of money, and you have to be sensitive to it, but it is what it is," he said. "It's a pretty pressure-packed job — you have the responsibility of 1,300 students in this school district and sometimes it's a daunting task."

The board plans to meet in January or February to discuss their next move.

"One of the great things about getting Jim (Cooper) for a year is, it takes the pressure off us right now," Truhilowicz said. "It allows us to get the year going and get things on an even keel."

The board could use a consulting firm, the Char-Em Intermediate School District, the Michigan School Board Association or the Michigan Leadership Institute, among others, to help them find a long-term candidate.

Kanine accepts position at Petoskey High School

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

With new interim superintendent James Cooper just days into his position at Charlevoix Public Schools, news came that the school board will have to fill yet another tough pair of shoes.

On July 25, the Petoskey Public Schools Board of Education named Charlevoix High School assistant principal and athletic director, Jim Kanine, the new Petoskey High School assistant principal.

At the time of the announcement, the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education had not received Kanine's resignation.

"It was a surprise to all of us," said Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education president, Bill Trubilowicz.

Kanine's official last day as a Rayder is Aug. 11.

"Now I'll be switching to a Northman. But the fact of the matter is there will always be part of me that will be a Rayder," Kanine said. "It was a gut wrenching decision even though for me, professionally and for my family, personally, this was a good decision. For me, the connection I have with Charlevoix is all about relationships — with students and parents of those students. Leaving that part is hard."

Jim Kanine, the current assistant principal and athletic director at Charlevoix High School has accepted the assistant principal's position at Petoskey High School. His last day is Aug. 11.

While the surprise came just over a month away from the first day of school, Sept. 7, Trubilowicz said it's no major problem. "We'll miss Jim, he has a lot of experience with us and I wish him well,"

"Now I'll be switching to a Northman. But the fact of the matter is there will always be part of me that will be a Rayder."

Jim Kanine,
Outgoing Charlevoix High School assistant principal and athletic director he said. "But I firmly believe we have a lot of interested, good candidates in the district for both jobs."

"We just hired a new superintendent (Cooper) last night (July 26). This will be his first job — hiring a new assistant principal," Trubilowicz added.

Kanine, 50, has spent 19 of his 28 years in education with the Charlevoix district. During the first 14 years he was a coach, a middle school English teacher and a driver's education instructor. For the past five years he has been assistant principal, athletic director and driver's education instructor at Charlevoix High School.

"It was a lot to be doing both. This is an opportunity for me to not have to do driver's education and not have to come back for sporting events," he said.

Trubilowicz said once Kanine's official resignation is entered, the board will post the position/s, accept applications and make a selection.

Whether or not the position will continue in its combined capacity or be split has not been determined.

"That's a tough job. The athletic director generally attends all the night games — so he was working all day and all night," Trubilowicz said.

Kanine's new responsibilities include student discipline, staff evaluations and improvement of instruction. He replaces Jim Rummier who left Petoskey High School to take a principal's position at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District's Orion school for emotionally impaired students.

Kanine will receive a salary of $84,311. During the 2005-2006 school year he was paid $80,700 for his services at Charlevoix Public Schools.

Kanine is married to Jane Kanine, who will continue to work in the culinary department at Charlevoix Elementary School. They have four children, Jim, 25, Rachel, 22, Rebecca, 20 and Matt, 17. Matt will complete his senior year at Charlevoix High School during the 2006-2007 school year.

Charlevoix makes the Cool Cities cut

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Charlevoix's road to cool is being paved by the State of Michigan.

On July 20, Gov. Jennifer Granholm announced that Charlevoix and Petoskey are two of five recipients of the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns grants. Other winners are Muskegon Heights, Oscoda and Tecumseh.

"I'm really excited for Charlevoix and Petoskey," Karen Gagnon, director of the Michigan Cool Cities program, said. "What we are doing is nothing new — urban revitalization. But with the Cool Cities designation we've brought a focus to it like never before."

Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns is a 50/50 match grant. Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner, has estimated the total project cost to be $30,000. The local, $15,000 match, will come from the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and is included in the group's 2006-2007 budget.

City representatives will now have the opportunity to work with consultants from the firm, HyattPalma on a market study of the downtown area, to develop a five-year economic enhancement action strategy. Measurable results that will be tracked include the creation of new jobs and private investments in the downtown.

According to city planner, Gerry Harsch, the goal is to identify what exists, and what steps should be taken over the next five years to attract businesses and guide appropriate development.

"Job creation is a part of it. But as much as anything, there's a concern about trying to attract tenants to downtown businesses that will be successful on a year-round basis and in terms of longevity, that will stay for a number of years. Instead of businesses that are here today gone tomorrow," Harsch said.

He is expecting to begin the study in the next six months. However, an official timeline has not been established.

Creation of the action strategy will include local volunteers and town hall meeting formats conducted under the umbrella of the local Cool Cities Advisory Group which has been designated as the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority. Information will be garnered over a three-month period and compiled in the action strategy plan.

Aside from the valuable market evaluation, Charlevoix will now boast the suave, "Cool City Neighborhood" designation.

"The leverage a city gets from the award designation itself is almost more important than the grants," Gagnon said.

During the May grant application process, Harsch stated Charlevoix is in need of the Blueprints program because of its empty storefronts in the business district, its need to transition from a seasonal community to a year-round community and the stagnation of development on Bridge Street.

He also stated Charlevoix should be selected over other applicants due to unique circumstances including investments made in the downtown area like the Bridge Park renovation, the Charlevoix Public Library overhaul and the upcoming renovation of East Park and the municipal marina. He also stated that job loss from the decommissioning of both Big Rock Point and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia make Charlevoix a worthy choice.

On July 20, Gov. Jennifer Granholm announced that Charlevoix is one of five recipients of the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns grants. The town can now use Cool City marketing leverage to boost business.

Development Corporation can award up to 10 Blueprints grants, only five communities applied, all of which were approved.

Gagnon points to state budget cuts as the reason for the dip in applications. She said several months ago, the legislature cut $3 million from the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's budget and people were unsure about the status of Main Street and Blueprints programs.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? County moves to hire administrator

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

With six votes in favor of advertising the position of county administrator, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners now wait for candidates to apply.

During the Wednesday, July 26 board meeting, commissioners honed the job description and emphasized the need for a county administrator.

"If I compare it to a business, a $30 million a year business, it's not going to be run by a part-time board," Frykberg said. "There's somebody in charge. There's a CEO. There's assistants down the line."

He added, "We need somebody that's going to take and handle all of the financial management, budget development, insurance, grant research, purchasing (for the county). They answer to the board of commissioners. They carry out the board of commissioners' policies."

Frykberg said, at this point, there is no one to fulfill the role of human resource management, updating the compensation package, training and personnel development and looking into the use of buildings and grounds.

"Over 64 or 65 counties in the state, out of the 83, have some form of administrator," he said. "The commissioners aren't here every day. Jane's (Brannon, County Clerk) not going to be here forever."

Frykberg said he thinks the county administrator would take over the fiscal officer duties which Brannon now carries out.

"We've got to think ahead for what's going to happen when there are some changes here," he said. "In my mind, I've been on this ever since I ran six years ago."

When a member of the audience asked how much the newly created office might cost, Frykberg responded with an approximate figure.

"In my mind, and it hasn't been finalized, I think it's probably a $60,000 to $70,000 job — starting out," he said.

Third District Charlevoix County Commissioner, Ronald Reinhardt, admitted to originally being against the idea.

But, he said, "We do need someone that's here every day."

Frykberg said the county administrator will be a resource for use by all county department heads. He said the administrator's position will be another form of check and balance in the government.

"(This will) make certain tax dollars are being used efficiently," he said. "I know sometimes when you add a person it doesn't seem like it's going to be efficient, but it really is."

He added, "There's nobody in charge here."

County commission candidate, Shirlene Tripp, asked board members how they can afford to pay for a newly created position.

"We're increasing our tax base about as much as the people of Charlevoix County can afford — more than some can afford," she said.

Frykberg answered that counties with some sort of administrator, per capita, are doing better than those without.

Board accepts applications for administrator's position

County commission candidate, Josh Barnes, said he knows how frustrating it is to not be able to coordinate activities the way they should be coordinated.

"I cannot picture any company in this world being run by a board of directors, and that's what you're asking this group to do. No chairman, no foreman, no anything except elected people," he said. "There's no reason why you shouldn't take the word of experts you've elected. It's their job to make decisions."

In a later interview, chairman of the

Who: Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners
What: Unanimously supported advertising for a county administrator Cost: Initial annual salary estimate by commissioner Frykberg $60,000-$70,000 board, Vic Patrick, said the advertisement will be in newspapers and trade journals around the state, but that no talks on salary amounts would begin until, "...we start getting some candidates to see what their qualifications are, what their backgrounds are and so forth."

Chinese eatery owner tested for TB

losis have been reported in Charlevoix County.

"They've been isolated as a precautionary measure," Sundmacher said.

She added that sputum was collected from Dong on July 26. Those samples were sent to the Michigan Department of Community Health in Lansing to determine whether he is infected with tuberculosis. Results of those tests are expected to be returned later this week.

Pat Fralick, director of family health for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, said residents alarmed by the possible presence of tuberculosis in the community need to understand that the disease comes in different forms.

"The type of TB we get concerned with at the health department is mycobacterium tuberculosis," she said. "There are many people in the community who may have a positive test for TB. That doesn't mean they are communicable. We worry when you have it in your lungs and are not treated. Then, when you cough or spit, that organism can be spread to other people. That doesn't happen very often. But does it happen? Yep, it happens."

She added on average the health department responds to one to two cases annually of mycobacterium tuberculosis in the four county area it covers.

While a possible tuberculosis diagnosis is serious, the disease may be the least of Dong and Chen's concerns.

The two were taken to Sault Ste. Marie on July 12 after a search by representatives of local and state police agencies of China 1 restaurants in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Gaylord and Traverse City. During the search, $132,745 in cash and two vehicles, a 2005 Lexus and 2003 Toyota Rav4, were seized.

Charges were authorized against the two Charlevoix owners by the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office on July 26 in connection with the search. These charges include two counts of conducting criminal enterprise for alleged racketeering and money laundering; a count of third degree money laundering; a count of embezzlement of more than $1,000 and less than $20,000; four counts of taxes — fail to file/false return; and two misdemeanor counts of conspiracy to taxes.

According to an affidavit authored by detective/sergeant Gwen Erickson with the Michigan State Police, on file in Charlevoix County's 90th District Court the two allegedly did not pay taxes for employees and failed to pay the state the sales tax the restaurant collected on cash sales from customers from January 2004 through July 12.

The criminal enterprises felony charges for alleged money laundering and embezzlement carry the most harsh penalty of all the counts Dong and Chen face — up to 20 years in prison. The remaining felony charges each carry a five-year maximum prison sentence.

"I want to see them take some charges and let immigration do whatever they are going to do with them. We believe they are here illegally and we think we can prove they weren't paying any employment or sales tax. I want to see the money and assets forfeited to recoup the money they should have paid," said Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema.

Charlevoix China 1 owners Dong and Chen have not been arraigned.

Jarema added that similar charges will also be levied by the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office against other people involved in the China 1 operation many of who are the couple's family members, and one of which is the tax accountant for all four locations.

Those listed in the affidavit include Gaylord China 1 president, Zhen X. Chen and his wife, Ai Hua, their son, Xian Chen and his wife, Min Ru Dong and vice-president, Fa Yang; Cheboygan China 1 owners Chuan Ke Wang and Cui Min Chen, Zhen Chen's daughter and former owner of Charlevoix China 1; and Traverse City China 1 owners Wen Bing Wang and Hui Yun Wang.

What is Tuberculosis?

Tuberculosis (TB) is a disease caused by germs that are spread from person to person through the air. TB usually affects the lungs, but it can also affect other parts of the body, such as the brain, the kidneys or the spine. A person with Tuberculosis can die if they do not get treatment.

Symptoms of TB?

The general symptoms of TB disease include feelings of sickness or weakness, weight loss, fever, and night sweats. The symptoms of TB disease of the lungs also include coughing, chest pain, and the coughing up of blood. Symptoms of TB disease in other parts of the body depend on the area affected.

How is TB spread?

TB germs are put into the air when a person with TB disease of the lungs or throat coughs, sneezes, speaks or sings. These germs can stay in the air for several hours, depending on the environment. Persons who breathe in the air containing these TB germs can become infected; this is called latent TB infection.

What should I do if I have been exposed to someone with TB disease?

People with TB disease are most likely to spread the germs to people they spend time with every day, such as family members or coworkers.

If you have been around someone who has TB disease, you should go to your doctor or your local health department for tests.

What does a positive Tuberculin skin test mean?

A positive tuberculin skin test only tells that a person has been infected with TB germs. It does not tell whether or not the person has progressed to TB disease.

Other tests, such as a chest x-ray and a sample of sputum, are needed to see whether the person has TB disease.

Commission incumbents ousted

Aug. 8 primary winners go on to Nov. 7 general election

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Three incumbents and one former Charlevoix County commissioner were ousted in the Aug. 8 primary election.

In District One, which consists of Hayes Township, the north side of Charlevoix Township, Bay Township and the City of Charlevoix north of the bridge, Shirlene Tripp beat fellow Republican, Josh Barnes 326 to 252 securing 56.4 percent of the vote.

"We have a small revolution in the county with this big of a turnover, and it (the election) was clean."

Robert Drebenstedt.

Republican candidate for District Five County Commission

Tripp will face incumbent, Connie Saltonstall and any write-ins in the Nov. 7 general election.

"I didn't graduate with honors, but it will be an honor to serve the people," she said.

Tripp thanked her opponent for doing a good job and said she looks forward to beating Saltonstall in November.

If successful, Tripp's first order of business will be to ensure commissioner meetings are only canceled in cases of emergency. And, she hopes to get a sound system in the boardroom so the audience can hear what the commissioners are saying.

She added, "I would hope to think we could re-vote for county manager and consider the human resource person."

In District Two, which consists of Evangeline Township and Boyne City, Chris Christensen beat incumbent Randolph Frykberg 203 to 152 with 57.02 percent of the vote.

"I'm excited, I'm ecstatic," he said. "It was a close race. It was tight. There were a lot of tight races this year."

Christensen said, if he is elected in November, he will first acclimate himself to his commission seat.

"And quite honestly, we're gonna have to come up with some funding for the roads," he said.

Christensen respects his opponent for running a clean race, and said, "I hope that I can draw on some of his experience to represent the people in a great way."

In District Three, which consists of Melrose, Chandler, Hudson and Boyne Valley townships, the Village of Boyne Falls and the portion of Wilson Township south of Boyne City-East Jordan Road, incumbent, Ronald Reinhardt got the proverbial landslide of the evening by beating Alex Greficz 246 to 81 for 75.23 percent of the vote.

Rolling blackout threat prompted by heat wave

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

Last week, when a heat wave invaded Charlevoix, air conditioning units kicked into overdrive and city electric customers teetered on the brink of experiencing rolling blackouts.

The power demand surged and almost exceeded the supply.

According to city engineer, Don Swem, no power outages occurred during the three-day heat wave which lasted from July 31 through Aug. 2. But power use was at an all-time high on Monday, July 31 when the temperature reached 101 degrees and Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 1 and 2 when temperatures were in the low 90s.

"We received warnings on all those days that we may have to cut the load to prevent a major blackout of everyone," Swem said. "It was those 90 degree days that did it. Everyone has to have their air conditioning."

According to a spokesman for the organization that issued those warnings, Midwest Independent Transmission Operator, this was the first time in six years that they have issued an Energy Alert Level 1 warning for the entire 15-state area they cover and an Energy Alert Level 2 warning in selected areas, including Charlevoix.

"This week when we broke that record demand for power, we went to Emergency Energy Alert Level 1, a precautionary measure to manage the system when the grid is strained by record demand for power," said Gary Rasp, spokesperson for Midwest Independent Transmission Operator.

"Tuesday and Wednesday, portions of the system, including Charlevoix, were stepped up to Level 2. That doesn't mean the system was close to shutting down. We took the measures we felt appropriate and were able to meet demand without significant disruptions."

Courier to bring readers a new look

Julie Witthoeft

'Just a thought'

An interview last week went something like this.

"So, when is the project supposed to start (bang, hang, bang). And how much is it going to cost (bang, bang, bang)," I asked.

The person on the other end of the line politely responded, "What's all the racket about."

I explained that while interviews have occasionally incited me to whack the phone on my desk, this wasn't the case.

The Courier office, one of the community's dinosaurs, is seeing some amazing updates. And we are working smack in the middle of a construction zone.

New siding, windows, flower boxes and even an updated cooling system are replacing the cracked block exterior, drafty windows, rotten wood flower boxes and portable AC units from the 1970s.

The 1970s look to the interior will also be changed with new kitchen and bathroom facilities and a fresh coat of paint to cover the dark stained paneling that cloaks the news room.

While this is the big change readers are seeing when they visit the office and are hearing when they call, behind the scenes a fresh look is also being planned for the newspaper.

Just like the Courier building project, which was sparked by leaks and drafty windows, the rejuvenated newspaper venture we are embarking on started with a problem.

The Courier news team, staff writer Benjamin Gohs and myself, are young and when it comes to news, fearless. We produce a hyper local, edgy product that offers something for all ages and deserves a facelift.

The revamping started with a small picture inserted into the page one Charlevoix Courier logo in the July 26 edition to break up the gray on the page's right-hand side.

But still, something was missing.

I thought to myself, we need a fresh, classy look. And while I know we can't inject the press ink with Botox and shredded Gucci handbags to achieve this, we can work with our design group and press experts to make it happen.

In the new design, the Courier staff will roll out on Aug. 23, you'll find we've veered away from the fancy font and sailboat that once made up the Courier masthead. Our thinking? Why does a sailboat say Charlevoix. What says Charlevoix are the people. The sailboat space will now be filled by residents and visitors doing whatever they love to do in Charlevoix.

The insider's look at the paper and index have been changed from a vertical format on the left side of page one, to a horizontal format and can be found on the bottom of the front page.

While the design will be a blatant change, the one that will keep you guessing is the feel of the paper.

Currently, the paper is printed on a 56 inch web, the standard in the industry from the early 1980s to late 1990s. The new paper will be printed on a 50 inch web, similar in width to our sister paper, the Petoskey News-Review. The print area will be more narrow, which for readers means it will be easier to manage and for us means less ink.

While the look and "feel" of the Courier is changing, one thing is not, our dedication to offering readers a reliable, quality product. With in-depth coverage of local schools

This sample front page for the redesigned Charlevoix Courier is meant to give readers a behind the scenes look at fresh changes to the newspaper that will be rolled out on Aug. 23.

The Club Sandwich Generation fast lane

Gayle Gennett

'A look at life'

My theme song this summer, "On the road again," keeps running through my mind.

The tune is the theme song representing the group I have joined which is often referred to as "Club Sandwich Generation." To become a member one needs to be sandwiched between aging parents, adult children and grandchildren. Indoctrination starts with a phone call inquiring, "How do you get a five-year-old to quit changing his clothes 10 times a day?" Membership was verified with, "I need your help. It's difficult keeping the house in order with three little ones, and it would be so nice to have a date with my husband."

My first assignment, check my calendar and mark the day when bags will be packed and plan what I should bring down for the grandkids. After coffee and a quick glance at the "Today Show," it's on to check e-mail. I read the numerous e-mails from my siblings explaining what our next plan of action is with dad and whose turn it is to clean out his refrigerator. It's my turn to take care of dad for awhile — I'm definitely in the club now. Planning my task of making one complete trip, first I stay with grandkids, then on to dad's. I really do love spending time with family but my energy gets zapped and the thought of returning to my own bed and getting a good night's sleep is better than having a Godiva chocolate with a side order of Starbucks.

When my own schedule keeps me on the home front, I bring the family north. When this occurs I skip my usual gym time as I can get quite a workout wheeling dad around town in a wheelchair. Dad keeps late hours, as he has always been a night owl. Fortunately, we have cable, which provides us with the History Channel and Star Trek reruns that can be heard into the wee hours of the night. As easily as he can be entertained so can the grandkids. We are so fortunate to have a variety of beaches to choose from when they need their water time.

Having been comfortably retired for three years now, I need to reset my mental alarm clock. The grandkids have a way of automatically waking up when the sun rises — very similar to how a Mr. Coffee is programmed. Did I mention that my favorite time of day is "nap time." Those are my two new favorite words. When that time of day ends I can be found starting up the vacuum cleaner. In the midst of cleaning, I catch a glimpse of a program on the television set. The announcer is happily expounding his report on the latest trend having your home built large enough to accommodate grandma, grandpa, mom and dad, adult children and grandchildren. The announcer continues his sales pitch that it saves money on day care, cost of fuel, housing, and with an economy that is not as promising as some politicians tell us, this may be the wave of the future. I am on the road again. Halfway to my destination, my cell phone rings. It's my brother calling, letting me know that dad has had a stroke. The intense conversation was broken up with little brother asking, "What's that running water I hear in the background?" Though I wanted to respond with, "Tahquamenon Falls," I told him the truth. I had answered my phone in the inner sanctum of the Clare rest stop.

I made it to my destination, the time with grandkids may be shortened, and the time with dad lengthened. We're family and we take care of each other. That's what being a family is all about. Yes, I'm a proud member of the "Club Sandwich Generation," but next week I think I'll order out.

Committed communities

Editor:
Wow! What a difference committed communities can make.

As the director of Camp Quality of Northwest Michigan, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those involved in making the 3rd Annual Boyne Thunder Fundraising Weekend a tremendous success. Due to all of your hard work, dedication and generosity the children of Camp Quality and their families will be able to once again experience a week-long, camping experience at Camp Daggett along with all of the additional teen and family enrichment activities that take place throughout the year.

Your generous support touches our campers and their families in ways you will never know. On behalf of all of them, I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation. The weekend wouldn't have been a success without you.

Great cleanup effort

Editor:
While most of us were still sleeping in after a full Venetian weekend, the city of Charlevoix, under the direction of Pat Elliott, was on the job cleaning up. The park was clean and nearby streets in good shape — one would never know there had been a party. Thank you, city workers, for a fine job. With a relatively small staff and great direction they, "Keep Charlevoix Beautiful."

Keep up foot patrols

Editor:
Thanks to Charlevoix City police chief Gerard Doan for establishing foot patrols in the downtown area. How refreshing it is to see our officers mingling with citizens, checking with merchants and getting to know people a little better. This is good for Charlevoix. We hope that the chief will consider making this a permanent thing.

First class hospital

Editor:
As everyone knows, our (Charlevoix Area) hospital has been under a very expensive modernization and enlargement program, with the cost of over $15 million. Several people have mentioned to me that they want to know if we would ever get a fair return for our investment. As a continual financial supporter of our hospital, I am happy to tell you that last night every nickel of that money used for the building, and the personnel, has been well worth it. They saved me from possibly a very unfortunate problem.

I had jogged some 13 miles from Petoskey State Park to Harbor Springs and back again. During my jogging the afternoon temperature at 3 p.m. was in the low 90s and I drank very little water. At 1 a.m. I woke up and had to be taken to the hospital by my wife because I could barely breathe, I had no feeling in my feet or hands and I felt very light-headed. We arrived at Charlevoix Area Hospital at about 1:15 a.m. and immediately Dr. (Jim) Stewart and his night staff diagnosed the problem and solved it. They pulled me back from what I thought was sheer doom.

So, thank you Dr. Stewart, and the late emergency staff for what you did for me and what you do for all of us in this community.

There is no doubt in my mind that our hospital is first class and that it's there for us when we are in trouble. The time, effort, and investment we have all made in our hospital is definitely the thing to do, for a hospital gives back to our families every day and every night.

Blood drive success

Editor:
The American Red Cross was in Charlevoix during the Venetian Festival. It was also the time of a critical shortage of blood for the sick and injured. I am proud of the community of Charlevoix for responding with 102 pints of blood on July 20.

Thank you for the cooperation of the Lions Club, the Charlevoix City Water and Electric Department and local businesses who contributed to the great outcome. I am grateful to my volunteers for their unwavering kindness and generosity.

The Community-Reformed Church of Charlevoix was our hospitable host once again, providing a wonderful and comfortable site. Thank you. The next community blood drive is from noon until 5:45 p.m. on Sept. 14 at the Reformed Church in Charlevoix. Please come to donate blood. Each pint can make a difference for up to three people.

Senior center response

Editor:
(In response to the letter written by Richard Tunison, "Center seeks COA support," page 4 of the Aug. 2 edition of the Charlevoix Courier.)

The Charlevoix Senior Center is seeking more millage money through a direct appropriation but without accountability to taxpayers. In his Aug. 2 letter, Richard Tunison's comments are disingenuous.

Mr. Tunison says the Charlevoix Senior Center receives $20,000 for "utilities and some office expenses." In fact, the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging spent over $32,500 from the millage for Charlevoix Senior Center operating expenses and equipment for their new kitchen last year. He is well aware of Commission on Aging efforts over the years to assist the center with more of their expenses.

He mentions that Charlevoix Senior Center members raise funds plus pay millage. He implies that Boyne Area and Charlevoix County (East Jordan) senior centers are covered by public money. Those centers participate in county nutrition programs so their nutrition-related expenses are covered. However, they also raise funds to provide activities not payable with tax money.

Mr. Tunison mentions the Commission on Aging "rainy-day" fund. With more baby boomer seniors, expanding senior needs, and uncertainty of future millages, the Commission on Aging conserves funds ensuring continued services beyond millage expiration. The Commission on Aging also operates on this fund for most of the fiscal year until millage money is deposited into its account.

Voters approved the senior millage for programs (home-delivered/congregate meals, medication management, homemaking, respite care, Alzheimer's support groups, personal care, in-home foot care, adult day services, lawn care, snow removal, etc). Senior centers are not programs — they are facilities in which some programs are offered. Their properly accounted expenses are paid for included programs.

Mr. Tunison refers to Michigan law allowing local government to appropriate funds to private non-profits for senior services. That law is the basis for allocating public money over the past five years to Charlevoix Senior Center. Laws also require public money be disbursed in accordance with state and federal regulations.

The Charlevoix Senior Center has a draft contract from the Commission on Aging which proposes, yet again, to cover all center non-fundraising operating and nutrition expenses. They have rejected three similar Commission on Aging offers as well as USDA reimbursement funds because of "the paperwork" — state and federal requirements. Instead, the center has requested an "appropriation" from which they would spend without accounting to taxpayers.

Mr. Tunison states that the Charlevoix Senior Center is a "community center run by senior citizens for the whole community." That mission is laudable, but senior millage was approved by voters for seniors — not for anyone who wants to have an expensive lunch, free computer use or woodcraft classes regardless of age, physical limitation or ability to pay.

Again, the Commission on Aging has proposed to cover budgeted, non-fundraising expenses for the Charlevoix Senior Center. However, Charlevoix County should not disburse taxpayer funds to any organization without accountability. As a taxpayer and member of the Charlevoix Senior Center, I would have it no other way.

50th Wedding Anniversary

Sharon and Lowell Blossom

On Sept. 1, 1956, when they exchanged rings and vows in Toledo, Ohio neither Sharon Beverlin nor Lowell Blossom imagined the adventurous life they would share over the next 50 years.

There was, however, a hint of what was ahead for the pair during their honeymoon spent at Elkhart Lake, Wis. watching sport car races. Racing hill climbs, motocross, and sport's car events became a family activity during those early years of marriage whether they lived in Toledo, Palatine, Ill. or Monroe. Ultimately, they settled in Zionsville, Ind. where Lowell owned Speedway Volkswagen and then Blossom Chevrolet.

Vintage car racing captured Lowell's interest around this time. He continues to compete and finish well in races. But the greatest adventures started in 1991 when the couple lived full-time for four years aboard a 61-foot sailboat and cruised the Caribbean. In 1994, near the end of their sojourn in the Caribbean, they built a home in Bequia, St. Vincent in the Grenadines where they return each year.

Sharon and Lowell came to Charlevoix as "fudgies" in 1985. In 1997, the Blossoms bought the Virginia Olsen designed home on Round Lake, created the current addition in 1998 and began reconstruction of the multi-level gardens in 2000.

As an active member in the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, Sharon was instrumental in the development of the Meditation Garden at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. A portion of this garden, which surrounds the hospital entrance, was created by the Blossoms in memory of Sharon's sister Jan Brown, who died in 2001.

The Blossoms will celebrate their marriage and Lowell's 70th birthday Aug. 11, 12 and 13 with family, friends and relatives from all over the world. Their children Eric Blossom (Cheryl) of Nevada and Erin (Bill) Baas of Indiana with grandchildren Andrew and Ian Baas and John Wion will host the week-end celebration.

Esperance to host 2nd Annual Enduring Arts wine testing benefit

Suzanne and Pram Acharya, owners of Esperance Wine, Cheese and Specialty Foods of Charlevoix in partnership with the Charlevoix Council for the Arts are hosting the 2nd Annual Enduring Arts wine tasting, gourmet picnic and auction event from 6 to 8 p.m. Aug. 18.

This year's event will include tastings from three wine makers: Lee Lutes of Blackstar Farms; Jim Clendenen of Au Bon Climat in Santa Barbara, Calif.; and former Red Wing hockey star turned vintner, Igor Larionov. Live and silent auctions of art and wine items will add to the evening's festivities.

All proceeds from the event benefit the Charlevoix Public Schools visual arts program to help pay for equipment, materials, resources and art experiences that would otherwise not be available through the school program.

Tickets, with a suggested donation of $30 per guest, should be reserved in advance. Tickets are available at Esperance, located at 12853 U.S. 31 North in Charlevoix or by calling the store at (231) 237-9300. Attendees must be 21 or older to attend.

Lions Club White Cane Safety Days Fund Drive

On Friday and Saturday, Aug. 11 and 12, Charlevoix Lions will be around town for their annual White Cane Safety Days Fund Drive.

As a symbolic reminder to the public of the service club's quest to seek funds for eye-related beneficiaries, each Lion collecting donations will be carrying an official "White Cane."

Donations to the Lions help support the Michigan Eye Bank & Transplant Center; the Michigan Leader Dog Training Center and its Puppy Search and Development Program; and the Lions own Welcome Home For The Blind in Grand Rapids. Locally, the club helps support the low-vision reading center at the Charlevoix Public Library and pays for glasses for the needy with special eye problems. The club will also assist those with special hearing problems.

Leading the two day fundraiser are Lions, Bruce Herbert, Walt Hufford and El Kaiser.

Year-round, the Lions collect used eyeglasses for distribution in third world countries.

Forgotten Eagles brake in Charlevoix during state tour

By KIMBERLY AGNELLO
Special to the Courier

Thirty members of the Forgotten Eagles visited the local VFW post on Aug. 4 during their annual Ride Around Michigan.

The Forgotten Eagles is a motorcycle group made up of Michigan residents who promote public awareness regarding prisoners of war and soldiers missing in action and also raise funds for veterans through its five chapters.

During their visit, the group held a ceremony to honor the fallen soldiers of northern Michigan and presented the VFW post with a new prisoner of war/missing in action flag.

"I'll be a member until they kick me out," said 51-year-old Don Schoof of Ironton.

Schoof has been riding his motorcycle with the Forgotten Eagles for a year.

"On any given day, there's something like 50,000 veterans living in cardboard boxes on the street and that's not right at all," Schoof said.

All money raised during their events like the Ride Around Michigan go directly to needy Michigan veterans.

Last year, they raised $13,000 for veterans of all wars.

"It's just a well-run organization," Schoof said. "We're open to support veterans from all wars, and we want to help the families of soldiers as well."

In addition to being the largest contributor to the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund, the Forgotten Eagles also educate youth in high schools all over

St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

Fr. Gerard (Jerry) Hunko's first year at Charlevoix's largest house of worship, St. Mary Church, has been marked by a series of firings, resignations, a petition to support him, appeals to the diocese for intervention, an assault charge and defections by both parishioners and students.

Bishop Patrick Cooney of the Gaylord Diocese declined to comment on the apparent turmoil at St. Mary Church.

"Obviously, due to privacy issues and in respect to individuals, we do not publicly comment on personnel issues," stated Candace Neff, Director of Communications for the Diocese of Gaylord in an e-mailed response to questions intended for the bishop.

"They (disgruntled parishioners) had been allowed to be in charge of many things because the former pastor was elderly," said parishioner, Alberta Beyers. "(Fr. Hunko) came in, and things he wanted changed, he changed — that's his prerogative."

Changes Fr. Hunko has made since taking over the reins from Fr. Tom Neis in July 2005 included cancellation of some church programs.

This sparked former parishioner, Scott McDonald, to leave for the church in Boyne City this spring.

"He canceled a bunch of programs I was involved with. After that I figured, what's the point?" he said.

The changes also touched a nerve with former parish bookkeeper, Nancy Rajewski, who resigned. She and her husband Bob now attend services in East Jordan.

Bob, who was removed from the finance council without explanation, said, "My concern is not what (he) does, but how he does it. He makes a lot of decisions, but doesn't consult with anybody. That gets a lot of people upset."

Nancy added, "It seemed like a good time to get out of the situation. I didn't necessarily agree with what he (Fr. Hunko) was doing, and you can't work with someone when you don't agree with him."

Fr. Jerry Hunko

nine years at St. Mary, neither refuted nor confirmed Hunko's role in her resignation.

"I'm not willing to say one way or the other," said Furtaw, who now works for another catholic church under the direction of the Gaylord Diocese.

Husband and wife, Mary and Rick Shepard, former secretary and maintenance workers respectively, were both let go in the last year.

Mary's contract was not renewed after 15 years on the job and Rick was fired by Fr. Hunko during a meeting over terms of his employment.

"Due to the fact that I am in an appeals process with the (Gaylord) Diocese to have my job reinstated, I am unable to make any comment on the situation at St. Mary's at this time," Mary said.

Jean McDonough, formerly in the youth ministry and vacation bible school programs, resigned on June 9 sparking an investigation.

McDonough, a parishioner of 31 years, claimed Fr. Hunko shoved her during a loud and unpleasant altercation.

In the police report, Fr. Hunko contended that he, "Nudged her," in an attempt to escort her from the building.

"It was submitted to the prosecuting attorney for criminal charges," said Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema. "We reviewed it and felt we could not press criminal charges."

In the police report, Deputy-Chief of the City of Charlevoix Police Department, Scott Hankins, stated he was advised by his chief, Gerard Doan and attorney Harry Golski, both parishioners of St. Mary, that a small group of churchgoers, including McDonough, were opposed to Fr. Hunko.

"This appears to be related to that division in St. Mary's Church," Hankins stated.

Changes made in the church and allegations of assault aren't the only issues that have devoted St. Mary supporters hot under the collar. The turmoil has reportedly spilled over into the school in the form of firings and other shifts.

Former parish secretary, Mary Chapdelaine, said she resigned as a result of Fr. Hunko's behavior and will send her child, a former St. Mary School student, to Charlevoix Middle School this fall.

Former teacher at St. Mary for four years, Heather Sape, felt the sting of strange happenings when, after her contract was not renewed, she was approached by parents who said they were asked by church and school officials to write erroneous letters stating Sape's performance was poor.

"There was never any indication that I was not supported by parents or other staff members," she said. "I can tell you I'm not a Catholic. That could be one of the reasons."

Unhappy parent, Heather Sterly, said, "A year ago, St. Mary was a great place to be, and now I have a hard time going to church on Sunday. I don't think our kids will be in St. Mary this fall (and) I won't send my kids there if Fr. Jerry (Hunko) is still there."

Former parishioner, Jessica Clark, echoed Sterly's comments and said Hunko's behavior sets a bad example for her children.

"We've called and talked to Northwest Academy," she said. "The only way we would send them back is

Since the July 2005 change in leadership at St. Mary Church, a series of tumultuous happenings have jolted the parish and school.

if Fr. Jerry (Hunko) was gone."

While these parishioners and parents of students say Fr. Hunko is the reason they won't be back, some say he's the reason they keep coming back.

Louise Hilligan said, "People had been leaving in droves (prior to Fr. Hunko's arrival) and they're coming back now."

"People just love him, and I think that is why he was brought up here," said Beyers. "I only know positive things about him. The rest is so unbelievable."

Carol Morris, a 30-year parishioner, said a petition circulated during mass in June was authored by school board members and some teachers in response to letters and phone calls to the bishop by church members unhappy with Fr. Hunko. She said the signatures supporting him speak for themselves.

Supporter, Diane Barker, said, "I just think it's a very small group that's trying to cause a lot of trouble."

Fr. Hunko did not return calls by press time.

With the bishop declining to comment and Fr. Hunko's decision not to return numerous calls regarding this matter, the future course of action to calm the rough waters at St. Mary remains unknown.

Fr. Hunko received his bachelor of science degree from Sacred Heart in Detroit and a master's degree in divinity at Saints Cyril and Methodius Seminary in Orchard Lake and has served several churches since 1991.

Most school vandals get deferred sentences

By STEVE ZUCKER
Petoskey News-Review
Staff writer

If they complete their sentences and stay out of further trouble, most of the teens charged in connection with an illegal entry and vandalism incident at Charlevoix High School in May will have the opportunity to emerge from the ordeal without a blemish on their records.

All but three of the 14 teen-agers who were charged in connection with the incident have entered guilty pleas and been sentenced in their respective cases.

Authorities said in the early morning hours of May 26 a group of Charlevoix High School seniors used copies of a stolen master key to get inside the high school building. While in the building, at least some of the suspects allegedly plugged up the drains in several sinks, then turned on the water, causing the sinks to overflow.

The students sentenced thus far have received deferred sentences that included four to six months probation, five to 10 days of community service work, $200 to $300 in fines and costs and restitution. Initially authorities estimated that the cost to clean up the damage to the school could go as high as $10,000. However, the actual bill came to about $4,000 to re-key the locks at the school and about $500 for damage clean-up. The restitution amounts to about $300 per defendant.

A deferred sentence means that if the defendants complete all of the terms of their probation and stay out of trouble while on probation, the conviction is expunged from their records.

Former Charlevoix school board president Dennis Halverson, who was on the school board at the time of the incident, said he feels the sentences were appropriate under the circumstances.

"It was not the intent of the school or the criminal justice system to scar those individuals permanently. However, there had to be some reaction from the community that this kind of behavior wasn't going to be tolerated," Halverson said.

Defense attorney Mary Beth Kur, who represents four of the defendants charged in the incident, agreed that the deferred sentences were the right thing to do and commended county prosecutor John Jarema and district judge Richard May for agreeing to the deferrals.

"These kids should not be saddled with criminal records for the rest of their lives because of what turned out to be $700 worth of water damage — not caused by all who were in the school," Kur said.

"They made a mistake, plain and simple. The sentences imposed give them a consequence and at the same time provides them with the opportunity to make Charlevoix proud of them in the years to come," she added.

The three remaining defendants are: Andrew Victor Kantola, Aaron William Hagen and Jarod William Kirby, all 18. They face one count each of illegal entry and malicious destruction to a building, $200-$1,000. Hagen and Kirby also face a 1-year misdemeanor charge stemming from the alleged theft (Kirby) and later concealment (Hagen) of chemistry equipment from the school.

All three are slated for a final pretrial hearing on their respective cases on Aug. 29.

Hagen also faces a charge of possession of marijuana that prosecutors say arose out of the search warrant that police used to search for the chemistry items.

At a motion hearing last week, 86th District Court Judge Michael J. Haley denied a defense motion to have the search declared inadmissible, but Haley granted a motion to have the marijuana case separated from the charges tied to the school.

Legislature bridges school funding gap

By BETHANY ROOT
Potoskey News-Review
Staff writer

The Michigan Legislature has taken a step toward making every student in the state worth the same amount of money to the district, from Beaver Island to Bloomfield Hills.

The Legislature recently passed a funding plan for the 2006-2007 school year, which for the first time includes equity payments for lower-funded districts across the state.

The payments signal an attempt to give more money to poorer districts across the state, without taking away funding from more affluent districts, said state Rep. Gary McDowell, D-Rudyard. To receive an equity payment of $23 per student, a district had to have a foundation allowance of less than $7,150.

"We're trying to bridge that gap, to make sure every student in Michigan gets the same amount," McDowell said. "Our kids in Northern Michigan are just as important as kids in affluent schools in suburban Detroit."

Area schools received $2.7 million in additional funding, and schools in Emmet County alone will receive $1.39 million. The money will provide an additional $210 in per-pupil funding, slightly more than many of the districts

Shawn Biddle

"We looked at schools like Northern Michigan schools that have decreasing enrollment, and because they're funded on a per-student basis, are in a bad situation because overhead doesn't go down," McDowell said.

Potoskey Schools superintendent John Scholten said the district planned for $200 increase per student, but the real help, he said, will be the equity payment of $71,185.

"We're very gracious, especially for the effort, at least, although it's not huge, to bring equity to funding this year," he said. "It's unfair that zip codes do dictate how much money goes behind each child."

Shawn Biddle, business manager for Charlevoix schools, said the district budgeted for $200 per pupil. The foundation grant will provide approximately $233,050.

Depending on enrollment figures in the fall, the $10 per student more than the district budgeted for should amount to approximately $12-13,000, she added.

"It's right in line with what we were anticipating," Biddle said. "But out of a $13 million budget, $13,000 isn't very much. It will just flow in and help with operating expenses."

Harbor Springs schools business manager Pam Gibson said that the funds may be used to help pay salaries, purchase materials and repair buildings. She added that even though the district derives most of its money locally from property taxes, it still needs state funding.

"We are a unique district in that we receive 89 percent of our revenue from local tax dollars, where most districts receive the majority of their funds from state sources," she said. "We hope to receive the same amount other districts have been promised."

McDowell said that districts like Harbor Springs will still receive the same funding from the state.

He also said that education funding has lost $29 billion to tax exemptions given to approximately 79 different businesses and industries by the state. One of those exemptions is for the oil industry, and was first passed 10 years ago when oil was $30 a barrel and the industry was struggling to survive, he said.

"We need to look again and see if the tax break is justified," he said. "This is what's really hurting our school aid fund, is these types of exemptions"

Jim Cooper, newly appointed superintendent for Charlevoix schools, emphasized that the district appreciates the additional funding, but the increase wasn't a big surprise, given the timing.

"We all felt that with election year coming up, things were probably going to be more favorable," he said. "The Legislature, everyone, including the governor, would like to make a statement that they're putting more money into education."

Outdoor furniture from Ace Hardware was recently delivered by Mike Greyerbiehl and Mike Gauthier to the site of the upcoming pool auction. The furniture sits beside a Global Electric Motor Company electric car which is also on the auction block. These are some of the 200 items that will be sold at the Aug. 13 Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction.

SEE-North offers free environmental education teacher workshops

SEE-North announces new Michigan Environmental Education Curriculum Support free workshops for teachers.

The workshops will take place from Aug. 15 to Aug. 19 at the University of Michigan Biological Station near Pellston.

SEE-North, in partnership with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ), is pleased to announce that Michigan is among a handful of states creating its own environmental education curriculum, known as the Michigan Environmental Education Curriculum Support (MEECS). Five Michigan-specific science and social studies units are ready for Michigan classrooms. These are Ecosystems and Biodiversity (grades 4-6); Land Use (grades 4-5); Water Quality (grades 6-8); Energy Resources (grades 7-9); and Air Quality (grades 7-9).

This project is designed to provide fourth through ninth-grade students with an opportunity to learn about and to increase appreciation and understanding of Michigan's environment and its role in Michigan's economy.

Michigan Environmental Education Curriculum Support is aligned with the Michigan middle school science and social studies content standards and MEAP assessment. The curriculum, units were carefully created by a team of experts with input from scientists, writers, teachers, environmental organizations and business groups.

The workshops and materials are provided free upon completion. Lodging and food will be provided at the biological station for $22 each night.

To register, contact Sue Fruchey at (231) 348-9700.

The 17th Annual Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction will take place at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 13 at the Charlevoix Country Club.

"It's going very well as far as donations are concerned," said Charlevoix Area Community Pool board of directors member, Bruce MacArthur. "There is something for everyone."

With 200 items up for auction, participants can bid on any number of items while donating to the pool.

"This is our 17th year and I think what's happened is that people are using the pool more. It's just become a popular thing to do as far as an activity, and they realize it's a worthy cause to support," MacArthur said.

Some of this year's bidding items include vacation packages to Key West, Fla., and Waikiki Beach, Hawaii, golf packages for four at Bay Harbor and Belvedere Golf Club, a Global Electric Motor Company electric car, a trip aboard the 100-year-old cement carrier St. Marys Cement Challenger, and a cooking lesson for six from Chef James Simonsen of Truffles.

Not to mention, auction organizers have secured tickets to the University of Michigan versus Michigan State University and Michigan State University versus Notre Dame football games.

The money raised from this year's auction goes to general maintenance of the pool and allows for special activities like Dollar Nights, said pool director, Al Gooch.

"We have hills to pay throughout the year and the money raised isn't earmarked for anything specific," Gooch said.

Previous years have raised between $70,000-$73,000, and Gooch hopes to do the same this year.

There will be a preview of all items up for auction at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 12 at the country club.

Anyone is welcome to attend the preview and place a sealed bids on anything that catches their eye, MacArthur said. "There's no guarantee they won't be out-bid by someone in the actual auction, but it's still worth a shot," MacArthur said.

Tickets for the event are $75 each and include dinner.

Knights of Columbus look to sell hall

By JULIE WITTHOFT
Editor

The Knights of Columbus Hall, a popular local event venue, may be sold this week.

"We are going to be in big money trouble if this sale doesn't go through," said Steve Seely, Grand Knight for the local Knights of Columbus. "We want to get things redirected to doing more good works without the constant financial and human resources drag of the building on the council's membership."

Seely said the Knights purchased the hall, located at 15144 Bell's Bay Road in Charlevoix, in 1994 from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for about $135,000. Since then, they have made about $150,000 in upgrades to the property including a new heating and ventilation system and paving of the parking lot.

Since buying the property which includes the 3,000 square foot building, they have lost money each year he said and over the last several years, thousands of dollars have been spent to keep the building.

"They bought the building with good intentions. And I don't think they were able to grasp the cash flow and management issues that come with a property like that," said Seely, who is in his fifth year as Grand Knight.

Expenses associated with the building and increased competition in terms of available rental properties are two factors Seely cited as contributors to the current situation.

This uphill battle led the membership to vote in favor of putting the property on the market on July 11 based on a recommendation from the group's Building Corporation Committee.

According to Knights member, Gabe Campbell, there are two offers on the table. One is from Dry Harbour Marine and the other is from Freedom House Ministries.

Seely would not confirm the offer the Knights will consider this Thursday, Aug. 10, but did say the purchase amount being presented is $310,000.

The only hall debt hanging over the heads of local Knights is a loan for just under $40,000 used for parking and heating system improvements.

If the sale isn't approved, Seely said the state body that regulates Knights of Columbus chapters may get involved. He explained that according to the group's charter, that building must operate at a break even or profit point to be maintained.

"By constitution, the Knights of Columbus Council cannot operate in a negative cash flow," he said.

While Dick Brown, Grand Knight for the Petoskey chapter of the Knights of Columbus claims their facility is able to break even with rentals, Seely said the local numbers are way too low.

For 2006 the Charlevoix hall is booked for 12-14 events. Seely said this falls far short of the 45-50 rental events needed for the club to break even.

Since the Knights took ownership of the building they have used it as a group headquarters from where monthly meetings are conducted and as an event location for their cash party, sportsmen's dinner and awards dinner. It is also available to rent for events like weddings and other gatherings.

Seely said if the sale goes through, the group will discuss its future meeting and event space opportunities as well as how the proceeds from the sale will be handled this week.

The Charlevoix Knights of Columbus Hall, pictured above, located at 15144 Bell's Bay Road has been a losing investment for the local Catholic service organization since it was purchased in 1994. In order for the sale to go through, 51 percent of the group's 93 members must vote in favor of selling it on Aug. 10.

While many of the group's 93 Knights continue to support keeping the hall Seely hopes the majority will back the sale.

"The Knights of Columbus is not a building. It's an organization and that organization is not successful because of that building. It's successful because of the people we have and the things we do," Seely said.

Knights of Columbus is a Catholic service organization. The local chapter serves five area Catholic parishes including Charlevoix, East Jordan, Central Lake, Bellaire and Ellsworth.

The five groups they target with support are community youth; the community itself; parishioners of the five communities they represent; families; and the Knights of Columbus Council.

"If the sale goes through it will be a win, win for Charlevoix and for the council itself," Seely said.

Van Houzen's wood sculptures featured at art fair

By ANNE KELLY
Special to the Courier

Michael Van Houzen, a Holland area resident who specializes in wood sculpture out of basswood, participates in about 15 shows a year and has been coming to Charlevoix for 25 years.

This artist lives just north of Holland, on two acres of land which encompasses a sand dune surrounded by woods, three ponds and a birdbath. From this environment, he gleams the subject matter for his carvings of songbirds and their wildlife surroundings.

"I began carving when I was 6 or 7 years old," Van Houzen said.

An early influence was his father who encouraged him to carve, duck decoys. Van Houzen started out sculpting ducks as a hobby but by 1976 decided to concentrate on songbirds. He has been sculpting songbirds and other wildfowl out of basswood since 1969 and has won numerous awards for his artistic ability.

When asked about his preference for wood as a medium, Van Houzen responded, "I like the feel of wood; I can be creative; I can make something realistic from raw material."

Basswood is stable, like pine, and provides the medium for creating his birds. Each feather is cut in separately and textured with a pyrographic pen. The birds are then painted with acrylic paint. Legs are shaped from copper and bronze wire and a natural habitat is created for each piece.

Van Houzen received his bachelor of fine arts degree from Eastern Michigan University. Upon graduation he worked in the design studios of Chrysler Corporation.

"You don't make a living out of doing this immediately," Van Houzen said. "It took a faithful wife with a good job to allow me to get this far. It takes five to 10 years before you make enough money to scrape by."

A long-time Waterfront Art Fair exhibitor, Van Houzen, considers this show to be the top exhibition in the north.

"I am impressed by the top quality of work shown and with the support shown by local patrons," he said at the conclusion of last year's show.

Van Houzen most recently has won awards at the Ohio Decoy Collectors Carving Competition in Westlake, Ohio, Last November. Van Houzen exhibited at the Eastern Waterfowl Festival in Easton, Md.

Pastel, oils artist Malloy returns to art fair

By ANNE KELLY
Special to the Courier

Pastel/oils artist, Clare Malloy, of Chicago, Ill., will be a returning exhibitor in this year's Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

It may pique Art Fair enthusiasts' curiosity to learn that Malloy has expanded her repertoire to include landscapes. Last year, she displayed still lifes, figures and the flowers, influenced by the art of Japanese flower arranging, for which she has been known. Even though realistic landscapes are difficult in the sense of "flirting with anachronism or worse, sentimentality," Malloy chose to give it a whirl.

"The poet John Keats said, 'The poetry of the earth is ceasing never,' and I believe this is true," Malloy said. "Nowadays, a pretty picture is a kiss of death in the art world, but Keats wasn't afraid of beauty, and neither am I."

With this mantra, Malloy captures that beauty in her simplistic pastel landscapes rendered on rice paper. The pictures have an ethereal quality that collectors may find refreshing.

"I have chosen to work with pastel on rice paper (for the most part) as the combination lends itself to a novel approach to the landscape: the colors can be mixed in full directly on the surface. The broken surface creates borderless, abstract planes of space. And the best part is that the fibrous paper implies the palpable quality of rural environment. Anyone who has been in a cornfield in July knows what I'm talking about," Malloy explained.

Malloy earned master's degrees in art and fine arts from the University of Wisconsin at Madison and a bachelor of fine arts graduating magna cum laude from Providence College.

Her work is represented by Tory Folliard of the Tory Folliard Gallery in Milwaukee, Wis., where Malloy will have a gallery show in October. Malloy, who shares a studio with her husband, a print maker, engages in about nine shows a year.

For a preview of Malloy's work, visit www.claremalloy.com.

Gary Stretar introduces oil paintings

Courtesy photo

This depiction of a country barn is one of the many oil paintings artist Gary Stretar has added to his array of watercolor works. His pieces will be on display this weekend at the Waterfront Art Fair.

By ANNE KELLY
Special to the Courier

This year, participating artist Gary Stretar, will be introducing some landscapes done in oils to complement the watercolors collectors have seen from his palette in the 10 years he has been showing at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

"I really look forward to Charlevoix as it is always one of my best shows," said Stretar. "My wife and child also look forward to going to the show with me. It is such a beautiful area. It is a great show, easily the best one-day show in which I exhibit. I am impressed by the quality of art."

Stretar travels when he participates in shows from Philadelphia to Kansas, and makes pictures, sketching along the way, everything from prairie plateaus in Kansas to salt marshes in Massachusetts. The rural landscapes of New England, the Midwest, and the regions around the Great Lakes have served as inspiration for his renderings.

"My techniques in oil are somewhat similar to those used in watercolor. I use thin washes for my sky and water in the first stage, then sketch the composition in a more opaque blend of color and finally use thick paint and dry brush in finishing each painting," Stretar explained.

For more information on Stretar's work visit www.garystretar.com.

Pointes North Inn gets platinum face-lift

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Editor

From flat screen TV's and fireplaces to cushy robes and plush bedding, the new Pointes North Inn offers platinum standard accommodations with the fit and finish discerning travelers are looking for.

"We found a need in Charlevoix for something of this quality. Before, vacationers had to go to Bay Harbor or the Mountain Grand Lodge (in Boyne Falls)," said Rik Lobenherz, co-owner of Vacations Properties Network who is heading up the renovation and real estate portion of the Pointes North Inn overhaul.

Changes at the established condominium complex, located at 101 Michigan Avenue just north of the bridge in downtown Charlevoix, began on April 1 when a new management company and development group took over the reigns.

Tom and Jean Pfeifle, co-owners of Northern Quarters Management who also manage the Weatherlane Terrace Inn and Suites, are the new Pointes North Inn management team.

Tom Pfeifle is also actively working with Lobenherz on the real estate and renovation project.

Pfeifle said that while he is managing two side-by-side properties geared at attracting vacationers, he doesn't feel they'll compete because of their differences. The 70-unit Weatherlane Terrace Inn which offers hotel rooms and suites, also recently underwent renovations and was brought up to a gold standard, while the new Pointes North project will take vacation living to the next level, he explained.

"Many vacationers come from very affluent areas and had no place to stay with the fit and finish they are used to. People want at minimum what they have at home," Pfeifle said. "This boutique type of hotel doesn't exist here right now."

Pointes North Inn, built in 1985, has had limited updates to its central shared areas and 24 units — 12 one-bedroom and 12 two-bedroom — in its 20 years.

Thus far, three of the units have been totally revamped at a cost of $50,000 each. Kathryn Lobenherz, interior designer and owner of Kitchens by Kathryn, handled the furnishings. All three are for sale.

"They are the first units requested," Pfeifle said of their rental status.

Peak tourist season pricing for a one-bedroom platinum unit is $225 per night and $325 for the two-bedroom. During the shoulder seasons, prices drop to $125 per night for the one-bedroom and $150 for the two-bedroom.

Over the next two years, Pfeifle and Lobenherz plan to continue by remodeling 16 more Pointes North condos as well as refurbishing the building's exterior.

As available units sell, new owners will be included in the upgrade process. While the group is offering full ownership, they are also selling quarter share ownership. Under this arrangement, the owner is given 13 weeks to either use or rent the unit for income — two of those weeks are back-to-back during the summer months and the balance fall on every fourth week the rest of the year.

Quarter share ownership of a renovated two-bedroom unit is $79,000.

Other Pointes North amenities include newly renovated common areas, an indoor/outdoor public pool, a conference room, exercise room and gaming area.

Long-term plans include a day spa

Pajtas upholds legality of smoking ban

By FRED GRAY
Petoskey News-Review
Staff writer

You can throw away your cigarettes and stow the gas mask: The four-county workplace smoking ban is now legal.

Charlevoix Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas Wednesday, Aug. 2, upheld the authority of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Department to adopt a workplace smoking regulation that applies to Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim and Osego counties.

The regulation has already been approved by all four counties, and health officer Jerry Chase said after the ruling that the regulation is in effect and will be enforced as necessary.

Pajtas' ruling came in a lawsuit filed by five citizens who argued that the state Legislature had pre-empted the authority of local health departments to regulate smoking.

He said the issue raised in the case was narrowly limited to one of pre-emption and did not include arguments over the dangers of second-hand smoke or government interference in individual rights.

Attorneys for both sides said they expected the test-case decision to be appealed all the way to the Michigan Supreme Court.

"This case is exceedingly important statewide," said health department attorney Jim Young. Young said that although he had no direct evidence, he believed the plaintiffs had the secret backing of tobacco companies, a charge plaintiffs' attorney Sam Frederick firmly denied.

Young said he believed the plaintiffs had selected a small, rural Northern Michigan county to test the authority of health departments throughout the state, because the plaintiffs believed the local agency had neither the resources nor the will to withstand a legal challenge, as larger counties might have.

He noted that a number of other county health departments had passed similar regulations without challenge, although the Northwest Michigan Health Department was the first multi-county agency to pass such a ban.

Plaintiff Scott Way of Way Transportation said today he had no comment on the ruling. Other plaintiffs included Kent A. McNeil, Franklin E. Fisher, Roger Griffen and Jeff Legato.

Chase said the ruling was evidence that the legal process had worked.

"We had excellent counsel and advice," Chase said. "We thought the regulation was something required by the situations created by second-hand smoke and that we were bound to fulfill our responsibility in accordance with law.

"I was badly mistaken when I thought this would be something that would be hard to convince our county commissions that we needed. It was passed almost unanimously in three of the four counties."

The Charlevoix County board had initially adopted the regulation but exempted the county from enforcement. After Connie Saltonstall won a special election to the 1st District, the issue was raised again and a vote to exempt the county failed by a 3-3 vote.

Fred Gray can be contacted at (231) 439-9374, or fgray@petoskeynews.com.

Rod and Gun Club draws 123 shooters to tourney

This year's Great Lakes Championship took place July 29 and 30 at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Target setters Ray Jones and John Clevenger started planning the course layout in early spring for the 123 main event entries. Shooters were treated to a fun filled weekend with various presentations of clay targets and family activities.

Saturday, July 29, produced beautiful weather for the 100 bird preliminary event, which drew 97 competitors. Competing were Master Class shooter Tom Mack, of Grand Rapids, who edged out his brother Dan Mack by five targets to take High Over All Honors. AA Class went to Mick Carver of Clio. A Class went to local shooter Dr. Carl Harlan and Mike Oakley of Grant Township. B Class went to Russ Gooden of Prudenville, and C Class went to Barry Williams of Britton. D Class was won by Bill Long of Ontario. E Class went to Jeff Knoblauch of Sycania, Ohio. Hunter Class was won by Jack Watters of Rapid River. Lady honors went to Mollie La Croix of Sterling Heights. Veteran Champion was Barry Williams, and Sub Junior Champion was Doug Lovell of Clinton Township.

Sunday's main event started off with dark skies looming over the lake. This sent the crew on a mission to cover the traps to protect the clay targets and still allow the machines to launch the birds.

All 13 stations had shooters testing their skills at the various types of targets from subtle angles and in your face appearances, to long crossing target and high towers. With four stations to go in the morning rotation Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club was dealt another challenge in the weather department — lightning. With lightning in the sky the call was made to stop the shoot and pull all the shooters and the Boy Scouts that were trapping off the course for safety reasons. During the hour delay the club used the down time to draw for door prizes made available by numerous area business sponsors.

The afternoon rotation started an hour behind schedule with blue skies and rising temperatures. Snooker, Long Bird and 5 Stand were all in full swing making for a full day of shooting.

Shooters were treated to burgers and brats on Saturday with Tom Rankl's grilled lemon chicken and locally grown Kiteley's sweet corn and the fixings on Sunday.

The scores were totaled up for Sunday's main event after a few shoot offs. Awards were handed out to the following individuals. Mike Mix, of Manton, was High Overall Champion; Darin Holman, of Hudsonville, took AA Class Champion; Dr. Carl Harlan, of Boyne City, took A Class Champion; Ed Mathews, of Jeddo, took B Class; Jim Newell, of Vanderbilt, took C Class; Bill Long, from Ontario, took D Class; and Mike Smith, of Dearborn, took E Class; Dennis Norman of Manton, won Hunter's Class; Lady Champion went to Mollie La Croix; Sub Junior Champion went to Douglas Lovell; Junior Champion was Daniel Williams, of Redford; Veteran Champion was Duane Hartman, of Frankenmuth; Senior Veteran Champion was Gerald Perzyk, of Clarkston.

The club is open to the public at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. For more information, contact the club at (231) 547-2785 or (231) 547-0554. Lessons are available.

warning calls on utilities to help conserve power to reduce demand.

Swem said he feels the warnings issued by the Midwest Independent Transmission Operator were sent out too soon and the region wasn't that close to its peak use.

However, the warnings were taken seriously. Swem said if Charlevoix were to reach that peak load, power use would have to be cut in one of three ways.

The first approach would be to initiate a brownout. In this scenario, instead of the power being cut off altogether, the voltage is reduced by a certain percentage to all customers — the resulting dimming of electric lights being the origin of the term "brownout." Swem said it wouldn't impact typical customer use and air conditioning units would still run.

The second would be discussions with local manufacturing plants, the city's largest power users, to see if they would shut down to save power. And the third would be the rolling blackout — temporary removal of a circuit of houses.

"Hopefully that never happens," Swem said.

For years, California has made headlines with its rolling blackouts. While customers and onlookers may assume these blackouts are a sort of unexplained power outage, they are actually done on purpose. Power distributors cut the juice when they don't have enough supply to meet prevailing demand for electricity.

While some City of Charlevoix electric customers cooled off during last week's heat wave like these East Jordan teens, most kicked air conditioning units into overdrive bringing the city's electric system near its peak. Conditions like this could result in rolling blackouts.

While Charlevoix dodged the blackout bullet last week, if temperatures climb back into the 90s, its looming shadow may return.

According to Kevin Sullivan, a meteorologist for the Gaylord station of the National Weather Service, heat was building back up in the Central Plains region last week.

"That warm air could surge back in," he said. "We still have a long way to go this summer. I wouldn't rule out another hot spell."

Swem added that the peak use should not have a significant impact on hills.

Schools: No place for Myspace

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

You may not be the parent of Amber, a 14-year-old from Colorado seductively posing online in her underwear, but chances are, your teenager has a Myspace.com web page.

Type www.myspace.com into the address bar on your Web browser, click on the "Browse" button and within seconds the images and information of over 100 million adults and children is only a mouse click away.

"I find it really disturbing," said father and school board member,

Dean Spenceley.

While some use Myspace to share photos of themselves, others including Charlevoix students, use the service to stay in contact with family and friends.

Charlevoix School District technology coordinator, Scott Mays, said Myspace.com has been on a list of Internet destinations banned from use by students for most of last school year.

"It wasn't prompted based on a change in policy," Mays said. "It's actually part of a filter list we subscribe to from Surfcontrol."

Surfcontrol (www.surfcontrol.com) is a company which blocks sites customers feel are inappropriate for their clientele, in this case school officials concerned for student safety.

During the interview, Mays typed Myspace.com into Surfcontrol's filter list to illustrate how he checks to see if a Web site is on the banned list.

"Myspace is listed as personals/dating and is grouped with other sites that fall into personals and dating, so it's blocked," he said.

According to Northwest Academy co-administrator, Gary Stutzman, his school has no official policy banning Myspace.com, but the administration has ways of keeping kids safe.

"The kids can only get on for educational purposes. That's how we deal with that," he said. "We have a monitoring system to check to make sure they're not in a site they're not supposed to be in."

He added, "It's something we're continuously addressing and working on — it never stops."

Dean said a friend of his from California contacted the local's daughter through Myspace.com after recognizing her last name.

"Because she put an older age in there, he asked if she was my sis-

Compromise reached on current library property

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

The Charlevoix Public Schools and library boards officially agreed on a compromise to the long-contested 109 Clinton St. property.

At their Monday, Aug. 14 meeting, school board members unanimously supported an agreement to split the proceeds from the property upon its sale.

"We've been talking all summer long, and we finally decided we were going to try to work through this issue," said school board president, Bill Trubilowicz. "I feel good. It's another one of these things that we need to get behind us."

Spurred by committees charged with finding solvency in the matter, this agreement came days after the library board passed a similar resolution.

"At this point, what we're trying to do is sell the property," said library director, Valerie Meyerson. "We all agreed to move forward in this direction."

She added, "The Saltonstall heirs agreed to work with us to clear the title so we could have a clear title to sell the property."

The committees, consisting of several board members and an administrator from each board, met several times throughout the last nine or so months.

Trubilowicz said it has been clear from the beginning that no one wanted ill feelings to continue over the issue.

"Nobody wanted it to come down to some sort of court battle and wasting money on attorneys," he said. "So we said, 'What's the best way we can work through this?' We got to a mutual point, and that's where we're at."

He added, "Connie Saltonstall had a lot of input on this and she moved from her original position, so everybody gave a little bit."

The 50-50 split will be reduced by whatever it costs to maintain the building until sale.

"You've got to keep the building heated while it's for sale so there's going to be some maintenance costs," Trubilowicz said. "What the library has been good enough to do is to pay for those maintenance costs up front. And then, when it comes to the point of splitting the money, we'll pay our half of the maintenance costs out of the money we get for the building."

A clause in the contract states that, after a year without sale, the agreement can be reevaluated.

"I'm still interested in the potential in us having offices in the library building, but I understand that they need to get into their building," Trubilowicz said. "But, it could help us with operating costs. We could work out a nice little agreement. We could use that wonderful multimedia center for the board meetings."

Library, school district to split property sale 50-50

Early estimates show the library and school spent $4,000 and $2,400 in attorney fees respectively over the matter.

And, while he is borderline ecstatic over the deal, Trubilowicz said the biggest winner is the taxpayer.

"The two boards will be working closer to disposition of the building without costing them (taxpayers) any more money," he said. "If we sell the building and we both clear $350,000, then that's $350,000 for their operating budget and the same amount in our operating budget."

He added, "We still have to work on our issue of wanting to improve our central offices, but this gives us some more flexibility."

The property, in ownership limbo since plans to relocate the library were overshadowed by the discovery of mishandled paperwork, was recently appraised at $720,000.

The boards of trustees of both Charlevoix Public Schools and the Charlevoix Public Library have opted to end the ownership feud over the library's current facility at 109 Clinton St. (above) by agreeing to split proceeds from its sale.

Punishment of vandals doesn't fit the crime

EDITORIAL

Just what does it take to get a proverbial slap on the wrist for breaking the law?

We didn't expect the culprits who broke into Charlevoix High School and damaged the place in May to be sent to Old Sparky for their crimes, but deferred sentences? C'mon.

Some liken the act to a prank. Putting a whoopee cushion on someone's chair is a prank — causing nearly $5,000 worth of damage is a crime.

A lawyer defended some of the Rayder raiders by saying the, "kids" don't deserve a lifelong criminal record over $700 worth of water damage. She must have forgotten about the $4,000 it cost to re-key the place.

The majority of these, "kids" were 18 or older — old enough to go off to war, old enough to be accountable for their actions.

Will letting these kids off without serious consequences unbalance the universe? Not likely. But, just like allowing these lawbreakers to walk during graduation after being told contrarily, they are reminded that they are above rules, regulations and the law. While this case of premeditated vandalism wasn't the end of the world, it wasn't exactly the same as throwing a rock through the window of old man Johnson's candy store.

Let's remember, these people conspired and succeeded to steal a master key and make copies of it, illegally enter a building, commit malicious destruction of property and theft.

What of the aftermath now that the precedent has been set? What is the incentive for next year's graduating class not to perform some outrage in a building funded by you and us?

If the damage from tomfoolery on public property is the same next time, and there will be a next time, then the culprits should receive a sentence equal to this one.

Fair is fair. So listen up, graduating class of 2007, senior antics are supposed to be clever and humorous. Then again, if you can't come up with anything good, you can always fall back on a destruction budget of $4,500.

Chlorophyll, it's more than a breath freshener

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

The natural world we see around us every day is predominantly green.

Why and how it is green is a question that had no answers until about a century ago. When teaching botany, I commonly had my students extract the green color from different plants — slimy algae from a pond, mosses or lichens from damp tree bark, ferns, pine trees and spinach. At least a few of the students were surprised to find that each of those very different plants contained exactly the same green pigment. Not just something green, but precisely the same 137 atoms arranged in exactly the same way. The pigment is called chlorophyll, and it's found in abundance in every green plant on earth. One of its near chemical relatives is part of the hemoglobin molecule, source of the red color of our blood. When we supply nutrients for plants one of the absolute requirements is magnesium. There is a single atom of magnesium in the center of every chlorophyll molecule. Without the magnesium it isn't chlorophyll and it doesn't work. The work of chlorophyll in plants is to intercept light and convert it to a tiny bit of electricity. The plant uses this electricity along with air and water to feed itself and make nearly all the food that feeds most animals on earth, ourselves included. Chlorophyll, it turns out, is considerably more than a breath freshener.

Up to now, no scientist has been able to artificially manage the makeup of food from sunlight, air and water, but plants of many sorts have been accomplishing that for several billion years.

If we make any association at all, we are likely to associate the color green with St. Patrick's Day. We could clearly broaden our interest in green. Without the green of chlorophyll there would be no life at all, or only the life found in some deep-sea volcanic vents, where there are other kinds of chemical magic going on.

The thousands of slightly different greens that we see in plants — the greens that make it possible to tell the difference between oak trees and maple trees — are the product of chlorophyll plus dozens of other pigments. Even those maple trees with red leaves are green underneath it all. Pick off a red leaf sometime and boil it in water for a few minutes. The red dissolves and you have a bright green leaf. The brilliant green of spinach leaves when boiled briefly is at least partly the product of some of the non-green pigments dissolving away. None of those other pigments have the unique ability of chlorophyll to capture light and convert it to food.

Chlorophyll was invented by some of the earliest algae in the fossil record, more than a billion years ago, and it is still probably the best idea that plants ever had. Next time you walk about in our northern Michigan world, say a silent "thank you" to chlorophyll for making life on earth possible. Without it earth would still be a barren ball of rock.

Clear shelves, stock pantry

Editor: On behalf of the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry Board, I would like to once again remind our summer-time residents and visitors that, when they are thinking of packing up and leaving our beautiful city for warmer winter climates, they might remember us when cleaning out cupboards and pantries.

There has been a great demand on the pantry this year, and if you are looking for a place to donate your leftover canned goods and non-perishable food items or cleaning supplies and paper products, we would be so grateful to receive them. We only ask that the items be unused and unopened.

This is a good solution to the final cleaning up of homes and cottages when many are left wondering what to do with items left over from your summer visit. It is also a tax-deductible item, and we will be glad to furnish you with a statement if you leave us a winter address.

'Thanks' soccer supporters

Editor: On behalf of the Charlevoix High School girls' soccer team we would like to express our gratitude and sincere appreciation to all the community members and businesses who have supported us this past season at games and with our fundraising attempts.

The Venetian 3 on 3 Soccer Tournament was again very successful, but we couldn't do it without the help of area businesses and Randy Holeczek and the Charlevoix Township workers who always have the fields game ready.

On another note, we would also like to wish Jim Kanine good luck in his new position. Jim was awesome to work with as athletic director and we will miss his insight and dedication to the athletes.

Fabulous fireworks

Editor: This year's Venetian fireworks were fabulous, better than ever. But the pyrotechnic display on Aug. 1, was even more fabulous. What a wonderful storm that was, and how nice of Charlevoix to welcome the August visitors who might have missed Venetian weekend. Summer time in Charlevoix is wonderful.

Change is part of life

Editor: I am a teacher at St. Mary's School in Charlevoix. I was very disappointed in your article regarding the year of turmoil as your title suggested (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil").

There are always parishioners, in every parish, who are upset when a new pastor comes to town. Things are not done the same, they no longer have the control they once had, whatever. St. Mary's has had changes occur, but for most people change is a part of life. I have been teaching at St. Mary's for 14 years and I have seen lots of change. Imagine all the changes that have taken place in the last 100 years. Do you think everyone has been in agreement with all those changes? I doubt it. Does that mean they resign or had mouth the parish or school? No is the answer for most people. Most people try to get along, realizing that God made each of us unique, with our own strengths and talents. Isn't that what we teach our children? I think it is time to stop acting like children and try to get along.

St. Mary's School is moving forward in a positive light. We have a new principal and a qualified, dedicated staff. It is too bad some people don't feel they can move with us. For them I am sorry. St. Mary's has been a great school for the past 100 years and it will continue for the next 100 years.

The turmoil is over. No action needs to be taken to "calm the waters." The waters are calmed — the disgruntled people have gone to Boyne City or East Jordan. The other parishioners who continue to pack the church each week speak loud and clear to me.

Some points and questions not answered in your article:

— What programs does Scott McDonald refer to that have been canceled?

— The school principal is in charge of renewing school staff contracts. What does the school secretary or teacher contract not being renewed have to do with Fr. Jerry?

— Did you confirm with the parents who "were asked by church and school officials to write erroneous letters stating Sape's performance was poor?" She has taught both my children and no one asked me to write anything.

— Fr. Jerry is loved by the children of St. Mary's. Ask them if they like going to Mass and they will tell you they love it.

St. Mary turmoil doesn't exist

Editor: As a parishioner I was unable to believe why this article (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil") was ever written in a "news" paper for the interest of the public. I was angered and appalled at the inferences made from the information and some interviews provided to Mr. Gohs from those who had their own personal agendas. The situation as implied in Mr. Gohs' article and stated in the title simply doesn't exist.

With any normal new replacement of leadership comes change — some overdue, some new. Unfortunately, there are those who receive any change with difficulty and trepidation instead of attempting to comply and then discussing any problems. As a Catholic community and parish, we pray for peace and reconciliation for those experiencing difficulties with any level of community activity. Religious beliefs and participation in a community parish are both private and social experiences — there are always those who join and those who leave due to their own internal value systems and comfort levels. This is true of any religious community and denomination.

St. Mary's parish is thriving and untroubled as witnessed by the overflow of attendance at Mass and the participation in parish and school activities. We continue to pray for our parish well-being as well as for all those experiencing problems in this world.

Story not newsworthy

Editor: We are absolutely appalled at the Courier's printing of the article about St. Mary's Church and Fr. Jerry Hunko (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). We would think that a newspaper would have some shred of journalistic integrity and decency and realize that the article was not something newsworthy for the entire community. Who is affected by this situation except Catholic parishioners who, incidentally, were already aware of it? We would like to know your justification for printing it.

Also, we would like to know if you are planning a weekly or monthly article about other churches in town.

St. Mary story one-sided

Editor: (Reference page 4 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "Courier to bring readers a new look") You state you are dedicated to offering readers a reliable, quality product. However, when I read page 10 about St. Mary's Church (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"), it was apparent that you failed to meet your goal.

Your reporter who wrote this article should have known that he was going to end up with a one-sided story. Churches, no matter what denomination, do not hang their laundry out for inspection and this is the way it should be. With this article you have lowered your paper's status to that of a rag publication such as the "National Enquirer" and "Globe."

If you are having a hard time finding stories to print, I'll give you a few leads. Send your young reporter to the court house to find out why the (Charlevoix County Board of) commissioners want to hire an administrator when most of the people that work there work for an elected official and they will do their work the way that person directs and not the way an administrator tells them. Then he can hop right down the street to the new Charlevoix Public Library and find out how they are going to operate that large building on their current budget.

Is there another tax increase waiting in the shadows? He'll have to get on his bike now and head up to the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency to find out why they are working on regulations to stick their noses into citizens' septic tanks when health of Reaction to the article "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil," printed on page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Charlevoix Courier has included numerous letters to the editor printed in e-mails, on paper and even on this dirty sock sent in the mail by Janis Dietrich. It reads, "You missed this in your gossip column about St. Mary's." Letters not printed in this week's edition due to space constraints will appear in the Aug. 23 edition of the Courier.

There you have it. Three possible stories concerning politics, taxes and health. If you have trouble getting the information you need, then file Freedom of Information Act requests. Your paper has only one direction to go now, and that is up because last week you hit Fr. Jerry and the parishioners of St. Mary's below the belt.

Fr. Hunko is a leader

Editor: It was with great interest that I read the article about St. Mary's Church and our pastor, Father Jerry Hunko. It is not surprising that a small group of people would try to raise dissent in our parish, since they are no longer running it.

Having lived in Charlevoix for the past 25 years, it is only now that I have formally become a parishioner at Saint Mary's Church and it is because of Fr. Jerry. He is a leader with a clear vision for our parish. More importantly, he is a caring, compassionate man who preaches love, forgiveness and tolerance for all people.

I feel blessed, honored and fortunate to have Fr. Jerry as my spiritual leader.

Church business should be private

Editor: This is my first letter to the editor of any newspaper. As a parishioner of St. Mary's Church, I feel the need to express my opinion on the Aug. 9 article by Benjamin Gohs "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil."

I will begin by saying that I have lived in Charlevoix for about 10 years but am here only seasonally. Therefore my involvement in parish workings is limited. I am however refreshed to attend Fr. Jerry Hunko's services at St. Mary's.

I was aware of some conflict upon the change from Fr. Neis to Fr. Hunko. Such dissent may and does often occur when leadership changes in any organization. A hint of this conflict surfaced when I received a personal letter last winter from one of the staff announcing her resignation.

Also Fr. Hunko has been repeatedly praying for "peace in the parish" during weekend Masses. Beyond that I have had no knowledge of what Mr. Gohs has reported...until now. Well thanks to the Courier, all of Charlevoix is aware of differences of opinion about the operational challenges of St. Mary's Church.

The reasons for administration and program changes at St. Mary's should be private to that organization. St. Mary's is a church of God. Its purpose is to give honor and service to God and community. Even without comment from the Diocese of Gaylord or Fr. Hunko, that intent is understood.

The article written by Benjamin Gohs has damaged the reputation of a fine church and school. I would classify this article as gossip and not news. I believe that the Charlevoix Courier has overstepped its bounds and owes an apology to St. Mary's parish.

Wedding

MacArthur — Schuiling

Karen MacArthur, daughter of Bruce and Barbara MacArthur of Charlevoix and Hilton Head, S.C., recently married Bill Schuiling of Charlevoix and Washington, DC.

The Schuiling's flew the wedding party in their private jet to their home on St. John's in the Virgin Islands for a surprise wedding.

Karen wore a traditional silk island wedding ensemble with a traditional island head wreath of orchids, which signifies eternal happiness. Bill wore a traditional island grape tree marriage wreath, which signifies long life and many joys.

The attendants were two maids of honor, Karen's sister, Lori, and Karen's daughter, Morgan. Bill's two best men were Tim Kochanny, of Charlevoix, and U.S. Senator-at-Large Craig Barshinger of the Virgin Islands. In attendance were Bill's twin sister, Barbara, and her family, as well as, other guests from all over the country.

The Schuiling's were married in a traditional island ceremony on a volcano bluff overlooking the famous Drake's Passage.

The couple honeymooned at the Rockefeller Resort in Caneel Bay and will be spending the remainder of their honeymoon in Paris and the French Coastal area of Normandy.

The newlyweds will be spending the majority of their time at their home, "Chateau Sandpiper," overlooking Lake Michigan in Charlevoix.

Road proposals crash at election

ELECTION 2006

By BENJAMIN GOHIS
Staff writer

Two road millage proposals, one county-wide, the other within a township, failed to pass at the Tuesday, Aug. 8 primary election.

While road commission officials are unsure what their next step will be, the elected heads of Peaine Township on Beaver Island haven't given up on a 1-mill road maintenance millage.

"We're going to put it up in November and try again. We have over 73 miles of county road just in our township," said Peaine Township supervisor, John W. Works Jr. "We have more county roads in Peaine, per township, than any other township in Charlevoix County, and they can always stand improvement."

He added, "We'll try it again. All they can say is 'no.'"

The millage, which failed 60 to 45, was in addition to the existing millage which was renewed 78 to 29. The failed six-year, 1-mill proposal would have been in addition to the passed renewal which restored .1164 mills to an existing .8836 mills for a total of 1 mill annually for five years.

With more and more vehicles on the road, and the rising cost of materials, the Charlevoix County Road Commission doesn't have enough money in their budget to keep up with certain areas of maintenance, Works said.

"We in the township have to pay for our own dust control and our own gravel," he said. "If we pay for dust control, then they'll (road commission) apply it."

He added that his township must raise the money to maintain the many miles of gravel road.

"The roads are so old they need to be filled. You need a lot of gravel to do that," he said.

Works blames low voter turnout in the primary election for the millage's failure to pass.

"It was only 15 votes that it was down by, so we figured we'd give it another shot," he said. "There will be a lot more people coming out in the general election."

The same fate was realized by the five-year county-wide road construction and maintenance millage proposal which failed by a close margin — 1659 no votes to 1501 yes votes.

When asked what happens now, Charlevoix County Road Commission manager, Pat Harmon, said he isn't quite sure.

"The problem still exists," he said. "I thought it would pass. Roads have always been a very important issue to a lot of people in the county and I thought it was a very good proposal."

"I figured it would be close, but the public has spoken. The voters said, 'No,' so I'm not sure what we'll do — you're guess is as good as mine."

One reason Works feels the county-wide road millage failed, and why he didn't support it, is that Peaine Township has far more gravel than primary roads.

"There was no guarantee that the money would go to the areas (specified)," he said. "I didn't see that, if I supported it (county-wide road millage), that it would eventually come to me. It's a big county. There are a lot of townships, and we're 32 miles out in the lake."

Harmon reminded county residents who await funding from the state and federal level, "Any money we get from the federal or state government, some taxpayer in this country has paid for it. It'll all have to be done with tax dollars, and I don't see any money in the near future."

Harmon doesn't know how many years will pass before funding for new projects comes Charlevoix's way.

"So, we'll have to patch them and make the best with what we can," he said.

Though dismayed by the future of roads in the county, Harmon emphasized services such as mowing near and plowing of primary roads will continue.

"This millage wasn't for routine maintenance. This was to put black-top down and fix things up pretty nice," he said. "A lot of people that talked to me (were) supportive and very positive."

Harmon said opponents of the proposal ranged from those who questioned whether all revenue avenues had been researched, to people who were simply against any form of tax increase.

The other township millage proposals and renewals are as follows:

- The two-year, 1-mill Eveline Township road millage proposal passed 122 to 68.

- The four-year, 1-mill Norwood Township road millage proposal passed 54 to 46.

- The four-year, .5-mill Norwood emergency services millage proposal passed 79 to 21.

- The four-year, 2-mill Peaine Township rural health center millage renewal proposal 83 to 23.

- The five-year Peaine Township airport millage renewal proposal passed 71 to 35.

- The four-year, 1-mill Peaine Township, Beaver Island District Library millage proposal passed 87 to 19.

- The four-year, 1-mill St. James Township fire protection millage proposal passed 77 to 12.

- The four-year, 2-mill St. James Township medical center millage proposal 68 to 21.

- The four-year, 2-mill St. James Township road construction and maintenance millage proposal passed 71 to 16.

- The four-year 1-mill St. James Township, Beaver Island District Library millage proposal passed 66 to 23.

Pool auction nets $53,000

(Above) Patty Sitzma and Sandy Allard, members of the Charlevoix Area Community Pool Board of Directors, check out Joan Buday of Charlevoix and Katie Stone, also a member of the board, at the close of the Charlevoix Area Community Pool Auction, Aug. 13. The auction netted about $53,000 for pool operations and programs. Over 200 people attended the event held at the Charlevoix Country Club. The biggest seller was an eight-person South African Safari vacation on a 231,000 acre game preserve which was sold for over $4,000. Arriving late was a 3-foot chocolate rabbit donated by Bill and Karen Schuiling which was part of the Gift for Love Camp Quality package. Al Gooch, who is lifeguarding at Camp Quality this week, will bring the sweet treat to be shared among campers this week. Other gifts of love purchased by auction attendees include swim lessons for middle and high school students and swim sessions for Bergmann Center attendees.

Law enforcement step up drinking and driving patrol

To ensure the safety of motorists taking advantage of summer's final travel weeks, law enforcement officers across Michigan are stepping up enforcement during a statewide drunk driving blitz.

From Aug. 18 through Sept. 4, more than 500 Michigan law enforcement agencies are participating in the "You Drink & Drive, You Lose" drunk driving crackdown. This effort includes the Labor Day weekend, which typically marks the end of summer.

The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning is coordinating the enforcement effort by providing federal traffic safety funds to nearly 230 agencies in 55 counties to boost patrols in selected areas and by funding paid advertising to ensure widespread awareness of the crackdown.

"No matter what you drive — a car, truck, SUV or motorcycle — if you're caught driving drunk, you will be arrested," said Michael L. Prince, Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning division director. "Over the coming weeks, Michigan's law enforcement community will be out in force looking for and arresting drunk drivers."

During last year's Labor Day crackdown, more than 3,200 motorists were arrested for alcohol-related offenses.

In spite of the progress that has been made in reducing drunk driving, approximately 35 percent of all traffic fatalities in Michigan still involve alcohol and/or drugs. In 2005, 408 people died and 7,982 were injured in alcohol and/or drug-related crashes on Michigan roadways. Over the 2005 Labor Day holiday weekend, 14 people died in Michigan crashes. Five of those fatalities involved alcohol, according to the Michigan Department of State Police, Criminal Justice Information Center.

Motorists are reminded that if they catch a buzz, they should catch a ride, because the penalties are not worth the risk. Those convicted of a first drunk driving offense face up to 93 days in jail, up to a $500 fine, up to 360 hours of community service, six points on a driver's license and up to a 180 day license suspension.

In addition, convicted drunk drivers will be subject to a $1,000 fee or two consecutive years, for a total of $2,000 in additional costs. Anyone who refuses a breath test the first time is given an automatic one-year driver's license suspension.

Police departments, Sheriff's offices and Michigan State Police posts in Charlevoix and Emmet counties will receive federal traffic safety funding for overtime patrols in this crackdown.

Pine River Lane developers present new plan

By KRISTINA HUGHES
Petoskey News-Review
Staff writer

A new hotel resort development is seeking approval on Pine River Lane.

The Charlevoix Planning Commission approved plans for the Charlevoix Pointe Inn. The three-story hotel resort features 30 hotel units and 34 parking spaces.

"Everything is within the requirements and we don't need any variances. We can't really stop this," planning commissioner Francis Flanders said. "... But, is there any way we can make it prettier?"

The Charlevoix City Council will review the plan for 115 Pine River Lane at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 21. The property is owned by Julia Ann Bandfield, Randy Carey and Peter Carey and is part of the commercial service district. The developers, Travis Catt, of Catt Acquisitions of Gaylord and his partner Drew Spalding, did not request any variances. Doug Mansfield, an architect of Wells Mansfield Inc. of Traverse City, designed the project.

Mansfield said he is willing to work with staff to create a more aesthetically pleasing design fitting height requirements. The rooms are designed with 800 to 1,300 square feet with living quarters, kitchenettes and different bedroom configurations. The hotel features a lobby and registration area on the first floor. The parking is underground.

The commission's decision upset neighbors, who have concerns over the size and character of the development, setbacks and its potential

Who: Charlevoix Planning Commission
What: Approved plans for Charlevoix Pointe Inn
Where: 115 Pine River Lane, overlooking the Pine River Channel Zoning: C-1 Commercial
Project details: Three-story, 30-unit hotel, covering 70 percent of the 7 tenths-of-an-acre of land it sits on, with 34 parking spaces.
What's next: Charlevoix City Council will review the plan at 7 p.m. on Aug. 21 in council chambers at city hall.

impact on traffic.

According to the traffic study by Parsons Brinckerhoff Michigan Inc. in Detroit, the plan would have little impact on the surrounding roadways. The survey was conducted June 21.

Robert Grzech, of Running, Wise & Ford, who represents land owners who live in close proximity and oppose the plan, shared concerns over the intent of the hotel.

"If there is a private ownership there needs to be safeguards so it's not being used as a residency," Grzech said.

Last spring, the same parties opposed Mansfield's Rivulet Pointe resort/hotel development plan for a three-story, 12-unit condominium resort.

The planning commission approved the plan in April. The city council sent the plan back to the Zoning Board of Appeals. In May, the Zoning Board of Appeals tabled a decision on the Rivulet Pointe Development. The Zoning Board of Appeals ruled that the plan did not fit the city's hotel definition but questioned if the 12-unit condominium fit the city's definition of a motel. The board requested the developer to submit the condominium deeds and place a restriction for residency.

After the meetings the developer went back to the drawing board to design a plan that met the criteria for a hotel and fit the city's zoning ordinance.

"Our goal is to comply with the law," Nancy Carey said. "We applied again to make sure there won't be any gray areas."

Bandfield whose grandparents purchased the land in the late 1800s, hopes the resort will be a place for people to come stay, shop and dine downtown.

"I hope it will be an addition to Charlevoix," Bandfield said. "People love to come to Charlevoix."

But Jerry VanderVeen shares a different vision for the area to preserve the neighborhood's character.

"This is basically wall to wall. I think it's a poor use of this property. This is your waterfront. You only get one chance at this," he said.

Dry Harbour Motor Sports buys Knights hall

By JULIE WITTHOEF
Editor

Like many Knights of Columbus council's throughout Michigan, the local chapter has opted to sell its burdensome hall.

On Thursday, Aug. 10, the Knights council membership met in special session to decide the fate of their hall. Of those in attendance, 73.9 percent voted to accept the $310,000 sale agreement with owners of Dry Harbour Motor Sports, Barney Way and Scott Boss.

"It's a tremendous relief. This eliminates all that expense and gets us back to the basics of being a Knights of Columbus council and all the possibilities to do good works in the community that come with it," said Steve Seely, Grand Knight for the local Knights of Columbus.

He said this year, the Knights estimated a $38,000 loss associated with the hall. And last year they lost about $35,000.

Seely said the group's annual loss associated with the hall violates their charter, which states the building must operate at a break even or profit point to be maintained. If the sale hadn't gone through, Seely said the state body that regulates Knights of Columbus chapters may have confiscated the building to balance the books.

"The intent of councils has always been to be associated with the lead parish and to be a Christian, Catholic men's organization devoted to the betterment and good will of those around us. Why the buildings have crept up over the years is a sore spot with the Knights of Columbus national council," Seely said.

The local Knights aren't alone in selling their hall in the face of hefty mounting debt. Chapters in Bellaire and Grayling have also recently sold their halls.

File photo

On Aug. 10, the Knights of Columbus council voted in favor of selling its hall (pictured above), located off Bell's Bay Road, to Dry Harbour Motor Sports' owners Barney Way and Scott Boss for $310,000.

"It's not unique to Charlevoix. This has been going on across Michigan," he said.

Barney Way

The Knights purchased the hall, located at 15144 Bell's Bay Road in Charlevoix, in 1994 from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for about $135,000. Since then, they have made about $150,000 in upgrades to the property including a new heating and ventilation system and paving of the parking lot. The only hall debt hanging over their heads is a loan for just under $40,000 used for parking and heating system improvements.

Expenses associated with the building and increased competition in terms of available rental properties are two factors Seely cited as contributors to the current situation.

The property, which includes the 3,000 square foot building sitting on about two acres of land, will be transferred to Way and Boss no later than Oct. 31 following the Knights' annual Sportsman's Dinner. Sale of the building accessories like tables and chairs will take place prior to the close.

Way said he has rented the Knights property which fronts on U.S. 31 since 2001 for promotional use. His business, located next-door at 06357 U.S. 31, which specializes in sales and service of watercraft has parked boats and trailers there to publicize his products.

Future use of the property has not been determined. Way said the existing hall isn't the right size for storage and service — their interest is centered around the property.

"We are protecting our interest. We need the land. We are out of space where we are right now (four acres)," he explained.

The Knights have not determined their new group headquarters or how the proceeds from the sale will be handled.

Knights of Columbus is a Catholic service organization. The local chapter serves five area Catholic parishes including Charlevoix, East Jordan, Central Lake, Bellaire and Ellsworth.

For 2006, the Charlevoix hall is booked for 12-14 events. Seely said this falls far short of the 45-50 rental events needed for the club to break even.

Charlevoix area merchants will host their annual end of summer sidewalk sales on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 17-19 in downtown Charlevoix.

This three-day event is a shopper's bonanza as all participating merchants provide substantial reductions on their seasonal inventory.

Most merchants will sell wares on the sidewalk from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and inside after 5 p.m.

At the same time, shoppers can enjoy the fun and excitement of downtown Charlevoix.

Those merchants not located downtown will conduct their sales at their own locations.

Beemon earns the 2006 Peacebuilders award from Traverse League for Peace

JoAnne Beemon of Charlevoix was given the 2006 Hugh and Beatrice Henshaw Peacebuilders award by the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom.

Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom chairman, Bruce Sanderson, announced the award at the annual Hiroshima remembrance on Aug. 6 at Mineral Well Park in Petoskey.

Beemon earned the honor, in part, for her role in initiating weekly vigils since 2001 of Women in Black, a worldwide movement originated by women in Israel and Palestine who deplore violence and mourn its victims.

In announcing the award, Sanderson said, "She has stood for peace all her life, visibly on a street corner in Charlevoix, through rain, snow, blizzards and heat waves, since before the invasion of Iraq. In so doing, she has inspired others to work for peace and justice."

A committed activist, when nuclear power became an issue in Charlevoix, Beemon dedicated herself to learning everything possible about nuclear power and the functioning of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant itself. Her knowledge of nuclear plant safety led to her appointment on the Citizens Advisory Committee on the decommissioning of the plant.

Currently, she is a "driving force" on the Big Rock Point preservation committee dedicated to assuring that the 500 acres on Lake Michigan be preserved in its natural state for eventual public use.

Beemon established the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy which has protected a chain of lakes south of Her knowledge of water issues led to her election to the post of Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner as a Green Party candidate.

The Henshaws, two of the founders of the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom 26 years ago, established the award to recognize individuals whose goal it is to create a culture for peace. Recipients in previous years were Ellen Addington of Ellsworth, Dr. Gerald and Martha Drake of Petoskey, and Charlotte and Bruce Sanderson of East Jordan.

The Hiroshima remembrance and reflection observance is held to honor the hundreds of thousands who died from blast, heat and radiation after the U.S. dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan 61 years ago and to reflect on ways to create a more peaceful world.

Ed Smalley (left) was recently awarded the Non-Commissioned Officers Association Medal for his service in World War II by Charlevoix County Veterans Affairs Administrator, Bob Drebenstedt. Smalley served in the U.S. Navy in the Atlantic from 1943-1944 and in the Pacific from 1945-1946.

Hayes Township voters pick Ethel Knepp

ELECTION 2006

By JULIE WITTHOET
Editor

An overwhelming majority of Hayes Township voters supported Republican Ethel Knepp's candidacy for township supervisor.

At the Aug. 8 primary election, of the 242 total votes cast in Hayes Township, Knepp secured 172 votes to fellow Republican Frederick Parsons' 70.

Ethel Knepp

supervisor as I did as clerk. I love where I live and want to see that it's taken care of."

Parsons, 67, who has held the township supervisor's seat since April when former supervisor Tim Boyko resigned, attributes his loss to Knepp's long standing as a township official.

"I'm not as well-known," he said.

Parsons will continue to serve as supervisor until the November general election.

Frederick Parsons

Knepp, 60, worked as a township clerk from 1988 until November 2005, she has served on the zoning board of appeals and is the zoning administrator.

Knepp resigned from the clerk's seat citing her heavy workload conflicting with her accounting business, Ethel Knepp's office, and other business she takes care of for the township.

She said the supervisor's position should be less of a time commitment than the clerk's post.

Marlene Golovich, 53, who works out of Knepp's accounting office, replaced her as clerk and ran unopposed in the primary. She has served on the zoning board of appeals and the planning commission as well.

If elected to the supervisor's seat for a two-year term at the Nov. 7 general election, Knepp said she will resign her zoning administrator's role effective Nov. 20, when she would officially take office.

Jim Rudolph, 64, was the only Democrat looking to fill an office in Hayes Township. He is on the board now and is running to maintain his trustee's seat.

Knepp, Rudolph and Golovich will now go on to the Nov. 7 general election in which they are currently running unopposed. A write-in candidate may file to run against them until 4 p.m. on Nov. 3. Write-in filing information is available at the Charlevoix County Clerk's office, located at 203 Antrim St. in Charlevoix.

If elected, terms for the three will expire in 2008.

While Parsons' name won't appear on the Nov. 7 ballot, the retired supervisor of the Charlevoix Township Department of Public Works and former Hayes Township Board trustee said he may throw his hat in the political ring again in the future.

"It's tough to etch something in stone. Never is a bad word to use," he said.

Health department monitors area beaches

Lacey Crowe, a summer intern with the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, collects water samples taken from 47 Lake Michigan and inland lake beaches to test for E.Coli bacteria. The samples are delivered on a daily basis to the health department's Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory in Gaylord for analysis.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency has monitored water quality throughout the summer at public beaches on Lake Michigan and inland lakes in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

A summer intern collects water samples three times per week at 47 Lake Michigan and inland lake beaches to test for E.Coli bacteria. She delivers them on a daily basis to the health department's Northern Michigan Regional Laboratory in Gaylord for analysis. Within 24 hours, lab staff can report test results.

Scott Kendzierski, director of environmental health for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, said when E.Coli levels are high, he posts a beach advisory and orders second water analysis at the beach. If water samples continue to be unsafe, Kendzierski orders a beach closure until lab results confirm the water is safe for full body contact.

E.Coli is an indicator of sewage or fecal contamination and can cause severe illness in individuals exposed to impacted surface water.

"There are many reasons that beaches have an unsafe E.Coli test result," said Kendzierski. "E.Coli levels can be affected by water temperatures, wind and weather, and bird populations."

Birds carry E.Coli in their digestive tract.

"It is important for us to monitor E.Coli levels to prevent E.Coli infections in people," said Joshua Meyerson, MD, medical director for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency. "Swimming in water contaminated with coliform bacteria can cause illness, usually involving vomiting and diarrhea."

Beach advisories and closures, as well as up-to-date information on current public health advisories restricting access along the Lake Michigan shoreline in Bay Harbor and at East Park are listed on the health department Web site at www.nwhealth.org. The East Park and Bay Harbor area closures are related to contamination from cement production when Penn-Dixie Cement Plant occupied the site, not from unsafe E.Coli levels.

The health department's beach monitoring program is funded with grants from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Clean Michigan Initiative and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Great Lakes Beach Grant.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

For more information, visit www.nwhealth.org or call Kendzierski at (231) 547-6523.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

Immunization Awareness month reminder from the health department

In recognition of National Immunization Awareness Month, the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency reminds area residents that immunizations are available to everyone.

"We especially want to get the word out to people who have lost health insurance benefits from their employer or who have lost immunization coverage," said Patricia Fralick, director of family and community health for the health department. "By staying up-to-date on recommended vaccines, individuals can protect themselves, their family members, friends, and communities from serious, life-threatening diseases."

Vaccines have eradicated smallpox, eliminated wild poliovirus in the U.S. and significantly reduced the number of cases of measles, diphtheria, rubella, pertussis, and other diseases. But despite these efforts, today tens of thousands of people in the U.S. still die from these and other vaccine-preventable diseases.

"Getting immunized is a life-long, life-protecting community effort regardless of age, sex, race, ethnic background or country of origin. Recommended vaccinations begin soon after birth and continue throughout life. Being aware of the vaccines that are recommended for infants, children, adolescents, adults of all ages and seniors, and making sure that we receive these immunizations, are critical to protecting ourselves and our communities from disease," Fralick said.

Because children are particularly vulnerable to infection, most vaccines are given during the first five to six years of life. Other immunizations are recommended during adolescent or adult years and, for certain vaccines, booster immunizations are recommended throughout life. Vaccines against certain diseases that may be encountered when traveling outside of the U.S. are recommended for travelers to specific regions of the world.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

For more information about immunizations, contact your health care provider or local health department office at 1-800-432-4121.

Charlevoix County Jail reports decrease in bookings

By BENJAMIN GOHS
Staff writer

According to the 2005 annual report, bookings in the Charlevoix County Jail are down from 2004.

There were 1,661 bookings into the jail in 2005, down from 1,719 in 2004. Individuals were booked on charges ranging from murder and assaulting a police officer to burglary, stalking a minor and welfare fraud. The most common charges facing those incarcerated were operating while intoxicated, marijuana possession, minor in possession of alcohol, probation violations, failure to appear in court, domestic violence, assault and battery and bad checks.

While bookings were down, total activity complaints county-wide increased.

The sheriff's office substation on Beaver Island saw total activity complaints increase from 409 in 2004 to 489 in 2005. In 2005 there were eight traffic situations, 74 verbal warnings, 16 incidents of property damage, 134 citizen assists, one felony and seven misdemeanor arrests and 30 animal control complaints.

On the mainland, dollar amount of property recovered by sheriff's deputies totaled $103,597.99.

Road patrol complaints are up from 11,240 in 2004 to 11,412 in 2005.

There were 727 total arrests made, with 72 of those for driving while under the influence of alcohol, 366 traffic citations issued and three fatal automobile accidents were investigated.

According to the report, there were two one-vehicle crashes and one head-on crash which led to the deaths of three individuals, only one of the accidents involved drugs and alcohol.

The detective division of the sheriff's office investigated nearly 150 incidents involving murder, drugs, criminal sexual conduct and fraud.

In 2005, detectives investigated 33 cases of breaking and entering, 28 cases of criminal sexual conduct, 26 cases of larceny, 10 incidents of bad checks, seven cases involving dangerous drugs, three identity thefts, three harassing phone calls, two suicides, two embezzlements, one homicide, one case of witness intimidation, one inmate possession of contraband, one case of arson, one case of forgery, one case of suspicious death and one case of child abuse.

The secondary road patrol had 229 traffic stops, 34 citations, 245 verbal warnings, 37 motorist assists, 25 criminal arrests, 87 state, four county and 53 township parks patrolled.

Total miles patrolled by the secondary road patrol in 2005 were 10,388 with a total of 915 hours worked, down from 18,112 miles patrolled and just over 1,365 hours worked in 2004.

The snowmobile division had 22 complaints in 15 townships in 2005, up from 19 complaints in 2004.

There were 56 violations last year which consisted of one count of operating on a roadway, six counts of trespassing, three personal injuries, 14 instances of no registration or trail permit and zero fatalities for the third year in a row.

The marine patrol gave 1,411 verbal warnings in 2005, up from 1,086 the previous year. Patrolers issued 208 citations, more than double the 76 given in 2004. There were 13 boating accidents, down from 35 the previous year and 279 students took water safety training.

The dive team, which consists of Deputy George R. Lasater, volunteer Christopher Schelth, and corrections officers Russ McCraney and Michael Dolack, recovered one car in 2005.

The school liaison officer investigated 25 complaints at area schools involving two weapons free school violations, one indecent exposure, eight violations of the controlled substance act, one bomb threat, 11 counts of larceny, two non-aggravated assaults, seven criminal sexual conduct instances, two situations of threats/witness intimidation, two contributing to the delinquency of minors and six child abuse/neglect cases.

The sheriff's office, while participating in the 12-county Northern Michigan Mutual Aid Task Force-Emergency Response Team, assisted with two barricaded gunman, a "distracted, armed subject," and a "High-risk warrant service on four armed subjects wanted for narcotics violations in Antrim County," the report states.

The sheriff's office generated $93,170 in grants, collected $7,900 in false alarm fees and registered 320 handguns to their owners.

The sheriff's office gave 129 car seats away and inspected several seats a week for safety.

Almost 60 senior citizens received used cell phones from the sheriff's office, which they can use to call 911 if needed.

Papers served around the county generated $22,770.50.

Inmates at the jail working through the sheriff's office assisted 20 elderly individuals in cleaning up their yards during spring and fall in the Senior Clean-up Program.

Over 190 children were fingerprinted in 2005 for a total of 1,673 since the program began.

"Our fingerprinting program serves a valuable function in this community," Lasater states in the report. "Not only does it serve as a means to keep our children safe, but it also allows exposure for families to this office."

The county jail had a total of $237,662.10 in revenue. Sources include the inmate phone commission which brought in $28,935.85, the local booking fee which brought in $13,970 and out-of-county housing fees which brought in $119,895.

Incidents at the county jail include one count of improper use of food, four counts of unauthorized communication, 13 instances of refusing an order, 19 counts of creating a disturbance, one count of self-mutilation, one sexual act, 17 cases of possessing contraband, six instances of assault and one count of possessing a weapon. Five of those violations resulted in criminal charges.

Registration underway for Porker golf tourney

The Rotary Club of Charlevoix will host its annual "Porker" golf tournament Thursday, Sept. 7 at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

Billed as "The Affordable Golf Tournament," the entry fee remains only $40 per person.

"With the amount and value of the prizes awarded to Porker participants, it is almost as if the Rotary Club is paying people to play," said tournament director, Tim Petrosky. "Last year we distributed gifts with a retail value of more than $3,000 to golfers. Everyone went home with a prize."

The event is a four-person scramble. The entry fee includes golf, a dinner buffet at Giuseppe's and the chance to win oodles of prizes. Prizes will be awarded based on skill, luck and random draw, and to teams that finish first, last and right in the middle.

"It is due to the generosity of area businesses and residents, who donate prizes for the event, that makes the tournament so much fun for everyone," said Petrosky.

Registration forms are available at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course pro shop.

The event is limited to the first 20 teams that register. An optional skins game and "mulligans" will also be available to teams. The shotgun start is at 4:30 p.m. Dinner follows at 6:30 p.m.

Rotary uses proceeds from the event to benefit the community with an emphasis on area youth.

Braun plays 12 hours of golf to benefit Junior Golf

A local athletic event that has become a summer tradition is about to be repeated.

Belvedere Golf Club professional, Steve Braun, will again play 100 holes in a single day.

While some local golfers might talk a good game, wishing they could play golf all day, not many could play 100 holes in a 12-hour period. Braun does and averages scores in the mid-70s for each round.

When asked why he puts himself through the physical and emotional agony, Braun's simple answer is, he's a dedicated believer in Charlevoix's Junior Golf program and the potential it has to impact young people so that they learn life skills through the game of golf.

As in the past, pledges made to Braun's 100-hole adventure go into the program's scholarship fund.

which allows deserving junior golfers to attend the Ferris State University week-long golf camp. The program has sent over 85 youngsters through the years. The week away from home and the educational setting has proven to have a positive effect on each camper that has attended.

Braun tees off at 6:30 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 21 and finishes approximately 12 hours later.

Those interested in pledging support of the Junior Golf Scholarship Fund or in monitoring Braun's progress can do so by calling the Belvedere Golf Club at (231) 547-2611 or Dean Davenport at (231) 547-6433.

There is an effort this year to have former campers who attended the Ferris State golf school to be at the Belvedere course at 6 p.m. to cheer Braun home on his 100th hole.

ter," he said. "Immediately there's a guy that's 42, chatting with a girl that's 17."

Dean added, "It's a silent way to talk and say whatever you want to say without getting hurt."

You can even search for people by zip code.

Dean's 15-year-old daughter, Shauna Spenceley, got her Myspace.com account about four months ago.

"I don't think it's dangerous because you can set your profile view to private so only people you want (can) see it," she said. "It's a fun way to talk to your friends."

While some children, like Dean's daughter who has her profile on a private setting, there are many more whose personal information is up for grabs in cyberspace.

"My main concern is pedophilia, I guess. These girls are all beautiful and they look like they're beyond their age. If they're 14, they look like they're 18," he said.

"They think they're safe and chatting and then it becomes more and then they give information to this guy who says he's 16, but he could be 23 and convicted of whatever."

He added, "The next thing you know, they (daughters) might not come home from school."

While Shauna claims Myspace.com is safe, she admits to the potential for harm.

"Attackers might see my profile and want to come after me," she said. "There are stories I've heard about, not around here, but there's been stories about different girls on Myspace putting up nude (photos) of themselves."

She added, "My parents don't like it, but I told them about my profile being private and they don't mind it."

Dean said, he monitors his children's use of the Internet as best he can, but still worries about their safety.

"When I was a kid, we were on the phone with our parents in the same room and they knew what we were talking about," he said. "People say I'm a little overprotective, but it's hard for me to let go of that security of knowing where they (children) are."

Dean added, "We (he and his wife) have looked through Sasha (daughter) and Shauna's Myspace folders and grounded them about it before. It's getting to the point where I want to just drop it because it's too close to people they don't know — it just scares me."

Myspace.com is an adult oriented site, Dean said, and therefore young children should not be allowed to view its content or join the site.

"I think Myspace is a terrible thing. I disagree with it totally, and other parents feel the same way," he said. "If (adults) want to get on and chat for whatever reason, it's great, but it almost has to have a rating like PG or R."

At the end of the interview, Dean said he planned to talk about the issue with his wife about the possibility of prohibiting any further use of Myspace.com.

"I think it (Myspace) should be banned from the kids all the way around," he said. "I think really every parent needs to shut it off."

An undercover look at access to Myspace users

Courier undercover: In less than two minutes, this 31-year-old reporter registered as 16-year-old, Benita Gosh, a sophomore from Charlevoix. But it's not just registered users people need to watch out for.

It didn't take too much detective work to locate and speak with a 16-year-old area girl who's mother wished her to remain nameless.

The girl's Myspace.com page included her city of residence and the company she worked for. With the aid of a local phone book, it took less than two minutes before the girl was on the phone divulging her age and home phone number.

The girl said he has not been harassed while using Myspace.com, but the girl's mother, who also asked to remain anonymous for personal reasons, said she would make her daughter take the information off the site right away.

Background: Incidents surrounding the use of Myspace.com include last year when 87 percent of Warren High School students in San Antonio, Texas, avoided school or left early one day after several students with Myspace.com accounts threatened to bring guns to school.

Patrolling Myspace: Sting operations have been used to catch adults who prey on kids using Myspace.com.

Staying safe: Myspace.com offers the following list of Web sites for information on how to stay safe online: Netsmartz.org; SafeTeens.com; WebWiseKids.org; BlogSafety.Com; Common Sense Media.

The social interaction site also offers ways to report harassment, inappropriate conduct, images and information.

Age restrictions: While Myspace.com states that no one under 14 may have an account, there is no way of ensuring people are as old as they say they are.

Myspace at a glance: Myspace also has classifieds, music and e-mail and boasts millions of members.

Myspace mission: From the Myspace.com Web site, "Myspace is for everyone: Friends who want to talk Online; Single people who want to meet other Singles; Matchmakers who want to connect their friends with other friends; Families who want to keep in touch — map your Family Tree; Business people and co-workers interested in networking; Classmates and study partners; Anyone looking for long lost friends!"

China 1 owners accept plea deal

BY JULIE WITTHOFT
EDITOR

The legal process was fast tracked for the owners of Charlevoix's China 1 who waived their preliminary examination, accepted a plea deal, were arraigned and sentenced all on Tuesday, Aug. 22.

"We want to have them held responsible before they are deported," Charlevoix County chief assistant prosecutor, Shaynee Fanara, said of the unusually expedited process.

Yong Shen Dong, 38, and Yuzhen Chen, 35, husband and wife who own and operate China 1 in Charlevoix's Glen's Plaza, were each facing eight felony charges and two misdemeanors in connection with alleged money laundering, embezzlement and tax fraud.

These charges included two counts of conducting criminal enterprise for alleged racketeering and money laundering; a count of third degree money laundering; a count of embezzlement of more than $1,000 and less than $20,000; four counts of taxes — fail to file/false return; and two misdemeanor counts of conspiracy to taxes.

According to an affidavit authored by detective/sergeant Gwen Erickson, with the Michigan State Police, on file in Charlevoix County's 90th District Court, the two allegedly did not pay taxes for employees and failed to pay the state sales tax the restaurant collected on cash sales from customers from January 2004 through July 12.

The plea deal offered by the prosecutor's office reduced those charges to three felonies including attempted racketeering and two counts of tax fraud, each are is a five-year felonies. The prosecutor's office worked in conjunction with the couple's New York City attorney Martin Schmukler to reach the deal.

The sentencing guidelines for the felonies would mean serious time in prison for most. But Chen and Dong will only do as much time in jail as it

Jury finds Lockman guilty

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Eight female and four male jurors found Karla Sue Lockman guilty of two counts of embezzlement of an agent or trustee of more than $20,000 less than four hours after closing statements on Tuesday, Aug. 22.

Before 33rd Circuit Judge, Richard Pajtas, set a sentencing hearing date of Sept. 22. Lockman's defense attorney, Fred L. Gibson, asked that jurors be polled.

Once Pajtas was satisfied the guilty verdict was unanimous, Gibson asked for a motion which would render the jury's verdict moot — he was denied.

"Your honor, this case is overwhelming with evidence of mental illness," said Gibson, who spent the last seven days trying to convince the jury his client was legally insane during the four-month period she allegedly stole at least $859,278.25 from former employer, Northern Preferred Title Company.

As Lockman stood motionless and expressionless in the courtroom, tearful ex-employees and a co-owners of Northern Preferred streamed

Karla Lockman found guilty of embezzlement

into the hallway to shake the hand of, hug and thank Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema.

While Jarema has not made his final decision, he said, "I may ask the judge to possibly exceed sentencing guidelines because the guidelines don't take into account how much money she took."

"This is not a whodunit case, it was a complex plan. She (Lockman) intended to cheat and deceive. Her purpose was to take money and spend it," said Jarema during closing arguments. "My theory in this case is simple. She is not manic. She never was manic. She was diagnosed with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and depression — that is not a defense."

Jarema said Lockman's thoughts were lucid and actions deliberate, but Gibson blamed an overdose of depression and anxiety treatment Paxil for her behavior, and called into question a past filled with abuse.

"How do you see through the eyes of someone with mental illness?" he said. "As I was growing up, we didn't talk about it. One would like to think in 2006 we're free to do so, but we're not. We haven't walked in those shoes. We haven't felt that pain."

Gibson added, "Have any of you had an incident where a camp counselor molested you, and you go home and got a belt (beating)?"

Aside from claims she was sexually abused by her mother, a report describes Lockman's account of being molested at age 14 at summer camp.

Jarema contended Lockman's symptoms of Bipolar-I, a disorder which cycles between periods of mania and periods of depression, did not appear until after she was caught embezzling funds.

"Karla said the only reason she found out about Paxil (side effects) was because her father-in-law told her," Jarema said during an after-hours interview. "She didn't begin complaining to doctors about symptoms of Bipolar (Disorder) until after she discovered her Post Traumatic Stress Disorder wouldn't excuse her behavior."

Gibson said many people have suffered as a result of the embezzlement. He said Paxil made Lockman one more of the hapless victims.

"You can't ignore those facts, ladies and gentlemen," he said. "You're not hating your decision on what you read in the newspaper yesterday, or what you saw on TV or what you heard on the radio."

According to the defense, Lockman received a double dose of Paxil in late 2004 which caused her to have a manic episode with psychotic features from January to May 2005, which induced the delusion that her mother told her by phone that Lockman would receive an inheritance.

Jarema asked how Lockman's alleged Bipolar symptoms were severe enough to cause delusions, yet, so mild no one noticed her outrageous behavior.

"They're trying to explain (her) criminal behavior by jamming her into the category of Bipolar (Disorder)," Jarema said. "No one noticed any symptoms of Bipolar (during the four-month period)."

Gibson told the jury, if they want to take the easy way out, they have that option.

"You could find Karla (Lockman) guilty, but mentally ill. But, if you do what you were sworn to do, you'll read those reports. You'll make the toughest decision you ever made in your life," he said. "You're going to make the most unpopular decision... the box you're going to check is not guilty by reason of insanity."

Gibson needed to prove his client had a substantial disorder of thought and/or mood during the time the crimes were committed. He also needed to prove beyond a preponderance of the evidence that his client lacked the ability to appreciate the wrongfulness or quality of her conduct or lack the ability to conform with the law.

The jury of eight women and five men, minus an alternate, must now decide whether Lockman spends up to the next decade in prison or at home with her family.

Originally arraigned on June 23, 2005, and charged with two counts of embezzling by an agent or trustee of $20,000 or more from Jan. 31 to May 17, 2005, Lockman used the ill-gotten gains to buy a house, horses, vehicles, pay bills and donate to a church among other purchases.

Karla Lockman found guilty of embezzlement

into the hallway to shake the hand of, hug and thank Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema.

While Jarema has not made his final decision, he said, "I may ask the judge to possibly exceed sentencing guidelines because the guidelines don't take into account how much money she took."

"This is not a whodunit case, it was a complex plan. She (Lockman) intended to cheat and deceive. Her purpose was to take money and spend it," said Jarema during closing arguments. "My theory in this case is simple. She is not manic. She never was manic. She was diagnosed with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and depression — that is not a defense."

Jarema said Lockman's thoughts were lucid and actions deliberate, but Gibson blamed an overdose of depression and anxiety treatment Paxil for her behavior, and called into question a past filled with abuse.

"How do you see through the eyes of someone with mental illness?" he said. "As I was growing up, we didn't talk about it. One would like to think in 2006 we're free to do so, but we're not. We haven't walked in those shoes. We haven't felt that pain."

Gibson added, "Have any of you had an incident where a camp counselor molested you, and you go home and got a belt (beating)?"

Aside from claims she was sexually abused by her mother, a report describes Lockman's account of being molested at age 14 at summer camp.

Jarema contended Lockman's symptoms of Bipolar-I, a disorder which cycles between periods of mania and periods of depression, did not appear until after she was caught embezzling funds.

"Karla said the only reason she found out about Paxil (side effects) was because her father-in-law told her," Jarema said during an after-hours interview. "She didn't begin complaining to doctors about symptoms of Bipolar (Disorder) until after she discovered her Post Traumatic Stress Disorder wouldn't excuse her behavior."

Gibson said many people have suffered as a result of the embezzlement. He said Paxil made Lockman one more of the hapless victims.

"You can't ignore those facts, ladies and gentlemen," he said. "You're not basing your decision on what you read in the newspaper yesterday, or what you saw on TV or what you heard on the radio."

According to the defense, Lockman received a double dose of Paxil in late 2004 which caused her to have a manic episode with psychotic features from January to May 2005, which induced the delusion that her mother told her by phone that Lockman would receive an inheritance.

Jarema asked how Lockman's alleged Bipolar symptoms were severe enough to cause delusions, yet, so mild no one noticed her outrageous behavior.

"They're trying to explain (her) criminal behavior by jamming her into the category of Bipolar (Disorder)," Jarema said. "No one noticed any symptoms of Bipolar (during the four-month period)."

Gibson told the jury, if they want to take the easy way out, they have that option.

"You could find Karla (Lockman) guilty, but mentally ill. But, if you do what you were sworn to do, you'll read those reports. You'll make the toughest decision you ever made in your life," he said. "You're going to make the most unpopular decision... the box you're going to check is not guilty by reason of insanity."

Gibson needed to prove his client had a substantial disorder of thought and/or mood during the time the crimes were committed. He also needed to prove beyond a preponderance of the evidence that his client lacked the ability to appreciate the wrongfulness or quality of her conduct or lack the ability to conform with the law.

The jury of eight women and five men, minus an alternate, must now decide whether Lockman spends up to the next decade in prison or at home with her family.

Originally arraigned on June 23, 2005, and charged with two counts of embezzling by an agent or trustee of $20,000 or more from Jan. 31 to May 17, 2005, Lockman used the ill-gotten gains to buy a house, horses, vehicles, pay bills and donate to a church among other purchases.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

The man and meaning behind the tagline

I'm not big on celebrating anniversaries, especially ones which are job related, so please don't think I'm doing some kind of, "Where am I a year later?" piece of hokey — it's not me.

When I started writing this twice or so monthly column about 15 months ago, my editor suggested I invent a smart saying to fill the space under the little picture of me which accompanies said column.

Spring 2005 was eventful, and I was new, so the whole search for the tagline was postponed. My editor stuck the words, "Staff writer" in the box for the time being.

Mid-summer 2006 and things are no less hectic, but procrastination was no longer an option. I was afraid to change things up after over a year with the existing tagline, but my bosses were less than sympathetic to my pleas of superstition — if it ain't broke, right?

For ideas on suitable column names, I consulted a half dozen or so local publications. Five minutes later, I realized you can't swing a

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

"Rising and Converging." A reference to highway on-ramps, I believe. I'm no sports fan, but, "From the Mound," I assume is about baseball. "Last Call," is clever, seeing as the writer's last name is Boozie. "Just a thought," seemed a little generic, but what do I know? "Ear to the Ground," is clever, if figurative and uncomfortable, if literal.

To compete with mottos like those, I needed to figure out what it was I did. Well, I fight with lawnmowers and snowblowers. I duke it out with giant bumble bees and tipsy canoes. I lock myself in the car at night when I go camping for fear of those yet to be discovered, but nonetheless real, Michigan man-eating black bears.

All that self-discovery was of little good after the boss said, while apropos, "The Klutz" and "The Pansy" were too defeatist.

I protested I told her, "No officer, I didn't realize I needed a permit for that," and "It jumped under my wheels," don't fit in the little box next to my head.

With face puckered and teeth bared, her eyebrows tried to make themselves vertical to the forehead. My father made a face like that when I was about 9. He caught me eating raw Kool-Aid straight from the packet in an attempt to hide the smell of a stolen cigarette on my breath.

Realizing I had pushed the editor about as far as was safe to do, I got to work on the following list of taglines:

10. "Below the Belt," was inspired by a recent letter to the editor, but I don't fancy myself a cheater.

9. "The Gray Ghost," after a confederate war hero. I know, I know, my column has nothing to do with the Civil War — I didn't say this was a good list.

8. "Hammer and Tongs," meaning I write the columns with gusto. But let's face it, the last thing I did vigorously was a ham sandwich on rye.

7. "Heavens to Betsy," I chose this one just for the shock value.

6. "Not Quite Humble," in honor of former Israeli Prime Minister, Golda Meir's statement, "Don't be so humble, you're not that great."

5. "... We couldn't print number five. This is a family publication after all.

4. "Court Jester," could have worked if judges Pajtas and May allowed me to throw pies at defendants and squirt the prosecutor with a seltzer bottle.

3. "Four Flusher," referred to never making the grade. The boss thought it sounded too much like bathroom humor and flushed it from the list immediately.

2. "Read Me or Else," in homage of the old National Lampoon magazine cover wherein a revolver was pointed at a dog's head with the caption: "If you don't buy this magazine, we'll kill this dog."

We decided on "The Crying Towel." I say, "We" because, if it had not been for my editor's decisiveness, this column would still fly under the flag, "Staff writer."

According to a book on phrase origins, "Get out the crying towel," is a retort to a chronic complainer.

With taxes, politicians and general ne'er-dowells, there's a lot to complain about in this world. I hope anyone reading this sticks around for a few more of my gripes, and dad, I still owe you a packet of Kool-Aid.

Minority make headlines

Editor:

I felt compelled to respond to the recent article regarding St. Mary's parish (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). As a member, I was shocked, angered and dismayed to see this article.

To devote so much space to a handful of people who are having trouble adapting to change was definitely a surprise. Why these folks would be so compelled to expose their conflicts with Father Jerry (Hunko) in a manner that shows so little respect for the majority of parishioners (who are proud to be members) makes no sense to me.

I have worshipped in many parishes across the country. In each, there has been change brought about by new leadership (in the form of the priest). I have always felt that the different perspectives and ways of doing things have helped enrich my religious experience.

In other denominations, the congregations are actively involved with the selection of their leader. This is not the case with the Catholic church. Part of this selection process is whether there is a parish school. Bringing in a younger, more energetic priest can not only benefit the regular parishioners, but also aid in building a stronger school. To remove a child from the opportunities that a parochial education offers as a vengeful act may, teach the child a negative lesson on how to resolve conflict.

I truly wish those who feel compelled to attend another parish the very best. I hope that they find a faith community more to their liking. I am proud to remain a parishioner of St. Mary's. My family has been a part of this parish for 85 years. We will continue to be a part of St. Mary's for many years to come.

Jodi Laurent Charlevoix

Dissemination not newsworthy

Editor:

There is a difference between something being "news" and something being "newsworthy." Your article on the difficulties within St. Mary's Church (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil") may have been news to those not associated with St. Mary's, but the article was hardly newsworthy.

I almost felt voyeuristic by reading the article. I dare say that almost every church in this community has gone through some turmoil when a new pastor, minister or what have you, comes into an established church. I don't have a dog in this fight so I really could care less about what is happening at St. Mary's. The article does tend to confirm my belief that this type of "news" article is what you get when you have a slow news week and when you need to fill five columns of newsprint.

Bill DuPont Charlevoix

Small town service

Editor:

I want to share with your readers an experience I had in Charlevoix while visiting from California. A temporary crown came off my tooth Saturday morning of an art fair and I needed a dentist. Dr. Brian Sladics met me, a total stranger, at his office in East Jordan and re-glued the temporary crown at no charge. I want to thank Dr. Sladics publicly for this act of kindness. Nancy Guthrie Gold River, Calif.

St. Mary Organizational Decisions

Editor:

My wife and I were extremely disappointed to read the article on St. Mary's Church in last week's paper (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). I imagine that the amount of feedback you have received about this article will make the point sufficiently about the lack of judgment shown, not only in writing this type of story, but also in your decision to publish it. We hope you will bring our feelings to the attention of the reporter.

You should know that any person who has the authority to hire and fire people, manage an organization, run a business or control a group of people will have personnel issues at various times. Airing these issues in public only does a disservice to that organization and especially the individual whose job it is to make the hard decisions. At your newspaper, many tough decisions must be made over the years. If one was to interview all the folks who were discharged or reprimanded for one reason or another, and then publish all their feelings and comments, I'm certain that you would feel the same way. It would make your credibility in town a lot worse, and also make your job at the paper a lot harder.

"Doing unto others..." is still a good rule to live by. Lee Haddix Charlevoix

St. Mary Story Unbalanced

Editor:

The Aug. 9 issue noted that the young Courier staff is fearless to produce a hyper local, edgy product that deserves a facelift (page 4 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "Courier to bring readers a new look.") How about starting with a fair and balanced journalistic approach?

The St. Mary Church article was one-sided and did not represent the majority of school parents and parish supporters of Fr. Jerry Hunko (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). The article focus gave negative emotional responses from a small group opposed to progressive change.

St. Mary's School provides an exceptional education opportunity for all children in our community. Our family is proud to support Fr. Jerry's leadership and positive vision for growth within our school and parish.

Big hugs to Fr. Jerry from Michael, Danny, Rachel and Natalie. Roger and Annette Nesburg Charlevoix.

Vandals did see consequence

Editor:

Last week's editorial on the students who broke into our high school and did $5,000 worth of damage or more was right on the money (page 4 of the Aug. 16 edition of the Courier entitled, "Punishment of vandals doesn't fit the crime.")

As we all know, as parents it's up to us to set rules, guidelines and regulations for our children and when those rules and guidelines are broken and ignored our children are given some sort of punishment. So, not to punish the students who purposely damaged our school was wrong.

Keep in mind this community paid over $19 million for our beautiful high school for our children — not for us. Also keep in mind over 200 staff members, teachers and support people in our Charlevoix schools work every school year to educate and help these students. What did they do to show their appreciation to them? They attacked our school and damaged it. Not by mistake but with thought and planning.

Top management of our school system made a mistake by letting them walk during our senior graduation ceremony. This is an honor given to senior students who deserve it, they have clearly abused it. On top of that mistake, our justice system refused to enforce any consequences on these people.

Both the school management and the justice system have let us and our children and these law breakers down tremendously.

What ever happened to community service? They should have been giving at least one of the following: 100 hours of cutting school grass, mopping the floors, cleaning windows, or weeding our petunias or whatever is appropriate.

I am happy to tell you that there were consequences for these people. The Laddie Scholarship that I give every year to many members of the graduating senior class has always been based on exhibiting good citizenship.

Breaking into our high school is not showing good citizenship. All 15 of the students who did this have lost their scholarship with the value of $15,000. So to these students who broke the law let me say, there are consequences because of your actions — as you have already learned.

Let me say again, your editorial was right on the money. William E. Schuiling Charlevoix

Reconnect today: Friendship is a gift to value

This summer has been an unusually busy one for me and in it I found the importance of friends surfacing again and again, not just in my life but in the lives of others as well.

We teach our kids as toddlers to share and care. As they mature we continue to emphasize the importance of getting along. As parents we realize that our own behavior encourages our children and influences how they treat their own friends.

I would often listen to adult's share how a friend was there to offer a ride to a doctor's appointment when family members were not able, or how another would offer lunch and time to talk over a problem. Friends are there to encourage, listen and offer guidance.

As a veteran people watcher I en-

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

joy observing the behavior of individuals relating and reacting to one another. When I'm traveling by train, waiting for coffee at a local café or taking in the sights at a concert, I can't help but notice how we relate with one another.

We connect and re-connect with friends stopping what we are doing in the middle of a haircut, dining out or in the grocery store — whenever we spot a friend we stop what we are doing and reconnect. After checking in with our friend we go about our business.

The power of friendship is an essential part of our total being. If someone claims to be a loner I think deep down inside, part of them relishes the respect and camaraderie of another human being. Even individuals cordoned off in labs wearing white coats are seeking friendship with something other than mice.

Social skills are not always role modeled at home. Unfortunate as that may be it seems the schools have picked up on this. Social skills are quickly becoming part of the educational curriculum. Friendship teaches us the social skill of getting along with others, having empathy, sharing and how to listen effectively.

Only a friend has the ability to critique our behavior in a light-hearted manner and we still accept them. When one of your friends is taken ill you wish the pain was yours and want to see them well again just as you would a family member. Friends are extended family. How often do we refer to a close friend as "aunt" or "uncle" when there is no blood line?

We are social beings, not much different than other species wandering the earth. We need to touch, talk, be heard and respected as a valuable human being.

While observing friends helping others due to illness and other difficult family situations, it became clearer to me the role of friendships and how we shouldn't take them for granted. We should respect our friends and connect no matter how busy our schedule or hectic our lifestyle. It's a natural form of debriefing and a way of seeing ourselves in a mirror.

An anonymous quote I found says it perfectly, "A friend is someone who reaches for your hand and touches your heart."

So stop what you're doing and connect with that friend you've been thinking about, you'll be happy you did.

Editor:

I almost felt voyeuristic by reading the article. I dare say that almost every church in this community has gone through some turmoil when a new pastor, minister or what have you, comes into an established church. I don't have a dog in this fight so I really could care less about what is happening at St. Mary's. The article does tend to confirm my belief that this type of "news" article is what you get when you have a slow news week and when you need to fill five columns of newsprint.

SMALL TOWN SERVICE

Editor:

I want to share with your readers an experience I had in Charlevoix while visiting from California. A temporary crown came off my tooth Saturday morning of an art fair and I needed a dentist. Dr. Brian Sladics met me, a total stranger, at his office in East Jordan and re-glued the temporary crown at no charge. I want to thank Dr. Sladics publicly for this act of kindness. Nancy Guthrie Gold River, Calif.

ST. MARY ORGANIZATIONAL DECISIONS

Editor:

My wife and I were extremely disappointed to read the article on St. Mary's Church in last week's paper (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). I imagine that the amount of feedback you have received about this article will make the point sufficiently about the lack of judgment shown, not only in writing this type of story, but also in your decision to publish it. We hope you will bring our feelings to the attention of the reporter.

You should know that any person who has the authority to hire and fire people, manage an organization, run a business or control a group of people will have personnel issues at various times. Airing these issues in public only does a disservice to that organization and especially the individual whose job it is to make the hard decisions. At your newspaper, many tough decisions must be made over the years. If one was to interview all the folks who were discharged or reprimanded for one reason or another, and then publish all their feelings and comments, I'm certain that you would feel the same way. It would make your credibility in town a lot worse, and also make your job at the paper a lot harder.

"Doing unto others..." is still a good rule to live by. Lee Haddix Charlevoix

ST. MARY STORY UNBALANCED

Editor:

The Aug. 9 issue noted that the young Courier staff is fearless to produce a hyper local, edgy product that deserves a facelift (page 4 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "Courier to bring readers a new look.") How about starting with a fair and balanced journalistic approach?

The St. Mary Church article was one-sided and did not represent the majority of school parents and parish supporters of Fr. Jerry Hunko (page 10 of the Aug. 9 edition of the Courier entitled, "St. Mary Church endures year of turmoil"). The article focus gave negative emotional responses from a small group opposed to progressive change.

St. Mary's School provides an exceptional education opportunity for all children in our community. Our family is proud to support Fr. Jerry's leadership and positive vision for growth within our school and parish.

Big hugs to Fr. Jerry from Michael, Danny, Rachel and Natalie. Roger and Annette Nesburg Charlevoix.

VANDALS DID SEE CONSEQUENCE

Editor:

Last week's editorial on the students who broke into our high school and did $5,000 worth of damage or more was right on the money (page 4 of the Aug. 16 edition of the Courier entitled, "Punishment of vandals doesn't fit the crime.")

As we all know, as parents it's up to us to set rules, guidelines and regulations for our children and when those rules and guidelines are broken and ignored our children are given some sort of punishment. So, not to punish the students who purposely damaged our school was wrong.

Keep in mind this community paid over $19 million for our beautiful high school for our children — not for us. Also keep in mind over 200 staff members, teachers and support people in our Charlevoix schools work every school year to educate and help these students. What did they do to show their appreciation to them? They attacked our school and damaged it. Not by mistake but with thought and planning.

Top management of our school system made a mistake by letting them walk during our senior graduation ceremony. This is an honor given to senior students who deserve it, they have clearly abused it. On top of that mistake, our justice system refused to enforce any consequences on these people.

Both the school management and the justice system have let us and our children and these law breakers down tremendously.

What ever happened to community service? They should have been giving at least one of the following: 100 hours of cutting school grass, mopping the floors, cleaning windows, or weeding our petunias or whatever is appropriate.

I am happy to tell you that there were consequences for these people. The Laddie Scholarship that I give every year to many members of the graduating senior class has always been based on exhibiting good citizenship.

Breaking into our high school is not showing good citizenship. All 15 of the students who did this have lost their scholarship with the value of $15,000. So to these students who broke the law let me say, there are consequences because of your actions — as you have already learned.

Let me say again, your editorial was right on the money. William E. Schuiling Charlevoix

Our hanging baskets in town were so beautiful this year, as always. One question though — one day they were beautifully in bloom and a couple of days later they were brown and crispy, what happened?

Community foundation names VanLoo associate program officer

Human services professional and local volunteer Sarah VanLoo has been named to a new position at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

VanLoo, who formerly served as housing crisis case manager for the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency, began her assignment as the foundation's first associate program officer in July. In that capacity, she will oversee the community foundation's growing scholarship program, work with this area's nonprofit organizations to facilitate their grant requests, and assist the organization's Youth Advisory Committee.

"Sarah is a wonderful addition to our staff," said Bob Tamhellini, foundation president. "She brings a great combination of communication skills, experience in the public sector, community volunteerism, and enthusiasm to her new position. We're fortunate to have her on our team."

VanLoo earned her bachelor of social work degree, graduating magna cum laude, from

Sarah VanLoo

Western Michigan University. As a case manager for the human services agency, she was responsible for developing and coordinating a homeless-prevention program serving Charlevoix and Emmet counties. She currently serves as a volunteer youth mentor for North Country Community Mental Health, where she works with troubled teens.

Now in its fifteenth year, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's assets have grown to nearly $18 million and 170 separate funds — 59 of which are designated for scholarships. This year alone, the community foundation awarded 102 scholarships totaling $129,600 to deserving students in the area. As associate program officer, VanLoo will work with the county's high school personnel to administer the scholarship program and coordinate the application process.

Founded by a group of local citizens, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization that serves this area. Donors with a variety of interests join forces through the foundation to carry out their philanthropic wishes. Gifts of all sizes, and for many purposes, are combined within the foundation to build a permanent endowment and the endowment's investment income is used to make grants.

Since it started, the community foundation has distributed $6.8 million to support programs in education, the arts, environmental stewardship, health and human services, community development, and recreation.

Murder confession prompts media frenzy

BY JULIE WITTHOFT
EDITOR

As Charlevoix's Ramsey family grapples with the confession of John Mark Karr, a 42-year-old schoolteacher who claims to be the man who murdered their daughter in 1996, community members work to protect and support Charlevoix residents Burke and John Ramsey from the media frenzy.

Following Karr's confession on Aug. 17, at which time he claimed to have been with 6-year-old JonBenet Ramsey at the time of her death on Dec. 26, 1996, local and national media flocked to Charlevoix.

On Thursday, Aug. 17 and Friday, Aug. 18, many news outlets waited outside the Ramsey home off Elm Street in Charlevoix where they moved in 2003, hoping for a glimpse of John or Burke Ramsey and their chance to snap a shot or speak to either.

"They were thick. Not as thick as I sometimes see on the news channel but there were a lot of them — 50 would be my guess," Eileen Byers, an 85-year-old neighbor of the Ramseys, said.

Byers said Patsy Ramsey's death in June at age 49 from ovarian cancer and John's losing bid for a state House seat in 2004 attracted minimal media response — nothing like what she saw last week.

Representatives of state, local and national media organizations camped outside the home of John Ramsey off Elm Street in Charlevoix on Thursday, Aug. 17 and Friday, Aug. 18 following the confession of John Mark Karr, a 42-year-old schoolteacher who claims to be the man who murdered John's daughter, JonBenet, in 1996.

According to Charlevoix City Police chief Gerard Doan, the uncommon congestion and excitement on Elm Street prompted a handful of Ramsey neighbors to call with traffic concerns and to complain about people standing in the right-of-way.

Aside from calls and complaints, Doan said his force took the matter into its own hands, trying to ensure these people weren't staging their stakeout on the Ramsey property.

By late Friday afternoon, most had retreated, taking with them shots of the home and some pictures of an individual leaving the house on Thursday with a desktop computer.

"Hopefully they're gone now and won't be coming back. Hopefully the news and interest is back in Colorado," Doan said.

JonBenet was strangled at the family's former 15-room home in Boulder, Colo. But for the past three years, Charlevoix has been the place the Ramsey family has called home.
